Name and Address Printed on 100 Good Bond Letterheads and Envelopes, $1.00. WILLIAM DICKSON, 3403 40 S. W., Seattle, Wash.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

FREDERICK W. ALLEN, Editor,
312 Walnut St., S. E. Mplis., Minn.

Aberdeen, S. D.—The handstamped overprint, "Aberdeen, S. Dak." in two lines of thick type without bars, is current on the 30 cent old issue. The other values all seem to bear the printed U-3 cancellation. It is to be expected, however, that most all varieties of the new series will appear handstamped.

Abilene, Texas.—Though just a newcomer in the ranks, this city is to be credited with three distinct types. Type I in the catalog, has been discarded for the U-10 electroplate and a U-52 handstamp. We can list the following in the electro: 9 and 12 cent old issue; 2, 4, 5, 8, 10 and 20 cent up, new series. The 4 cent new series is our sole variety of U-52.

Alameda, Calif.—Having been equipped with a U-1 electroplate, this office, for the first in its history is using precancels. The 1 cent new issue and 3 cent offset have come to our attention.

Archbold, Ohio—Mr. R. R. Rudolph submits a one cent, old issue, which bears a neat handstamped precancellation in a style similar to U-57.

Ashburn, Ga.—To the group of Georgia cities, we must add Ashburn. A new issue 7 cent, in the U-51 style, is our first specimen.

Buxton, N. D.—For the past several years Buxton has employed "provisional precancels" of the double line roller class, but now is producing the real article. A handstamp of twenty-five subjects, like U-53, does the job. As Buxton is a small community its need for precancels is largely confined to the holiday period. The 50 cent new series, with the overprint reading horizontally, is an item we highly prize.

Bangor, Me.—The printer of precancels for Bangor tried out a brilliant red ink and produced something which literally strikes you between the eyes. The 5 and 15 cent new series in Universal Style 2 have been seen by us, in this color of ink. Red is in style this winter, but we hardly thought precancels would be susceptible. Norfolk, Va., and Jacksonville, Fla., used red and vermilion inks to precancel the black Harding stamps. They made quite a "splash", too. Bangor, however, is the first city in recent years to so colorfully print the regular series. In our opinion the practice will be "stepped on" and the varieties will be very good property.

Carrington, N. D.—The U-53 handstamp has superseded the U-77 so we now have a Type II to add under this town. The old series II cent represents our only specimen of the new type.

Gregory, S. D.—Mr. H. A. Thatcher has shown us the 4, 6 and 10 cent values of the new series precanceled "Gregory, S. Dak" in two lines of lower case letters without bars or lines. Their appearance stamps them as type set productions. We understand their use was limited to the past holiday season.

Ipswich, S. D.—The 4 cent old, 11 and 50 cent new, series precanceled in Universal style 52 were received on a package by a collector friend and exhibited to us the other day with rightly felt enthusiasm. The 50 cent read down.

Lisbon, N. D.—We thought the U-52 handstamp, employed in the Xmas season of 1923 would surely serve for Xmas 1924, but such was not the case. A new type came out which was of inferior appearance. "Lisbon, No Dak." between thin lines somewhat describes it. The letters of "Lisbon" are extended. A 20 cent old issue and 10 cent new are in our collection. Both read down.

Kulm, N. D.—This little place continues to precancel with its original one-at-a-time rubber stamp. The 5 and 10 cent new issue are the latest to add to its listing in the catalogue.

Villisca, Ia.—Sounds more or less "fishy", but that's the way it neatly reads on an 8 cent of the new series. The style is U-51.

Avon by the Sea, N. J.—Kind of reminds us of Poe's "Annabel Lee", for some reason. A four line overprint of small serif caps, without bars, reading "AVON—BY THE SEA—NEW JERSEY" appears on a 1 cent new series. The precancellation has been type set. An unusual item, upon which we regret we have no definite information.

Oak Creek, Colo.—A 20 cent new series bearing a handstamped overprint of small caps between thin bars, is something new to us. Another Colorado town to report is Montrose. Mr. Chas. Metz has shown us a 1 cent new series, from here in Universal style 53.

Conclusion—Universal style charts printed on cardboard will be forwarded to any readers desiring them. The price is 12 cents. Precancel news welcomed. Also questions cheerfully answered on any phase of the precancel hobby.

A JOHN ADAMS LETTER.

By R. L. HUSTIS.

(The following is taken from a letter recently at hand from R. L. Hustis, 757 Marshall St., Milwaukee, Wis. It will be of interest to numerous of our readers.—W. O. W.)

The enclosed letter of John Adams, the second president of the United States, signer of the Declaration of Independence, etc., etc., was written when Mr. Adams was 81 years old to Joseph DeLaPlaine of Philadelphia. The "Stewart" referred to in the letter was the famous portrait painter, Gilbert Stuart, who had recently painted Mr. Adams' portrait, at the solicitation of his son, John Quincy Adams, almost equally as famous as his father.

The letter was evidently addressed by some feminine hand, but the "Free" and the "J. Adams" were in the writer's own (then somewhat shaky) hand.

A queer old letter, isn't it? "Quincy, Ms., March 6th" in Ms. cancellation. And "Free", altho' a personal letter, and John Adams had not been President since 1801! And simply addressed, "Philadelphia", no "Penn" or "Pa",—and no street address, for Mr. DeLaPlaine was well known no doubt.

The "John Adams, Quincy, March 5, 1816" on back is no doubt a note in Mr. DeLaPlaine's hand.

I found it among some old autographs of my aunt's among some other very interesting items, a spray of the cedar she picked from the decorations of the "Wigwam" in Chicago, May 18, 1860, when Lincoln was nominated for President! ! (Wonder if there is another bit of this cedar in existence?)—"Dan'l Webster", "Ole Bull", "Horace Greely", "Carl Shurz", "Paul Du Chaillu", etc., etc., some letters, some only the signatures, but all quite interesting.

A TRIBUTE TO COL. JOHN ELDREDGE STEARNS

By A. W. BLOSS.

It is harder to write words of praise for the living, than to write a eulogy on the virtues of the dead, for custom of our civilization prescribes that we forego the praises of a man until he has passed beyond hearing. However, the writer feels that Colonel John Eldredge Stearns has earned the honor of being introduced to the readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in this special issue before he lays down his tongs and closes his albums for the last time.—A. W. B.

"The Colonel" as he is affectionately known among collectors in Southern California, has done much for philately. He has amassed a fine collection, has studied his stamps and has contributed his knowledge liberally to his fellow-collectors. His books have been opened to inspire others to build up their collections. His "finds" of cancellations, varieties, shades, have been made known through the press, that others might seek them.

COL. JOHN ELDREDGE STEARNS
Veteran Los Angeles Collector who has done much to promote philately in the Southwest

Born in Chicago before the Civil War, the Colonel commenced collecting in the days when he could go to the files in his father's office and cut off 5c and 10c '47's from old letters to trade with the boys. Like most of the older collectors, he little realized the value of these then common items, and can be forgiven for the covers he spoiled, for if he had not cut the stamps off, they would have gone up in the smoke of the great Chicago fire.

His first collection was presented to his brother, for business made it impossible for him to devote time to his hobby. About thirty years ago he helped to make a new collection for his daughter, and continued to build his collection to its present magnitude.

The Colonel is primarily a general collector. His nineteenth century volumes are well-nigh complete, from the penny stamps to the rarities, not neglecting the lower priced "rarities" of any country, even to the Colombian Republic type-set provisionals and the seldom-seen French Colonial surcharges.

His twentieth century collection is virtually complete to 1907, when he abandoned some countries to confine his attention to his British Colonials and United States. His Edwardian and Georgian stamps are complete, including the shading of the papers.

United States is his greatest love, however, and here he has done much. A man of fore-sight, he collected cancellations by the thousands over twenty years ago, when they were available, with the result that he has saved for philately many rare items which might have been lost otherwise.

Among the gems of his collection are some which it will interest collectors to know that they exist. His finest piece is a block of twelve of the 90c 1861 issue, No. 72, believed to be the largest block known, a magnificent piece, 4 rows by 3, with light black town cancellation.

A perfectly centered brilliant mint block of four of the 1c 1867 grilled, No. 86, is most pleasing to the eye, as is also his block of twelve 3c. He has a block of twelve of the 2c 1870 grilled.

One of his finest cancellations on the 3c 1857 is the one with "Lou. & Fran. & Lex. & Fran. R. R.—Croppers" and date May 6 in circle. This item was illustrated in the November, 1924, issue of The American Philatelist. For the benefit of those concerned, he states that the word "Croppers" does not, in his opinion, signify the town of that name, but from investigations he has made, advertises the fact that the railroad made a business of financing the crops of the farmers along its lines. The Colonel will appreciate it if any collector having further knowledge of this variety of cancellation, or similar use of the word "Croppers" will communicate with him, through Mr. Severn.

Among his other choice items are included some sixty 5c 1847's with grids in all colors known, numeral "5" in blue and in red, a rare double "Y" in blue.

We have absorbed the Pilgrim Stamp Company of 35 Ann St., New York City, and have moved down town to their large, light office, fronting on Nassau St., where we will be pleased to meet all old and new customers.

Special attention given to want lists, both XIX and XX Century, of which we hold a very complete stock.

A very fine stock of U. S. always on hand, and at present a specially fine lot of Cancellations on the Bank Note issues, including about 10,000 3c greens, the pick of 3 Large Collections.

Among his many 10c 1847's are the Baltimore "10" in circle in blue; a "Paid" in blue, and a nice cover with receiving cancellation of town and date Apr. 19, 1851, in black. His 1c 1851 and 1857 issues include many fine covers, one of special note bearing a beautiful strip of three Type I, 1857. All of the issues to date have been intensely specialized.

In the twentieth century U. S. he has collected plate number blocks of six in a vast array of shades and varieties.

It is his intention to preserve this fine collection intact that it may be a valuable reference to the coming generation of collectors. Certainly, he deserves the thanks of collectors for his effort, and for his work in recruiting others into the ranks, for he has given a start to many a young collector.

SIMPLIFYING THE STAMPS OF FRANCE

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

With only catalog illustrations as a guide, he would indeed be a wise collector who could sort his French stamps in the way they should go. Study Scott's types A1 and A8 for example, then see if you can distinguish the 10c stamps of the two issues. Can you do it? Few collectors can.

Fig. A

While a few foot-notes are thrown in, here and there, none of the catalogs are very clear on the numerous points concerning the interesting issues of the Republic of France which are a puzzle to all—beginners and advanced collectors who have not specialized.

With the kindly co-operation of Mr. A. Blanc, who has drawn the splendid illustrations which accompany these notes, we propose to elucidate most if not all of the knotty points.

I. II. III.

The first postage stamps issued in France appeared in 1849, the simple but artistic design showing a head of "Ceres" as allegorical of the Republic (Scott's type A1). These stamps were printed from engraved plates, while those of similar design, issued in 1870, were lithographed. But this fact is not sufficient as a guide to identification, so far as the average collector is concerned, especially as regards the 10c and 40c values. In the engraved type, the stalks of grain project beyond the head and almost touch the pearled circle (Fig. A). In the lithographed, or Bordeaux issue, the ends of the stalks of grain are indistinct and do not project at all (Fig. B). Mr. Blanc's drawings lay striking emphasis on these points of distinction.

An interesting variety of some rarity is found in connection with the 40c value of this 1849 issue. Normally the numerals "4" are as shown in types I and II of the annexed cut, but a rarer variety with wider "4" is known as illustrated by type III. According to Gibbons' catalog the variety "occurs twice in the bottom row only of each sheet. One of these stamps has the wide 4 on both sides, the other on one side only."

The issues of 1852 to 1870 provide no real difficulties if the illustrations in the catalog are studied. The design of the stamps of 1852 (Scott's A2) is at once identified by the inscription "Repub. Franc"; the issue of 1853-60, while showing the same portrait of Napoleon III,

HALF-CENT STAMP OUT SOON.

New Denomination Necessary Because of Postal Rates Change.

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10.—A ½ cent postage stamp will be issued for the first time by April 1. The new denomination has become necessary because of the new postal rates on third class mail effective April 15. A 1½ cent stamp bearing President Harding's picture is being prepared also for this class of mail.

The design and color of the new ½ center has not yet been decided.

INTRODUCED

Announcement was made today by Postaster General New that in order to meet ie postage requirements for third-class atter under the new Postal Service w effective April 15, 1925, the Post ffice Department will shortly issue 1½ nt stamps and stamped envelopes, and ipments to postmasters will be begun soon as sufficient stocks are available. Meantime, postmasters at direct and ntral accounting offices must submit quisitions to the department for reamable quantities of 1½ cent stamps and ½ cent stamped envelopes on a basis of three to six months' supply. The reisitions will be filled in regular turn receipt and every possible effort will made to have the supplies available post offices when the new rates beme effective. Central accounting postasters will provide sufficient quantities 1½ cent stamps and envelopes to meet e requirements of district post offices. In view of the decreased demand for stamps and 1c stamped envelopes ter April 15, postmasters will restrict iture requisitions for these supplies to oid as much as possible the accumulatg of excess stocks not needed when the w rates go into effect. Postmasters ill also be required to make every efort to dispose of surplus stocks of 1c amps and envelopes now on hand by pril 15.

Roman States On Cover

One large correspondence between Rome and Sicily which we sold last year met with so much enthusiasm that we have long been angling for another lot. At last we have it, and again offer a fine lot of very interesting covers at prices so low anyone can afford to own them. The covers average in fine condition, and the stamps good. Not all the imperfs. have margins all 'round, but the covers, stamps and postmarks are attractive. These are too bulky for approval sendings, but your money cheerfully refunded for anything you send back. "Doubles" in this advt. means two singles or pair on one cover.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

This week has had several pretty cancellations show up, some being quite out of the ordinary. It is these unusual ones that we will show in the Forum, and space is still open for a few more. Anything in your collection of cancellations that you do not recall having seen reproduced, and which you think should be pictured, send along, as we are now ready for them.

Am thinking of having a rubber stamp made to be used at end of each Forum article for a short time, this to read "Send Something Seldom Seen", the grand idea being that you will get this into your mind, and act accordingly. We all like to see "new stuff", and it is you Forum readers who will supply it.

For folks interested in 2c vermilions and 5c blue Taylors, here is quite a galaxy of unusual plate varieties, carefully studied and annotated by Mr. Theodore Horton, Jr. It is well to note that he has collected in duplicate so far as he is able—this identifying each copy as a true plate variety—not a "local flaw," which may have happened on one sheet only. As plate varieties are the subject of this lot, I reluctantly hurdle the pretty red and the blue cancellations; black petals, etc., to step into the "shifts", etc. His 5c blue Taylor has the shift so accurately placed, just down into left margin from the 45 degree line which cuts off the top left part of the shield in the design, that it looks just like a real portion of the engraving in fact as tho it were an intentional shadow. It is prominent, and one does not need a glass to see this fine shift. That 5c blue Taylor is a good stamp to study.

On his 2c vermilions he has annotated these with reference to the guide dots, rather a new departure, and a good one, as the dots are more or less constant, just outside the medallion at left, half way up the stamp, and easy to see as a rule. Some have two dots.

First comes a flaw (possibly a cracked plate) being a short horizontal line from a point near the left margin, out into that margin, on a line with the nose. Next comes a mark in the narrowest part of the "2", caused possibly by a slip of the engraver's tool, to quote from the collection. Then he shows a flaw in the shield opposite bust, at left; another copy shows a little "x" on lower part of bust directly over the "2". Another shows an elongated dot in the tail of the "2", with what appears as a very thin line drawn all round this dot. Yet another has the top of the "2" broken. Then follow two copies each having two similarly placed guide dots in the shield, also in the medallion, opposite the mouth on left side of the stamp. Three copies show a curl in the left side of the "O" of "TWO". These are pretty, and you'd better hunt up some for your specialized collection right away. They are on the hard paper stamp of 1875. Another copy shows a big dot in the neck half way down.

Lastly is shown a big gouge out of the thick upper part of the "2". This is noted "Probably caused by some instrument falling on the plate", and is a plate variety well worth noting, as two copies are shown of this variety.

Study your stamps. These plate varieties are all new to me. They are most interesting and you will doubtless find some of them if your patience holds out.

Mr. L. D. Pelton has sent in a very handsome Patriotic with 10c 1857 Type I, dated June 1, 1861, from San Francisco. This is a very late use of a T. I 10c, and very early for a Patriotic from San Francisco. The design is the typical flag in color (Appleton, 508 Montgomery St.), "The Union & Constitution" printed below the flag. He also sends a 3c 1861 cover pmkd. from Albany, the stamp being neatly struck by a circle about a quarter inch thick into which 12 small stars have been neatly cut, the 13th star being within this circle, at the top of the central opening, the rest of this open space being neatly filled by the letters "U S". This is a very pretty cancellation, and is probably one of those that we sometimes see in part, and wish that we could see what it all might be. It is very neat.

From Mr. Arthur H. Keyes comes a 3c 1857 cover, with one of those very small pmks., this one being "Montague Ms Sep 28 1860", tho the figures are so petite that I'll not say for sure the dates are exactly as quoted. My 90 h.p. glass tells me not, and the diameter of the pmk. is but 14 mm., making the little grid cancel alongside look like a Zeppelin shed. Mr. C. K. B. Nevin has just written in this a. m., mentioning this same town pmk., and makes mention too, of the size (lack of it) in the year date, his being 1860. Mr. Keyes' other cover, a 3c '51 from Sunderland, Vt., is a cross, apparently cut from wood, not unlike that used from Canton, Miss., on same issue; it is 23 mm. tall, and 13 mm. across. Un-

THE THIRD ERA OF PHILATELY.

By Bill Bloss.

In 1920, when the publishers of the Scott Album decided that the twentieth century edition had grown so large that it was advisable to commence a new volume, a new or third era of philately was opened up to the general collector.

A general collection of 19th and 20th century is almost an impossibility, except for a man of much wealth and more time. The majority of collectors face the question of specialization, or confinement to a certain period.

General collecting is the basis of philately. If our forefathers had commenced to plate the penny black instead of gathering stamps from all countries, many fine treasures would have been lost, and it is doubtful if philately would have made much progress.

The vast majority of collectors begin as generalists instead of specialists. They may leave the general field, but in their hearts they always carry a love for the first collection. There is a fascination about the little bits of paper coming from foreign lands. The collector of imagination can conjure dreams from his Zanzibar and Sudan and Peru prizes that he cannot get from a shift on the 3c 1851.

Yet the fact remains that it is almost a life work to make a good general collection today. Therefore, why not give attention to the stamps that can be acquired easily, the stamps of today?

Every man who decides to remain in the general field, rather than become a microscopical expert, should form a plan of campaign. It is wise to use all three of the printed albums, or at least to have a blank album to take care of items which do not come in the period chosen, as many desirable stamps come the way of every man that may not be appreciated today but may be precious later. The wise collector, be he specialist or general, never turns down a stamp outside his field if it comes his way gratis, or appeals to him, whether he collects the line or not. He may want it some time.

There are many reasons why the issues from 1920 to date are worthy of any collector's attention. For the man of limited means, it is possible to form a beautiful and very complete collection for little cost. From a historical standpoint, what could be more fascinating than the stamps that tell the tale of the re-shaping of Europe and the working out of the world's destiny, as it is being done today?

From point of rarity, the recent years have contributed a goodly supply. Conditions in many of the countries have caused the emission of limited numbers of stamps. Some of these are speculative, true, but plenty of speculative issues are found among the older ones.

For beauty, it is hard to excel a good collection of crisp, mint new issues, with their brilliant fresh color and their pleasing designs. The Sydney views, Cape triangles and early U. S. are wonderful things, but a page of Jamaica pictorials in the book pleaseth the eye better than a page of empty spaces in the average collection of early U. S.

Completeness is one of the aims of philately. The general collector of Part Two finds it easy to complete many of his countries, at little cost. Once completed, he finds added incentive in keeping them complete by running down the new stamps as they appear, hence, more fun and a better collection.

From the angle of finance, it is a well proven adage that "the time to buy them is when they are current." See the smile on the face of the fellow who bought his St. Kitts tercentenaries at a few cents over face, or was fortunate to get the 10sh and pound Cyprus old design within the limits of a ten spot, or who was one of the chosen few who chased down that 10sh Malta Mult. C.A. (or the Script C.A. or Self-Governments) and got them while the getting was good.

The collection of Edwards and Georges bought as they were issued, at a small percentage over face, maketh the collector joyous and the dealer weepeth salty tears, yea, by the bucketful.

These items above mentioned are but few of many. Look at your catalog of Danzig, Memel, Marienwerder, and the other "tripe" as it is called by the wise men who hooted the Neuropes, just as they ridiculed the White Seal Sonoras of Mexico, the rare Nicaraguas, and other species of "wall-paper" which extract many shekels from the pockets of many collectors today the world over, just as they have done and probably will continue to do as long as stamps are collected.

These better stamps of the recent issues could all have been obtained for less money even a year ago. Next year will command still higher premiums, the real collectors know their worth are buying them. There are plenty stamps of recent issue in use today recently obsolete, that will take sin rises.

The writer does not advocate col ing for profit. There are better fields the man who wants to make his do work, and who does not care for the of philately. Nevertheless, it is plea to buy today at a lower price than will be obliged to pay tomorrow, such is the case with the recent issue

There are many reasons why stamps of this period will show sha advances than in any similar perio the history of the postage stamp. ernments have been changed overn necessitating new stamps. Most of issues are legitimate, and serve ex the same purpose as the classics of date—the prepayment of postage. nomical conditions have arisen w cause changes of postage rates, h new values and new colors. The S watermarks of the British Colonies the odd values of French Colonies notable examples. Many of these ar tremely scarce already, and will p scarcer.

Speculation has played a hand i cent issues to a considerable extent fortunately most of the issues are in sufficient quantities that they ca obtained for a nominal amount, and must admit they are usually pretty things.

Summing up the argument, the general collector of today will find everything he wants in the issues of the past four years, and it is not yet too late to form a nice collection of these stamps for less money than a mediocre lot of the older issues can be gathered.

There is a great opportunity for the young dealer or any dealer, to concentrate on these issues and build up a better stock for less investment than if the entire line of stamps is carried. The dealers who feature stamps from 1920 on will find them saleable, and there is a vacancy in philately in America for a real headquarters and a real stock of these late stamps. The man who handles them exclusively can lead the field.

LAYING OUT A BLANK ALBUM.

By LOUIS A. SANFORD.

When the collector, whether general or specialist, advances beyond the stages of a beginner, he soon realizes the necessity of providing other housing for his collection than the printed album. The printed album is almost a necessity for the general collector, yet he will acquire new issues and minor varieties not provided for in his printed book. The specialist invariably turns to the blank album as his only means of keeping his collection in order.

The proper arrangement of stamps in a blank album is no easy problem, and unless the collector is artistically inclined, or has had the advantage of inspecting many collections so mounted, he is apt to make a sorry job of it.

The Album—The first step in laying out a collection in a blank album is the selection of the album. There are many types and styles to choose from, according to the preference of the individual. A quadrille ruled book, as the books with pages ruled in tiny squares are known, is preferable to a plain blank leaf. Few collectors can mount stamps straight and neat on a plain blank page, unless great care is used in placing guide dots or ruling squares. The quadrille ruled leaf provides accurate guide lines in both directions.

Your stationer can supply quadrille ruled leaves with ring binders, from 25c upward. The ring binder, however, is not especially adapted to album purposes, as the pages are not held firmly in place, causing the stamps to rub and lose their lustre. Furthermore, the ring mechanism is unsightly, compared with the spring back or post binder.

Spring back binders are slightly more expensive than ring binders, but have the advantage of holding the leaves firmly in place, and give the book the appearance of a bound book. If not overcrowded, the binder will hold the leaf firmly and should give long service.

I prefer the blank album made especially for postage stamps, as sold by the stamp trade. These albums are usually printed with a faint quadrille of small size, in a panel with plain or ruled border, adding to the attractiveness of the page.

The Size—In my experience, I have come to prefer the page size of 10½x8½ inches, upright. This size has been adopted by the makers of the Oriel and other fine albums, and has been accepted by most of the advanced collectors as being the ideal size for an album page. A smaller page adds difficulty in mounting a long set, while a larger page provides too much space for one set, and seldom enough for two. This size works out very satisfactorily.

Laying Out the Page—In laying out the page, select the stamps to be mounted, or if not available, secure at least one stamp known to be the size of the stamps to be mounted. Find the center of the page, by using a ruler, or counting the squares. If the page is not marked the guides at center, top and bottom and sides, rule these measurements on a card and use it as a guide, but find the center. The one great error made by most collectors is the failure to design the page from the center, causing it to appear unbalanced.

From the center, work out the design upward and downward and to the sides, keeping the spacing as evenly as possible, and ever bearing in mind the center. Two spaces or squares on the quadrille is sufficient in most cases if the stamps are small, and the set is long. Don't crowd. Give plenty of "air" around the stamps, and your page will appear neater and more beautiful. If the set is short, allow three or four squares. When the stamps are large, allow three or four squares when possible. Use care to keep the spacing uniform between stamps, and between rows. It is not always necessary to use the same spacing at sides as between rows, but it is generally advisable to do so.

When the page has been laid out, with the stamps in their places, if they are available, study it and see if it is pleasing. If not, work out a new design. No fixed rule for design can be given, as the number of stamps and colors and designs should govern this. Avoid sameness. Do not use the same design on every page. If you have five rows of five stamps on one page, and a similar set on the next, try rows of four and six.

In laying out a set, it is generally a good plan to put a short row at the top, and a longer row at the bottom, as this does not make the page appear "top-heavy". However, the eye can judge this plan best. A well-balanced page is essential to a neatly arranged collection.

Some collectors prefer squares ruled in their albums, while others like the blank appearance of the page. Ruling squares is somewhat difficult without practice, for the corners must join and the lines must be straight and true.

Guide dots are the most satisfactory method, I think. When the page is laid out satisfactorily, make a light pencil dot at each corner, or at the upper corners. Do not mount the stamps until the lettering is done, if the page is to be lettered.

A page laid out with guide dots offers the advantage of change as new varieties are acquired. If the stamps are lightly hinged, they can often be moved without marring the page. If, however, the rule of the center has been adhered to, it is usually possible to add the new stamps to the sides or above or below without disturbing the balance, and making it necessary to move the stamps.

Lettering—Lettering is the thorn in the flesh of the average man, for great skill is needed to make a neatly lettered page. If the page will permit, a typewriter can often be used to good advantage. A machine with elite type, or a small type face, will make a pretty page.

If, however, pen and ink is to be used, a style of lettering should be selected by practice before starting work, and should be adhered to throughout the book. Printed letters are preferable to script, unless the collector can write a plain, small hand. A letter about one-eighth of an inch high is sufficient for headings. Do not use too large a letter. A three-sixteenths letter is well suited to subheads for date and descriptions.

Use a good black India drawing ink, which can be obtained from any stationer. Purchase a very fine pointed small pen, the smaller the better, for the finer work it will do. Most art stores and photo supply stores can supply such a pen. The average stationer cannot.

Before commencing to letter, rule a guide line in pencil, lightly, at top and bottom, measuring the spacing accurately

BRITISH COLONIAL COLLECTIONS AT UNHEARD-OF PRICES

A Packet Price war, bitter in nature, tremendous in scope, is at present being waged by most large wholesale dealers, both domestic and foreign, who are competing for American business. The collectors and retail dealers are viewing this battle-royal with keen enjoyment, for it has resulted in hitherto unheard-of values in packets and collections.

The House of Harris has for years been the leading wholesale firm in this field, its prices always low and the quality of its collections consistently the finest.

In announcing the radical price reductions below, (which are subject to increase after 60 days), we are prepared to sacrifice temporarily a large proportion of our profit in order to further extend our market and to introduce to new customers the par-excellence of our British Colonial collections.

It should be remembered that no collection will contain anything but face-different varieties, which means that stamps with perforation or watermark distinctions (of which there are thousands!) are practically eliminated. This point alone represents a possible increase of 20-25% in actual value over other collections of the same sizes offered elsewhere.

OUR GUARANTEE

The following prices are to our knowledge the lowest ever quoted by any wholesale firm in the world. Any collections offered below are returnable within 30 days for a full cash refund if not satisfactory in every way, or if you can buy one of the same quality—from any source whatsoever at a lower price.

500 Different Colonials for $3.25

Mounted in Small Book

"The Little Wonder." Many unused, large stamps, war tax issues, commemoratives, etc., every one in perfect condition. Straight, major varieties only, with no perforation or watermark differences. Total catalogue value approximately $17.00. All collections are carefully mounted in small, ruled books and are identical in make-up. Many dealers buy five or ten at a time, price the stamps and send them out to approval customers in the original books, thus effecting a great saving in time. British Colonials are quite popular with every collector and it is seldom indeed that such fine little collections can be purchased at a price to net almost 300% profit on resales at half catalogue!

Each—$3.25; 3 for $8.00

(Same, unmounted for $3.00; 3 for $7.50)

1,000 British Colonies for $10.50

Mounted in Book

A fine collection of all different, major varieties, many mint specimens, including Brunei, Somaliland, British Honduras, Palestine, Falklands, Hejaz, Nauru, Niue and other difficult-to-obtain colonies. Also quite a number of war tax and commemoratives. Each collection is identically mounted in a large ruled book, thus enabling the enterprising dealer to purchase several of them at a time for approval trade.

An unusual bargain at our new low price (reduced from $13.50!) of $10.50. Or the same collection, unmounted, at $10.00, 3 for $29.00.

1,500 British Colonies—Reduced to $26.00!

An immaculate, mounted collection

This is a collection of exceptional quality and value and one on which any progressive dealer can make large profits. It contains stamps from the colonies only, each one distinctly different, with watermark and perforation varieties entirely excluded. Considering the thousands of changed watermarks which have appeared in British Colonial issues, this point alone adds many dollars to the value of the collection. A fair percentage of the stamps are mint and small, out-of-the-way colonies such as Turks Islands, Virgin Islands, Antigua, Zanzibar, Maldives, Kenya, Dominica, Lagos, Montserrat, Sarawak, Togo, Papua, etc., are well represented. The stamps are neatly and carefully mounted in two large books and present a most attractive appearance. Catalogue value will be many times our special reduced price. (Unmounted for $25.00.)

Now Only—$26.00

4,000 British Colonials—Price $475.00 Net!

(Reduced from $535.00)

The finest example of painstaking workmanship to be found anywhere. Assembled up to a standard and not down to a price, this collection represents an undertaking of considerable size and difficulty, but one of which we can truthfully say, "well done!"

A collection of this size would not seem so unusual if the thousands of watermark, perforation and minor varieties were taken into consideration. But that's where the extraordinary part is so apparent: our collection contains absolutely straight, major varieties only! No watermark or perforation distinctions, no paper or shade differences — just clean, good stamps, all in the pink of condition, from the oldest to the newest issues. There are hundreds of mint stamps from almost every colony, past and present, many fine sets (including a few high values) and lots of hard-to-get varieties of the medium-priced class which are almost impossible to find elsewhere.

The collection is mounted in several albums. We have only the one in stock, and which is offered on the usual "return-if-not-well-pleased" basis and is highly recommended as a sterling investment.

Now Only—$475.00

LAYING OUT A BLANK ALBUM.

To keep the letters the same height. If lettering on the quadrille section, use the quadrille line for the bottom line in preference to the top, as the top of the letters will vary, while the bottom seldom do.

A plain block capital makes a neat appearance. Slanting, fancy, and "upper and lower case" or large and small letters do not, as a rule, work out so well, as they are harder to make. A little practice will soon teach the size and style letter to make.

After the lettering is dry, the pencil guide may be erased with a soft eraser, or art gum, without affecting the ink work.

The page is now ready for mounting.

TRIBULATIONS OF A POST OFFICE.

By C. E. R.

About 1864 gold was discovered in a certain creek in the arid Southwest, but owing to the fact that the Civil War had drawn off most of the soldiers, the Apache Indians made mining more exciting than profitable. It was not until 1876 that the district became populous; even then for some time the miner had to work with a shovel in one hand and his life in the other. Eventually the gladsome Apache removed to other parts and civilization of a sort came to Horsefly Creek.

The gold-bearing part of the creek—it produced over three million dollars' worth of gold dust and nuggets in five years—was about six miles long, lined with tents and shacks, and, with the small town which sprung up where the stream widened out after leaving the hills, boasted at one time a population of about fifteen hundred men, including Mexicans, Chinese and a few breeds, and some sixty women. The town was named Horsefly after the creek and so was the post office, its first public institution.

Sam Brunt, who ran the biggest general store, was the first postmaster, and proudly postmarked the first letter with the new rubber stamp from Washington. That letter was tacked up on the wall for all to see, for a week, and only after its writer had threatened mayhem did it start on its travels. The mail was taken from Brunt's store on horseback four miles to the stage road, and was picked up once a week by the stage coach that ran between the capital of the territory and a settlement on one of the great overland trails.

The arrival of the mail was the great event of the week and most of the miners were on hand to welcome it; so that the post office quickly became the social and business center of Horsefly. But from the start it led a hectic existence.

The first incident was its destruction by fire the night they found the big rich pocket at the Bilger mine, and the whole camp celebrated, losing two-thirds of its buildings and tents because somebody tried to shoot out the lights at the Cantina Real and only succeeded in setting it afire. The blame was distributed among so many that next day the hat was passed to reimburse Uncle Sam for some three hundred dollars' worth of stamps and supplies.

When the office reassembled itself, it moved to Al Glover's pool hall under new management, for Brunt had not survived the celebration. And there it stayed for nearly six months when a cloudburst on Mount Whymper flooded the creek valley and washed Horsefly off the map. The safe containing most of the valuables—the first safe in that section, weighing 450 pounds, which was quite a lot, when one considers how it got there—was found two hundred yards away, full of water. Al opened it and hired a Mexican boy to separate the wet sheets of stamps and lay them out on loose boards to dry. The boy did this, and since his orders went no farther, curled up on the ground on the sunny side of a boulder and went to sleep. A wandering burro found the stamps, tasted them, found them good, and ate the entire stock, giving thanks. Al had to settle for them and quit the job as soon as he could, in disgust.

His successor was Hank Hemingway, who had to pay his bondsmen ten dollars apiece for their signatures. He built a shack at the mouth of a deserted tunnel that ran into the mountain about a hundred feet and was as dry as a chip. Hank put his supplies back in the tunnel and felt safe from fire and flood.

He was. But not from landslides. Hank quit being postmaster one afternoon when a slide about as big as three New England farms came down and covered Horsefly post office under hundreds of tons of rock and sand. And Hank and the postmark and some three hundred dollars' worth of the issue of 1879 are still in the tunnel.

After that the office went, appropriately, to the Blue Stone stamp mill and stayed there several years. Then the gold in the creek petered out and vein mining did not prove a success, so about 1888 the post office and the last remaining inhabitants moved about eight miles east to the new copper camp of Erie, taking the name of its new abode. It was located at the assay office, or laboratory, of one Dimmock, a recent arrival from England. And one night a mixture of Dimmock, frontier whiskey and a gallon of nitric acid did almost as much damage to the unfortunate institution as Brunt's fire. Which is why that the Midnight Test mine office was its next home.

Here it had the best service in its history, until one night the superintendent fell down the shaft and was killed. He was the only person who knew the combination of the safe, and as the payroll money was there, too, his successor got big "Deacon" Pettigrew to dynamite the door. "Deac" was a good hard-rock miner, and an expert with explosives, but his ideas were too lavish for safes. His maiden attempt hurled the door a quarter of a mile and atomized the paper money and stamps. So somebody had to make good again: the mining company this time.

By this time a railroad had reached Erie, so the station agent tried his hand at postmastering and held down the position while the mines around Erie waxed and then waned. By 1900 a hundred people got their mail at Erie, but less than a dozen lived in the deserted town. Then the railroad shut the station up and the Erie post office, reduced now to a credit of $150.00 moved to a cow ranch in the valley of the Agua Linda, three miles away. Twice in the next ten years it was ordered closed but was saved by politics and petitions. 1912 saw its removal to a small fruit farm, the ranch having expired from starvation.

The Great War, with the rise in copper, opened up some of the deserted mines that had started out as gold mines, then produced silver, and then degenerated to copper, or lead, or zinc mines. Sometimes one would contain all three metals, to the disgust of the mining men. (One turned into a tungsten mine and made a fortune for its owner.) The Erie office went into the keeping of a large copper mine, the Angelina, and was run by four young fellows; the bookkeeper, timekeeper, engineer and assayer. Then the war took all but one, and the survivor acquired a great respect for the department, which seemed to sit up nights to think up things for a fourth-class postmaster to do. Also he learned just what registering a letter means, which knowledge is hidden from most of us.

With the Armistice, copper dropped abruptly in price. And the mines shut down twice as abruptly; so the poor Erie post office had to move again. A small general store, established to get the custom of the copper miners, took it in and nursed it for a year. Then the storekeeper loaded the store onto two trucks and went away from there. And the office moved three more miles to a station where electricity generated seventy miles away was transformed into more workable shape for local use. But it was at the end of its travels. A year ago it was abolished, its dozen patrons getting R. F. D. service, and the four boxes of records, the stamps, the canceller and all the rest of the equipment were shipped to the district center, and Erie post office, neé Horsefly, was among the things of the past.

EDITORIAL.

An Ambition Realized.

For fifteen years, since the writer's first literary outburst on, "The Stamps of Siam" which found its way into the columns of Redfield's Stamp Weekly, now defunct, he has cherished an ambition to operate the editorial machinery of a great stamp paper. He has watched with envious eyes the wheezes and groans of the rattling good typewriter in Mr. Severn's office, and now for the first time, is confronted with necessity of extracting editorial matter from his own rattle-box.

Whether this issue will uphold the honor of MEKEEL'S must be decided by the reader. We anticipate word from the Managing Editor that the circulation is about to take a terrific slump. However, even though our efforts may cost the publishers some subscribers, their courtesy in handing over the reins to us will not go unrewarded. They have succeeded in instilling in the writer a great moral virtue. Hereafter, he will go about the world, silencing those who criticize editors of stamp publications. He has gained a wholesome respect and admiration for any man who edits a stamp paper every week and gets away with it.

Praise Costs Little and Means Much.

One of the gifts which we, as human beings, are privileged to bestow without cost and with equal benefit to ourselves, is commendation of the other fellow's efforts. A word of cheer will go a long way to help, and costs us nothing.

Recently, in a stamp society, a young collector was grievously hurt by the thoughtless remark of a fellow-collector who said, "That stuff of his is only a lot of junk. He hasn't anything to show at all for his work." As a matter of fact, the young man had a very nice start in a difficult line. But because he had not gone in for cancellations, as the other chap had, his collection was a "lot of junk" to the other man's way of thinking.

One of the fine features of philately is its versatility. We cannot all collect the same things. We are privileged to follow our own lines, and the man who favors nineteenth century has no right to belittle the man who collects twentieth century. A collection of India Native States may be despised by the collector of early U. S. but to the man who owns the India collection, it is more dear than all of Ferrari's gems. If he has seen fit to devote his energies along that line, he is certainly entitled to the respect and praise of his fellow philatelists. The boy with a thousand new Europe stamps thinks they are fine, and he deserves to be told so. The man who belittles them because they do not suit his fancy is certainly speaking out of his turn.

Twenty-Five Years of Progress.

Looking backward over the twenty-five years of this century, the progress of philately is driven home to us. The stamp collector of today is no longer the subject of jeers and jibes from those outside the tribe. Thinking people have come to realize that philately is permanent, that it is more than a child's pastime. Publicity has done much to educate the people to accept philately in its true light. Formerly, the collector of antiques or coins or art was considered entirely sane, but the stamp collector who saved useless bits of paper was considered queer. The people have read of the Ferrari sales, of Mr. Hind's purchases, and effect of the publicity of the big sales has done much to educate them to the fact that stamps rank with other collectible objects. The radio, the newspaper publicity, and word-of-mouth publicity from those who are no longer in fear and ashamed of their hobby will further educate those who do not know, and who do not understand. Many converts to the cause will be gained.

Every collector can help this work. The local societies can broadcast philately over the radios, as has been done. The man in the small town has a harder problem, but he can usually induce the local newspaper to use stamp publicity which he can obtain from the societies' publicity directors. The more publicity, the more collectors, and the more collectors, the better the market for stamps. The better the market, the sounder his investment. He helps himself best who helps others.

From Pastime to Science.

Reviewing further the progress of the past quarter century, we are amazed at the advancement of philately. While much valuable work and research had been done by philatelists prior to 1900, the recent years have produced the most in the development of the science of stamp collecting.

In 1900, few collectors had turned to the study of stamps for cancellations, plate varieties, and covers were little appreciated. Many a fine block and strip went by way of the shears. A block of four often sold at a "quantity" discount instead of a premium. The low-priced stamps of the old issues could be had in quantity where today they are scarce in singles.

As collectors have studied their stamps, just as in any other science, new discoveries have been made and new fields uncovered.

This is the age of specialization. The charm of philately lies in its limitless boundaries. Much has been done in the past. Still more remains to be done in the future, and the readers of this paper have the opportunity to do this work. Philately is so broad that every man can study some phase of it, and no one man can master all of it. The beginner, the man of limited means, can do his bit in some direction, either with one stamp or a country.

There is a crying need in philately for constructive articles to aid the other collectors. Much of the work done is unrecorded, and much is lost by the breaking up of collections. The publications are anxious for the co-operation of collectors. Study your stamps and tell the world what you discover.

HERE AND THERE.

By CHARLES E. SEVERN.

There is much news from Washington that will set philatelic tongues awagging as the new postal regulations in addition to having a general interest to all citizens have a direct bearing on their pursuits by reason of stamp changes. First of all, the new one and one-half cent stamp and stamped envelopes are to make an appearance and new issues to accord with the charges for the Special Handling of parcel and registered, insured and collect-on-delivery mail will be prepared. A despatch in the newspapers told of the designs of the stamps in the making and all in all, the stamp collector has something to look forward to.

The official notice of the granting of permission to use precanceled government stamped envelopes is an interesting document that is illustrated by a cut of the form that the postmark and cancellation are to take. First, the postmark is detached from the cancellation box and the indicia on the obliteration consists of the permit number of the sender at the left flanked by thirteen oblique lines which are "to pass over the stamp." On first class matter, the hour of mailing may be shown if desired.

The following notice is printed as being the last order applying to the airmail flight to Bermuda. The airship Los Angeles is expected to leave Lakehurst, New Jersey "about March 16th" when two hundred pounds of fully prepaid unregi red letters and post cards will be carried the rate of two cents an ounce or action thereof and post cards at two nts each. "No more than 200 pounds mail will be carried and if a quantity excess of that weight is received only e first 200 pounds at hand will be spatched."

The acquiescence of the post office department to the proposal that the Philelic Agency at Washington supply amped envelopes to patrons is recogzed with appreciation. A good while o, a reader who collects envelopes, derous of being accommodated by the ency, enlisted the co-operation of ongressman Ackerman in the suggestion at entire envelopes be stocked and it is ir to say that the happy results are due the support of our distinguished statesan of the proposal. The convenience of ying all the envelopes of different deominations, shapes and sizes is one that ill be welcomed by the collector who is tried to buy certain varieties at different post offices; and for the further cognition of the wishes of the philatelist, we are grateful.

The following quotations are from a tter received from Mr. Charles J. Phillips, New York: "You may remember that some weeks ago, a case was reported involving an action in Cincinnati against Roberts of London. Roberts got the case retried and the result was that a verdict was given against him for over $2,000. Most people here thought he was the well-known R. Roberts of 430 Strand." Mr. Phillips then proceeds to say of our Mr. Roberts: "R. Roberts was many years with Peckitt, then came over to Stanley Gibbons and later started off for himself. He is thoroughly reliable and an honorable man in every way." When the case was first reported in the WEEKLY, it was based on the published accounts as they appeared in the Cincinnati newspapers. However, even this fact does not soften the irony of the circumstances that tended to confuse our R. Roberts with the litigant in the Cincinnati case, in the minds of many. However, it is with a feeling of satisfaction that we are able to say that the atmosphere is now cleared and that any annoyance, by inference, that Mr. R. Roberts, the subject of Mr. Phillips' letter, may have had because of this contretemps is much regretted.

Many of our readers will remember that Mr. Gustave de la Chasse of Avignon, France, attended the convention of the American Philatelic Society last year at Detroit, and then made a trip of the country from coast to coast. Mr. de la Chasse has just sent us a souvenir that is of unusual interest in the form of a letter addressed to him and received November 7, 1881, on which the postage was paid by one of the Boyd's local dispatch stamps. Mr. de la Chasse contemplates another visit to this country in May, 1926, when he will have attained his 80th year.

The 35th anniversary of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club, Cleveland, will be celebrated with appropriate ceremonials on March 21, 1925; and collectors from Detroit, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Akron, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other points will take part in the exercises. Cleveland has reason to feel that on the score of accomplishment it may indulge in an hour of complacent reflection and we hope that the influence of the philatelic citizens of that city will be felt in augmented measure as the years go on. Any society that endures for over one generation is grounded on no ordinary beliefs and the example of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club is such as to give a permanent aspect to our pursuit.

INTERNATIONAL STAMP EXHIBITION, NEW YORK, OCTOBER, 1926.

The Publicity Committee announces the following items of news for publication.

A meeting of the Exhibition Committee was held on March 2nd, at the Collectors Club, New York, Charles J. Phillips, Vice-Chairman, presiding.

As many exhibits are expected from abroad it will be necessary to obtain and issue particulars explaining how collections should be shipped and the regulations that will have to be observed for passing them through the customs.

The following Committee on Customs Entry was appointed to work out the necessary details: J. A. Klemann, Chairman, Hon. E. R. Ackerman, Charles Curie, Edward Stern.

It was decided that there should be booths or stalls at the exhibition to be rented to dealers, philatelic publishers and manufacturers of accessories, and the following committee appointed: A. E. Owen, Chairman, Chas. M. Ams, Hugh M. Clark, A. R. Rogers. This committee will also make plans for the laying out of the floor space for exhibition purposes

The Publicity Committee was directed to obtain a design for a label and ascertain its cost and submit same to the Exhibition Committee for approval. It was proposed to have a contest for such a design with a suitable prize to the winner.

It was decided to hold a Members Day for members of the association only; membership in the association shall entitle the member to admission to the Exhibition that day; in addition, if he has paid for two years, he shall receive one additional ticket; if for three years, two additional tickets; such tickets to be good on any day except Members Day, and not to be transferable.

The Exhibition Committee decided to hold regular monthly meetings on the first Wednesday of each month at five o'clock at the Collectors Club, beginning with April.

The Annual Meeting of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions was held on Monday, March 2nd, and the Certificate of Incorporation amended to increase the number of directors to forty-five.

U. S. Department Stamps

Several of my important clients are desirous of greatly expanding their collections of the Departmental stamps, and consequenlty I especially desire fine pieces, such as sheets, blocks, and even unused singles of the rarer varieties. Then, too, anything on the cover is wanted, if in nice shape. When we reach the "Specimen" sets, I want practically everything, and this includes all of the "Sepcimen" errors. Substantial prices will be paid for the rarer things and commensurate figures for the more common.

U. S. Coil Stamps

My recent advertisements have brought in a good number of requests for these interesting varieties, consequently my stock in certain places is becoming weak. I want to purchase all of the rare coils of 1902-03, the 10c of 1908 and the 3c of 1910, in pairs or better. I would like up to a coil of any of the other 1908 series except No. 348. Also want the 1910, Nos. 387 to 393 inclusive. When we reach the rotary issues, I can use up to a coil each of No. 449, Nos. 456 to 459.

U. S. Bureau Issues

In the Bureau issues of 1894 to 1895, I want mint blocks of all values from 5c up. Especially desire pairs or better of the part perforate 2c, 5c, 6c and 50c. Can use a mint 6c and 8c with revenue watermark. If in a pair or block, so much the better.

Want some blocks of the 50c, $1 and $2 Omaha and a pair of the 8c part perforated. In the 1901 series, I want a mint 2c and 4c inverted center. The St. Louis 2c part perf. is wanted in pairs or blocks. The 1908 blue papers of all denominations from 3c up are wanted in mint blocks.

In other words—what have you in fine U. S. to sell?

1½c Stamps, Issue of 1924

Under date of March 9th, announcement was made by the Postmaster General that in order to meet the postage requirements for 3rd class matter under the new Postal Service law, effective April 15, 1925, the Post Office Department will shortly issue a 1½c stamp together with a stamped envelope of the same value, and shipments to postmasters will begin as soon as sufficient stock is available. The new stamp I am informed will have a portrait of Ex-President Harding, and at this writing the color has not been decided upon.

Postmasters at direct and central accounting offices are asked to submit requisitions for reasonable quantities of the new stamp and new stamped envelope on a basis of a three to six months' supply. Requisitions will be filled in the regular return of receipt and every possible effort will be made to have the supplies available in post offices when the new rates become effective.

In order to have this new denomination engraved, printed and distributed throughout the country by April 15th, it will be a Herculean task and it would not be surprising to see some of the smaller postmasters take it upon themselves to issue Provisionals of some type to take care of the rate, although it is doubtful if the post office would sanction any such use.

Postal Laws and Regulations Effective April 15, 1925

The Postal Bulletins of March 5th and 6th give a detailed list of changes made tive April 15th next, in accordance with in the Postal laws and regulations, effected the Postal Bill recently passed by Congress.

Several types of mailable matter will now fall into new classes and the classifications in the future will be as follows:

1st Class:—Written matter.

2nd Class:—Periodical publications.

3rd Class:—Merchandise and printed and other mailable matter, except that of the first and second classes not exceeding eight ounces in weight. This includes books, circulars and other matter wholly in print, except newspapers and periodicals entered as second class matter. This class does not include anything exceeding eight ounces in weight.

4th Class:—Merchandise and printed and other mailable matter, except that of the first and second classes exceeding eight ounces in weight. In other words, items which formerly fell into the third class but which weighed in excess of eight ounces now come into the fourth class, or Parcel Post section. Certain matter weighing less than eight ounces which formerly went as Parcel Post now becomes third class.

Private mailing cards, which include souvenir postals, will be charged for at the rate of 2c each instead of 1c as heretofore.

On 4th Class matter, the rate of postage shall be by the pound as heretofore, in conformity with the act of August 24, 1912, but in addition thereto, there shall be a service charge of 2c for each parcel, except upon parcels or packages collected on rural delivery routes. A new stamp to cover this 2c service charge is being prepared.

Special Delivery Parcel Post packages are supposed to be marked "Special Handling", and for this there shall be 25c postage in addition to the postage and service charges as previously mentioned. The Postal law does not specify that the Special Delivery stamp, which is being prepared, must be used to pay this fee, consequently 25c in regular postage stamps can be used for the purpose.

The above is a resumé of the bulletins mentioned, which of course, go into great detail in order that postmasters may be thoroughly instructed.

Precanceled Government Stamped Envelopes.

Under date of February 28th, the Postmaster General authorized the precanceling of the Government stamped envelopes. The same laws and regulations prescribed in the case of the adhesive stamp apply in the case of the stamped envelo

While this is the first time this precanc ing has been officially recognized, I call that Stanley Gibbons mailed ou circular from Federalsburg, Md., so years back enclosed within a 1c prec celed stamped envelope. I also h recollections of seeing one or two oth used about the same time.

The postmark in the above case sh show the name of the post office, state, the permit number and in the c of 1st class mail, the date of maili The return card of the mailer should pear in the upper left corner.

Air Mail To Bermuda And Chicago

Under date of March 6th, the Sec Assistant Postmaster General advises t further arrangements have been m with the Navy Department for a sec trip to Bermuda, about March 16th, the airship "Los Angeles", which at t time will carry 200 pounds of mail at usual rates. Letters and cards should plainly marked, "Air mail by airship Angeles' from Lakehurst, N. J." I not necessary to send such letters Lakehurst direct but they may be posited locally and the postmasters see that they are routed accordingly.

The department is also arranging fo air mail service between New York Chicago, which will evidently supplem the coast to coast service now in eff Mention of this service has been mad the daily press, but there has been sued no official details through circu or bulletins to the postmasters.

The Official Departmental Series

Mr. Charles J. Phillips a number months back started to stir up consi able interest in our departmental star which unfortunately heretofore had b sadly neglected. Through his activiti number of our collectors became serio interested in these issues, with the u result of mounting prices. However, have not as yet produced a student has gone into these issues seriously has shown us the possibilities in the of papers, shades, recuts, shifts and like.

In the American Philatelist for Ma Mr. Henry M. Konwiser has present timely article upon the subject, he ha gleaned from past publications avail data, and supplemented this with new formation in the way of auction qu tions and the like. Unfortunately, s of our earlier publications listed a n ber of stamps on soft paper now kn not to exist, but Mr. Konwiser does make mention of this fact, simply lis these varieties along with the others. this article will be given wide circula it is certainly advisable to make on two remarks concerning some stated, which are at variance with kn conditions.

In the Agriculture series, for inst we find prices quoted upon the "Sepcin errors. I cannot state where Mr. K wiser secured these prices or how he ed at these figures, but I do know that y are at variance with their real worth. lists the entire series from 3c to 30c h this error overprint and prices them $42.00 each. The 30c of which but one y is known was sold January 11, 1924, the Kelleher sale for $181—quite an ess over the $42.00 listing. The 24c ed at the same figure brought $73 at Worthington sale, while the 15c sold $52 and the 12c at $63. The article s the 3c, 6c, and 10c with the same or overprint. So far, I have not seen have I ever heard of these three ues existing.

Mention is made of the 1c Agriculture soft paper without gum being sold at tion at a certain figure. This variety only known without gum, and it is to found in no other way, unless of rse, it has been later gummed unoffi- ly. Mr. H. F. Colman tells me that of these 1c on soft paper, of which than a sheet is in existence, were nd along with the Specimen stamps in stock of the old Holton Stamp Com- y. As the Specimens were without n, these also were in the same dition.

As for the Executive series, Mr. Kon- er lists the 2c and 3c on soft paper. ese are not known. He also lists the with "Sepcimen" error overprint and es it at $42.50. I doubt whether the np exists and if it does, I would like buy it at three or four times the price ed upon it.

The same remarks apply to the 1c In- or, "Sepcimen" which he prices at $40, which I doubt whether it exists. He es it is extremely doubtful if the 90c ts on soft paper and the same re- ks would just as well apply to the for all of the copies of this stamp on alled soft paper that have yet come n the market are not the soft paper the regular American issues.

The 3c Justice overprinted "Sepcimen" entioned as not known but there is a in the B. K. Miller collection.

The remarks regarding the 90c Interior oft paper also apply to the 2c Navy oft paper, which is listed as a variety. Konwiser lists the 1c Navy on soft er but I have never heard of this ety, excepting with the "Specimen" print. He prices the regular stamp 25 and at this figure it would be com- atively common, but I know of no one has seen it. He lists the 3c and 6c the strength of Mr. Goodwin's pub- ion but I have never seen or heard of e.

Two "sepcimen" errors are listed in the y series, namely, the 6c and 10c, and ubt their existence. He lists the 1c $40 when there are but two copies wn and lists the 2c at $60 when it is paratively common.

In the Post Office series the 10c "Sepci-

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

men" is omitted, although a copy of this is also in the B. K. Miller collection.

In the State series, there seems to be quite a few statements that do not reconcile themselves with today's knowledge He lists the 7c, 15c and 30c on soft paper and such varieties are not known today. It has been thought for a long time that the 7c on soft paper exists with "Specimen" overprint but I have never seen or heard of a copy. I would like to buy at 100% profit, the 24c and 30c State with the error overprint, which Mr. Konwiser lists at $60 each. The 30c brought $95 in the Worthington sale back in 1917. He gives no prices on the $10 and $20 State with "Specimen" overprints, although they were both sold in the Morgenthau sale on November 11, 1924, at $650 for the $10 and $810 for the $20 one. He prices the $5 at $62, although it brought in the same auction just mentioned, $260.

In the War series, he omits the 3c "Sepcimen" error, although it is supposed to be known. He prices the values from 10c up at $60 a piece, although the 10c sold at $157.50 in the Worthington sale, and there is not the slightest doubt that the other higher values are equally as rare.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Considerable rivalry has been stirred up between some of the S. P. A. Branches, more especially New York, Cincinnati and Pasadena. Pasadena has sent a challenge to New York to equal its membership, while the New York Branch is having a worthy argument with Cincinnati.

—The Holden Stamp Co., of Detroit, Mich., has removed to 416 Woodward Ave., near Jefferson, "a central location passed by the crowds to and from Canada". See advertisement elsewhere.

—The Michigan Stamp Club held its annual banquet March 21 at Elks' Temple, Detroit. We expect to publish a report in our next issue.

—In the March number of the magazine House Beautiful the Living Age has an advertisement in which three stamp cuts are used for publicity purposes. Kenneth M. Balmer submits clipping.

—The Cincinnati Collectors Club. Local Branch No. 2, of S.P.A., held their meeting Tuesday, March 3, with 24 members and 7 visitors present. A regular business session was held at which Claude D. Millar was elected to the vice-presidency and two new members were taken in the club. Members of the Winton Place Stamp Club were visitors. The specialized collection of Guatemala owned by Dr. A. E. Hussey was shown and L. J. Flerlage showed the most beautiful collection of U. S. revenues that were ever seen in Cincinnati. The pairs, blocks, and strips of the imperforates were a feast for the eyes. After the regular meeting a bourse was held. At the next meeting, March 17, an auction of more than a hundred lots will be offered.

—Arthur King Clark sends us three pictorial clippings from a Mexico paper. The clippings show enlarged illustrations of the designs shown on Scott's types A79, A82 and A83. Mr. Clark states that a commemorative issue of stamps may be brought out in connection with an Exposition to be held at Mazatlan in May.

—In a recent News Gleaning mention was made of a fraudulent transaction, in which an Atlanta, Georgia, party by the name of Peck was referred to. It is very evident that the name of Col. R. H. Peck, of that city, a well-known collector and member of the A.P.S., was used for purposes of fraud. The Cortlandt Stamp Co. advises that they have been unable to secure any information as to the whereabouts of the party desired. Other New York dealers are also interested in this case.

—The Elkhart, Ind., Truth of Feb. 23, contained a column article of interest to the stamp collector. This paper has a department "Hobbies" and the stamp collecting proclivities of D. H. Evick form the subject of the feature on the date mentioned. We thank Anthony B. Kunderd of Goshen for the clipping in question.

MAXWELL KRAUSE, Lebanon, Pa.

SIMPLIFYING THE STAMPS OF FRANCE.

is inscribed "Empire Franc"; the issue of 1862 is of similar design but the stamps are perforated instead of being imperforate; while in the series of 1863-70 the head is adorned with a wreath of laurel leaves in honor of the Napoleonic victories in the invasion of Italy. Two types of the 5 franc are recorded, these differing in the height of the "5F" as mentioned in the catalog.

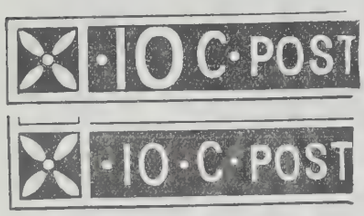

Fig. D

In 1870 the unscrupulous ambition of Napoleon III and Bismarck led to the Franco-German war which resulted in a series of defeats for the French, culminating in the disaster at Sedan on September 2nd. This terrible news overturned the empire and the Republic was again proclaimed. The Germans claimed concessions of territory, and as these were refused, they marched on Paris and besieged that city. During the siege (and later) the old plates of 1849 were resuscitated for all values except the 1 franc. Where the colors are the same the stamps of this set can be at once distinguished from the fact that they are perforated.

During the siege of Paris, where all the postage stamps had hitherto been printed, a temporary printing establishment was set up at Bordeaux and as the original plates were in Paris and there were no facilities for making duplicates, resort was made to lithography. These stamps were all imperforate and, as we have already shown, they can be quickly identified by the indefiniteness of the stalks of grain.

Fig. F

A new design for the 1c to 5c values (Scott's A7) was introduced, but apart from any other differences, these are easily told from the fact that they are imperforate while the engraved stamps of corresponding denominations are perforated. Scott mentions three types of the 20c of the Bordeaux lithographs, while Gibbons lists four, viz.: "I.—With wide space between inner circles and outer frame at top; inscriptions in smaller letters, shading of dots on neck. II.—Thicker lettering, shading of horizontal lines on neck. III.—Taller lettering, lines on neck and fuller shading under the eye. IV.—Similar to III but with point of bust 1mm from the pearled circle." Type I is considerably rarer than the others.

In 1872 new plates were made for the 10c, 15c, 30c and 80c values (Scott's A14) with the numerals of value larger than before. The differences are clearly shown in Fig. D.

In 1876 an entirely new design (Scott's A15) was introduced, this being known as the Peace and Commerce type. There are two varieties of most of the values. In type I, which is the rarer, the letter "N" of the designer's imprint "J. A. Sage—Inv" is shown below the "B" of "Republique" while in type II the "N" is under the "U" (Fig. E). In 1877-78 there was a general change of colors and later new values were added, but all were of the second type only. While further changes and additions were made in 1898-1900 philatelists were astonished to find the 5c in yellow-green re-appearing in the obsolete first type. It is interesting to note that in this resuscitated type the numeral "5" is much larger than before.

In 1900 three new types were introduced and of these the 10c and 25c provide two varieties. In the first plates made for these values, the numerals were printed at a second operation, while in later printings the entire stamp was printed at the same time. The earlier and scarcer type may be told by the misplacement of the numerals or the fact that they are in a lighter or darker tint than the balance of the design.

In 1902 the design of the 10c to 30c values was redrawn (Scott's A19) "Postes" being inserted in the upper border and the numerals being on a leaf-bordered shield.

In 1903 the well-known "Sower" design was introduced. In 1906 this was redrawn, the background being solid instead of lined, and ground being placed under the feet of the Sower lady (Fig. F).

Later, in 1906, the design was again modified, the ground being removed so that the figure is apparently walking on air (Fig. G, Scott's A22). The 10c and 35c values were issued first and on these the numerals and letters of "Postes" are thin, as shown in the sketch Fig. G.

In 1907, other values appeared and new plates were made for the 10c and 35c, all having numerals and letters thicker as illustrated in Fig. H.

In 1917, stamps of the 1901-7 types were printed on paper of poor quality, due to the paper scarcity caused by the war. This paper is usually grayish and contains bits of fibre, similar to granite paper.

The writer regrets he has not as yet had opportunity to study the Pasteur and Olympic sets in detail, but apparently they offer nothing to confuse the collector.

In the Postage Due stamps, we find an interesting problem concerning the two values of the first type (Scott's D1).

Fig. I

Both the 10c and 15c exist lithographed and typographed, and as the difference in value is considerable, it is well to know how to distinguish them. In the typographed variety, the accent over "a" does not slope so acutely as in the lithographed, while the letters of "Centimes" are not only thicker but the "E's" are distinctive in having the central bar nearly as wide as the top and bottom ones. Fig. I illustrates the typographed variety, while Fig. J illustrates the lithographed.

Fig. J

THE USED STICKER PROBLEM.

By Bill Bloss, B.O.C.C.

As a Brother of the Orange Crate Club of the great Southwest, where it is said that men are men, I take this opportunity of complimenting the worthy Fellow of the H. S. L. on his great invention for collecting and utilizing the troublesome used sticker.

Full well do I know the wrath wrought by the pestive little hinge that clings to the (Persian product in three letters, meaning something we walk on). Many a time while visiting my philatelic brethren and members of the O.C.C. have I been roundly and harshly reproved for bringing into the household the pestive hinge that eludes the vacuum cleaner and causes housemaid's knee. It is time some action was taken to mitigate this pest.

However, I do not believe that Mr. Wisekonner's idea of the disposal of the remains is entirely practical. I believe that a simpler and easier system can be devised, and certainly the worthy little hinges which have served us so usefully can still be utilized.

I have worked out a simple little conveyor of the belt type which serves nicely. Briefly, a blower, such as is used in sawmills, is installed over the desk. This blower picks up the used hinge as it is discarded, sucks it up, and deposits it on a movable belt which conveys it to a receptacle under the desk. I prefer the blower method to the paper magnet idea for the reason that it eliminates the danger of striking the collector in the eye, causing him to see double surcharges and thus delude himself into imagining he has rarities which he finds later do not exist.

Also, when a blower is used, it will often suck up a stamp, causing it to become lost. Thus the collector missing it, is induced to buy another copy. This stimulates trade, and if the stamp gets destroyed, makes the item that much rarer.

Mr. Wisekonner speaks about the pr ess of removing the watermark. Thi believe is a dangerous practice wh should not be encouraged, as the sale second-hand watermarks may lead fraudulent practices on the part of unscrupulous.

It is true that the gum should utilized, but why remove it from the d little hinge, since it is so attached to it

There are many ways in which u stickers can be utilized. After the rec tacle is filled, the hinges can be used ag for other purposes. If cut into shre they may be served with cream and sug in place of well-known breakfast foo They have a flavor far superior to sawdust and shavings now manufactu into commercial breakfast food. foreign hinges, if mixed with the dom tic product, give a distinctly unique ble

Another way in which they may utilized for food is by frying in deep They acquire all the crispness of potato chip, and if properly cooked, sh be delicious.

But the little used hinge is not lim to food alone. If the collector has u care in folding them, he may dye th different colors, and by running a thr through them, will find that they m excellent decorations for Christmas tr

One collector tells me that his has made several nice sofa pillows stu with the cast-off hinges from his col tion. Incidentally, she uses the selv from his sheets of German mark sta for border effects on the pillows.

A great market for the used hi could be developed by some enterpri collector, by gathering the hinges f his friends and selling them before e tion nights and at carnivals, for conf Used hinges are particularly good this purpose, for when they lodge in back of one's collar, have great penet ing qualities and will itch worse than old red flannels.

I offer these ideas to Mr. Wisekon with the hope that he may be abl make use of them, in connection his invention. I still insist that the blo type of machine is superior, and hop will see fit to change his mo accordingly.

As a further suggestion, it is p possible that arrangements could be m to sell the hinges collected to some the large tobacco concerns. Certainl properly aged and pulverized, they w taste far superior to the brand I am smoking.

While on the subject of used stick it might be well to mention a few use the unused hinge. I have found it ha as a patch to cover the worm-holes in cigars my customers pass me after I them a set of New Europes. R. Ken Milne tells me that two hinges pl over a slow leak in the inner tube on left hind foot of his rattling new roac saved him a lot of grief coming in f Santa Ana the other night.

A box of hinges, in the hands of two-year-old infant, will keep him c for a long time, in fact, perpetually he swallows them. Fathers who l charge of the babe and wish to m their Austrias, take notice.

NEW YORK-CHICAGO AIR MAIL SERVICE TO START ON JUNE 1.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—While the army and navy are deadlocked over the question of air expansion and development, the postoffice department has gone ahead building airways, cutting flying costs and in general laying a foundation for commercial aviation on a large scale. The establishment of overnight air mail service between New York and Chicago has been announced by Postmaster General New as the latest step.

Although at no time has air mail paid its way, according to figures of the department, the new service to supplement the transcontinental route will come into being June 1, because the department heads believe that fast mail transportation is desired and needed and that only through establishment of service, even at a loss, can the air be commercialized for future use.

Even the most ardent air force advocates admit that a nation's air strength depends largely upon a foundation of sound commercial aviation. The postoffice department is working alone at present in this field.

While England, France and other European countries are subsidizing private air lines, the work of the postoffice department is amounting to the same thing in this country. The revenue derived from air mail is now about 50 per cent of the cost of maintaining the service. The Government must bear this cost in the hope that in the future air traffic may pay for itself.

The New York-Chicago air route will give business a nine-hour service between the two great cities at a cost of eight cents an ounce. The time schedule will be as follows:

Leave New York at 9:30 p. m.
Arrive in Chicago at 5.30 a. m.
Leave Chicago at 8:30 p. m.
Arrive in New York at 6:30 a. m.

This fast service will be put into effect perhaps even before the date set, depending upon the speed in which the groundwork for the route may be constructed. Emergency landing fields at average intervals of 17 miles are under construction. This is the most difficult and most expensive part of the service, according to Assistant Postmaster General Henderson.

HE HIT THE BABIES.

This tale, told by Robert Harris, late of Los Angeles and later of Honolulu, takes the automatic hinge-stretcher.

Mr. Harris, while employed at a local hospital, chanced to show his beautiful collection of Spanish and U. S. Colonials to a certain patient, who was recuperating from an attempt to demonstrate the superiority of a flivver over a steamroller.

The man paid special attention to the baby head issues and was attracted by the surcharges on the Port Rican stamps particularly.

That night he had a dream. His room was located close to the nursery, and the enthusiastic cries of the newly-arrived collectors who were trying out their lungpower, may be responsible for part of the dream.

His room was filled with babies. They were floating about in the air, over his bed, and all around him. He and Mr. Harris were performing a strange operation. He would reach up and pull down one of the babes, and hold it, while Mr. Harris vigorously swatted it on the cheek and back and elsewhere, with a rubber stamp reading "Habilitado para 1898 y 99." Being confined to his bed, he could only reach those that came near, but Mr. Harris caught the others, and eventually all the infants were properly surcharged.

Oh, how the doctors must have been provoked to see their new-born patients thus abused.

Play Safe in Stamp Investments

the same as tho buying stocks or bonds.

I did that when I purchased between $40,000 and $50,000 worth of following:—U. S. postage, including unusual pieces in pairs, strips, blocks and covers. Same applies to my Confederate States and to my large holdings in British North America pieces. If you are looking for unusual items in any of above lines, this is the place to come. I have sold single buyers thousands of dollars' worth. I have the goods in my line and I think that 90% of the readers of this paper agree that old issues of U. S. A., C. S. A. and B. N. A. are the goods that mean real investment.

PASADENA COLLECTORS CLUB HOLDS THIRD ANNUAL BANQUET.

At the third annual banquet of the Pasadena Stamp Collectors Club, held on the evening of February 19th in the Grill Room of the Maryland Hotel, the Crown City philatelists and their friends turned out in all their glory. "Don" White, the genial president of the club, acted as toastmaster, and deserves much credit for his efforts in making the affair a success.

"Lincoln" and "Washington" were timely features of the program. Rev. C. W. Bergquist, a collector and member of the club, pronounced the invocation. Following an excellent dinner, Mr. White gave a brief talk, and then introduced Mr. Harry J. Lelande, who spoke on "Lincoln" and exhibited a rare medal and engraving from his collection.

Mr. Clarence G. Weisbrod, president of The Collectors Club of Southern California, spoke on the coming A.P.S. convention at Los Angeles.

Miss C. E. Condit, of Pasadena, gave an interesting talk on "Martha Washington."

Mr. Adolph Larson, Jr., president of The Collectors Club of Los Angeles, Inc., gave an interesting fifteen minute talk on "George Washington".

Throughout the evening, the guests were entertained by an excellent musical program. "The Collectors Club of Los Angeles, Inc., Block of Four," Messrs. Sanford, Joseph, Morris and Larson rendered a number of popular selections. Mr. J. E. Joseph, accompanied by Mr. Larson, rendered several tenor solos in pleasing manner.

Near the close of the evening, the president presented a beautiful medal to Herbert E. Gage, as a token of esteem on the part of the club for his faithful and devoted service as secretary.

Dr. E. C. Bull deserves much credit for his ingenuity in working out the artistic effects and table decorations.

CONVENTION PLANS PROGRESSING.

Details for the entertainment and comfort of visiting A.P.S. members attending the convention to be held in Los Angeles in August, are well under way, and every effort is being made by Southern California collectors to carry out their slogan, "A bigger and better A.P.S. Convention than has been."

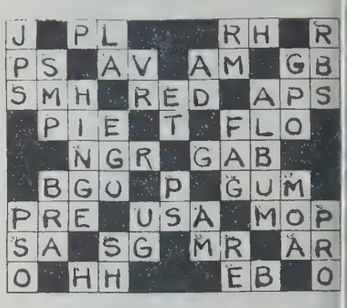
Eastern members may look forward to an enjoyable visit to the California. According to President Weisbrod of the local branch of the A.P.S. plans are being made for sight-seeing tours of the Pacific beaches, the mountains, and the beauties of Pasadena and Hollywood (natural and otherwise). Certainly a wonderful treat is in store for those members and their families and friends who are fortunate in being able to make the long trip. California has much to offer, and the Los Angeles members are glad of the opportunity to entertain their friends from other sections.

A meeting of delegates appointed by the various societies in Southern California has been called for March 2nd, to further formulate the plans for the convention. In order to carry out these plans, to the fullest extent, it will be necessary to have the co-operation of all collectors in the territory.

Are you coming to the convention? If not, why not? It's the chance of a lifetime.

THE PHILATELIC CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

By Bertram W. H. Poole.



I must express gratifying surprise at the number of solutions submitted. To the majority the puzzle was evidently not too easy and one competitor after stating he had spent three brain-fogging evenings on it was so mixed up that he forgot to send his solution after all.

Five competitors, Dr. Walter Hess, Mr. A. A. Belser, Mr. G. P. Kettlewell, Mr. R. L. Hustis and Mr. C. H. Hermann, sent solutions which were 100% correct and to each of these a Poole album has been sent.

The main stumbling block to many contestants was No. 1. The correct solution is "J.P.S.", the initials of the well-known Junior Philatelic Society. Many sent R.P.S. and L.P.S. and these are judged so near correct that to each of these competitors a set of Revenue pages has been mailed. The names of these 99% percent correct puzzlers are Mr. A. M. Davis, Mr. H. E. Heller, Mr. G. W. Linke, Mr. Ashley C. LeDuc, Mr. Allan J. Fisher, Mr. Charles E. Roe and Mr. E. J. Newcomer.

Finally to the four contestants who had "J P S" correct but had one error I have also sent a set of Revenue leaves. These four are Mrs. J. W. Stanford, Mr. Theodore H. Ames, Mr. Franck C. Clark and Mr. S. L. Futer.

The correct solution is as follows:

usual appearing cancellation.

Mr. H. C. Brooks favors us with a 10c '57 Type II, Patriotic, dated June 27 (1861). While early, it is behind the June 1st above mentioned. It is pmkd. from Bath, Me., to the town of "Pugwash", which reminds me to ask, Do you ever see any of those Pug Dogs now? When I was a kid "Pugs" were like Radios today, they were thick, and "there's some as likes 'em, and some as doesn't". Nobody collects "Pugs" round here now. Where are they all gone to? The "Police" are very much in favor though!

Mr. Charles Swale enters a very pretty blue pmkd. "Elmira N Y Jun 13 1861" Patriotic, with picture of Col. Anderson, and much historical data below his picture.

He also includes some very clearly struck postcards, each having the star obliterator and all three from Brush Creek, Iowa, two purple, one blue, 1886, 1889 and 1890, all different. Post Cards being flat, generally show up their cancellations more neatly than covers, and collectors are beginning to annex them to their collections, even the fellows who used to "pooh-pooh" 'em. Times do change, huh? Save your pretty cancels on the cards now.

From Mr. H. F. Metz comes more post cards from 1875 to '80. A blue Bordentown, N. J., a couple of blue Cincinnatis, one target, the other with a very clear "2" in that double ring grid effect, the type you like to see on your 3c greens; a crimson Plattsburg, N. Y., of '79, with target; and ultramarine Waitsfield, Vt., 1879, and a most beautifully canceled red "Spring Lake N J Aug 23 1880", with a keen pointed little star for obliterator. This last is a dandy little affair, one that would make you reach for your pocketbook! Just as cleanly struck as tho by a printing press, wavy circle round it all.

Among a very few stamps he encloses are two that stand out particularly, one which looks to be the "Glen Allen Va" precancel, tho on a 2c vermilion, which is far prettier than when it comes on the 1c American or a re-engraved. The Jackson head shows thro the lined star as tho it were seen thro smoked glass, very handsome effect. Last is a blunt headed eagle on 3c American print. While the eagle has but one eye, he is supplied with four distinct tail feathers, and his two wings are all there. It is a very unusual eagle.

Mr. B. A. Oppenheimer has sent in a very remarkable pair of 10c Americans, in mint condition. The copy at left is without any secret mark, while the copy at right has the mark. In addition the left hand stamp has a defect in the plate which runs thro the "N" of "CENTS". I said in the plate, tho this may not be true, as none other has been recorded to date, should say it looks like a plate variety, and I believe it to be a plate mark. This pair has excited much comment. You often read of these two dies (National and Continental) showing on the same plate; this proves it.

In mentioning cancellations, if the color is not named, black is understood in these articles. Please carry that "S.S.S.S." in your mind this week, and see if you can't help out with a couple of snappy items. Thank you.

THE NEW RATES.

Particular attention is invited to the increased rates of postage and changes affecting post cards and mail of the third and fourth classes as provided by the act of February 28, 1925, and set forth in order No. 1605 of March 3, 1925, amending the sections of the Postal Laws and Regulations involved.

It is of the utmost importance that postmasters, postal employees and patrons of the service become thoroughly familiar with these changes in order that the proper amount of postage may be paid and collected on mail. Failure to do so will cause confusion, annoyance, delay, and inconvenience to mailers, and impose upon the postal service unnecessary labor and expense.

The outstanding features of these changes are as follows:

1. The changes become effective on April 15, 1925.

2. The rate of postage on all post cards will be 2 cents each, whether they bear written or printed matter. This rate will also apply to each portion of double or reply post cards. The postage on the reply half need not be affixed thereto until it is detached and mailed for return. This includes all cards within the size for post cards, whether or not they bear the words "Post card" or "Private mailing card."

Nothwistanding the provisions of such section as amended, the Postmaster General may fix the fee for registered mail matter at any amount less than 20 cents. (Act of February 28, 1925.)

4. Mail for dispatch by airplane service, except that supposed to contain matter of large value, such as securities, coin, or currency of large amounts, will be accepted for registration upon the prepayment, by postage stamps affixed, of a registration fee of 15 or 20 cents in addition to the airplane postage. Such registered mail will be inclosed in registered package jackets or inner registered sacks and dispatched in iron locked pouches, in accordance with the registry regulations covering such dispatches. (See secs. 385 and 1330.)

SEC. 862. Wherever found in the ordinary mail, an article marked to indicate that the sender desired it registered and bearing 15 cents in ordinary stamps in addition to required postage, shall be removed from the ordinary mail and registered. Like treatment shall be accorded an article, wherever found in the ordinary mail, marked to indicate that it was intended for registration, even though it does not bear the name and address of the sender, or postage and registry fee are partially or wholly unpaid.

7. An article found in the ordinary mail drop bearing any required special-delivery fee in ordinary stamps in addition to any required postage, but not marked to indicate whether the sender desired the article sent as special delivery or registered mail, shall be dispatched as ordinary special-delivery matter after being indorsed "Special Delivery," provided that where practicable without missing the first available dispatch, the desire of the sender shall be ascertained and the article treated accordingly.

See section 993 as to treatment of registered matter found in the ordinary mail.

SEC. 863. The registry fees on domestic and foreign mail shall be at the following rates and in addition to the regular postage, both of which shall be prepaid by stamps affixed, viz.:

For domestic articles of the first class indemnified for $50 or less, 15 cents; for over $50 and not in excess of $100, 20 cents.

For domestic articles of the second class, for which no indemnity is provided, and for domestic articles of any class without intrinsic value for which indemnity will not be allowed, 15 cents.

For domestic articles of the third class indemnified for not exceeding $25, 15 cents.

For domestic fourth-class (parcel post) articles sealed and prepaid at the first-class rate of postage, the same as for first-class mail.

APPRECIATION OF THE PUBLISHER.

NEWSPAPER STORY DEALING WITH THE ACTIVITIES OF MR. JEWETT AND THE PORTLAND OFFICE.

When William W. Jewett was a grammar school student he became interested in a stamp collection and as his collection grew there came to him an idea that a publication relative to stamps and stamp collections would not only be of interest but might be placed on a paying basis.

Today, Mr. Jewett is treasurer and business manager and handles the publication end of one of the most successful stamp newspapers, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, issued in the interest of philately and philatelists, published here in Portland and having a circulation of between eight and nine thousand. This weekly issue goes to all sections of the globe, having over 600 subscribers outside of the United States and carrying advertising matter from all sections of the world.

Mr. Jewett did not reach his present position in one jump but worked his way to prominence in the world of stamp news. His first venture into the establishment of a pernament issue of stamp news was the publication of the monthly Philatelic Herald in this City in 1884. This was typical of the first effort of a boy with a new printing press and quite a contrast to the present numbers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, which are a product of Mr. Jewett's establishment in Portland.

He published the Herald for nearly five years, when he sold it and shortly after purchased the monthly Philatelic Era from Pickard & Eustis of this City. That was in 1889. This paper was changed to a semi-monthly after a few years and on Sept. 1, 1894, to a weekly, and continued as such until October, 1903, when it was sold to I. A. Mekeel. The following spring the Era was consolidated with the paper bearing the present name.

During the years 1889-91, Mr. Jewett published a series of four philatelic handbooks in conjunction with J. H. Lyons, later of the New England Stamp Company, Boston.

With the consolidation of the Era and the Mekeel paper, Mr. Jewett withdrew from the firm but contracted to publish. Later he bought back into the firm and still continues to publish the WEEKLY. In 1907 he bought another printing plant and combining that with his other, moved to his present location at 226-232 Federal Street, occupying practically all of the two story block.

Every week the more than 8,000 copies of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS are printed, put together and mailed from the Federal Street establishment and the product of Portland sent to all sections of the globe. Only recently Mr. Jewett received a letter from Rev. Warren A. Seager of the American Church Mission in Nanking, China, stating that the issue of Nov. 24 had reached Nanking on Dec. 11, and said that Nanking is a full five days beyond Tokyo, Japan, to which the air-mail service of 26 days has been considered quite remarkable.

Subscribers to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS are a sort of family in all sections of the world, there being two members of the family with life subscription memberships and over 300 on the honor roll of the five-year subscription list. This paper does not deal in stamps, it deals only in stamp news and those who are interested in stamps realize its value with the publication of each issue.

Not in connection with the WEEKLY itself, but as a side issue, the firm has published 50 books, each dealing with stamp news of some one country, etc. MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS also contains in its subscription list the names of public libraries in all sections. For several years the paper was an eight-page issue but today it runs from 12 to 16 pages and carries from 300 to 500 inches of stamp advertising matter.

While publication of this WEEKLY is in Portland, the business office is at Beverly, Mass., and the editorial department at Chicago, Ill. Charles E. Severn of Chicago, editor, is a walking encyclopaedia of philatelic knowledge and subscribers send their perplexing philatelic problems to him. Other experts in their line follow closely the discovery of varieties and new issues and all other matters

A BABY STAMP.

A philatelic novelty is one of the first fruits of the new postal rates on third-class mail. The Post Office Department finds it necessary to split the copper by putting forth a half-cent stamp; also a 1½ cent stamp, as well as new 15, 20 and 25 cent denominations for special delivery. For variety's sake stamp collectors, who are grateful for even the mildest sensations in their hobby, will welcome the fractional postage.

The halfpenny-wise policy, though economical on its face, is bound to lead the purchaser to extravagance, supposing that he desires to limit his shopping to his exact requirement. It is very well for the post office to put a half-cent stamp on sale, but it may stump the clerk to give the buyer his change for a penny. It will be as easy to square the circle as to buy a single half-cent stamp with our present currency. Apparently the purchaser of the split stamp must buy two. He will have to tie up capital to that extent unless the Treasury Department helps him out by minting diminutive chicken-feed.

Surely that would be infra dig. for a department that is bent on restoring the mammoth silver dollar!—N. Y. Tribune Herald.

UNITED STATES 1894-1900 AT THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK.

Reported by Charles J. Phillips.

On March 4th, Mr. A. H. Lamborn of Montclair, N. J., made a wonderful display of these issues, one of the finest exhibitions we have seen at the Club for a long time. Mr. Lamborn told us that his wonderful twentieth century collection is now arranged in no less than 225 volumes, of which nearly 70 are devoted to plate numbers. These are all unused, collected in strips, and in the four positions (top, bottom, right and left) of every type, of every plate number. To give some idea of this huge undertaking he told us that plates No. 1 to No. 1800 were about 95% complete, and later numbers 2000 to 4500, were about 50% complete in every position.

Mr. Lamborn brought with him his specialized volumes of the Bureau Issues, 1894-95 to 1898, and the 1898 Omaha Issues. These were all shown in blocks of four, and in every possible shade. This block form is an ideal one for collecting shades, as the colors show up better than in singles and the contrasts are more pronounced.

1894—Imperf. blocks of 4 of the 3c, 4c, 5c and 10c all without gum as usual. 6c, block of 4 imperf. horizontally. $5 dark green, two blocks of 4, very rare thus.

1895—Set, complete, in Imperf. blocks. $2.00, five blocks showing great variety of shades. $5.00, two blocks of 4. 1c, the rare plate Nos. 24 and 35. The 6c and 8c wmk. U. S. I. R., were about the only used stamps I noted in this collection.

1898-99—Here there was a really wonderful range of shades and colors, notably four blocks of the scarce 2c rose-carmine, and a vast range of shades in the 4c, 6c and 10c.

1898, Omaha—The plate numbers are complete on all values of this issue except the 2c plate No. 667, which was only in use one day. Several blocks of the scarce $2.00 were shown.

After the shades of this issue, we have the plate numbers all beautifully arranged. Mr. Lamborn drew our attention to the fact that no two pages are arranged alike. A great deal of credit is due to Mr. Goldman, who has had charge of arranging this great collection, and who has carried out his work in a most artistic and masterly manner.

I am sorry to say that in many of the fine exhibits we have at the Club we find too little attention paid to neat and artistic arrangement and often the beauty of fine exhibits is not brought out as it might be if more attention was paid to the artistic side of arranging and displaying the stamps.

A very hearty vote of thanks v carried unaminously to Mr. Lamborn a the hope was expressed that on so future occasion he would show us m of his wonderfully arranged twenti century collection.

"Educator" Approval Books of Early United States Stamps

Like our "Educator" packets, these approval booklets are arranged particularly for those collectors who feel uncertain about their classification of 19th century United States stamps. They include all issues from 1851 to 1900 catalogued at less than $5. All are clean, sound stamps, each one with its catalog number and date of issue. These are not fancy-priced novelties for the specialist, but include many bargains at considerable discounts from list prices. And of course the classifications are guaranteed; there are no unknown imperfs, quasi re-issues, chemical changelings, or other rubbish used to gull the uninitiate.

We will gladly send the series to members of school stamp societies, but with your request please include a note of approval from parent or teacher.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties. Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

I want to tell you something — the response to my call for cancellations sure warms "the cockles o' me 'art". I don't know exactly what that means, but heard a Scotch comedian mumble it over the radio, so it must be good. Dictionary says cockles are bivalvular mollusks with radiating ribs; also taken as Scotch (langwidge) it means a coarse weed that grows amongst grain, and has prickly fruit (thistles probably), and it also means to pucker into ridges, a word of great selectivity so to speak.

Hearts, shells, thistles, "spray of rose", all are cancellations, and I pucker my brow into ridges trying to find means of best presenting some of these odd cancels in black and white in the Forum. Wish there was room to publish some of this Forum mail. Some write in to make mention that the third person from the left in No. 231 shows a cauliflower ear; others call attention to the bashed hat on that same well known stamp; others aver that the "E" of CENTS in our present 2c stamped envelopes has a list to starboard, etc., etc. Some letters are rather personal, to wit, "Are you going to can your chatter during the summer months and give us a rest?", and equally scintillating shafts of sarcasm. 'Tis but a crool world.

But I started out to tell you something, from unheard of sources come some of the prettiest little oddities in the way of cancellations, things you have never seen or heard of I'll betcha. And from the old timers comes much of merit daily, so much that I could employ a staff of draftsmen, and a corps of stenographers, and still be behind in my mail. Never mind, the illustrated number of Forum will be a good one.

So far as I recall nobody ever rushed into print about cancellations, Good and Bad. The latter have had little mentioned about them to date in philatelic papers, but collectors sure turn on their "loud speakers" when they tell me about them, and I'll say they make a proper job of it, their flow of language being quite unmistakable.

What a variety of cancels come on 3c greens! Hundreds of them, yes thousands, and the pity of it is that more are "being found" constantly. Some are made over 3's that have been lightly cancelled, and this new application covers the old one entirely. The poorest of these faked cancels are made over 3's that have been pencancelled, the cancel being removed by an eradicator. Some are presented on uncancelled "duds", old dog-eared 3's that got by uncancelled, corners wrinkled, the stamp smelling of age in every particular—except this wonderful cancel, fresh and gaudy. Then comes the stuff where no attempt has been made to remove the original cancel. These latter are now "going good". Perhaps you have seen some of those 7c vermilions and 24c purples of the Bank Note issues with their pretty red "PAID ALL TRANSIT" marks conspicuously placed over the old markings and all, beautiful to gaze upon. These transit mark fakes are of two "major varieties", 1st and the cleverer of the two, the wording being a trifle smudgy, shows ink of a peculiar orange red, it being applied in a lumpy sticky manner; the other, far more beautiful, is in red, each and every letter being very distinctly printed. Yes, the collector's hankering for these pretty red cancels may now be easily gratified at a price, yet 'tis to weep. Perhaps you can start a little collection of "bogus cancels I have met".

The reference to the making of paper is quite applicable in the study of cancellations. To begin with, I come from Holyoke, commuting to Springfield. As you may have heard, Holyoke is called "The Paper City", meaning that high grade writing paper is made there, and up to a few years ago our town made the most paper of any town in the U. S. Now Kalamazoo has wrested the honors for gross tonnage. This is not writing paper however, and there are all kinds of paper. This is not an article on the manufacturing of paper, nor is it intended to hand the fair city above mentioned a bouquet of wilted petunias. The idea being this, that my friends locally have posted me a bit on peculiarities of paper, one of which directly concerns our cancellations.

Have you ever seen an old timer look at a freakish cancel on an old 3c stamp, then sort of wag his head negatively? While it is the younger collectors who seem to appreciate the vagaries of the bygone P.M.'s who spent their time whittling out "funny stuff" for their obliterators, yet the old timers are perhaps more keen than the beginners. The old boys are pretty wise to what is, and what is not, in cancels. I know a lot of O. T.'s who look sort of mournfully at a "new" odd cancel, the idea being that if it were only genuine, it would look well in their collection.

Paper of good grade, such as stamps are supposed to be printed on, is quite susceptible to age, and climatic change. Have you ever heard whether freezing paper injures it? Paper that has been laid away for a long time loses its finish. When being made, paper goes thro a gummy puddle known as sizing, this being a mixture of glutinous materials, glue, flour, etc., and it really enamels the surfaces of the paper.

You know how a printer prefers to hand you a proof on a highly glazed paper, the reason being that the surface is smooth, and takes the type most clearly

A. E. Hussey, M.D., 232 Hearne Av., Cinti., O.

When paper has stood for years it loses its pep, the sizing has left it, and this would leave a 3c American Print much like it were printed on a high grade of blotting paper. So, if the color of your fancy cancel goes right thro onto the back of your stamp, well, it looks suspiciously as tho the cancel were of later date than the stamp. Many of the prettiest green, red and purple stars, and little oddities, show up most as well on the backs of the stamps as on their faces. You know a number of issues ago the Forum advised that you study the backs of your stamps, it applies to more than thin spots and defects you see.

This does not mean that all stamps with their cancels showing thro are bogus. On some the paper was so porous that the color went thro somewhat at the time they were current, and others were on paper so made that the color would not go thro even now. Papers vary greatly.

Some day cancels will be so well studied that our own freakish U. S. affairs will all be noted and genuine copies held for any collector to compare his doubtful specimens with, or have them verified indubitably (snappy word). I sometimes buy a damaged copy of a stamp with a clearly printed unusual cancel for my reference collection, which is growing consistently, tho collectors grunt at the condition. It is fun to hear collectors argue about authenticity of cancels, those they pronounce "bad" I often buy for my reference collection. The paper test is only one of many for determining genuineness in cancellations. Mons. Bertillon would doubtless be quite interested if he knew the time some collectors devoted to minute examinations, and measurings of doubtful cancellations.

The collection of funny cancellations has reached a far larger percentage of our collectors than anyone knows. You ask a collector if he collects cancellations, he says: "No, I never have, but I save some of the more interesting ones".

JUST ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW.

By GORDON H. CROUCH.

There has been a certain amount of criticism regarding the Philatelic Agency at Ottawa, Canada. Some disapprove of the sale of the 1c, 2c and 3c stamps in imperforated condition, while others object to the offering of unused Canadian pre-canceled stamps.

To be justifiable and acceptable, all criticism should be constructive. The world is full of knockers who, individually or otherwise, are destroying man's faith in himself and in others. And I believe that it is high time that a halt is called and that these detractors, who, in one way or another, are spreading "discontent, doubt and despair" in the Philatelic world, should be called to account and asked to build up before they seek to cast down.

Why should not collectors be permitted to obtain many of the varieties of Canadian stamps such as coils, booklet panes, and postal stationery, at prices which are in marked contrast to some dealers?

Many interesting varieties are now obtainable and hundreds of collectors are the gainers. While, as for precanceled stamps, I find that for a little over $15.00, a real representative collection of these intriguing little squares of paper can be had. These include inverts and varieties from many places from which it is impossible that the average collector could, in the ordinary way, get his specimens.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We are indebted to C. W. Smith, editor of Tryout, Plaistow, N. H., for a press clipping from the New York Times dealing with the acquisition of the Miller collection by the New York Public Library. The article states that this collection has never been publicly exhibited in its entirety, but it is considered one of the most complete of its kind.

—The Cortlandt Stamp Co., 5 Cortlandt St., N. Y. City, has issued a list of special offerings in British Colonials, which will no doubt be sent upon application.

—The bi-monthly list issued by W. T. Wilson, 18 Livingstone Rd., Birmingham, Eng., has appeared for February-March. It is very attractive in the novelties that are offered in old and recent issues. Numerous covers are priced and there is also a wide assortment of rarities.

—Max Thier, widely known authority on postage stamps, died at Charlottenburg, Germany, March 17, aged seventy-five. His name was a household word among German philatelists and he had the reputation of "infallible philatelist" from his expert knowledge of stamps.

—A post card is at hand from Bermuda, advising us of a brief sojourn there of Joseph V. K. Wells of the Home of the Postage Stamp. He writes:—"Just a wonderful rest and change of scene. No postage stamps."

—In the Industrial Digest for March is an illustrated article on, "The Royal Hobby Horse". We are indebted to Henry Berman, Rochester, N. Y., for copy of the magazine containing the article, and we agree in his observation that publicity of this sort means a great deal to stamp collecting.

—John U. Hoffman sends us a clipping from the New York Sunday World of March 15. It is a more than a column article dealing with the B. K. Miller U. S. collection recently acquired by the New York Public Library. We have previously referred to this transaction. The collection consists of forty-seven volumes, 14x17 inches, each containing fifty pages. A conservative value of this great collection is $250,000. This exhibit will be an added attraction to the great exhibition to be held in New York, in 1926.

—Dr. C. W. Hennan, "King of the Netherlands" (and incidentally president of the Chicago Philatelic Society), recently honored the Milwaukee Phil. Soc. with a display of ten volumes of "Netherlands and Colonies", which is only a part of his enormous collection. The

THE HALE STAMP.

Nathan Hale has waited a long time for it but a change in the postal laws and the energy of Congressman Schuyler Merritt now puts, not exactly his likeness but what he may have resembled, upon a new postage stamp, the half-cent product made necessary by the new rate for the third class matter. It is not an expensive stamp but there is nothing better open for Nathan at this moment.

When he was in the flesh there existed coins in circulation of so slight value that one of them would pay for one of the half-cent stamps. Now the public is not likely to purchase less than two of them. It will have that privilege within a month, for it is said that the first sheet of the new stamps will be submitted to the postmaster general on Tuesday, and an order calls for a billion and a half of these half-cent stamps. They will be of the same color as the 4 cent stamp now in use. The post office department is conservative in the matter of colors or it would have adopted a new shade.

Will the other immortals look upon Nathan Hale as "cheap"? Hardly; he has only to wait a little to find himself at a premium. A committee is to investigate the entire matter of postal rates during the coming summer and when its finding is made and adopted we shall see the end of the half-cent stamp, for few can believe that a rate involving a fraction of a cent will be suffered to continue.

And when it is discontinued Nathan Hale will come into his own for the stamp bearing what we may regard as an idealized likeness of him will be sought for as a treasure hid in a field. The two new special delivery stamps for parcel post use and the new 1½ cent Harding stamp may go along with them. If the high registry rates continue they may create a demand for an otherwise unwelcome 17 cent issue in order that one stamp will suffice for postage and the registry fee. There are possibilities, at any rate.—Hartford Courant.

WHAT DO YOU NEED IN 20TH CENTURY MEXICO?
Metropolitan Stamp Co., 7 W. 42nd St., N. Y. C.

READY SOON.

An overnight air mail service between New York and Chicago for the exclusive handling of the mail of those two cities was announced by Postmaster General New today. Full details of the plan of the Post Office Department were made public in a speech by Second Assistant Postmaster General Henderson, delivered at a luncheon before the New York State Chamber of Commerce, New York City.

The new service will be placed in operation June 1 or before. Planes will leave either city at 9.30 each night scheduled for arrival at the other by 5.30 the following morning in time for the first mail delivery.

Already, the intervening country, including the rough Appalachian Highlands, is being spangled with high-powered beacons to guide the pilots in the night and to mark the location of nearby emergency landing fields.

This service will be auxiliary to the present transcontinental line, planes of which leave New York City at 10.00 A. M. daily for the western coast and arrive from the West each evening.

The Postmaster General pointed out today that the new fast service is being established in the belief that over-night communication between America's two greatest cities is something desired and something needed. With 10,000,000 people within striking distance of the city of New York and almost half that number in or near Chicago, it is believed that air mail traffic will prove sufficiently heavy to warrant the effort being made and to support the service. Postage will be 8 cents each way for ordinary mail.

Flying between New York and Chicago was characterized by the Postmaster General as the most hazardous in the country. While the Rockies and Sierras of the west are more rugged, they have large treeless areas upon which an aviator might make a safe emergency landing. The Alleghenies on the other hand are covered with trees and an aviator, especially in the darkness of night, would find it extremely difficult to land anywhere but on one of the emergency landing fields which are located about 18 miles apart.

The tentative schedule provides for three stops—at Bellefonte, Pa., and Cleveland and Bryan, Ohio. The stop at Cleveland will be made to change planes and the other two for re-fueling.

NO STAMPS FOR REMITTANCES

With the advent of stamps with fractional values their use for remittances will be regarded with more disfavor than ever before. We urge our subscribers to use some other form of remittance in their correspondence with dealers. We must decline remittances in postage stamps and our correspondents will be governed accordingly.

EDITORIAL.

From a Washington correspondent we have received the following statement from the post office department relative to the demand for the new one and one-half cent issues. Our friend says: "This news will probably be circulated some time before you can use it, as it was released March 13th, but I send it anyway." The circular reads: "With less than half of the country heard from, the Post Office Department already has received requests for 1,400,000,000 of the new 1½ cent stamps designed for use on third class mail under the increased postage rates authorized by Congress, it was announced by Postmaster General New today. Since the new rates go into effect April 15, and many advertising firms throughout the country have on hand large numbers of the old 1-cent stamps, some of which are already affixed to mail prepared for mailing after the effective date of the new rate, the department is preparing to issue a new ½ cent stamp which may be used with the 1 cent stamp to supply sufficient postage. The same situation applies to the 1 cent stamped envelope. It is a physical impossibility to issue a sufficient number of 1½ cent stamped envelopes before April 15 to supply the demand. The proposed ½ cent stamp therefore will meet an emergency situation by being affixed to the 1 cent stamped envelopes, making them mailable under the new rates. The first issue of the 1½ cent stamp will be off the press Tuesday, March 17. It bears a portrait of President Harding and is printed in sepia brown, the same color as that used on the present 4 cent Martha Washington stamp."

The impending batch of new issues is further proof that progress is in the saddle and riding hard; and naturally philately cannot escape the effects of expansion, the order of the day. The conservative collector whose mind dwells upon general philately in the day, when the issues of the world numbered only as many as those of a few countries today should accept the new conditions heartily and adjust his view to appreciate the broader aspect of the present. The "complications" that some of the old collectors bewail nowadays are not unsurmountable and even the general collector at heart may like "all stamps" and collect only such countries and continents as his preference elects. If, as a critic says, the "schools of new stamps" contributes to his annoyance, let him gather the wheat variously and reject what does not appeal to him.

Writing from Memphis, Tennessee, Mr. Thos. C. E. Hunter says: "March 1, 1925, the new tax for State Revenue on tobacco went into effect in Tennessee and I enclose two stamps for your information. The tax is based on the rate of ten and two-tenths per cent. of the selling price, purchasers paying 11 cents for a 10 cent cigar and the dealer pays the 2/10." Mr. Hunter says that as he sees it, the tax is very unpopular. The stamps are lithographed in blue and have as central design the seal of the state of Tennessee, speaking of the five cent denomination and the complementary 2/10 cents. The five cent stamp is flanked on either side by a narrow rectangular label containing "Cents-5-Cents" making an oblong label.

From Mr. R. A. Kremers, Habana, Cuba, we have received a list of stamps of Cuba offered for sale by a bank in Cuba, totalling 8,709,325, exclusive of 6,591 revenue stamps of Spain. Mr. Kremers writes: "The pink list enclosed was handed me by the president of the 'junta liquidadora' (liquidation committee) of the defunct 'Banco Espanol de la Isla de Cuba.' It is a list of the stamps they hold from the time of the Spanish regimé here. I have appended catalogue and type numbers. They came into the possession of the stamps here in this wise: During the Spanish rule here, the Banco Espanol was the official depositary for the Spanish post office here; and when the Spaniards were driven out in 1898, the stamps were left behind. Now the liquidating committee is trying to wind up the affairs of the defunct bank and asking for bids on the lot. The bank or somebody in the bank has been selling these stamps for years and I doubt if they have any great value. From what I have seen of them, several big boxes full, they are very badly centered, as a rule, and some of the sheets are stuck together. I have the whole lot figured as follows: total face value (1 peso=1 dollar) $271,543.59. Total catalogue value, 1925, is $631,627.24." Bids are asked for the lot. These stamps are the second Alfonso type and through the set but of the peso values, for instance, there are only 194 of the 2 and 900 of the 5 pesos. Also, there are a few of the newspaper stamps of 1896. While this lot of remainders is a relatively huge one, yet it would be swallowed by the market and leave only a little suggestion of fullness for a short time. We do not suppose that very few collectors know the power of absorption of the stamp market. The Philippine remainders of the 1898 issue were sent in vast quantities for sale in this country when our soldiers were there and while at times, weakness developed in the wholesale prices in consequence of great increase in the visible supply, it was not long before only a few ripples remained to show where the stamps sunk below the surface. Since that time, the elasticity of the market has been proved at different times under unfavorable conditions until now the belief prevails in the best informed places that no lot is too large for "deglutination."

Several readers have sent in covers that were received from Bermuda without any indication that they were "flown." The circumstance is readily understood in view of another notice that the department issued to the effect that the "trip of the Los Angeles has been definitely postponed." The expectation that the Los Angeles was to take the air for Bermuda, "about March 16" has been

Mr. Charles K. B. Nevin, Boston, sends le following clipping that is new to us d gives about the best line of scrambled iformation imaginable: "Isn't a philelist a feller who reads the bumps on ur dome? I should say not. You're linking of a psychologer. A philatelist a native of Philadelphia."

A collector who had sent in his stamps be sold at auction recently telegraphed e auctioneer that his home had been rned and that he had lost everything, e insurance having lapsed. It was rtunate, no doubt, that the stamps were t at home but when the auction man as notified of the calamity, by the surrer, he sent post haste a check for five ndred dollars. Of course, the auctionr is secured but the point is that as a ick asset a stamp collection cannot be nored. It is a source of satisfaction r the collector who pays his money for amps to find that even though he does t take into consideration, their value in rd cash, they are always merchantable d in a degree that we hope will expand the years run on.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

312 Walnut St., S. E. Mplis., Minn.

It is contrary to postal regulations to traffic in o.g. precanceled stamps. In the past there has been considerable laxity on the part of post office employees and permit holders to adhere to the provisions forbidding the sale to collectors At present there is a marked tendency of tightening up in respect to this condition, which is encouraging. The harmful effects of such traffic upon the hobby has already been severely felt and the quicker dealers and collectors of precancels see the folly of it, the better for their own interests. Some short-sighted persons, sensing only the immediate financial returns have worked every "string" to secure o.g. precancels. Only recently a prominent specialist of the precancels of one of our mid-west states advised us that he was giving up his collection because of such tactics spoiling the popularity of his chosen field. Numerous others have let us know that they were letting this state severely alone for this same reason. In order that there be no misunderstanding we must let it be known that the state under discussion is "that in which the tall corn grows."

Precancel Ethics have established themselves. Still a few persist in ignoring them. They refuse to seriously consider rules laid down for the best interests of the hobby. That condition is natural enough but still must be faced with regret. We hope that these few offenders will soon clearly see their parasitical status and mend their ways. Then they will be boosting the game instead of sapping its strength.

Air mail stamps may be used on Parcel Post matter. Therefore they are frequently precanceled. The latest variety of the new series which has been reported is the 8 cent, La Crosse, Wis. Rev. H. Koester has advised us that he received such an item, canceled with the regular electroplate, on an Xmas parcel.

Two instances of recent precancellation of the 75 cent Parcel Post stamps have been brought to our attention by Mr. S. Hyman. Mr. Hyman submits this value from both Brockton, Mass., and Tyrone, Pa., handstamped in styles similar to U-51.

Two new items from Texas have been shown us by Mr. Jack Isom, of Houston Heights. The 5 cent new series from Winton, Texas, bears a fancy handstamped overprint in two lines of script without bars. It is quite an unusual style. The 10 cent Special, from Waco, bears a one line precancellation of thin caps between lines. It likewise is handstamped.

Caldwell, Idaho, seems to have a new plate of the U-10 style as the varieties now emanating from that office differ from former emissions in the same style of type. The letters are slightly heavier, the bars 12 mm (instead of 13 mm) apart and no comma appears after "Caldwell."

Texarkana, Ark., precancels have been, in the past, very difficult to read. Now the matter has been simplified, for this office has just received a U-10 electro plate. We have the 9 cent, old issue, and 2, 4, 5, 10 of the new.

Flint, Michigan, has finally secured an electroplate, after running through half a dozen various styles of handstamps. The "electro" is similar to U-10.

Carthage, Mo., is still another city which is now making use of the U-10 electro. The handstamped productions have been poorly executed, it being barely possible to identify them, and we are glad that they are to cease.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

U. S. EXHIBIT AT N. Y. EXPOSITION.

Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman, M.C., advises us that the United States will have a display at the New York Exposition of which philatelists will be especially proud. Postmaster General Harry S. New is the source of the information, which is a sufficient guarantee that the Post Office Department will make a very important exhibit. The Postmaster General gave consideration to sending a U. S. exhibit to Paris, but was prevented owing to the labor necessary in preparing the large number of new stamp values necessitated by the recently enacted postal legislation.

FIRST DAY COVERS
Harding 1½c Brown

Most collectors add first day covers to their collection, for these little historical items here and there always add to its interest and value. The first day 1c Philadelphia covers, which I offered not so far back at 25c each, are now selling at a couple of dollars a piece. The 6c, which could be purchased around $1.00, now brings $10.00.

I will be pleased to furnish the new 1½c stamp, used on day of issue from Washington, perf. 11, perf. 10, and from the coil, that is, 3 varieties along with a block of the perf. 11 flat plate, a block of the perf. 10 rotary plate and a strip of four of the coils, all for a $1.00 bill.

To those interested, can also furnish a 2c black Harding used from Washington on day of issue, perf. 11, perf. 10 and imperf.—the three for a $1.00 bill.

Can also furnish a good number of the other first day covers.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the address of correspondents.

New 1½c Harding

Because of the recent Postal Bill, as well as other acts of Congress authorizing new issues of stamps, there has resulted an activity in Washington, philatelicly, that has not been equaled in many years. The 1½c stamp for use under the new rate as outlined in this column last week will be placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency in Washington on Thursday, March 19th, and from that time on, distributions will be made throughout the country just as fast as the stock can be turned out by the Bureau.

The new stamp will have a portrait of Harding, similar to the portrait used on the recent 2c black, but will be printed in the sepia brown of the current 4c. No change is contemplated in the color of the 4c in view of the fact that they believe the portrait of Martha Washington will be so different from the protrait of Harding that they may be readily told at a glance.

The stamp on the first day will appear from the flat plate, perforated 11, from the rotary press perforated 10, and in sidewise coils imperf. x perf. 11. There is no doubt that the vertical coil will follow in short order.

The new 1½c envelope will be printed in the same color, and will show a portrait of Washington.

New ½c Stamp, Nathan Hale

The department also officially announced under date of March 10th that a new ½c was being prepared, and this will bear a portrait of Nathan Hale. In talking over the long distance phone with Washington on March 18th, I learned that the color of this stamp has not been decided upon, but would be decided on this day. There are so few distinctive colors in comparison with the number of stamps, that they really have a difficult time in making a satisfactory decision.

New Special Delivery Stamps

Two new Special Delivery stamps described last week have now been designed and the 15c, which will be printed in the orange color of the current 6c, will be a reproduction of the prevailing 10c Special Delivery. This will be used on parcel post packages up to two pounds. Larger packages will require a 20c stamp, and while the color for this has not been decided upon, they have completed the design, which shows a parcel post motor van in front of the Washington City Post Office, showing a chauffeur in front and letter carrier in the back. The new "special handling" stamp where the sender desires the package to have the same handling and transportation as first-class mail will be similar to the parcel post Postage Dues and will show a large figure in the center.

Other Washington News

I am advised that Washington is still in hopes of placing the new rotaries on sale around April 1st, the 4c and 6c already having been printed and distributed with the precancellation. The new Lexington-Concord series will be ready around April 15th and the Norse-American around May 1st.

The general press have all been carrying extensive notices regarding the new stamps, and I wish to thank many correspondents for their interesting clippings, among the correspondents being Messrs. H. W. Porter, Erwin Strasser, J. William Harmon, J. C. Morgan, Charles E. Carman, William Henry and others.

ALBANIA.—After its Red Cross flirtation, Albania is now involved in an air mail intrigue. As a result of negotiations between the German Aero Lloyd and the "Adria" Aero Lloyd, a service has been instituted for the alleged benefit of Albanian residents by which passengers and mails will be flown from or to Tirano. In this connection a special series of adhesive stamps is being placed on issue, comprising seven denominations, transverse oblong in format, with a picture of an aeroplane in flight and an eagle on the wing over the town and a Curacao.—The Nederlandsch Maandblad voor Philatelie gives the following totals of the 1923 Jubilee stamps sold at the post offices:—5c, 67,468; 7½c, 66,422; 10c, 49,219; 20c, 60,399; 1f, 7,045; 2f 50c, 4,482; 5f, 4,002. The balance of the stocks on hand have been burned.—Stamp Collecting.

Germany.—A new series of three stamps, 1, 2 and 3 marks, will appear next month, according to the Aero Philatelic Club's Bulletin, with a picture of the "ZR III" (now known as the "Los Angeles") on her journey to America.—Stamp Collecting.

Honduras.—Mr. Emil J. Rall calls our attention to the 20c yellow brown of the 1924 issue which is now being used for official purposes with the surcharge "Oficial" in black diagonally.

Hong Kong.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent us copies of the 50c black on emerald, script watermarked, which has recently been issued.

Northern Rhodesia.—It will be seen from the following notice in the Northern Rhodesia Government Gazette (Livingstone, Thursday, January 15, 1925) that the new series tabulated in these columns last month is due for issue on April 1st:—"Department of Posts and Telegraphs. Postal Notice No. 2, of 1925. Postage Stamps—New Issue.

It is hereby notified for public information that the new issue of postage stamps will be on sale at all Post Offices on April 1st next.

Stamps of the present issue will be valid for postal and revenue purposes until September 30, 1925.

Public attention is especially drawn to the fact that mail matter posted after September 30th which bears stamps of the old issue will be surcharged.

The new issue consists of stamps and embossed stationery of the following denominations:—Stamps: ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 8d, 10d, 1s, 2s, 2s6d, 5s, 7s6d, 10s, 20s. Post Cards: Embossed with 1d and 1½d stamps. Embossed Envelopes: Court and Commercial, embossed with 2d stamp. Registered Envelopes: Small and Foolscap, embossed with 4d stamp.

(Sgd.) H. A. Baldock,
Postmaster General.

Livingstone, January 8 ,1925."

Our Special Correspondent, Mr. H. M. Veale, to whom we are indebted for the foregoing, says that the 2½d value is done away with, while no 1s6d denomination is to be issued as stamps are not put on telegraph forms in this territory. —Stamp Collecting.

Persia.—This week's consignment from Ipswich includes a 3 krans value in the portrait type first mentioned April 5, 1924. Notwithstanding what is said about a so-called ruler who has been absent from his country for two years, it is a handsome stamp. Portrait of Ahmed Shah, designed by H. Cheffer, engraved and recess-printed by Messrs. J. Enschede & Sons, Haarlem, Holland, Perf. 11½—3kr brown (portrait) and violet. —Stamp Collecting.

Russia.—Our special correspondent, Mr. Serge Kazakoff, sends us a new value in the Peasant's head (small format) type, viz.: No wmk., Perf. 12, 15 kop pale yellow. The colour is so pale that the design is hardly discernible. Mr. Kazakoff also reports:—Wmk. Greek border and flower, Perf., 2 roubles green and rose. This replacing the unwatermarked stamp of that denomination.—Stamp Collecting.

Siam.—Regarding the new series of stamps for this country Mr. Frederick D. Markee forwards the following information that he has received, "It (the Air Mail set) was actually issued the 1st of January of this year, being H.M. the King's birthday, there being four values in the series, 3, 5, 15, 25stgs. The picture is that of the mythical bird 'Kruta' in the act of flying, the same bird used to appear on the stamps of the year 1910, carrying the circular frame in which contains the portrait of the late King Chulalongkoru".

Switzerland.—Mr. Arthur V. Lynch reports the appearance of the following new issues: 30c blue on buff granite paper, type of A28; 70c purple and buff, type of A25.

It will sist of three values, 1c, 2c and 5c, and will be issued probably about April h, the anniversary of the Battle of LEXINGTON-CONCORD.

What could be more interesting than a nice first day cover of the new XINGTON-CONCORD series, addressed to you and postmarked "Washing-, D. C." on the day of issue, the first day that the new stamps are used?

First day cover with one each of LEXINGTON-CONCORD stamps, and o one each of the new stamps unused, mailed to you on day of issue, for y 50c. Same with blocks of four instead of single stamps, $1.25.

Four first day covers, containing (1) complete set, (2) pair of 1c, (3) gle 2c, and (4) single 5c, for only $1.00.

Additional covers at 20c per cover plus face value of stamps thereon.

It is expected that the 4c, 5c and 10c rotary press (perforated 10) will t be placed on sale at the same time. First day covers of these will be plied at 15c per cover plus face value of stamps.

Some time during May, probably, the new NORSE-AMERICAN stamps, a and a 5c, will be issued. Prices for NORSE-AMERICAN first day covers l be same as LEXINGTON-CONCORD: set on cover and set unused, mailed day of issue, for 50c; same in blocks of four for $1.25; additional covers at each plus face value of stamps.

Purchasers of first day covers will be supplied with additional unused cop- of any of the new stamps, in small quantities, at face value.

OUR REVIEW.

The second edition of "The Canadian canceled Postage Stamp Catalogue" Frank S. Thompson, member of the val Philatelic Society, London, has n issued and it is a carefully compiled lication that accentuates the merits of first edition and brings its subject n to date. The general issues of the adian precanceled stamps are listed m first to last and the city overprint- s are in orderly sequence. The first adian precanceled stamps were used he Ottawa post office, in 1888; and we te: "Complete sheets and half-sheets the precanceled stamps were sold to ns of standing and a record of each kept. When the mail prepaid by the canceled stamps was presented at t office, the record was referred to, ght and postage on one of the articles cked, and the mail promptly des- hed to its destination without the essity of canceling stamps or weigh- each individual package." These eral issues were utilized until 1903, en the present method of printing m electrotype plates at Ottawa was alled. The locally printed precanceled nps, while admittedly of interest, are listed in view of the fact that the of them was not authorized officially sanctioned. As a consequence of this rimination, the stamps that are in- led have substantial claims for recog- ion. In the "Introduction" a really plete, if concise, history of precancel- on in Canada is given.

Roughly, the general issues were over- ted with bars or lines, with no in- ition of the office of mailing while the r city issues are overprinted with the ne of mailing office. The cuts are ltiful and illustrate the different styles precancellation. All of the stamps en to be priced and we commend the osition of the appraiser to keep the res equitable; and so, the catalogue a a practical value that is out-standing. r 1,700 of the precanceled stamps are sd, making a good collecting range, and of this number 300 stamps are of the first or general issues. The Canadian Precancelled Postage Stamp Catalogue: 36 pages, Price fifty cents, postpaid: Philatelic Publishing Company, 374 Sackville Street, Winnipeg, Canada.

THE MELVILLE DINNER.

On February 25, Fred J. Melville of London had a birthday and the five and twenty years of his work for philately was celebrated at the Holborn Restaurant, where more than a hundred philatelists gathered, representing not only the great metropolis, but distant points such as Manchester, Ipswich and Brighton. Mr. Melville was presented with a gold cigarette case containing a check for a substantial amount, and an album containing the names of world-wide friends. His mother, Mrs. T. J. Melville, well known in the paths over which her son has journeyed, was given a ring and also a check. Capt. Oldfield, F.R.P.S.L., was in the chair and the feasting was accompanied with toasting. Mr. Melville made a characteristic address which was greeted with plaudits. Musical numbers enlivened the program. There were many expressions of regret from enforced absentees.

THE "CONNOISSEUR" STOCK

WORLD-WIDE IN SCOPE Price $100.00 QUALITY-BILT IN CHARACTER

Stamp dealing as a part time occupation is interesting, pleasant, and for those who pursue it intelligently—highly profitable. Many are regularly adding from $10 to $25 per week to their incomes by successfully conducting a small stamp business in their spare time. As in any other commercial enterprise, the best results cannot be obtained without an adequate investment; and yet, too much capital at the disposal of the beginner, if not wisely expended, might prove a greater evil than good. With this in mind, and knowing thoroughly the needs and requirements of the average small dealer, we have been able to construct and assemble the "Connoisseur" stock. It contains the cheaper and medium-priced stamps of every continent and almost every country in the world, especially selected for their quick-selling propensities and for their popularity among the less advanced collectors.

The stock is being sold on a very nominal profit, at almost 1-10th of catalogue. Why? Because this one sale means little or nothing to us compared with the future business and patronage from each satisfied purchaser. And this statement is made with our absolute guarantee that if you are not well pleased with the Connoisseur stock from every angle, your money will be fully and promptly refunded without question.

TACOMA CELEBRATES.

The annual banquet of the Tacoma Philatelic Society was held at the Olympus Inn, Tacoma, March 5, and we are indebted to Cecil F. Blogg for program just at hand. The menu was characteristic of a philatelic dinner in that all the items were given a philatelic description. The toastmaster was Clyde Brill. The welcome to visitors was given by R. R. Thiele and responded to by Pres. Frederich of the Washington State Philatelic Society. Other responses to toasts were made by H. P. Davidson, Cecil F. Blogg, E. J. Weeks, Eugene Church, A. Nehammer and Donald Turnbull.

For MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

BARBADOS.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

In approving the design for the new Postage & Revenue stamps sent out by the Crown Agents in June, 1924, the Colonial Government decided to limit the denominations for dual postal and fiscal use, to those of the small Seal series of 1921 (¼d to 3s), and to have the higher values, 5s to £100, for fiscal use only, produced as heretofore from embossed dies. A recommendation made by the postal authorities, but in which the Government did not concur, was that the series be extended to include the 5s denomination, for use on heavy parcels to Canada and the U. S. A., on which the rate is 6d per pound, and the limit of weight 11 pounds. The new stamps had not reached Bridgetown at the end of February, but were expected in time for issue about 1st April, 1925.

Between April 1st and June 22nd, 1916, large quantities of all values (except ¼d and ½d) of the King's Head and Seal series of 1912 postage stamps, were overprinted locally "Revenue" (the 2½d was additionally surcharged "One Penny"), pending receipt of definite fiscal stamps from London.

The overprinting was done in various colors (black, violet, blue, red-brown, purple, gold and silver), and in addition, there were two settings of the word "Revenue"—(a) in small type, 13½ mm., long, and with a period after the word, and (b) in larger type, measuring 16½ mm. in length, and without the period. The former was printed across the center of the stamp, except that on the 4d error (with silver and gold overprint, of which one sheet is known) it appears at the top. The 16½ mm. overprint invariably was at the top of the stamp.

The London prepared fiscal stamps were issued June 22nd, 1916, and in addition to the lower values, included the high duties of 5s, 10s, £1 and £5.

Oddly, the 1d fiscal stamp was printed from the key and duty plates of the 1d King's Head and Seal, postage stamp of 1912 series, in double fugitive lilac (instead of red), on chalk surfaced paper, watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA, and overprinted, in black caps, across the center, "REVENUE". As before, the stamps were in sheets of 120, 2 panes of 60 each, with a single marginal line surrounding each pane, and the keyplate number 1 twice in the upper and lower margins, over and under the 2nd and 5th stamps of the left and right panes, respectively.

The use of these postage key and duty plates of the 1d 1912 series, to produce the 1d fiscal stamp, explains the existence of these plates in 1917 for manufacturing the 1d red War Tax stamp (issued Oct. 10, 1917). It had been expected that the 1d of the large Seal series (1916), would be overprinted "War Tax," but as the Postal Surtax Act, 1917, provided (section 4) that the money raised by this surtax (in force from Oct. 15, 1917 to Mar. 31, 1920, inclusive) should be credited to a special war account, a stamp was desired that might be easily and quickly distinguished from the 1d postage stamp, especially since the two stamps could not be used interchangeably. It was only after March 31, 1920, that the 1d War Tax stamp was sanctioned for ordinary postal use.

However, only the 1d of the London prepared fiscal series was printed from 1912 postage plates, as the others, in larger size (32x32 mm), were embossed from stock dies, and overprinted in black, across the center, "Barbados", Specimens of the 3d and 6d before the writer, are printed in pale blue (colorless embossing), in a simple design in which the Imperial Crown is the central feature. The value ("Three Pence" or "Six Pence") is in two lines of caps above the Crown, and scroll ornamentation completes the design, which is circular (27 mm) for the 3d, and oval on end (24x27 mm) for the 6d. Like the 1d these at first were printed on multiple Crown and Roman CA watermarked paper, but since 1921, on script CA.

The embossed fiscal stamps appear to have been printed not by De La Rue & Co. Ltd., manufacturers of the 1d Revenue stamp, but rather by Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co., Ltd., New Malden, Surrey, as the perforation is their 12, single line (not D. L. R.'s 14), and the surface of the paper is shiny and calendared. The Child Welfare stamps of Jamaica, printed by Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co. Ltd., and issued Nov. 1, 1923, show these same peculiarities.

1918	4475.12.7
1919	6958.15.5
1920	8878. 4.9
1921	4005. 7.7
1922	3130. 0.9

Of the £4475.12.7 of fiscal stamps sold in 1918, £2800.0.0 was for stamps above 5s in denomination.

April 1, 1916.—King George and Seal Postage series (1912) typographically printed by De La Rue & Co., London, in three types (¼d to 6d in conventional size, and 1s to 3s in large receipt size). Watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA. Comb perforated 14. Overprinted locally (in various colors). "Revenue"—(a) small type, 13½mm, with period. (b) larger type, 16½ mm, without period.

2½d additionally surcharged "One Penny."

(a) in navy blue (2 sheets known).
(b) in black.

Colonial Postmaster Retires.

After 49 years of service, Mr. H. W. Collymore, I. S. O., Colonial Postmaster of Barbados, retired 9th February, 1925, on pension, having reached the compulsory retiring age of 65 years. Mr. Collymore started in the Post Office in 1876 as a supernumerary (where he served for two years), and ended his career as head of the same Department. From 1878 to 1918 he was in the Colonial Secretary's Office for over 20 years as Chief Clerk. In 1918 he was appointed Colonial Postmaster (succeeding Mr. H. W. Bailey), receiving the I. S. O. shortly after. Mr. H. H. Heath is at present acting as Colonial Postmaster, in which position it is expected he will shortly be confirmed.

Of Mr. Collymore, the Barbados Reporter of 7th February, 1925, says:—

"Mr. Collymore's youthful and robust appearance does not indicate that physically he has reached the age of incapacity for further service, while as regards his mental powers, we may say without fear of contradiction that they were never more vigorous and capable than at present. Yet the provisions of our "Sapient" Pension Law must be complied with, and so it happens that through compulsory retirement the Government loses, in the prime of his life, a servant of long and valuable experience, and the public an old friend."

DETROIT HAS A BANQUET.

By Herman W. Boers.

The eleventh annual banquet of the Michigan Stamp Club of Detroit was held at Elks' Temple, Saturday evening, March 21st, and it was a big success. No fewer than forty-seven members responded to the call for the celebration. Dealers and collectors were represented in the gathering, and all had a good time. A substantial menu was provided, after which the toastmaster of the evening, President Hoskins, outlined the program.

The newly elected president of the Club, Charles Brisley, was called upon as the first speaker and he gave an excellent address on various matters pertaining to the welfare of the Club during the coming year. Mr. Brisley gave up collecting several years ago and disposed of his stamps, with the intention of retiring from the philatelic field, but the hobby got a second hold upon him and he is again a full-fledged philatelist, only to find that it is costing him more to complete a collection of Canada than before.

Secretary William Markert enthused the members with the high ideal of making the Club a bigger and better one and the members will co-operate with him in his endeavor. Treasurer Robert O. Meyer, re-elected for a number of terms, expressed the hope that the treasury would flourish. William F. Fratcher, Karl Koslowski, Secretary Kaufmann and Charles H. Holden contributed to the program. Mr. Koslowski showed the new 1½c Harding in regular, flat and coil issues all on cover, out of Washington, March 19th. He also exhibited his collection of 3c red 1863, also a small specialized collection of 2c Columbians.

Postmaster Charles Kellogg was the guest of honor and made a very interesting address, expressing his gratification at being present and promising to do whatever he could to promote the interests of the local society and the individual members. He was impressed with the great field that philately presented and with the educational and investment features of the hobby. He was made an honorary member of the society and responded with a word of acceptance.

A thirty-minute recess was taken for the exchanging, buying and selling of stamps, and this was followed by a musical program. The festivities were brought to a close about 11.30 P.M., the committee in charge having given the attendants an event that will long be remembered.

The new officers for 1925 are as follows: President, Charles Brisley; Vice President, Clarence Maher; Secretary, William Markert; Treasurer, Robert O. Meyer; Board of Trustees, Dr. H. P. Hoskins, H. J. Kaufmann, F. F. Bott; Publicity Manager, Herman W. Boers. William Fratcher, Frank Hadley, John Hubel, Robert Meier, Karl Koslowski and A. Hendershot represented the dealers, who helped to make the banquet a success.

Mr. Holden's contribution consisted of a poetical feature entitled "Back to the Fold." A handsome menu card was furnished each attendant.

WHEN answering an advertisemen mention seeing it in MEKEEL'S

"Sales Won't Keep Up Unless You Keep Up Stock"

Reading that little motto on the back of an advertising card in a drug store caused us some reflection. For months we have worked to keep retail sales of United States earlies at an average of $1,000.00 a week. For months at a time it proved a simple matter, but then sales would slump by half. Perhaps, that card suggested, it isn't that collectors sometimes tire of buying good things (for there are always a dozen waiting for every fine thing that turns up), but rather our stock is not large enough. We must buy more instead of trying to sell more. No use saying auction prices are too high, because really auction prices merely show what collectors are willing to offer voluntarily and not by any means what a good salesman could induce them to buy.

The net result of this line of thought has been a 50% increased investment in our line of 19th century classics. United States, British North America, Holland, France, Italian States, etc. Especially have we looked for and bought fine things in early U. S. For instance, if one wanted the 1851 issue complete with red town cancellations, or even with the transatlantic rate of "19" in red, we have them. We have strengthened our New Yorks by the dozen, 47's by scores, 1851's, particularly 1c, 3c and 10c, almost by hundreds; have added a fine lot of 5c '57 Type I in Brick-red, Indian-red and Lake-brown in singles, pairs and strips, both on and off cover; have improved our stock of 1867 grilles by the addition of some very pretty items; have bolstered up the '69's with a few nice 90c, some mint copies from 1c to 30c, with some unhinged o. g. pairs to the 12c; some exceptionally nice lots of cancellations on the banknotes, which causes us to reflect fondly on some brilliant red cancellations on deep purple 24s; and have even gone so far as to try to balance our stock of early Bureau printings with blocks, strips, plate numbers, etc.

We hope to build up and maintain the best stock of 19th century U. S. stamps in the world, and solicit offerings of fine single items, specialized collections, lots of old correspondence and accumulations. Set your own price, and if you wish returns within 48 hours, please mention it.

Your Want List of 19th Cent. U. S. Will Have Our Real Attention

J. O. MOORE, Inc., Hammondsport, N. Y

Member American Stamp Dealers' Ass'n.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Here's where the writer of the Forum asks pardon for a couple of errors in a former number, and makes these corrections to issue of Mar. 16th. First, I said a list of every town in the U. S., this should read of every Post Office in the U. S. Second I copied the address of the vendor of the P. O. Guide from an old Guide, the correct address being "Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.," which makes this sound more like an ad for the P. O. folks than ever. Never mind, it is a good book, and you can't lose by getting one.

Two letters in re our proposed "Collector's Compendium" on stamps of U. S. A. First man says he is willing to put his name down as No. 1, subscriber to series of books as suggested, same to not cost over $50.00. How's that? And he is a man I have never heard from before, he just knows this a good idea. Right. Second is from a man who has systematically kept all the notes on things he was interested in so that he can get at them for use, for many years. He has laid out 22 groups for classification in some such treatise on our own stamps. They range from Postage to Tax Paids, and Red Cross. Terrible big field, isn't it? And it's going to require your support, financial and clerical. Are you game to help out? Think of the books it will make, then you won't have to ask your friends where can you find an article on this, that and the other, they will be right beside you. This sounds good, who wants to start it? "Somebody ought to". Art is long and time is fleeting. It will be a long, tough job. So was the getting up of the Scott Specialized catalog, yet the dog-eared copies lying round the homes testify to its being used a great deal, and so soon, folks are asking when will the next one appear?

Here's an odd postmark that came in on a cover with 1c American and 2c Vermilion on soft paper. It is in purple, with target attached, each hitting one of the stamps, and reading "Northport Camp Ground 1881 Aug 26 Me." Never heard of a Camp Ground cancellation before. It is a very pretty cover and is addressed to the wife of a minister in Maine.

Suppose a lot of you collectors are "First Trippers". This is a recent phase of collecting, brought onto us principally thro the carrying of the Airmail. Also it means the saving of "covers", a thing many never did till recently, and they now look back on the days when they gleefully tore off strips of 1c '51's, and the pretty 10c '51's from the California gold fields, and the northern mining gulches, ah, them were the days. I have been collecting the used stamps of Ireland ever since the first stamp appeared, in fact, that is what started me to collect them, got a copy dated day of issue, Feb. 17, 1922, this being just put in to show what influences a collector in collecting. Had I never seen this stamp, I would in all doubt never have started that collection. Whimsical, eh? Maybe you have done something in stamps just as unpremeditated, think it over, how did you begin to collect some odd fancy of yours? It is interesting to try to figure out some of our whys and wherefores.

Want to tell you of a real first trip, this one being entirely out of the ordinary, it happening way back in 1885 when the "First Trip" was unknown to us stamp collectors. On Oct. 1st at 7 a. m., 1885, the Special Delivery Service went into effect, the service applying to such offices as had that privilege, the stamp then reading, "At any Special Delivery Office" as you well know.

Mr. C. H. Willard, who has long collected Special Delivery stamps, showed me what is probably the first Special Delivery letter received at the Boston post office, it being marked in manuscript "—1—", as was the custom each day. This letter was posted at Ilion, N. Y., Sept. 30, 1885, and from a newspaper account which accompanies this cover, we find this letter left the Boston P. O. at exactly 7.02 a. m., or two minutes after the service began in the United States. This letter was delivered at an address near the corner of Boylston and Tremont Sts. at 7.15, the newspaper commenting

At noon of the first day, 22 "Specials" had been received, 6 being Boston "drops", rest from out of town. This is a 3c November, 1883, stamped envelope on brown paper, and is dated on front of cover by the receiving mark "1 Oct 1 '85 6 AM", while the reverse shows in same size circle "7 Oct 1 '85 7 AM". THE CLEVELAND CONCLAVE.

From W. Hamilton Barnum, president of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club and toastmaster of the anniversary banquet held at Cleveland on March 21st, we have received an account of the exercises that marked the celebration of the thirty-fifth year of the society. The meeting of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club on March 20th was attended by members, past members and non-resident members and was a session devoted wholly to reminiscences. A large suite at the Hotel Cleveland, including parlor, bed-rooms and baths was retained for the convenience of guests throughout Saturday and Sunday and make a pleasant and comfortable headquarters.

At noon on Saturday a luncheon was served for sixteen, including ten of the out-of-town guests; and appropriately enough, the table was near the orchestra, admittedly the best in Cleveland, which was led by Mr. Ivan Francisci, A. P. S. 7109, with Friedrich Janssen, A. P. S. 6002, at the piano. Later, Mr. Francisci entertained a philatelic coterie at a most artistic session that was thoroughly enjoyed by those who were fortunate enough to be invited to it.

The afternoon's exhibition was held in Assembly B of the hotel, from 2 until 6. The feature of the display was five volumes of the collection of Dr. Warren L. Babcock and the striking collections of France and the Italian states of Col. Spencer Cosby. Mr. MacLaren showed the most interesting covers, to the number of fifty, that he has obtained since the Detroit convention. Mr. John Thomas, Sharon, Pa., W. G. Saxton, Canton, Ohio, and Mr. C. E. Burckel, Cleveland, were represented by portions of their collections. The registration at the exhibit was above one hundred.

The banquet in the evening was the crowning event and put to blush all the previous anniversary dinners. The attendance of 58 included 21 guests from a distance, and among the visitors were P. M. Wolsieffer, president of the American Philatelic Society; Dr. Warren L. Babcock of Detroit; Isaiah Rudy, president of the Pittsburgh society; LeRoy C. Brown, Olean, N. Y.; Leslie A. Davenport, Toronto, Canada; Mr. Steeg and Mr. Lehman, Buffalo; Messrs. Thomas, Shaughnessy and Dunfrey of Sharon, Pa.; F. E. Farnham, Chicago; the Rubber City contingent, composed of Messrs. Hart, Cherry, Wolcott, Lt. Smith and brother, and Lovejoy, all of Akron, Ohio; Mr. Weaver, Attica, Ohio; Mr. Buzzard, Lorain, Ohio; Mr. Linn, Columbus, Ohio, and C. A. Vowinkle, Steubenville, Ohio. Charter members were represented by W. H. Schneider, No. 2; W. W. MacLaren, No. 4 and Oliver S. Hart, No. 6.

A triumph was scored by the issue of The Stamp Hinge, for the occasion only, that reported the banquet proceedings on the spot, as it were; and from it we learn that Mr. Barnum as toastmaster filled the eye but not the ears. He merely introduced the speaker and let him do the talking. Mr. MacLaren, as one of the old boys, made a response that was filled with charm and sentiment as well as truths that should be appreciated. Mr. Moses, as joining the groups of older and newer members, happily spoke for his class and his pointed phrases were relished by the audience. Christian Burckel, the spokesman of the younger generation, told of his interest in philately and its concerns in a telling manner.

P. M. Wolsieffer, Philadelphia, in a lively speech, touched off the enthusiasm of his hearers and as The Stamp Hinge says gave the "lie to the oft-repeated story that he is not a good after-dinner speaker." Dr. Warren L. Babcock regaled his auditors with his experiences and the opinion was that patience and intelligent perseverance in a philatelic way would not be denied, his superb collection being evidence to that belief.

The Stamp Hinge is a cleverly-conceived four-page paper that abounds with palpable hits, the victims being the Cleveland collectors. The advertisements have humorous turns and slants and the reading matter takes its cue from them, although there is serious attention given to club news. What must strike every reader of The Stamp Hinge as a novel and ingenious departure is the incorporation in it of a half-dozen photographs of members, who have grown gray in the service, as they were in the jaunty days of comparative youth. P. M.'s portrait certainly gets honorable mention. The following history of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club appears on the menu:

"Thirty-five years' existence, without a break, and every regular meeting held, is nc, if not a record, for any American an Club.

At the request of Mr. George J. Bailey, ereassembled in his office on old Wil- Avenue, just north of Euclid Avenue, te evening of March 19, 1890, a ile group of six collectors. Two of these died many years since, Frank G. Putz and Clyde Brobst. Four are still living, Geo. J. Bailey, Wm. H. Schneider, Chas. Kress, and W. Wallace MacLaren.

At the second meeting, one month later, the name Garfield-Perry was chosen —Garfield, on account of his picture then appearing on the five-cent stamp, having been taken from a photograph by J. F. Ryder, Cleveland's leading photographer at the time, also, the Garfield home was just a few miles east of Cleveland, at Mentor, Ohio—Perry, because the picture of him on the then current ninety-cent stamp, was from a photograph of his figure on the Perry Monument which then stood in the Public Square, now removed to Gordon Park. In Perry's case also, owing to his great naval victory at Put-in Bay, within sound of Cleveland, there was a local philatelic pride.

At that time, there were two advanced collectors residing in Cleveland, whose collections were among the best known—Mr. Geo. H. Worthington, and Mr. J. V. Painter. At an early meeting, each of these gentlemen were elected honorary members, and both took an active interest and assisted the Club in many ways until their death.

The Club grew rapidly, having over twenty members the first season. Meetings were held once a month, September to May, and were usually well attended. Very soon after its organization it was admitted as Branch No. 7 of the A. P. A., now the A. P. S.

Mr. Chas. Lathrop Pack, then a resident of Cleveland, was later elected an honorary member and though having left this city many years ago, has on frequent occasions shown his interest in the Club.

Many of those who united with the Club in its early days are still active, both as collectors and members. Among these are: W. H. Barnum, now President; Alvin Good, now Vice-President; W. W. MacLaren, now a Director; W. J. Brodie, O. S. Hart, Akron, Ohio (an associate member); W. A. Langdon, John Rust, Dr. T. Henry Tubman, W. H. Schneider, A. W. Weigel and Geo. W. Gender.

From monthly meetings, the number held has been increased from time to time until at present, and for several years past, they have been held weekly, the year round.

For seven years, the Club has furnished its own Club Room, which is now located in the Caxton Building, where meetings are held every Friday evening. The large attendance during recent months has taxed the present room to capacity, and new and larger quarters are being sought. Visitors are always welcome, and will nearly always find good entertainment and plenty of stamps on exhibit at all meetings."

EDITORIAL.

The newspapers ran stories of the first day's demand by philatelists for the new 1½ cent stamp that was placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency at Washington, on March 23rd. We read that $2,446 was spent for the stamp, adhesive and envelope, on that day, when about 150,000 pieces were sold. We quote: "The sales were to stamp collectors, who bought in blocks of six, twelve and even 100." Here we have presented a theme on which to base a dissertation on philatelic enthusiasm. The thought that thousands of collectors were so eager to have the new stamps that they went to the trouble of sending for them, in many cases, instead of waiting for them in the ordinary course of events is a stirring one. It is granted that first day use of the stamps entered into the calculations of some of the buyers but for all that the first day's sale was a great tribute to the philatelic spirit.

We bespeak for the Third Canadian Philatelic Exhibition to be held in Montreal, October 5 to 9, 1925, under the auspices of the St. Lawrence Stamp Collectors, the favorable consideration of our readers. A recent announcement, which shows the exhibition to be under influential patronage and experienced officership, gives full particulars as to the plans for the Exhibition and its scope, as shown by a scheme of the "Classes" under which entries may be made. There are two junior divisions. American exhibitors who have promised their support are Lathrop B. Pack, Alfred F. Lichtenstein and Charles J. Phillips. The secretary is T. M. Barrington, 616 Victoria Ave., Westmount, Quebec, Canada.

Here is a short and simple story by Mr. Karl Koslowski, Detroit, that has a brace of morals, one of which we emphasize: do likewise. Mr. Koslowski says: "While at the Washington convention we (the delegates to the A.P.S. meeting) inspected the governmental stamp collection in the Smithsonian Institute. Mr. Bartels joked me about the Latvia stamps not being complete as in the other government collection. Therefore I ask if a donation of the kind would be acceptable. It would be; and the collection is now complete. Since that time, I have been sent various bulletins and now the report for the year ending June 30, 1924, has come. Among the descriptions we read: 'The Philatelic Collection has been increased by 3,782 specimens, of which 3,703 were transferred from the Post Office Department, the remainder by Karl Koslowski, Detroit, Mich., Postage Stamps of Latvia, issued 1919-1921 and 3 specimens of unfinished paper currency with stamps printed on the backs (79 specimens) Exhibit 70531.' It occurs to me that if publicity is given to these circumstances many a collector may be induced to contribute to the National Stamp Collection."

We are informed that the International Philatelic Exposition will be opened at Paris, on April 30, 1925, with imposing ceremonies, as the success of the forthcoming event is assured. It is evident that Mons. Albert Coyette has proved to be a capable chairman of the committee on organization and that he has secured the co-operation of philatelists in different countries in promoting the enterprise. It is indicative of the importance attached to fostering the ambitions of the junior collector to find that four sections are assigned to collectors between the ages of ten and fifteen and between fifteen and twenty years. As has been published before, Mr. Eugene Klein of Philadelphia, is the American representative of the Exposition in America.

The Philatelic Magazine of London has issued a special American number, the first page of which is flanked with halftones of the five and ten cent of 1847, U. S. There is much to interest us in the issue in question and attention may be called to the clever stroke executed by the industrious and indefatigable Mr. Fred J. Melville in lecturing on stamps before a meeting recently of the Master Printers at Stationers' Hall. In the debate that followed Mr. Melville's remarks, he was congratulated by several speakers, and praise from these typographical artists is unction to the soul.

Here the reflection may be made that if anyone ever has deserved well of philatelists, it is this self-same Fred J. Melville; and it is good to know that stamp people in Great Britain, in particular, are not content to be recipients passively of the benefits that accrue in different and sometimes devious ways through the persistent publicity of philately, through Mr. Melville's efforts. In fact, the dinner given recently in honor of Mr. Melville at a London restaurant was attended by a real "concourse" of philatelists; the list was a long one and abounded in proud philatelic patronyms. On that evening the role that Mr. Melville had so often essayed, that of bounteous giver, was reversed and the Chairman of the evening, Captain H. R. Oldfield, F.R.P.S.L., presented Mr. Melville with an album containing the names of those who had subscribed to the fund, together with a gold cigarette case which contained a check for, delectable descriptive, "a substantial sum." Honors, sentimental and solid, were Mr. Melville's portion that memorable evening and though they were showered thickly on him, the guest of the night deserved them all.

The mail from Washington is replete with information concerning the new issues of our stamps, present and prospective, as a result of the postal changes, effective April 15, 1925. Correspondents who have kept us informed of the developments of recent weeks have our thanks and in some shape or in some way, most of the material that is received is used. As a rule, Mr. Ward has early notice of Washington stamp news and in consequence other notes on the same subjects are repetitions of the first announcements. For instance, the New York Times, of February 1, 1925, gave some particulars of the coming Norse-American stamps and we remarked on the celerity of Mr. Frank Crane in circulating the news. The first official printed notice of the issue was in Mr. Ward's Chronicle and it was through special departmental favor that Mr. Ward was enabled to broadcast the news some time before it was public property.

From a detailed price list of the new 1½ cent stamped envelopes just received, it is found that there are sixteen varieties of unprinted envelopes and wrappers and fifteen printed "special request" envelopes. Supplementing the reference the other week to the plan of the Philatelic Agency to sell stamped envelopes to patrons, Mr. Fred G. Floyd of Roslindale, Mass., sends a letter that he received from the Hon. W. Irving Glover, in which the Third Assistant Postmaster General says: "I recall very well that the department promised to carry these envelopes in stock for collectors, but as explained to you some time ago, the facilities were not available for this work. However, during the past few weeks steps have been taken to order envelopes of the various varieties on the official schedule and the delay in receiving same is due to the desire on the part of the department to obtain envelopes printed under the new contract bearing the 1925 watermark. The matter is receiving every attention at the present time and you will be advised within a few weeks as to when you and other collectors interested may order such quantities as you may desire."

It is necessary, evidently, that letters for Russia be addressed, "Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics" in order to secure delivery in that country. Correspondents with Russian connections have had their letters returned when sent to "Russia" and collectors here and there will remember that at one time, Colombian Republic would not accept mail that was addressed to Columbia, thereby proving that orthography was not to be ignored.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville 44, Mass.

U. S. Department Stamps

Several of my important clients are desirous of greatly expanding their collections of the Departmental stamps, and consequently I especially desire fine pieces, such as sheets, blocks, and even unused singles of the rarer varieties. Then, too, anything on the cover is wanted, if in nice shape. When we reach the "Specimen" sets, I want practically everything, and this includes all of the "Sepcimen" errors. Substantial prices will be paid for the rarer things and commensurate figures for the more common.

U. S. Coil Stamps

My recent advertisements have brought in a good number of requests for these interesting varieties, consequently my stock in certain places is becoming weak. I want to purchase all of the rare coils of 1902-03, the 10c of 1908 and the 3c of 1910, in pairs or better. I would like up to a coil of any of the other 1908 series except No. 348. Also want the 1910, Nos. 387 to 393 inclusive. When we reach the rotary issues, I can use up to a coil each of No. 449, Nos. 456 to 459.

U. S. Bureau Issues

In the Bureau issues of 1894 to 1895, I want mint blocks of all values from 5c up. Especially desire pairs or better of the part perforate 2c, 5c, 6c and 50c. Can use a mint 6c and 8c with revenue watermark. If in a pair or block, so much the better.

Want some blocks of the 50c, $1 and $2 Omaha and a pair of the 8c part perforated. In the 1901 series, I want a mint 2c and 4c inverted center. The St. Louis 2c part perf. is wanted in pairs or blocks. The 1908 blue papers of all denominations from 3c up are wanted in mint blocks.

In other words — what have you in fine U. S. to sell?

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the address of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States.

New 1½c Stamps

In accordance with schedule, the new 1½c stamps issued for use under the new Act of Congress, which goes into effect on April 15th next, were placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency in Washington on Thursday, March 19th. I wish to express appreciation to Messrs. H. W. Porter, C. J. West and Elmer Nelson for early sight of these varieties.

The adhesive stamp is printed in the brown shade of the current 4c, but the impressions from the rotary press are somewhat different, taking on a grayish tinge. They are the same shape and size as the current low values and bear the portrait of the late President Warren G. Harding, with the name Harding on a ribbon below the portrait. The balance of the stamp is made up to harmonize with the other denominations of the series.

The variety appeared perforated 11 from the flat plates being printed in sheets of 400 and then cut into post office panes of 100.

The variety was also issued from the rotary press in smaller size sheets, these stamps, however, being perforated 10.

The sidewise coil appeared in coils of 500, imperforated horizontally and perforated 11 vertically. In view of the large use of this denomination which more or less takes the place of the 1c stamp, we will no doubt see the endwise coil as well as the imperforated variety appear in due course.

The 1½c envelope was placed on sale at the same time and this is similar to our current series showing a portrait of Washington and is printed in brown. So far, I have only seen the variety on white but the Postal Bulletin of March 18th announces that these may be had on blue and manila as well. There are a number of sizes in low back, high back and extra quality paper, as well as window varieties.

Under date of March 13th, the Third Assistant Postmaster General advises that they are preparing to issue a 1½c newspaper wrapper, size 5½x12½. The design will be similar to that shown upon the envelopes.

New ½c Stamp

A notice under date of March 10th from the same official advises that the ½c stamp with Nathen Hale will be distributed in short order and I have advice from Washington under date of March 24th that a supply of this stamp is already on its way to the Pacific Coast. These are to be used with existing private and post office stocks of 1c stamps and stamped envelopes to meet the increased rates, and in combination with stamps of other denominations, to cover the required postage where fractional amounts are involved. I have not as yet been informed as to when this variety will be placed on sale in Washington, although it will no doubt be available previous to the time this information reaches our readers.

Special Handling Stamps

Last week I described the new 25c Special Handling stamp for use in connection with Parcel Post packages. The department feels that postal clerks will confuse this stamp with the Special Delivery variety, just as the writer had done, and under the circumstances calls attention to the fact that the Special Handling stamp requires packages to be handled and delivered with the same expeditious dispatch as first-class mail. This 25c charge will be collected in addition to the 2c service charge, regular 4th class postal rates all to be fully prepaid by stamps affixed. Such parcels should be prominently endorsed by the sender "Special Handling", preferably in the space immediately below the postage stamps and above the address.

Ceylon.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 10c pale green, 20c blue and 25c yellow and blue, all on script watermarked paper. Mr. Roberts adds that these are all printed in sheets of 240 from plates 7 and 12 combined. Plate 7 at the top and plate 12 at the bottom of the sheet. Plate 7 is Die 1 and plate 12 is Die 2.

China.—A new provisional has been received from Mr. R. Roberts. The 4c grey has been surcharged "3 Cts" with two vertical rows of native characters in carmine.

Grand Lebanon.—The Economist Stamp Co. and the Metropolitan Stamp Co. have sent to us copies of the new set of stamps issued on March 2nd last. The values, colors and subjects are: 10pa violet (Trees), 25pa black (Beyrout), 50pa green (Tripoli), 75pa brown (Beteddine), 1pi magenta (Baalbeck), 1pi 25 green (Mouktara), 1pi 50 red (Tyre), 2pi brown (Zahle), 2pi 50 blue (Baalbeck), 3pi brown (Deir el Hama), 5pi lliac (Saida), 10pi purple-brown (Beyrout), 25pi blue (Tripoli). Also these postage due stamps: 50pa brown on yellow (Sahr el Kelle), 1pi brown on rose (Beyrout), 2pi black on green (Beyrout), 3pi black on yellow (Delport), 5pi black on green (Baalbeck).

Hungary.—The Economist Stamp Co. call our attention to the 3kr orange brown, No. 350, which has been overprinted in three different values: "500", "1000", and "2000" with the word "Porto" just above and "Korona" below. The surcharge is in red.

New Zealand.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 1p Map type, 1p Universal type and the 2p yellow King George design, all on thick chalky surfaced paper. Perf. 14x15.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to now our rule regarding discontinances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the cond issue of each month. This eans that your subscription should renewed prior to expiration. The piration number can be ascertained consulting your wrapper. No free pies of the WEEKLY are sent out d this rule is as fixed as the laws the M. and P. Our older subribers understand our rule and the wer subscribers should get acainted with it.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A. H. Pike calls our attention to a recent inaccuracy in the WEEKLY. He writes that the J. B. Lyon Co. ceased publishing the Postal Guide in July, 1920. Since then the Guide with the eleven monthly issues has been published and printed by the Government Printing Office at Washington. The book of approximately 1000 pages sells for 75c and the eleven supplements 25c. Mr. Pike says that it represents a big "dollar's worth".

—We have before us the March number of the "Sudden Service Surcle". According to the editor, Paul P. Murray, it is "published spasmodically, but laconically" by the Fennell Stamp Co., Fullerton Bldg., St. Louis, Mo. The subscription rate is 35c for twelve numbers. A sample copy will doubtless be sent upon request and the reader can judge for himself the merits of this publication, which is something more pretentious than the ordinary house organ.

—We are indebted to Nathan L. Levy and Emille Mizrahi, both of Christobal. Canal Zone, for specimens of the new Canal Zone postage due stamps. We are advised by both that the set consists of the 1c, 2c and 10c denominations of the current Canal Zone set overprinted horizontally "Postage Due". These two lines are between the two words "Canal Zone". The 1c and 10c are surcharged in red and the 2c in blue.

—The Exchange Stamp Co. of Auburn, Calif., has two auction sales scheduled for the near future. One will be held upon April 10th and the second upon May 9th. A. F. Miller, the manager of this company, owns the Alberta Fruit Ranch. He is a member of the Collectors Club of New York, the A.P.S. and other stamp organizations.

—Barron's for March 16th contains an article "Governor Norman of the Bank of England". It is a striking story of a striking individuality. We should like to reprint the article in full but must content ourselves with referring to its salient feature. The writer referring to Montagu Collet Norman says of him:—"Occasionally he finds time to attend a little dinner party with King George, Rudyard Kipling or Mr. Baldwin. On these occasions he will take part in fierce debates on gardening, bee keeping, and foreign stamps—the latter in particular being waged over the royal table".

—Louis Tager, San Francisco, Calif., submits for our inspection an air-mail cover despatched from Rock Springs, Wyo., to San Francisco, Calif. It bears a very fine cancellation circular in shape, reading:—"Air Mail Field, Rock Spring, Wyo." with date of March 4, 9 A. M., 1925. It is interesting to note that the figure "4" is upside down. The cancellation is in black.

—George A. Hunt gives us something new. He has taken a page in his album and ruled it up in 57 squares. At the top of each square is the name of every state and territory in the U. S. In each of the squares he proposes to put a stamp from the capital of each state and territory. Precancels will help out a bit, but where precancels do not exist a legible postmarked copy will be made to answer. Fifty-seven little stamps worth but a small amount but the hunt will be interesting.

—Several of our subscribers have sent us clippings from the New York World and the New York Times dealing with the placing of the U. S. Miller collection in the New York Public Library. We thank our friends for courtesies extended even though we do not mention all the names.

—In Trehair's Monthly Circular, we find a mystery story, that revolves around a Samoan stamp; and we clip the following from the trade sheet of Mr. W. T.

U. S. Stamped Envelopes

There has been a steady demand for these during the past year and they are becoming more popular every day. The catalogue prices have been dormant for years, many are entirely too low, and we look forward to advances in the near future. It is advisable to fill up your vacancies now, while they are available at reasonable prices.

We offer the following fine assortment: Entire, unused, superb condition. Orders will be filled with cut squares, large margins, which are all that is required for album spaces. Entires will be sent only when requested.

Numbers followed by * are unused cut squares.

Numbers followed by x are cancelled entires.

All others are unused and entire.

W. W. WALSH [eow]
P. O. Box 334 HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA

Trahair, Sydney, New South Wales:

"The omission of a stamp from a standard catalogue or a philatelic check list generally raises a storm of criticism from collectors, particularly from the specialists of the country concerned, and it is more than surprising that not even one clap of thunder has been heard concerning the current 3sh value of Samoa. Notwithstanding the fact that this stamp was issued over five years ago, it has not been included in any standard catalogue, and stranger still, no mention of it is made in the Pacific Islands Handbook recently issued by the Christchurch Philatelic Society.

In order to acquaint our readers with this mysterious stamp, we might mention it is the 3sh bright mauve postal fiscal type of New Zealand (S.G. No. 768), with clean cut perf. 14½x14, and overprinted SAMOA in red.

It occurred to us that the stamp may have been intended for fiscal purposes only, but enquiries have elicited the information that it is available for both postage and revenue, and as further evidence of its validity for postal purposes we recently received a package from Apia, on which part of the postage had been prepaid by the use of the 3sh stamp in question.

Why has this stamp been overlooked?"

—A youthful reader writes to ask if we think a good quarterly stamp journal would fill "a long-felt want." Evidently, he thinks that Editor Lindquist of the Collectors Club Quarterly is not filling the bill, but we were all young once.

—We have received the "Year Book" of the Society of Philatelic Americans, the price of which is $1, to be obtained from the secretary, Wm. Lycett, 1221 Washington St., Cape May, N. J. The book contains a full record of the New York convention held in August, 1924. It also has the by-laws and membership roll.

—Chicago recently had visits from Mr. Toaspern of New York, and Mr. Drew of Boston, who showed the auction lots of sales just held at the office of Mr. Voorhees. The stamps in a recent sale of Mr. Klein of Philadelphia also were on view in Chicago before the sale.

—Mr. Robin Lampson, manager of the Fellowship Stamp Agency, Fresno, California, has attained prominence as a speaker on conditions in Soviet Russia, he having gained first-hand information on the momentous subject in Russia, itself. Mr. Lampson left Stanford University in January, 1922, to serve for a year in Russia, with the American Friends' Service Committee, where he entered intimately into the concerns of the people. In speaking before an audience at the Unitarian Church, not long ago, Mr. Lampson predicted that the United States would recognize the Soviet government before the year was over.

—A reader seeing a reference to the death, last November, of L. Hanciau, of Brussels, asks whether J. B. Moens and L. Hanciau were not the same person. He adds that he remembers having seen the remark some time ago that they were. M. Hanciau and M. Moens were two persons, each one of whom dated his philatelic life from the earliest days of the pursuit. M. Hanciau began to collect in 1852 and enlisted the interest of M. Moens, a book-seller in Brussels, in his quest for stamps, with the result that Moens became a convert to the new pursuit, which he followed with such intensity for nearly a half-century, to 1899, when Moens retired from business. However, M. Hanciau edited the famous Le Timbre Poste during the many years of its existence and attended to the compiling and publishing of the numerous works which bore the Moens imprimatur. The collectors of this generation do not know what a celebrity Moens' catalogue enjoyed in years past, but anyone who dips into the pages of this great work must be impressed by its thoroughness and philatelic scholarship.

—The thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, held March 21, 1925, is described as having been a wonderful occasion by a correspondent who participated in it, and says that even up to five o'clock the next morning the festivities did not cease. A little paper, "The Stamp Hinge," was issued especially to cover the "function" and it contains a full account of the proceedings which attracted so many of the local folks as well as some from a distance.

—In a letter to a friend, Mr. F. L. Belanger, Sherbrooke, Quebec, who recently lost his home through a disastrous fire, says: "This fire will teach me a lesson never to go without fire insurance . . . . but I had been so carried away with stamps . . . . that I never stopped to think of anything." Luckily Mr. Belanger's collection was in the hands of a stamp auctioneer when his loss occurred but his injunction to attend to insurance on the stamp collection stands forth in letters of flame, nevertheless.

—A mistake of ten years in the account of the banquet in February of the Chicago Philatelic Society was not passed unnoticed by Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer of Philadelphia, who as the first member of the self-same society is entitled to silence when he speaks. The writer of the account of the dinner said that next year the C.P.S. will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its birth, but since the society came into being in 1886, the text should have read "fortieth" instead of fiftieth. Nota bene: The compositor was not responsible for this mistake.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

WASHINGTON STATE SOCIETY.

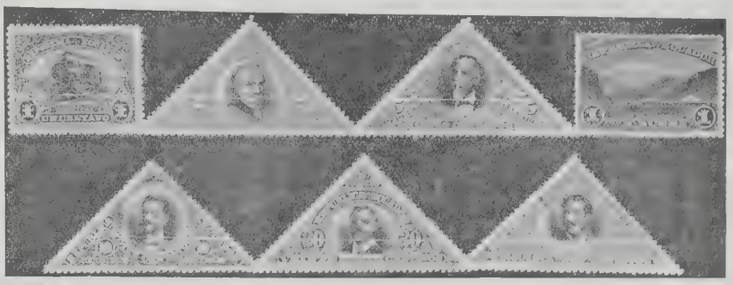
The Washington State Philatelic Society has just elected the following Board of Officers: President, E. F. Fredrich; Vice President, G. L. Lester; Second Vice President, Edward Flieder; Third Vice President, Dr. H. B. Hinman; Fourth Vice President, A. Nehammer; Treasurer, F. Haglund; Secretary, Lucien Perrot, 2132 Second Ave., Seattle, Washington; H. C. Hitt, librarian. Mr. Perrot will be very pleased to hear from any collectors in the State of Washington who would like to join the society.

This organization is doing a splendid work in promoting the interests of philately in this great northwestern state. If not as large as many others it is a very progressive organization, with headquarters in Seattle. The society held two exhibits last year in Seattle, one at the Public Library and the other at a downtown store. Both exhibits were successful and received much newspaper publicity.

The society has one distinguished member in the person of Titto Ruffo, the great Italian baritone, who joined the society in 1912, and whenever he appears in a Seattle concert never fails to remember the secretary, Mr. Perrot, with complimentaries. Signor Ruffo is an enthusiastic collector and next to his music in his affection is a marvelous collection of early Swiss stamps.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS.

Cyprus. — Two recommendations from this column which seem to be passing rapidly into the category of standard rarities are the 10sh and £1 of Cyprus, 1923. The former being priced (by a well-known London dealer) at £8, and the latter at £15 each. To any who may glance anxiously at Gibbons' prices may be assured that they are out of stock, indeed, several dealers in modern Colonials in the city expressed disbelief as recently as last autumn as to whether these stamps really existed, so few had been seen. There is no reason why the £1 value should not reach the price of the famous 10sh Malta, as probably fewer than 1600 were issued, the remainder having been burnt. This Cyprus sensation has caused a mild demand for other Cyprus issues. Others of the script set are going to be good, especially the 45 piastres. It has been obtainable very reasonably in used condition, and in view of its short life the used copies are almost bound to become very scarce. There are many Edwards quite low priced relatively that should not be neglected.



It generally happens that when an issue is bought up on its appearance, it soars in price rapidly, and afterwards, when the stocks come on the market, falls again to a more reasonable figure. This has happened to the stamps of Nyasaland overprinted "NF" for use in Tanganyika territory during hostilities. The figures given in Gibbons' catalogue as to numbers printed may be too low of the ½d and 1d values. These two are very much the commonest of the set, and have been coming forward in large numbers. The three high values are well worth picking up at low market rates now current, as there are very few about.

It is a pity that terms like "mint" are not kept for their true meaning, thus in sale catalogues one is beginning to see phrases like "cancelled but mint," "mint with violet obliterations," etc. It is much better to use the words "with gum" in such cases.

One result of the war and the great increase in cost of printing has been the falling off in the number of dealers' price lists. One could do with a fairly complete price list of all Georgian issues revised monthly, as the market prices of these issues and the coloured paper varieties change so rapidly that a yearly catalogue soon gets out of date. Such a list based on real values would fill a real want. There are quite a large number of Georgian Colonials that are practically impossible to obtain at their catalogue quotations, and are worth a good deal more. The market in this class of stuff is in a very buoyant condition.—Philatelic Magazine.

ECUADOR

BEAUTIFUL 1908 TRIANGLE ISSUE COMPLETE
Cat. Nos. 174-180; Cat. Value $1.42

The prevailing retail price of this scarce set is $1.25. But the Reimers Co., having acquired a few in a dealer's stock recently purchased, offers them as usual on a co-operative, cost-plus basis— 53c

The Death of President Ebert

Herr Friedrich Ebert, the George Washington of the German Republic, statesman extraordinary, is dead.

Ebert was a loyal and tireless worker for his Fatherland and guided it safely through its many post-war difficulties. His death is a national calamity of colossal magnitude, for it leaves bare the throat of the infant republic to the poisonous fangs of the Bolshevists and Monarchists.

Whether or not the present government, with the loss of its great leader, will be able to withstand the onslaughts of its political enemies is a matter of conjecture. But from present indications, it seems probable that grave and radical changes will take place, all of which will undoubtedly be reflected in Germany's future postal issues.

We carry a very complete stock of 20th century German stamps.

Go through your collection and make out a list of those elusive varieties you've been unable to obtain elsewhere. Then—"Write Right to Reimers", enclose your list—and you'll probably get all of the stamps by return mail; at very reasonable price, too.

REIMERS ACQUIRES $75,000.00 STOCK

Ownership of the large, choicely-selected stock of the Western Stamp Co., of Omaha, Neb., has passed into our hands. This stock, thirty years in the building, represented almost the life work of the proprietor, Mr. H. A. Whipple, whose poor health forced him several years ago to give up his philatelic activities.

Those collectors who have in the past done business with Mr. Whipple are well acquainted with the quality and comprehensive nature of the stock. To others we might add that it is world-wide in scope, but particularly strong in South and Central America, Scandinavia, Holland, Belgium, Austria, Hungary, Bavaria, Bulgaria, Switzerland, Persia and Hayti.

Want lists of these countries can be promptly and intelligently handled.

Distinctive Approval Selections

Approval selections—the different kind—cannot be turned out automatically, according to a pre-arranged schedule, or by inexperienced clerks. The work does not consist of merely sticking stamps promiscuously on sheets or in books.

Reimers' Texas Ranger Selections—the sort which please even the most fastidious philatelists—have gone through the mellow process of evolution which is the result of thought, experience—and time.

They did not reach their present position of distinctive prominence in a month, or in a year, or in ten years. Mr. Reimers, under whose supervision each selection is prepared, began his philatelic activities in 1890. His membership number in that veteran association, the American Philatelic Society, is No. 88. Having been a collector himself, he knows what the average collectors want; he knows that they appreciate fair prices, prompt, courteous treatment, and year-round dependability.

We invite your patronage of our Approval Service and promise a co-operative, "get-together" spirit of a kind which will seem unusual from a coldly commercial viewpoint.

Whether your collection numbers 3,000 or 30,000 varieties, come to us for what you want! For your convenience—

UNITED STAMP SOCIETIES.

The seventh annual convention of the United Stamp Societies will be held at Worcester, Mass., on May 30, 1925, under the direction of the Worcester Stamp Club.

An interesting feature of this convention will be an auction sale of various lots from the different clubs comprising the organization, with Mr. Bertram Durell of Worcester in charge.

As a preliminary to the Convention, and for the purpose of increasing the entertainment fund, a public auction was given by the Worcester Club, on March 5th, some 100 lots being donated by members of the club; and this resulted in bringing in a substantial amount to the treasury.

An entertainment committee has been appointed by the Worcester organization in preparation for the convention, and a large attendance of society members is anticipated, as it is hoped that the auction features will prove interesting to many of the U. S. S. members who are not generally found in attendance at this convention.—FRANK E. WOOD.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the address of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

Washington Notes

The new ½c sepia, the same color as our current 30c, with portrait of Nathan Hale, perf. 11 and printed on unwatermarked paper, will be placed on sale on Saturday, April 4th, at both the Philatelic Agency in Washington and in New Haven, Conn., the home of the Revolutionary hero. This stamp will be printed in sheets of four hundred and distributed in post office sheets of one hundred. At the present time it is not thought that it will be necessary to run this stamp on the rotary press, nor is it expected that it will appear imperforated.

On April 4th, there will also be placed on sale in Washington, the new 1½c stamp in imperforated condition, and it is expected that the endwise coil will follow in due course.

On the same day, there will appear the 4c, 5c and 6c perf. 10 from the rotary press. The 5c first appeared precanceled during the latter part of December, 1923, and the 4c and 6c appeared in similar condition just recently, but this will be the first time that the stamps are available in unused condition. There seems to be some agitation in the Philatelic Press about the 5c perf. 10, but this was chronicled back in December, when it first appeared and is nothing new.

The press notices have mentioned a 4½c stamp and we were also informed some time back, that there would be a 2c service stamp, but I now learn officially, that it is not expected that either of these varieties will be issued.

Mr. H. W. Porter informs us that the Bureau, however, is preparing plates for a new ½c Postage Due stamp, and no doubt this will be followed in time by a 1½c stamp.

The Bureau is so rushed with all of these new varieties, that they now find it will be impossible to have the new Special Deliveries, as well as the new Special Handling varieties ready by the time the new act goes into effect on April 15th, but in view of the fact, that ordinary postage stamps may be used for paying these fees, it will not be necessary to have the special stamps on hand.

Lexington-Concord Series

On April 4th, in addition to the other varieties enumerated, there will appear the new 1c, 2c and 5c Lexington-Concord series that was described in this column some weeks back. These varieties will not only be placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency at Washington, but will also be available at Cambridge, Boston, Lexington, Concord and Concord Junction, Mass.

New State Revenues

Mr. F. R. Brooks kindly sends me samples of the new State Revenues issued by the State of Tennessee in accordance with the Act of 1925. The varieties that I have before me are printed in blue, rouletted, show the Coat of Arms of the State in the center with proper notation as to the purpose of the tax, the date of the Act and the value.

From a bulletin forwarded by Mr. Brooks, I note that fourteen stamps are available valued from 2/10c to 50c in the following denominations:

2/10	cent	2 5/10	cents
5/10	"	3	"
6/10	"	5	"
1	"	10	"
1 7/10	cents	15	"
2 2/10	"	50	"

Mr. Frank L. Applegate also sends a copy of a new tobacco tax stamp, issued by the State of Arkansas. The copy before me is printed in vermilion, without special design, with notation as follows: "Arkansas—Four 4c Cigarette Tax Stamp—Twenty 20 Cigarettes." These stamps were issued in August and the denominations are as follows: ½c, 1c, 2c, 2 2/5c, 3c, 4c, 4 4/5c. The same state issues a series of cigar tax stamps, which are similar in designs and printed in carmine with values of 12½c, 18¾c, 25c, 37½c and 50c. The varieties are perforated and I am informed by Mr. Applegate that this is only a temporary series, which will be superseded by a permanent set at an early date.

The same gentleman also informs us that Oregon will have a set of tobacco stamps, beginning June 1st next.

I wish to thank Messrs. A. W. Draves, O. J. Olson, and Charles Hiaumet for notes of interest.

Faked Air Mail Covers

Information comes from what I consider a reliable source, that there has been made not far from New York City, a number of the rarer air mail covers, wherein the legitimate stamps have been canceled by faked cancellations. It seems that the supposed perpetrator of this deed secures the legitimate covers and reproduces duplicates in a way almost to escape detection. Those interested in such varieties are warned to consider the sources of their purchases, and this is especially so in the case of the first experimental transcontinental mail service at the time when the rate from coast to coast was 2c.

1c Rotary Design of 1922-23, Perf. 11

The 2c rotary press stamp of the current design, perf. 11, has been known for some time and is now listed in the catalog as No. 578. It will be remembered that these stamps were made from the imperforated coil waste. Mr. C. L. Gabel now sends as a great surprise the 1c stamp similarly perforated, a product of the rotary press, and advises that this

U. S. CANCELLATIONS

We have decided to add another volume to Gibbons U. S. Library, if we find the interest taken justifies the expense entailed. This volume will be on U. S. Cancellations, with several plates showing approximately the designs of the scarcer items.

We shall be pleased to receive letters from those interested and ask any who may have cancellations of real interest (not merely stars or crosses, etc.) to send them in for inspection, with any details known, such as place of issue, date, scarcity, etc. Every care will be taken of stamps sent, and they will be returned as soon as they have been noted.

We wish to buy Cancellations on U. S. Stamps all issues and will appreciate offers of any you may have for sale, and give same our prompt attention.

"D" Line Approvals

This series of approval selections containing second grade copies is always very popular because of the extremely low prices at which very creditable appearing copies can be picked out. Straight edge copies — unused, without gum — stamps thinned by removing poor hinges—slightly torn items and everything that is in any way damaged, no matter how slightly, go into these approvals. If you are not fussy about condition and want space fillers at as low as one-tenth of catalogue, apply for the "D" line. United States stamps only, of course.

Reference is Required

from all who have not had approval credit with me within a year. The names and addresses of your bank and of two stamp dealers is the most satisfactory reference.

Get on the Band Wagon while the going is good.

What do you want in the U. S. and Colonies, Great Britain and Colonies, French and Colonies? I have the goods.

H. F. COLMAN, 509 7th Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

has been in his possession for nearly a year. Inquiry at Washington produces the information that some of the imperforated coil waste of the 1c denomination was perf. 11, and went out with the general stock. None were ever delivered to the Agency. Under the circumstances, the new catalog will carry this new variety. This is just an illustration of how it pays our readers to watch their daily mail for new things may be issued and distributed without any warning of their existence.

We are pleased to advise that the new Director of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, Mr. A. W. Hall, has consented to continue to furnish us with a list of plate numbers, his permission supplementing a previous permission granted to our readers through the kindness of the Post Office Department.

We are, therefore, able to bring our list which has not been published for several months up to and including March 17, 1925.

It will be noted in this list that we have our first 10c 400 subject rotary plates, bearing numbers 16339 to 16342. The new 4c plates for the same press make their first appearance under numbers 16660-61, whereas the Norse-American and Lexington-Concord varieties are to be found. The first 1½c plate was of the 400 subject rotary press type, bearing No. 16825, whereas the first flat plate was No. 16837.

Recent Finds

Fine things in early U. S. have been coming to us in such quantities in recent months we have had no time to get out our "Gleanings" letters, and consequently have gotten out of touch with many old friends. If you are not on our active list or if we have not your special want list, it is quite possible that in some of these lots you have missed the particular things you are looking for.

Among recent fine additions to our stock have been some very fine pairs of 5c New Yorks, all of them with town or paid postmarks; a lot of fifty 5c 1847's on cover, including some U. S. Express Mail and some Providence postmarks with a large magenta 5; a very nice lot of 10c 1847's, both on and off cover, including a fine cover to London, England, the stamp cancelled with Philadelphia framed Paid in blue; a number of nice items in 1c 1851's, among them several pairs, some strips of three and a nice strip of five on a piece of cover used to Canada; some unusually large and fine lots of 3c 1851's, among them several strips of four on cover, two of the strips from the top row of Pl. VI or VII with "gash" on each stamp; 5c 1851's on and off cover, including a pair and two strips of three; some very fine singles, pairs and strips of the rare shades of 5c '57s Type I, such as the brick red, Indian red, deep lake brown, et cetera. The 1869 issue almost complete in mint o. g. pairs and several nice used copies of the 90c; many fine things in the Bank Note issues, including marginal grills on several values, a block of four o. g. of the 15c grill, several hundred copies of the 90c National, Continental and American printings, among them some pairs, strips and a few blocks.

Collectors who are really specializing in issues of 19th Century U. S. stamps, or classic early issues of foreign stamps, are invited to send us their want lists, so that from time to time we may submit such items as come to us.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

The past week was spent in Boston, the attraction being the nice lot of U. S. and Confederates and British North Americas, and for "dessert" some choice used blocks of early Spain, in B. L. Drew's March 27th sale.

It seems that every sale establishes new records in the values of some stamps, and this was no exception. The B. N. A.'s went uniformly high, and much attention has been paid to these stamps all the past year. Early U. S. and Confederates never seem to lose interest, as the upraised hands attested at this sale.

While in town I showed a few of the cancellations which have been secured for the Forum, and many recruits were gained by so doing. Every style of collecting has its ups and downs, sometimes 5c '47's take a rest, collectors figure they are not so good as the 10c '47 in comparison—they would rather have one 10c than five 5c '47's. Pretty soon the tide will turn and they would rather have the five 5c values. Odd but true. Sometimes railroad cancels are wanted by everyone, today the R. R.'s are in the doldrums for fair. Cancellations once occupied the entire limelight, today they are semi-submerged, condition being way out ahead of everything else for the moment. How fortunate it is that stamp collectors have such a wide field to explore.

Well, cancellations are "looking up" again. I have about 75 already drawn up for the Forum, and need but say 25 more before they go into the column. This will finish our first quota. It will not include any letters or numerals, unless they have ornamental frames, etc., as I wish to present the more unusual items at this time. Then too, as the warm days approach you all are not so eager to grab your microscopes and see if you can find among your effects a copy described as having a mole ¼ mm. away from someone's left ear, yet you'll be glad to see a big Newfoundland dog ambling across a 3c 1869, such as Mr. Koslowski has sent on, labeled, "The Lansing, Mich. Dog".

July 1, 1851.—This date always excites the interest of Philatelists. It was on that day the first 3c stamp was put into use in the U. S. A. It was also "said that" the 1c came out the same day. Dr. Chase has covers from four towns with 3c '51's used that day, and has as his earliest 1c a cover mailed on the 5th with a record of one a couple of days earlier.

Mr. D. F. Kelleher fairly "put my eye out" by flashing the most perfect copy of two, No. 6Rle, the stamp that lives next door to the celebrated Type I one cent of 1851, on a magnificient July 1 pmkd. cover from Boston! This cover is canceled Boston, in bright red, a brown grid falls across the stamp, and the word "P A I D" in same brown is across the middle of the cover. (This brown is a combination of the inks used at Boston, red and black.) A printed circular is inside the cover with printed date of June 30, 1851. "What could be finer, sez I" and "What could be finer, sez he?" as he put it away into the safe, and that's that. So you now have a new earliest day of use. I made a sketch of that cover; but my mental image is still very acute, it's a wonder with a wide top margin.

He showed me a cover from Newburyport, Ms Jan 1 (1852), with a remarkably handsome 3c orange brown struck by three different handstamps—"3", "PAID" and "24", each cleanly hit and as neat as could be made, all in black. Prettier by far than this reads, absolutely.

Then I asked about other cancellations for the Forum, so he brought out a drawer full telling me to go to 'em, and you'll see some of these later on, can show them better than describing them. One cover is in his coming April sale, it being a strip of three 1c 1857's from Plate IV canceled "Pine Swamp, Pa." in a sort of stencil appearing frame made up of flossy scrolls at the ends and top and bottom, the date being in mss, and I hope to depict this later on.

Time always slips away too fast on these stamp jaunts, so I reluctantly withdrew, allowing ample time to catch the train if I got lost walking to the South Station, a detail which not infrequently happens. Have been this jaunt in at least ten different ways, each of which look unfamiliar. Some day I hope to "make a plating" of those streets.

Got back to find oodles of mail, Forum and otherwise, so more apologies if your replies are late. It can't be helped just now; but will soon catch up I hope. Don't forget that a few more fine cancels are needed, odd stuff preferred.

—The Postmaster General has issued an announcement requesting bids, according to schedule, for furnishing 375,000,000 official envelopes for use of the various departments enjoying the franking privilege for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1925.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are advised by J. J. Klemann, Jr., Secretary of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions, that our issue of March 23 contained two erroneous statements concerning the forthcoming exhibition. The matter of an advertising label has not yet been given the consideration referred to, and the matter of a prize for a design has not been acted upon. While the laying out of the floor space for exhibition purposes will doubtless be taken up soon, the committee on booths has not been authorized to act. We regret that in our desire to give publicity to exhibition plans we made the mistake of attempting to forecast any action that may be taken by the Exhibition Committee.

—Walter S. Bull and A. Atlas Leve send us clippings from the Syracuse Herald, of March 24, giving the full particulars of a meeting of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Stamp Club held at the Yates Hotel the previous evening. A fine cut of Charles J. Phillips, who addressed the members, adorns the story.

—At the meeting of Branch 1, New York Society of Philatelic Americans, held March 26, over fifty collectors were present. Secretary Francis F. Greeley states that at this meeting the Branch went over the top with one hundred members.

—We have received from A. H. Pike, Binghamton, N. Y., a cover bearing two distinct shades of the new 1½c Harding.

—We have already noted in the Weekly an article published in the Industrial Digest, "The Royal Hobby Horse." We are indebted to Geo. C. McNabb for clipping.

—Rev. E. A. Butler, St. George's, Newfoundland, has issued a very comprehensive price-list of Newfoundland stamps in both single copies and packets. It is a four-page list, a very complete one, and will be sent on request.

—Postmaster General New has received many tributes to the efficiency of the post office department in re-establishing postal communication in the districts devastated by the tornado.

—The artist Byrnes in one of his syndicated comic strips utilizes a philatelic suggestion to good effect. The first of the four sketches shows a small boy, one of the "Reg'lar Fellers," excitedly hailing a letter-carrier and asking him if he knows the postmaster and the theme is carried through to the fourth picture, where the kid is saying: "Well, ask the postmaster to look through all letters before he gives them to carriers and tear off all foreign stamps for this stamp album of mine." The precious stamp album is held forth as visible evidence of the boy's authority for making the request.

—Mr. Ben Delovage sends a somewhat remarkable editorial from the good old Portland Oregonian, headed: "Great is the Penny," that is based on the reflections consequent of the issue of the new ½c and 1½c stamps. In the following sentence, we are taken by the phrase, "enforced philately," and the writer may know that not alone has his homily impressed his readers generally, but that he has scored with the stamp collectors, as well: "In the second place, a somewhat prodigal and spendthrift generation may learn economy through enforced philately, as you might call it."

—George W. Linn advises us that he has been ill during March and business was necessarily side-tracked to a considerable extent. He is now mending and will be able to give his personal attention to matters of business.

—Mr. George A. Albrecht, Long Island City, N. Y., writes: "I refer to the item in the issue of March 30th, relative to covers received from Bermuda without any indication that they were 'flown.' I have before me a cover postmarked on the face in red: 'Air Mail Service—Feb. 20, 1925—New York.' On the reverse side is a machine cancellation reading, Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 21, 1925. This, of course, was carried by the Los Angeles on its first trip. The second, which was scheduled for about March 16, I believe has been postponed until the middle of April." It was incorrect to give the impression that no flight had been made by the Los Angeles, for, as Mr. Albrecht shows, there was a trip made by air.

—The New York Times of March 29th, informs us that Mr. Alfred F. Lichtenstein, of the Collectors Club, New York, has been selected to serve on the board of judges at the International Stamp Exhibition at Paris, May 2nd to 12th. We quote:

"Mr. Lichtenstein is one of America's leading philatelists. His Switzerland collection, including all the early cantonal issues, has taken several medals. He will take part of the collection to Paris for exhibition, but as he will be a judge, it will not be entered in the competitions.

Mr. Lichtenstein returned from a short European trip last week. He said that great interest is being taken in the coming Paris event, which will be in the Pavillon de Marsan of the Louvre. Most of the leading European philatelists are planning to send their finest collections to the exhibit. Great Britain will be represented on the jury of award by Fred J. Melville, Colonel C. S. E. Napier and George Hamilton-Smith.

Secretary Chittenden also announced that American philatelists will be represented strongly at the Canadian International Exhibition in Montreal next October. Among those preparing to attend and send exhibits for competition are Mr. Lichtenstein, Charles J. Phillips, Dr. J. Brace Chittenden, Theodore E. Steinway and Charles M. Ams. Mr. Lichtenstein will show his Canadian and British Columbia stamps and perhaps h Cape of Good Hopes, which is the fine in the United States. Mr. Ams w show a specialized collection of Gambi Dr. Chittenden will show his Austri stamps, Mr. Steinway will show h splendid lot of early New South Wale bearing the Sydney view, and Mr. Ph lips will show a general collection, i cluding several British Colonies.

—Burt B. Hyde, Afton, N. Y., sen us three clippings from the New Yo Times. All have a philatelic flavorin but "Common Sense for Stamp Co lectors", which appeared March 29, the article by John N. Luff, which r cently appeared in an issue of t Weekly. Mr. Luff in this article point out some philatelic policies and urged closer study of stamps, with less attenti to investment possibilities.

—The Philadelphia Evening Bulle recently contained a stampic cartoon Gene Byrnes. Roy N. Tope and othe have favored us with clippings.

THEODORE SIDDALL.

Readers of our paper have noticed the name of Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China, appended to a wide variety of philatelic articles, observations and news notes, in the course of years, and now we are enabled to present a portrait of our long-distance correspondent. Mr. Siddall, born in Philadelphia, in 1867, was one of the coterie of collectors of that city well-known in a public sense over thirty years ago; and as such he was not a shrinking violet. He says that his first acquaintance with stamps was a half-sheet of three cent, 1869, in an uncle's desk, for postal use; and the uncle had sheets of the two cent of 1869 for local use. After a short and by no means sweet school experience, young Siddall, when about twelve years of age, started to learn the printing business in his father's office. He became a journeyman printer literally after he joined the union; he went to New York, Alaska, Panama and elsewhere. About that time type-setting machines were coming into use and not fancying lead poison, as Mr. Siddall waggishly puts it, bought a book on shorthand and learned it, so that when Henry George ran for mayor of New York in 1897, Mr. Siddall was able to hold a job at his headquarters. In 1902, Mr. Siddall took the federal civil service examination and in 1903 was ticketed to Manila, where he was assigned to duty with the general commanding the division; and annually he made the trip around the islands, making Borneo twice and the Dutch Indies once. From 1912 to 1915, he reported court martial trials and then he was free to blow where he list. Shanghai won his vagrant fancy and it is likely that he will stay, there for some time, owing to an attack of paralysis early in 1922. Mr. Siddall has a real stamp shop in Shanghai and it will be remembered that he published Stamp Topics for some time, a creditable monthly. Recently, he compiled a catalogue, priced, of the stamps of the Chinese Treaty Ports, a boon to the faithful collectors of these locals. His best stamp find was a five cent, 1899, Philippines, with the surcharge inverted, which he sold at fifteen times the price he paid for it; and the buyer got as big a bargain as the seller. Mr. Siddall has the courage of his convictions and is a thinker along independent lines and his philatelic likes and dislikes are not unknown. He is known personally to many stamp folks all around the globe, his last trip around the world having been made in 1907. Luckily, we do not need to become personal about Mr. Siddall as the picture tells it all. We hope that for years to come, Mr. Siddall's letters will be wafted to us even though at times they may disturb our slumbers sweet.

Here is a most excellent lot for the collector or exchanger. Because of the very low price, any enterprising collector can keep almost half of the catalogue value for his own collection and sell or exchange the balance to such advantage that the "Persia Special" will actually cost him nothing.

EDITORIAL.

The post office department has named April 4th as the day on which the three new postage stamps to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington and Concord are to make their first appearance; and on this day, they will be on sale at Washington, D. C.; Concord, Mass.; Concord Junction, Mass.; Lexington, Mass.; Boston, Mass., and Cambridge, Mass. As has been told, the stamps are printed in the regulation colors: one cent, green; two cents, red, and five cents, blue; and the designs are those chosen by the department after consultation with the membership of the Lexington-Concord Centennial Committee. It will be interesting to see how the Battle of Lexington or "The Birth of Liberty" will be handled on the two cent and what disposition will be made of the twenty-eight word inscription in connection with the statue of the Concord Minute Man at Concord, Mass., on the five cent. These stamps will be obtainable at the Philatelic Agency, as well, on April 4th.

On April 4, 1925, the new ½ cent stamp, portrait of Nathan Hale, will be on sale at Washington and at New Haven, Conn. The color of the stamp is sepia, similar to that of the thirty-cent of the current issue. This stamp will be offered at the Philatelic Agency on the same day to collectors, when the 1½ cent in imperforate form may be had. Relative to further novelties, we quote from a circular from the Philatelic Agency, Washington, dated March 30th: "The 4, 5 and 6 cent stamps of the present series manufactured by the rotary process," may be bought on April 4th, and: "In addition thereto, the Agency has on hand the new 1½ cent stamps, 11x11 engraved, 10x10 rotary, and coils sidewise perforated, as well as the new 1½c stamped envelopes of the Nos. 5, 8 and 13 sizes. This stock was first placed on sale on March 19, 1925. Patrons will facilitate the work of the Agency if they will order no stamps other than indicated herein. Howard A. Mount, Philatelic Agent."

We are grateful to correspondents, who have remembered us with early copies of the new 1½ cent stamp and as an example of early date, we mention the receipt of a block of four on a letter from Mr. Olaf J. Olsen of St. Paul, postmarked at that city on March 28th.

From Mr. W. Hamilton Barnum of Cleveland, we have received particulars of a happy occasion incidental to the recent anniversary exercises of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland. Mr. Barnum says that in a stirring speech, Mr. Louis Hanford presented the Hanford Cup to P. M. Wolsieffer for this year as a recognition of meritorious service in behalf of the Club over a period of many years. As a member of the Garfield-Perry organization, Mr. Wolsieffer has been unremitting in his work to promote its interests for many years. We quote from Mr. Barnum's letter: "As you may remember, this cup was presented by Mr. Hanford's mother at the twenty-fifth anniversary, which you attended. It was to be awarded each year to the member who aided either philately or the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club in a significant way." It is easy to visualize the scene when at the peroration of an eloquent tribute, the inspired Louis Hanford presented the cup to Mr. Wolsieffer. We fully believe that the climax brought the banqueters "to their collective feet."

We have been told by Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer, president of the American Philatelic Society, that he will decline a renomination for the presidency and there is no doubt but that the announcement will be received with regret generally. It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Wolsieffer would be the favorite nominee if his determination to not accept the mark of confidence could be overcome, but he says firmly that he will not yield to the arguments or solicitations of friends. It is a tacit understanding that the president whose administration is successful has an option on a second term and naturally, it has been expected that Mr. Wolsieffer would succeed himself. After weighing conditions as affecting Mr. Wolsieffer, it is apparent that he is not acting upon impulse and in justification of his position there is much to be said. First of all, even Mr. Wolsieffer, with an experience of many years in society work, did not realize the volume and the exacting nature of the duties of the president of the great corporation and he discovers that the time necessary to properly discharge the duties of office is so great that he finds it difficult to attend to his personal business, as well. Having a one man's business, it is incumbent upon him to give it full attention and when he surveys the increased duties of the coming society year, there must be only one verdict in justice to himself. He will not take the risk of having to neglect the duties of office on one hand and the cultivation of his means of livelihood on the other; and so, sensibly, it would seem, he renounces an honor that he could have as a matter of routine. The candor of Mr. Wolsieffer is commended and the course that he now takes is indicative of the thought that he has brought to bear on the problems of his office during the year. While he refuses a renomination for the presidency, it is safe to say that there will be no slackening of his industry in working for the welfare of the great national organization and the members may rest assured that he will be indefatigable in promoting the best interests of the society as he has done for so many years. It is fitting that Mr. Wolsieffer has had the honor of the presidency and it is becoming for us to respect his wishes in view of his intention to lay aside the distinctions of the office. It is too early to review the record of his administration and no attempt will be made at present to do so, but when the time comes for balancing the books it will be seen that the society is the debtor to Mr. Wolsieffer.

The declaration of Mr. Wolsieffer to withdraw from the presidency of the American Philatelic Society at the expiration of his first year will cause some confusion on the part of the slate-makers who ordinarily are sharpening their pencils in order to offer the electorate proper candidates from their point of view. The question of presidential nominations should engage the attention of the different branches of the A.P.S. in the immediate future, so that due scrutiny may be given nominees. We suppose that it would be a graceful movement on the part of members to consult the wishes of Mr. Wolsieffer, in regard to a successor, should he be inclined to express them; at all events his counsel and advice would be welcomed, we are certain.

From Mr. A. Blakey comes a copy of the Industrial Digest for March, 1925, that contains a long, illustrated article, whose tenor may be understood from the heading: "The Royal Hobby Horse. A million stamp collectors keep an international organization busy supplying postage stamps." The contribution is well placed in a journal for business men and we applaud the intelligent manner in which the pictures and text are handled. The opening sentence is short and crisp: "Find a man's hobby and you have the short-cut to his friendship." True; and many a story is told of the direct contact that follows when two men suddenly find that they have a common interest in stamps.

Recently, a collector came into possession of an old album in which the was an almost complete representation the Confederate locals in unused con tion and because of several possibiliti he had hope that they would prove to genuine. It happened, as expected by a experienced collector, that the labels question were the fac-similes of the c federate locals such as were sold oper in years past. In fact, these and U. locals were advertised as fac-similes reprints by reputable dealers; and Mat of Paris, in the fourth edition of his ca logue, published early in the '70's, lis the "reimpressions" of U. S. locals a few cents each, as the genuine variet were worth from two to ten francs ea As for the Confederate fac-similes, late as 1889, complaint was made that Allen Taylor of Boston, was advertis one hundred varieties of Confeder locals for fifteen cents, falling back u the significant disclaimer that prefa his list of "bargains:" "Notice! C patrons are requested to take notice t we deal in canceled stamps for collect purposes only, and that none of them, less where purchased direct from fore post offices are in any case guaranteed warranted." As old-time collectors remember, S. Allen Taylor was a simi factor in philately decades ago. He e of the first publishers of philatelic tter in this country and for many ars, he dealt intermittently in stamps. sold "fac-similes" boldly and had a t of philosophy in defense of his transessions. It was said that he knew the tory of almost everyone who was conted with stamps in any public way and at he could spin astounding yarns about elect of philately, by the hour.

A reader tells us that in an old numr of the American Journal of Philately, finds the statement in a history of the stage stamps of France that stamp collors were under the suspicion at one ne of secretly abetting conspiracies ainst existing governments and institing war between countries merely for purpose of creating conditions favorle to the issue of new stamps. We beve that charges of similar kind have en made more or less seriously from beginning of philatelic time almost, the present day. In fact, we cannot rget the recent utterance of one of the itorial expounders with a brain capacity beyond reason, who said that for some nister motive, stamp collectors were tting to seize the reins of government. fter the philatelic coup d'etat, we pity ose who have been guilty of treason to hilately. We have started on the irretible march and the promised land is sight for the Hon. Verne C. Kennedy, ate senator of Canton, South Dakota, rites: "If any regulation relative to amp collectors comes up, you may be rtain you will be protected."

MAIL PERMITS AND THE NEW POSTAGE RATES.

By A. H. PIKE, Binghamton, N. Y.

During the early part of March, the new postage rates which will be in effect April 15th, has not been explained thoroughly enough to make it perfectly clear to mailers, especially on the use of the 1½c postage. Postmasters seem to be somewhat confused as to just what types of Third Class Matter will continue to enjoy the 1c postage rate and what types will have to pay the additional ½c.

"In all probability the Department will finally rule on this, and it is very likely that their ruling will be to the effect that certain kinds of advertising matter will be classed as books and catalogs and will, therefore, continue to enjoy the old rate of 1c if they do not exceed eight ounces in weight."

This will mean that some of the present users of Postage Meters will want to continue with their 1c meters, and it is possible that some of them may also have need for a 1½c meter with which to mail other types of Third Class Matter.

In a letter from the Sales Manager of the Postage Meter Co., dated March 18th, we quote in part as follows: "We have nearly five hundred 1c meters in use and cannot make anything but a wild guess as to the number of them which will be canceled and the number which will be substituted for 1½c meters. It is probable that quite a few of our users of 1c meters will decide that inasmuch as the types of Third Class Matter they will continue to mail cannot go under the classification of books and catalogs and so will have to pay 1½c rate on them, they might just as well go ahead and pay the extra half cent on such matter and obtain the advantage of the First Class service, which this will give to their advertising. It has long been a mooted question with many advertisers as to whether the additional postage required for First Class service on advertising matter is warranted, and now that the rate on Third Class Matter has been increased ½c, it is very likely that many of these advertisers will go the limit and decide to send their literature out under First Class hereafter, in which case we will, of course, receive a cancellation on the 1c meter. Of course the majority of these Postage Meter users already have the 2c meters."

On March 14th the Postage Meter Co. sent out four different Bulletins to users of the four different machines which are under the supervision of this company. In August, 1924, the Postage Meter Co. took over the two machines manufactured by the Mail-o-meter Co., of Detroit. These consisted of a permit printer called model "D", and their register machine on which a meter was attached. The Postage Meter Co. besides their regular metered machine also have a permit printer as well.

These Bulletins requested users to make application at once for the new 1½c dies, or permit slugs. Price of these slugs for the Postage Meter Co. permit printer is $6.50, for the Model "D" Mail-o-meter, $11.50. Evidently there will be no charge for slugs to be used in connection with metered mail. As there are no extra registers on hand for the Mail-o-meter machines it will be necessary for users of this machine to ship their register to Stamford so that the denomination can be changed from the 1c to the 1½c.

Users of the Postage Meter pay a monthly charge of $10.00 for the use of their meter, $8.00 per month for the second meter and $7.00 a month for their third meter. It is necessary to have a meter for each denomination of postage and the number of each shows on the indicia. A firm may have several denominations of postage with a meter for each and still own only one machine. If, however, any firm who uses more than one meter for any denomination, we can take it for granted that they own more than one machine.

As the color of ink for the 1½c postage will be brown it will be necessary for permit users to pay 75c for a new ink roller and $2.50 for a pint of brown ink.

There is already a wide interest in the collecting of first class mail permits including meters, and the new variety of postage will greatly stimulate the collecting of these. There will probably be less than five hundred varieties to start with, but before the year is over no doubt a great many new machines will be sold on which a 1½c die will be used.

The Post Office Department state that this additional ½c will be added only until the first of next year, unless sufficient revenue is not obtained. We would suggest that collectors watch out for these 1½c indicias. The majority of them will not be rare, but they will be an interesting phase of U. S. postage.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL
A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."
The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

PUBLICITY NEEDED.

"I tried recently in a Cleveland hotel to buy an airplane postage stamp for a letter to San Francisco," writes Fred Kelly in The Nation's Business. "The stamp seller had none and said it was the first time he had had such a request. Out of curiosity I then went to another leading hotel and tried to buy stamps for airplane mail. They not only didn't have such stamps but evidently had never heard of them. I next tried the experiment of asking business men for information about the cost of sending a letter by airplane from Cleveland to New York. Of a score I asked not one knew! The fact is that the airplane mail service, notwithstanding the marvel of it, is still too new to be popular. It takes a long time for a novelty to sink into the public mind. A young business friend of mine has a sweetheart in San Francisco to whom he writes often. Yet, though he is seemingly keen-witted, the idea of sending her a letter by airplane had never occurred to him.

ANGOLA.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the following new items of this country: 12c deep green, 5 Esc bistre, 10 Esc pink, 20 Esc pale green.

BULGARIA.—Provisionals. Further new values are reported by Whitfield King: 10 stot. on 1 stot. black, Pictorial; 20 stot. on 5 stot. green, Postage Due; 20 stot. on 30 stot. orange, Postage Due.—Philatelic Magazine.

CEYLON.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the 5Rs on emerald, script watermark.

ECUADOR.—Stamp Collecting learns from the Aero Philatelic Club that a new "semi-official" issue (1,000 sets) of air stamps has appeared lately in connexion with two flights made between Quito-Ibarra and Quito-Cuenca. The stamps are those of the commemorative issue of 1920, overprinted with an aeroplane and the word "ECUADOR." The series consists of the following values:—Overprinted in red ("R") or black as above: 1c green (R), 2c carmine, 3c brownish-yellow, 4c dark green (R), 5c blue, 6c orange, 7c brown (R), 8c greenish-yellow (R), 9c carmine, 10c blue (R).—Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—There has come to hand from Mr. R. Roberts the 20pf dull grey blue, in the Eagle type, perf. 14, water-marked chicken wire. This value is printed on thin semi-transparent paper of parchment texture with fine vertical ribbing.

HUNGARY.—Sporting series. A series of postage stamps to be issued next month will be available for ordinary postage, but will be sold at a premium of 10 per cent, in aid of athletic associations. The designs are entirely devoted to sporting subjects, and give miniatures of skiing, skating, swimming, fencing, a scout camp, football, hurdling, and a march past of an athletic team.—Philatelic Magazine.

IRISH FREE STATE.—We have received from Mr. W. T. Wilson copies of the 1 and 6p postage due stamps. The colors are red and red violet respectively. Mr. Wilson also adds that the 2p has also been issued.

KELANTAN.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 50c black and orange on script water-marked paper.

KUWAIT.—This "country" should prove a paying proposition from a philatelic point of view, for we are informed that the overprinting of Indian stamps to the order of the local Sultan is to cease and that the Kuwait post office will revert to its old status as a sub-agency of the Bombay postal administration.—Stamp Collecting.

MOROCCO AGENCIES.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the ½p Gt. Britain stamp surcharged for use in this colony printed on the new watermarked paper.

POLAND.—A post office has been opened in Danzig by the Polish Government mainly for the purpose of collecting and despatching letters for Poland. The High Commissioner at Danzig considers this to be unlawful, and an infringement of the rights and privileges of the Danzig Free City. He has therefore reported the matter to the League of Nations

STAMP LITERATURE REVIEW.

By EUGENE KLEIN.

Kohl's Handbuch. — After a delay of several months owing to financial difficulties of the publishers, Kohl's Handbuch again makes its appearance. Lieferung 5 has just been received. This covers several important countries. Chile alone covers fifty-two pages and is replete with illustrations of types, some of them enlarged, all watermarks, surcharges and cancellations. For a better understanding of the issues of the 1879 to 1884 occupation stamps maps are shown. A thorough explanation of the retouches is given. Early splits are given a special chapter. China on thirty-two pages is also worked out with great thoroughness. In addition to the regular issues many local provisionals are here listed. In the late issues the London and Peking prints are thoroughly described. Especially valuable is the list giving the number of stamps issued in case of rarities. Costa Rica is given twenty-five pages. The most interesting here is the working out of the Guanacaste types. Denmark is begun and twenty-four pages bring it up to the 1918 issue. Charkhari is finished in this section. Other countries are the following: Cook Islands, Cordoba, Corrientes, Curacao and Dahomey. The price of this section is 45 cents. The publisher announces that with section 6 a list of corrections and addenda will be published. He also announces that cloth covers will be available for those who wish to have bound the first six sections into a volume I.

Bordeaux Issue of France. — Messrs. Frank Godden, Ltd., announce the publication in the near future of a brochure with sixteen sheets of collotype illustrations of the Bordeaux issue of France by Mr. Meinertzhagen. Those who know this keen student will await with pleasure the publication of this brochure. Messrs. Godden will in the near future announce the price.

Gibbons Catalog Part II Foreign Countries.—After three years a new edition of this famous catalog is more than welcome. We instinctively turn to the pages of the United States, which are worked out in the usual thorough manner. The Confederate States are worthy of special mention. Among the countries newly worked out is Persia. This interesting country offers a fine field for specialists of moderate means. New stamp issuing countries, such as Danzig, Memel, and Turkey in Asia are now included. The price of the volume is $2.75.

Bayerns Postwertzeichen 1849-1920.—This book published by the Bayerland Verlag at Munich, Germany, is a pleasing surprise in the thirty-two beautiful color plates at the end of the book. Much useful information as to numbers issued, watermarks and dates of issue is given. While not as pretentious as the large Swiss handbook it reminds us of it in its beautiful execution, both in printing and binding. The price of the regular cloth-bound edition is $3.00.

The History of Stanley Gibbons in America

In the year 1896 Mr. E. B. Power, so well known to all stamp people, commenced selling stamps for Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., of London to collectors in Chicago, and it was in that city he met Mr. G. C. Morgenthau. With him Mr. Power came to New York and worked for him until 1900. In that year Mr. Power went over to London (one of the 43 crossings he has made), and whilst there he made arrangements with Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., to open up an American branch. That lasted until 1902, when the London house put in a large stock here, made Mr. Power the general manager at a larger salary, we believe, than ever paid to a stamp employee, either before that time or ever since up to this present day. Stanley Gibbons, Inc., grew from one room and one small safe to four rooms and six safes, and finally moved up town to expensive offices in the Forty-Second Street district. But there is one thing we all have to reckon with—something that waits for no man, favors no man, and has no antidote, and that thing is TIME.

And the time has come for Mr. Power to take a well earned rest and allow the cares and worries of a big business to fall on younger shoulders. It is therefore with great pleasure we announce the election of Capt. Gordon Nowell-Usticke, M. C. B. A., as President of this Company. Capt. Usticke fought with conspicuous mention during the late war and after the war he came to these United States and started his stamp business, in a modest but high class way, under the name of the Pilgrim Stamp Co., at 35 Ann Street. Capt. Usticke is eminently fitted to run the Stanley Gibbons Co., having a good all round knowledge of stamps, especially in British Colonials and U. S. Therefore former and present patrons of S. G., Inc., need have no fear as to their future treatment by this Company.

Thus the two great heads of Gibbons lay down their burden, Mr. Charles J. Phillips having sold his interests in the London house and Mr. E. B. Power having sold his interests in the New York Co. But both Mr. Phillips and Mr. Power are men with almost tireless energy, both are masters — past masters — in philatelic knowledge, and it is but natural that their energy should take expression in fact. Mr. Phillips often advertises in this paper, being a specialist in the stamps issued before 1880, and Mr. Power has consented to run for us, as a separate and distinct department, a rather novel form of stamp dealing.

For years the out of town bidder, at auction, has been bunked, rebunked and bunked again, he has been gypped out of many a bargain by the room bidder shouting out another dime or two. Then again, it is not an uncommon thing for some City collector or dealer to go to an auctioneer and say, "Jimmy, how much have you got on lot 12?" and says Jimmy, "I've got $12.00". Probably the very $12 you bid by mail. Then says Mr. Onthespot, "Make it $12.05 for me," and so you, poor out-of-towner, get it where the chicken gets it.

Under the direct and sole supervision of Mr. Power, we announce the commencement of the

and the thing is going to work like this: Mr. Power himself will attend the sales held here in New York and buy anything that in his judgment sells too cheaply. Then we are going to add on to the cost price 20% to cover overheads and produce a profit, no matter how big the bargain, 20%, and that amount only is going to be added. We shall buy no mixed lots, no dealer's lots, no Twentieth Century stamps, but only the sound old stuff of the Nineteenth Century running from $5 to $50 or so per stamp. The lots will be on sale at our offices the day following the sale, and whilst we welcome New York Collectors, we want more particularly to serve the fellow out of town and to find out who are really buyers if the goods are priced low enough, we publish this ad.

We do not intend to send stamps for you to look at — we are sending them to you to BUY, and if you don't want to buy any of these bargains, we shall not send a second lot. We cannot send selections without results, because the profit is too small and the expense too great. Please don't write us postcards about this — Mr. Power lights his pipe with postcards, but never reads them, he's very funny about that. Write us a letter and tell us whether you want British Colonies, or Foreign, or both, and don't say "I specialize in U. S.," because everyone says that and it's mighty monotonous. United States never sell cheap and if we do crucify a few items we will send them unsolicited. Kindly be careful to address your letters to the

"SPECIAL HANDLING" AND "SPECIAL DELIVERY" STAMPS AND SERVICE.

Office of the Postmaster General,
Washington, D. C., March 21, 1925.

The act of February 28, 1925, offers a new and speedier service for parcel post which mailers may or may not purchase at their own option. This new service for parcel post is called a "Special handling" service.

"Special handling," in this law, means, practically speaking, that such parcel post is to be handled not as parcel post is customarily handled, but as first-class mail is handled. So far as the nature of the mail permits the "special handling" stamp makes parcel post first-class mail. Its particular advantage applies mainly to its handling en route on railroads and other transportation facilities between the postoffice of dispatch and the post office of destination. It must be carefully distinguished from the "special delivery" service, where the chief advantage applies after the arrival of mail at the post-office of its destination.

"Special handling" of parcel post means speeding up the service en route on the trains, etc., while "special delivery" means speeding up the service after its arrival. It requires both services and both stamps to obtain the best and speediest mail service possible. Neither does any part of the work of the other.

The "special handling" service is new. The "special delivery" service has been in operation for years. It gives practically no advantage in transportation enroute on the railroads, etc., between post-offices, which fact is not always understood.

The law provides that "special handling" parcel post shall receive the "same expeditious handling, transportation, and delivery accorded to mail matter of the first class."

As first-class mail is not specially delivered unless it bears a special delivery stamp, so, therefore, "special handling" parcel post will not be specially delivered after its arrival unless it, too, bears the special delivery stamp. A "special handling" stamp for parcel post costs 25 cents, while a special delivery stamp for parcel post up to and including 2 pounds costs 10 cents, up to and including 10 pounds costs 15 cents, and thence up to the limit of weight of parcel post 20 cents. Add the special handling (25 cents) to the special delivery (10 cents, 15 cents, or 20 cents) and one has the very best service possible for any article of parcel post. This is in addition to the regular postage as provided in the new law. (Note.—The messengers will be paid 8 cents, 11 cents, and 15 cents, as per the law.)

Having set forth the distinction between "special handling" parcel post and "special delivery" thereof, the following directions are given to those employed in the service, with reference to "special handling" parcel post, viz.:

The practice of sending parcel post through the several Railway Mail Service terminals or through post-offices where similar distribution is performed, will be discontinued as to all packages bearing the "special handling" postage, but not as to parcel post not bearing such postage.

All such special handling parcel post must be sacked separately from other mails and given the same dispatch and handling in closed-pouch trains as is accorded pouches of letters, and when dispatched in R. P. O. trains will be handled in postal cars as far as practicable.

When it is necessary to handle this class of mail in baggage or storage cars it must be piled with the letter mails for unloading and handling to the post-office and connecting lines.

Distinctive tags will be provided to be attached to sacks of parcels for "special handling" so that they may be readily recognized and given first attention. These tags must be removed when sacks are emptied.

On arrival at the office of destination "special handling" parcel post will be delivered as parcel post is ordinarily delivered on the regular scheduled trips. But if it also bears a "special delivery"

DANZIG

200 Different for $3.75

Danzig is probably the most popular of any new country of Europe, as evidenced by the substantial increases in catalogue values which took place last year.

We are able to offer, as a special for this month only, a most attractive collection of 200 different Danzig which is liberally representative of every issue from 1920 to date, including airpost, commemoratives, scarce provisionals, high values, charities and occupation stamps. The catalogue value is quite high and now that the currency has been changed to a gold basis, further price increases can be expected in the near future.

Owing to limited supply and our desire to give everyone an equal chance, not more than one packet can be allowed to each customer.

MILWAUKEE PRE-CAN A FAKE.

A 2c Harding precanceled "Milwaukee, Wis.", has never been issued by the Milwaukee P. O. Dept., according to the officials in charge of the precanceled department. When a copy was shown them they admitted the type was similar to the old hand-stamp, but declared there had been none issued or printed as there was never a shortage of the 2c Washington. This check-up was made when the "pre-can" was first advertised a number of months ago and again recently when the price had risen to $2.50! A number of dealers and "pre-can" department editors were notified of this being a "lake", but no attention was seemingly paid to it. Co-operation is necessary in checking up these and tracing them to their sources, which should be no difficult thing providing those who have offered them for sale keep a record of where they obtained them. The source of this "Milwaukee, Wis." Harding "fake" has not yet been ascertained. Who bought it from whom?

be specially delivered as formerly.

Mailers of perishables, such as meats, vegetables, fruits, flowers, etc., and in fact any other articles not otherwise provided for by law or regulation have, now, under the new law the privilege of purchasing "special handling" service, together with "special delivery" service, in case the mailers themselves consider that the commodity which they are mailing justifies the expenditure. It is for them to decide. If the mailer decides not to purchase the special handling and special delivery stamps, his consignment will be handled as ordinary parcel post is customarily handled.

The mailer, having been informed by the postmaster as to his rights, privileges, and risks, is the one to decide what service he desires to purchase.

Postmasters should urge upon patrons the use of stamps specially provided for the payment of the fees for "special handling" and "special delivery." Under the law other postage stamps of proper denominations may be used in paying the fee for both of these services, but because of the distinctive character and appearance of the specially designed stamps the parcels bearing them may be more readily identified as entitled to "special handling" or "special delivery."

Where other stamps are used with the words "Special delivery" on the parcel post intended for immediate delivery, the postmaster at the office of mailing will inscribe on the parcel itself, by rubber stamp or otherwise, as follows: "Special delivery fee paid —— cents," indicating the amount of the special delivery fee.

Postmasters are directed to inform their patrons as fully as possible concerning the advantages and disadvantages of dispatching their mail with or without paying the special handling postage and special delivery postage to the end that mailers may purchase that kind of service which is best adapted to the kind of mail which they are dispatching. The law having created different degrees of service for parcel post for the purpose of accommodating the demands of different kinds of commodities to be sent as parcel post, an opportunity is thereby afforded the mailer to purchase the kind of service he desires and the postmaster and railway mail service should give to mailers, in accordance with this law, such service, and only such service, as the postage pays for.

EXHIBIT OF AIR MAIL COVERS.

Among the exhibits at the Paris Exhibition none will be of more interest to the average attendant than that of Major Joseph A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia, Pa. A partial list of the items in his exhibit is presented herewith, and it consists of fifty airmail covers selected at random from his famous collection. We feel that a large circle of our readers will note this list of covers in which the remarkable growth of the airmail service is reflected. We hope and believe that Major Steinmetz will be honored by the jury of awards in connection with this exhibit.

First authorized Air Mail Flight in the United States, No. 1910, from Hamburg-American Steamship at Sea, to New Jersey shore.

First Flight from Key West, Florida, across by Seaplane to Havana, Cuba, United States Air Mail, regular route November 1, 1920.

Newfoundland, 1919 — An Attempted

Tough Luck for The Boss

For some weeks past, we have been advertising in MEKEEL'S and other philatelic journals. The ads, the stamps offered, our low prices, our pleasing personality, or the quick service rendered has evidently caught the fancy of the philatelists from Coast to Coast, as we were literally swamped with orders and inquiries, so much, in fact, that we were obliged to work from fourteen to twenty hours per day and filling orders as late as four to five A. M. in many cases.

It has been too much of a strain and we are now under the doctor's care. He has ordered us to cut out all night work at once and to take things very easy for the next ninety days, and that is just what we intend to do.

Arrangements have been made so our store will be open on Saturdays only for the next three months (Local trade only), so kindly refrain from sending us any inquiries or orders for stamps until our ads again appear in MEKEEL'S.

If our health gets back to normal, we will resume our advertising about October 1st. If not, our immense accumulation of rare old U. S. and Foreign will be sold for a lump sum or by the auction route.

We want to thank the hundreds of philatelists who have favored us with orders and approval requests, and we hope to be in a condition to be able to resume business relations with them again after Oct. 1st.

3c Stamps of the 1851-1857 Issues

Specialists in the 3c 1851-1857 issues, whose names and want lists are in our files, have had a chance to look over some unusual lots of these stamps during the past few months. These lots have been the findings of three scouts or stamp hunters now working in different parts of the country, and who are regularly sending their discoveries to us.

Our stock at present comprises thousands of copies both on and off cover, singles, pairs and strips showing most of the recognized plate varieties and some unusual combinations. If you need the "Line thru Three Cents", the recut button, the stamps from the last three rows of Plate III which show extra or missing side lines, or if you need shades, dates, fancy cancellations, we feel almost certain that the filing of your want list with us will not only result in the immediate production of at least some of your requirements, but will start toward you a steady flow of such good things as come to us.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Here's a chapter on Getting Together.

Next to getting our own stamps, the best fun is in showing them to the other fellow, and in seeing what he has got—also getting some of his, if possible! Correct so far?

Belonging to a few stamp clubs that flourish up and down the Connecticut Valley, I want to state that we have one grand "Pow-wow" every Spring, and by those who have attended in the past, the coming one is always heralded with joy, and that date is always reserved for that event, and no other. Stamps, talks, eats, and stamps are the sum total of that entire day. Can't you all arrange some such proceeding in your part of the country?

Mr. Ford is to put out a one-man Flivver soon we have read in the papers. What a chance for the airmail collectors to get together at some centrally located spot, if they can find parking space!

The best of it all is that we meet collectors at these parties who live at a distance, and whom we would not otherwise meet, perhaps never see them, or their collections. These collectors often show some of the most remarkable items, undreamed of stamps, covers, blocks and cancellations, the latter especially, and right now these are uppermost in my "one track" Forum mind. In the bigger cities there is no trouble in getting out a delegation to the meeting, for the announcement reads something like this — "Mr. Onolulu of Aikiki is to show his specialized collection of the Early stamps of Awaii, together with his Covers, which show the stamps of his country used in combination with those of other countries." You'd never miss that, would you?

The idea of getting together is simplified in this case, as the distance is not great; but my idea is to suggest that isolated collectors (and there are a great many such) get together at some accessible point, fetching their best album, and their "swappers," meet each other and talk it over, and you'll be surprised on adjourning to find that you are already looking forward to the next meeting, as we do here in the Connecticut Valley.

Often your recollection of some little item will compel more attention than a whole collection. Stamps are odd things, covers are more odd, and cancellations are most odd. Try this getting together stunt sometime, for it is just as much fun as collecting. Take along some duplicates, for you may be able to swap a 3c '51 with a red "PAID" cancellation for a Black Jack with a green gridiron, or something you need right much.

Break into collecting with as much enthusiasm as our Spring is now bursting forth in these Northern Hills, you'll enjoy it all. Get together, write "George" you're going to bring over the family and your collection next Tuesday night. Stamp folks are sort of bashful that way; but after the ice is broken it is quite a different matter.

Here's some recent arrivals, recent meaning received not over a month agone, as I'm still somewhat behind, tho catching up, as the Forum drawers look as tho "the river was falling" and the flood would do no damage this spring.

From Wm. H. McLin, Jr.—a 1c 1887 stamped envelope, the saw toothed oval type listed as blue, this being an "Albino"; stamped all right, but no color at all. The busy housewife to whom this circular was addressed ripped it four ways in her hurry, tho it was unsealed, tough luck! There is a black Indian postcard sent to Kennebunkport, Me., the Indian being overthrown with a blue Rochester, N. H., pmk. and star in blue. To hold him down still tighter, a 1c American Print is pasted over this Indian, Rochester again, dated "Sep 11 1879". The text of the card being that "* * * the 11th assessment this year to the OFMRA is due Sept. 11", and Mr. McLin says many were found this way in 1879, while the others of later years were not so used. The card asks that you affix your $ to the card, stick on a 1c stamp if you wish a receipt, and mail it. I suppose these must have been enclosed in an envelope, for it would not have been well if these $ bills had kept dropping off the cards in the post offices, they litter up the floors so.

Mr. L. S. Fairbanks sends a cover having printed at top left where return address should be, a large piratical flag in black, skull and bones the central feature, with a young crescent moon at top right on the flag. I'm not acquainted with this device. The cover has in addition to the common 3c T. II, 1857, an additional stamp, the 1c '57 T. I, used as Carrier, from N. Y. City to cashier of the B. & R. R. Buffalo, N. Y. He shows a Nesbit 3c covered by this pmk. in a

A nice vertical strip of three of Type II. The top stamp is a trifle close at the top, but does not cut into the lettering. IMPRESSMENT OF SLAVES BY THE CONFEDERATE STATES GOVERNMENT.

By EDWARD S. KNAPP.

I was much interested in reading the article in the WEEKLY of November 10, entitled, "Letter Offers Humans For Sale" by Thomas H. Pratt. The following handbill which is in the form of a letter-sheet, postmarked "Marion, Ala." and "Paid" gives one the story of how the negro slaves were made use of by the Confederate States and is rather a good follow-up to Mr. Pratt's article. I reproduce it verbatim—

"Marion, Ala., 2nd Sept., 1864.

To A. Benners

Pursuant to orders from Gen. D. H. Maury, through Col. Robert H. Smith, Chief Agent for Impressment for Alabama, I am instructed to impress one-fifth of all the male slaves in Perry County, between the ages of 18 and 45 years. In determining the number between those ages, all, whether able-bodied or not, will be computed; but the one-fifth impressed must be all able-bodied, and it must be one-fifth of the whole number. If a person has but one slave between the ages of 18 and 50, he will not be taken; if two or more, up to five, one will be taken. And shovels, spades and axes for the slaves, will also be impressed. Credit will be given to anyone assessed, for the number he now has in Government service, by impressment, and for those that have died in service, while impressed.

The above are my instructions. You are therefore required to furnish four able-bodied negroes, between the above ages, with suitable clothing, and one spade, shovel or axe, with six days rations, to proceed to Mobile, via Selma, on Saturday, 10th Sept., and will be required in Government employ until the 20th of December next.

Owners will be paid $50 per month for each hand. Subsistence and medical attention will be given them, and transportation furnished to their place of destination.

Clothing and shoes furnished at Government rates.

The Government proposes to pay for all negroes lost in its service.

A descriptive receipt will be furnished to each owner of the slave.

I am instructed, in all cases of delinquency, to enforce the law, by sending a military force and taking double the number of negroes impressed.

JOHN HOWZE,
Government Impressing Agent for Perry Co."

These negroes were taken for work on defences in various places. I have in my collection a receipt given to an owner for slaves thus taken to assist in the work on the defences at Savannah. Each slave is enumerated by name, age, color, height (and, in this case, sex), and a valuation is placed on each, according to the work he might be capable of doing, as for example, a man of 22 is valued at $3,800 and a woman of 50 at $1,000.

I think these handbills tell us more accurately the history of these times than we could get in any other way. They are positively true and of distinct historic interest.

A SPECIAL SLOGAN CANCELLATION FOR 1926.

By H. L. Lindquist.

It has become an established practice with the Post Office Department to advertise important Expositions, Reunions, Fairs, and Conventions, by means of slogans in connection with the cancellation devices, and it is but fitting and particularly appropriate to advertise the International Philatelic Exposition to be held in New York, in October, 1926, in this striking manner.

Every collector is more or less familiar with the type of advertising cancellations now in use and we illustrate a few that have been assembled to show exactly what is meant. These call attention to such diversified interests as the "International Live Stock Exposition" held in Chicago, the "Electrical and Industrial Exposition" held in New York, the "National Merchandise Fair," also held in New York, the "Reunion of the United Confederate Veterans" held in Washington, D. C., the "Own Your Home Exposition" held in Newark, N. J., and the "Nat. Encampment of Spanish War Veterans" held in Chattanooga.

Of even closer philatelic interest was the special cancellation used to advertise the Convention of the American Philatelic Society held in Springfield, Mass., in 1922.

Application for the use of such cancellations must be made through a Senator or Representative and the Post Office Department is naturally inclined to favor the organization which seems to have the most public demand behind it.

It is none too early to start the agitation for a special cancellation for the Exposition in question and every collector is urged to write to his Senator and Congressman, to the effect that he is a collector and would appreciate the assistance of the said Senator and Congressman to secure the consent of the department for such a cancellation.

This is a simple matter and most collectors are inclined to minimize its importance or to let the others do it. We are urged on good authority to cultivate our legislators in this way and it will help surprisingly in effecting other legislation that may come up later and upon which we will need such support badly if it is to be passed successfully.

Will you be one of those to help put it over?

EDITORIAL.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has given a good account of ability and too, alacrity in getting the three stamps of the Lexington-Concord issue before the public on the appointed date. Our first specimens came from Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., and are dated Washington, April 4th; and the cover bears as well the new half-cent and the one and one-half cent imperforate. The portrait of Nathan Hale on the ½c is a striking one and rather crowds the space of the oval but it makes a strong impression on the user of the stamp. As for the commemoratives, they are excellent examples of engraving and the choice of subjects is exceptionally good, from the American stand. The five-cent stamp is an artistic production even though it is a test of good vision to discern the inscription.

We are pleased to find that collectors still find a thrill in discussing the philatelic propriety of the special issues of our country and that there are partizans for and against the stamps. However, the tendency is growing to accept the celebratory stamps as inevitable and that they should be welcomed with good grace. This spirit is well reflected in the comments of correspondents who say that the effect of these striking, even if unnecessary stamps, is to quicken the interest of the non-philatelic beholder in all stamps. We suppose that there will never be any unanimity of opinion on the philatelic influence of commemorative stamps but no one will decry the issue of such stamps as recruiting agents for philately. To those who have given us their views on the subject, we return thanks but it is needless to publish the letters in the light of the discussion recently in these columns that arose over the proposal for a set of stamps in connection with the coming Philadelphia sesqui-centennial.

A Washington correspondent sends a notice announcing that the Treasury Department, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, is inviting sealed proposals to furnish it with bids for "the purchase of . . . . . postage stamp and internal revenue paper trimmings," etc.

Mr. A. W. Filstrup, Benton Harbor, Michigan, sends in a clipping from the Boston Traveler and Mr. A. H. Pike, Binghamton, N. Y., one from the Binghamton Press telling of a philatelist who has gone wrong with a vengeance. We learn that a man broke into a safe in the department store of Tepper Brothers at Elmira, New York, decamping with $797 in cash; and that the thief was an expert is indicated by his precaution to wear gloves in order to leave no finger marks. The gloves also prevented him from writing a note in clerkly hand but in which he managed to say that his visit was made profitable by his haul and pleasant by a half-hour of enjoyment in turning the pages of a well-filled stamp album that was in the vault. The note was written in the stamp album and told that the writer was an ardent stamp collector and that in consequence it required the strongest will-power to leave the collection behind. The collection was valued at five thousand dollars. Surely, stamp collectors are growing more complex and while safe crackers are not eligible to the list of prominent philatelists, yet there is a crumb of comfort in the thought that even the criminal of deepest dye sometimes gives a fellow collector the benefit of the breaks.

In the days of old it was the boast of the philatelic writer that a stamp collector was always sure of a welcome from a fellow philatelist, the world over. In view of happenings, that have been reported to us infrequently, it is something to say, the philatelic caller should be prepared to furnish credentials when he presents himself to the collector who is not acquainted with him. In fact, such procedure is expected in any circle and the observance of reasonable rules that tend to establish confidence will save embarrassment at times. The fact is that as collecting becomes more universal, it will have to conform to rules that have been adopted on the score of safety in the outside world. Philatelic hospitality is a delightful quality that must not be turned into a liability for the ones who dispense it.

From Mr. S. Newbury, Chicago, we have received a frame holding pictures of two of his superb blocks of "bull's-eyes" first issue of Brazil. A block of nine of the ninety reis is three by three and a block of seventeen of the same stamp shows two vertical rows of six stamps and a third row of five, making a piece seemingly unique. Mr. Newbury, while attached to Brazil and other South American countries has fine represent tions from the United States, as w Mr. Newbury has developed into t ranks of real collectors and finds in stamps an inviting recreation. We m add that Mr. Newbury soon will leave a trip to Africa where he intends make Capetown, Durban, Ladysmith, hannesburg, etc., and while "busine will have no place in the itinerary of journey, the wager is a good one t the stamp shop on and off the bea track will know his presence, here a there.

Twentieth century United States growing in favor and this remark m be extended to apply to all the iss from 1890 down to date. The logic this trend is simple enough, in con quence of the intensity with which issues previously to 1890 have b sought and segregated. While with issue of the small stamps of 1890, a l of division is made between the old a the new order, it is growing fainter. for the twentieth century U. S., it n not be pointed out that some of stamps are becoming elusive and it is parent that advances in price are impe ing that will equal or excel those t have marked the early issues. Contr to general opinion, speculative stocks these stamps are not held in quant sufficient to bear the market and many who began to buy unused U. S score of years ago finds that the harv is a good one.

The Philadelphia Ledger on April 5th tained an illustrated account of the w U. S. commemoratives and the Holy ar special issue of Italy. Mention is de of the prophecy of Third Assistant stmaster General Glover, that a special ency for the sale of stamps to collec-s would be a profitable adjunct to the st office department and the vindica-n of it by the roll of increasing sales new stamps. In addition, the satis-ction of the collectors at the govern-nt's recognition of them is something an asset.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

312 Walnut St., S. E. Mplis., Minn.

New Issue Notes—The first two dollar, current issue, which we have seen precanceled is from Techny, Ill. It makes a pleasing addition to our collection and is indeed in more ways than one a capital item. Lawrence Brothers also report this stamp as having been precanceled at Anamosa, Iowa.

Avon by the Sea, N. J.—B. Prieth furnishes the following information about the precancels of this tiny village on the bleak Atlantic. He writes, "Our postmaster overstocked on the Hardings and the remaining supply, about 500, was precanceled for the holiday rush. At the same time 300 of the 1 cent current issue were also printed with the four line wording of which you have made mention. All the above were used up before I realized their desirability so I am unable to furnish any specimens". This will show that the Hardings, if any come to light, will be valuable property.

Bangor, Me.—A few more denominations have come out in the red ink. Mr. F. M. Billings advises us that the 1, 5, 7, 11 and 15, new series, are all that have so far been dressed with the brilliant hued overprint. In our opinion these are the prettiest precancels ever issued.

Boston, Mass.—Joseph Demers reports the five dollar, 1902 type, perf. 10 with the Type IX precancellation. Having had it for several years, he felt that it should have been listed in the catalogue. As a matter of fact, this variety was unknown to the editors at the time the book was issued. Mr. Demers has a rare and desirable precancel worth, we should say, about ten or twelve dollars.

Bristow, Okla.—S. Hyman favors us with the 10 and 15 cent, present issue, in the U-51 style. He also reports the 14 cent from Hickory, N. C., and Special Deliveries from Lynn, Oshkosh, and Saint Petersburg, in the current electros.

Mary Knoll, N. Y.—The 1 cent normal and inverted is quite frequently found in mission mixtures. The U-10 electro has superseded the U-53 handstamp, which first did the work.

Milwaukie, Ore.—While we don't know the history of this town we can be reasonably sure that ex-Milwaukee, Wis., residents had something to do with entitling it. Probably some covered wagon held natives of Wisconsin who were seeking a new home. Instead of calling the settlement "New Milwaukee" they prevailed upon the group to adopt the transposition resulting from an "e" changed to an "i". This, in our opinion, was very ingenious. Milwaukie is employing precanceled stamps with the U-53 handstamped overprint. So far we have seen the 1, 4, 11 and 20 cent values of the present set, for which we thank Ed Steiner of Oregon City.

New Albany, Ind.—Max Hirshman of Brooklyn writes, "To the 24 cent, new issue aero, which you list in the 'Review', add the 16 cent of the same series." New Albany has used both of these values on film boxes. The postmaster must favor odd denominations.

New York City—Mr. Hirshman comes to bat again with a little story of the two dollar orange red and black precancel, of which we wrote last month. He says, "Two of the two dollar orange reds, precanceled horizontally with the U-1 plate, were secured by a local dealer in a job lot from Costa Rica. I managed to get one of these gems and it now occupies a prominent place in my collection. A friend offered me eight dollars for it, but the same hinge still clasps it tightly in my album."

Valley City, N. Dak.—Vernon T. Gale informs us that another North Dakota town has joined the host of precancel producers. Valley City possesses a U-53 handstamp of twenty-five subjects, which to date has been used on the following: old series 3, 11, 12, 15, 20, 30; new series 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10.

Watsonville, Calif.—L. W. Hudson sends us a 1 cent in the U-53 style. H. S. Haller reports a group of California cities, as now having precancels for the first time. They are Claremont, Clovis, Culver City, Delano, Palo, Alto, Santa Maria, Sunnyvale and Whittier.

Wilmington, N. C.—A busy Carolina mill town which is using the U-10 electro for precanceling. Rather a coincidence that its sister city in Delaware has a plate of the same style. Joel Dubose has shown us the 10 cent current issue.

Conclusion—Universal Style Charts printed on cardboard will be sent to readers of this department, for their convenience, on receipt of 16 cents. The Standard Precancel Catalog fully illustrated and listing over 100,000 varieties will be sent to any reader on receipt of $2.10.

New Issues

On Saturday, April 4th, in accordance with previous announcements, several new emissions made their first appearance. The new Lexington-Concord series, consisting of a 1c, 2c and 5c, which were previously described, were placed on sale in Washington, Boston, Cambridge, Lexington, Concord and Concord Junction. The stamps are rather attractive, and in the case of the 5c, we have a variety different from any that has appeared heretofore, in that Longfellow's poem appears in the tablets on either side of the statue of the Minute Men. The stamps were hurriedly prepared and do not compare in workmanship and attractiveness with most of our previous commemorative issues.

On the same day, the new ½c printed in sepia, perforated 11, unwatermarked, appeared at both Washington and New Haven. Those placed on sale at the former city were in two very distinct shades, one light, and the other dark. It is my personal opinion that this stamp is possibly the most unattractive one ever turned out by the United States Government, and seems to have nothing in its favor in either design, color or appropriateness of portrait. It seems rather unusual to present Nathan Hale on our current series when such dignitaries as Woodrow Wilson, Andrew Jackson, John Marshall, James Madison and others, who have done much more for their country, are not represented. The portrait is taken from the well known statue of Hale in New Haven.

The Literary Digest calls attention to the fact that it would be just like the Senate to propose that Vice-President Dawes' picture be put upon the ½c stamp in recognition of his services to date.

The current 4c, 5c and 6c, which have been previously distributed in precanceled condition only were obtainable at Washington unused. These stamps, of course, differ from the normal stamps not only in size and impression but in perforations as well, for the rotaries are perforated 10, whereas the flat plate varieties are perforated 11.

April 4th will also be remembered as the day when the new 1½c stamp first issued on March 19th appeared in an imperforate condition. These were sold at Washington only but will be distributed to the other offices that have used the 1c imperforate heretofore. The 1½c stamp perforated 11, has appeared in two very distinct shades, one a deep brown and the other a yellow brown. This stamp seems to have been pretty well distributed already, for Mr. O. J. Olson kindly sends a first day cover from St. Paul, Mr. J. E. Guest, a similar cover from Dallas, Mr. A. W. Draves from Milwaukee, Mr. Allan P. Vestal from Indianapolis, and Mr. T. J. Epps from Jacksonville.

New Stamps

Die proofs for the 2c and 5c Norse-American series were approved on February 15th and February 10th respectively by the Postmaster General and plates for this issue have already gone to press. Among the first lot there was discovered a sheet with inverted center, but this was found and every stamp individually yellow penciled before being destroyed. The Bureau has specific instructions to examine these stamps carefully, in order that no inverts may appear, but in view of the rushed condition of the Bureau, which is working twenty-four hours a day in producing the new stamps, it is quite likely that an inverted sheet may creep out. The WEEKLY will await with great interest early news of any such find. Heretofore we have never had a bi-colored series of the lower denominations without having an inverted error appear. The new series will not be printed in large quantities for the original order calls for but 10,000,000 2c, and 2,000,000 5c. As a result, they should prove good property, used as well a unused.

It was at first thought that the ne 15c and 20c Special Delivery previous described, along with the 25c "Specia Handling", would not appear until afte April 15th but the Postmaster General i desirous that all stamps issued because o the recent Act of Congress, which goe into effect on April 15th, shall all b issued by that time.

The die proof for the 25c gree "Special Handling" emission was ap proved by the Postmaster General o March 23rd and is quite similar to the 25 Parcel Post Postage Due. In the cente we find in large figures "25", immediatel

UNCLE SAM'S BABY
BORN APRIL 4, 1925

This little fellow, THE NEW ½ CENT STAMP, makes philatelic history and we think will be very popular with collectors. Also there's a likelihood that it will be short-lived, as people don't like to be bothered with fractions and the postal clerks are having a dickens of a time cutting pennies in half so as to make change. We have some nice First Day Covers of beautiful blocks of four of this stamp and we think so much of you that we'll sell you one for only 30c.

First day cover collecting certainly must be on the boom. If you had seen the Washington Post Office on April 4th, when the new ½c was issued, you would have thought that all of the Saturday Evening Post subscribers had ordered FIRST DAY COVERS.

While you're with me take a look at these FIRST DAY Cover Bargains:

Mail Flights

Mr. E. J. Newcomer sends clippings m the Yakima, (Wash.) Herald of rch 5th and 7th regarding a proposed ension to the transcontinental air mail vice. It seems that the distance from co, Nevada, one of the stopping ces, to Pasco, Wash., is about the ne distance as from Elko to San ancisco, while the distance from Salt ke to Spokane is about the same as m Salt Lake to San Francisco. erefore, planes would either have to ve Spokane or Pasco at 6.00 A. M. in ler to make connections with the east-nd mail. With present train sched-s, mail leaving Seattle and Portland, any other points west of Spokane on ning trains would arrive at Spokane late for the air mail, as these trains ive at Spokane about 8 A. M. On other hand, these trains pass through Pasco very early in the morning and would make connections with a plane leaving there at 6 A. M. Westbound mail would arrive at either Pasco or Spokane about 6 P. M., in time for evening trains to the coast. This would give the Pacific Northwest a 48-hour service with New York, while at present practically no time is saved by the airmail route, owing to the slow train schedules west of Salt Lake City.

From the standpoint of service, it would appear that Pasco is the logical terminal, unless airmail or train schedules are materially changed.

Mr. R. S. Carter advises that the Balboa Star & Herald informs the public that an airmail service from New Orleans to the Isthmus is likely to be established at an early date. We hope to present further details to our readers when available.

Canal Zone

Mr. Carter also informs us that there are vague rumors on the Zone that the old Panama stamps surcharged "Canal Zone" will again be placed on sale for the benefit of collectors only. He also writes that a complete new issue is expected at an early date but that he has been unable to confirm this information from official post office sources. As soon as anything definite takes place, he will place us in a position to give our readers early notice.

Grand Liban.—Mr. Francis J. Field reports that one or two varieties of the 1923 and 1924 air stamps have just been found with inverted surcharge.

Great Britain.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the 1d postage due which he reports on thick chalky surfaced paper with the old watermark. They are evidently printed on the paper, which was used at the Somerset House for printing the 6d postage stamps, having the watermark "Postage" in the margin.

Latvia.—We learn from Mr. Karl Koslowski that to round out the complete present series of santimi stamps, to closely conform with the Postal Union, also to establish permanence in rates since the currency has been established there has been ordered prepared four further values as follows: 6s yellow green, 15s red, 25s blue and 30s rose. Five million of the first three values and 4 million of the 30s are the numbers ordered.

We are informed by Mr. George H. Jaeger that on account of the 300th anniversary of Libau in June of this year there is planned a series of five values of pictorial stamps, which will be printed in two colors. Mr. Richard Sarrin, chief of the State Printing Office, is reported to be making the designs, but it may be decided to place the work in the hands of Mr. Fiebig, the designer of the Riga liberation stamps. Mr. Jaeger also adds that the series will picture the Libau harbour, the Town Hall, the Church of St. Anne, the beach and Assembly House and the Libau City arms.

South Africa.—Mr. Francis J. Field advises that the 1d air post stamp was issued on February 25th last.

Portuguese Colonies

We offer at an exceptionally low price one of the best and most complete collections of Portuguese Colonies which has ever passed through our hands.

This collection was included in the stock of a large foreign dealer recently purchased by us and it is our desire to offer it intact at a price low enough to draw an immediate purchaser. It is impossible to do full justice in describing this offering, and we shall endeavor only to give the most important details:

The collection contains exactly 3,100 different stamps — every one a distinct major variety. Twentieth century issues are almost complete for all of the colonies. Among the gems are Angola Nos. 116, 134-151; Cape Verde 136 and 138; Mozambique 164a, 184-88, Congo 119, 122a; Portuguese India 262-396 practically cpl.; St. Thomas 116-166, etc., etc. Unused stamps are in the majority, and used copies are lightly cancelled in most cases. Condition throughout is really superb, great care having evidently been taken by the former owner in the selection of fine copies.

Total Catalogue Value is Approximately $2,250.00

Catalogue values on Portuguese Colonies have been greatly reduced during the past three years, and it is common knowledge that many of these stamps, particularly the scarcer ones, are now very much underpriced.

We do not believe this collection could be replaced—stamp for stamp—at less than $1,000.00. As a straight, dyed-in-the-wool proposition for collector or dealer, it has our highest recommendation. For immediate clearance we offer the collection intact for

Special Price $500.00

3,000 Different FRENCH COLONIES

(Including France and Occupation Issues)

Net $187.50

This is probably the largest collection of its kind which has ever been carried by any concern, either here or abroad, and they are so difficult to assemble that it is impossible for us to offer more than one or perhaps two each year.

The mere number "three thousand" does not appear very startling, but when it precedes the words "France and Colonies"—scarce, much under-catalogued, and everywhere in great demand—then will incredulous exclamations be forthcoming from every collector. For how many devotees of the Great Hobby are able to point with pride to well-filled pages of these hard-to-get Colonials? How many more have glanced ruefully at the many empty and unfilled spaces and very near despaired of ever filling them?

We are quite proud in being able to present such an effective and altogether satisfactory solution to the problem, and are positive that the future patronage of the lucky buyer will repay us for the strenuous effort and small monetary profit in offering this extraordinary collection at a low price well within the reach of any collector.

We cannot undertake a detailed description of a collection of this size. It would take pages to do so. It can be stated, however, that every stamp is in fine condition and that the collection will fill, at one fell swoop, many of those annoying blank spaces with the medium-priced French Colonials you have been unable to obtain. Early issues, new issues, red cross and charity stamps; occupation and provisional issues;—thousands of sueprb, handsome and hard-to-get stamps, most of them in mint condition. That's the story in a few words, and the purchaser who is not more than pleased after a thorough examination may return the collection for a full refund, plus postal expenses. We make this seemingly liberal offer secure in the knowledge that the collection is so unusually fine that no one will ever think of taking advantage of it!

AEROPLANE STAMPS - CONGO, ETC.

Just a few offers from our enormous stock, which is one of the largest in the World to-day. There are only a very few comprehensive general stocks anywhere, and it's "up to you" to at least investigate what we have to offer. Why not send for "Phillips' Monthly Bulletin", 24 to 32 pages each issue, and let us assist you with those "space fillers". We have supplied most of the great American collections with cheap, medium and rare "space fillers", and offer you a want list and approval service few can approach. Our "Bulletin" offers during the year a host of stamps never advertised by others, goods the average dealer almost never has even a single copy of. We hope there is something you can use in our random offers below. If not, let us know what you do want, especially in 20th. We stock the "hard" ones as well as the others, items that have a future and are usually missing in collections.

Without doubt this branch of stamp collecting has a great future and present prices will look cheap in the years to come. HALF-CENT RATE NOT NEW.

By Charles G. Wilson.

The half-cent postage rate which has given rise to the creation of the Nathan Hale stamp is not the first time the cent has been split to pay postage rates. The schedule of postage rates taken from the Annals of the Second Congress, January 3, 4, 1792, An Act, etc., approved Feb. 20, 1792, Sec. 9, shows that the postage on letters carried from 100 to 150 miles was 12½c. If you are inclined to think postage rates high now glance over the table and rejoice.

black ring—"Rapid Ann Station Va". The question: is this the present Rapidan in Culpepper County? The cover looks very old, recalling the "How old is Ann?" stuff.

Mr. F. O. Selianoff has sent several items of interest, 3 copies of 2c 1890, with "sliding caps", in various positions along the top of the left "2". Also four copies of the 2c Columbian, a stamp listed in violet, these being magenta. A used block of the 4c same issue, one with extra leaf in the space containing the "4" at right, while toward the top of the "4" at left we see a white spot, not unlike cap on 2c 1890's. A 10c, '57 T. II is a wide copy with no perfs at sides, the same happening on two 10c 1861's each canceled "PAID" in a frame. All are pretty. A 1c 1890 appears as tho the whole stamp were in a snowstorm as it has little flecks of white all over it, caused no doubt by being printed on a sheet of paper that was almost entirely dried out before receiving its ink.

Mr. W. H. Schneider has sent in some very odd cancellations. One leaps right at you, it being a large black coffin with a nice chubby skull, and a pair of well rounded bones, not those terribly emaciated ghoulish kind I have seen so many of lately. This unearthly device falls all over the red Liberty head of our First postcard, Pittsburg being responsible. There are two animals, i.e., they are almost animals, prehistoric ones maybe, anyhow they will probably blink at you from among a 100 or so illustrations that are now being made for the Forum. You'll probably be able to tell at a glance just what they are, if not, your guess will be just as good as the next one's. Wooster, O., furnishes a very neat shield on a stamped envelope of the 60's, while the word PAID in open letters comes on a small Maltese cross, a letter in each of the four arms of the cross, all surrounded by a circle. Neat too. It comes from Maumee City, Ohio.

Mr. M. B. Fraser turns in a 3c green with what looks like a "D" in a circle, it is a bit different in shape tho than most "D" cancels, the circle is saw toothed. He has a "Paid 3", a big "T", and an "X" all on the 3c greens. On a 3c '61 is a very clear "10", and another 3c '61 has an open star, which also is in his collection on a 24c gray.

Mr. C. J. Hohenstein has sent in a single item. This is one of the prettiest and best struck (neatest) designs that I have ever seen on a 3c green, tho it is hard to describe. It is a cross within a square, and has sharp points projecting from the sides of the square with a pair of little square dots each side of these points, and they do make it look peppy. You'll see this one later on. When color is not mentioned, black is understood.

Have maybe 80 of the illustrations all drawn now for the Forum. Don't let this new 15c registry fee worry you, try it with a few good cancels for our column. Many thanks for all the good items you have sent in to date. S.S.S.S.

P. S. This morning's mail is full of the new Concord-Lexingtons, ½c Hales, and 1½c Hardings. Some of the 2c C-Ls approach the color of Norway, No. 98, a stamp I much admire. If you watch the 1½c Hardings you will find two very different shades, one dark, like the present 4c; the other a very light brown, Perf. 11. One may be uncommon later on.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The post office employees have been warned to be on the watch for a counterfeit stamp, evidently of the two cent denomination, that has originated in Chicago, or environs. Particulars are lacking but it is evident that forgers have made an attempt to impose upon the post office department, perhaps similar to the one made about thirty years ago, when Chicago was the distributing base for the counterfeits.

—The New York Times in the Sunday issue of March 29th, has an outstanding stamp story, based on an interview with Mr. John N. Luff, which represents the art of philatelic reporting at its best. Even the fact that the WEEKLY is mentioned in the opening sentence does not influence us to say to the contrary; and Mr. Crane, the writer, may put another notch on his pen. We "lift" the first paragraph:

"John N. Luff, who is generally recognized as the leading stamp expert in America and who has been President for several years of the Collectors Club of this city, has some practical and commonsense things to say about methods of collecting in a recent issue of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. He says that the time has gone by when a man can call himself a philatelist by merely filling vacant spaces in an album with an accumulation of stamps, to which, perhaps, have been added some specialties in the way of shades, blocks and cancellations. The collector today who wishes to command the real interest of his fellows must not only have something worth while showing, but also some definite philatelic information to impart."

—A correspondent wants to know why we have not included Swinnerton, the artist, among the philatelic drawing cards; and he sends us the syndicated "Little Jimmy" that appeared in the papers on March 1st, as evidence of his philatelic grasp and appreciation. We congratulate Swinnerton in his creation of the stamp "lover" in these comic strips; and it is a foregone conclusion that the artist knows a thing or two about stamps and their collectors.

—In the "Hit or Miss" column of the Chicago Daily News, we find that Satan finds something for idle minds to do: "The Norwegian government is issuing special postage stamps to be sold in connection with Capt. Amundsen's north-pole flight. These will come in handy for letters to Santa Claus."

—H. P. Atherton of Springfield submits a block of four of the 1½c Harding in a very light shade of brown. It is very evident that several shades of this color are among the possibilities.

—Mr. G. A. Martin, Santa Barbara, California, true to his promise has blossomed forth with a ripping stamp article. In his Morning Press of March 22nd, Mr. Martin's "Postage Stamps Educate and Fascinate" will intrigue many a roving eye and the effect of Mr. Martin's lively account will be marked. This is intelligent publicity of the right kind and we hope that his pen will not weary of philatelic well-doing.

—The Hon. Sec. T. M. Barrington, 616 Victoria Avenue, Westmount, Quebec, Canada, will gladly forward prospectus and entry forms to all interested in the Third Canadian Philatelic Exhibition. Individuals, associations, stamp firms and others desirous of donating or presenting medals, etc., should address the Hon Sec.

THE PASSING OF NATHAN HALE.

By CHARLES G. WILSON.

Nathan Hale, who appears on the novel ½c stamp of the United States was born at Coventry, Connecticut, in 1755. After graduating from Yale in 1773 he embraced the prosaic calling of a schoolmaster. In July, 1775, he entered the Continental Army and qualified as a captain in September, 1776.

It was in this month that General Washington, resting his army in New York after the Long Island rout, was in great need of information about the British forces which were preparing to attack him. Young Hale volunteered to get this information for his chief and his services were accepted.

In the guise of a Dutch schoolmaster he slipped into the British lines and learned the sorely-needed facts. On his way back, however, he was recognized by a tory relative who arrested him and took him to British Headquarters. He was tried by drumhead court martial and found guilty of being a spy. During his last hours the services of a clergyman and even the use of a Bible were denied him, and letters which he wrote to his mother and sister were destroyed. He bore his fate with extreme fortitude, never faltering in word or action.

As he stood in the apple orchard under the crude gallows, the rope around his neck, his lobster-coated foeman asked him if he had aught to say. He turned his cool, clear eyes upon them. "I only regret that I have but one life to give for my country," said Nathan Hale. Then they swung him up among the bobbing russet apples in the orchard of Colonel Henry Rutgers, near where today is the junction of East Broadway and Market Street. So passed Nathan Hale.

EXTRA-ILLUSTRATING THE COLLECTION.

By STEPHEN G. RICH.

The specialist and the general collector alike may find some item or hint of interest in this account of extra-illustrating of collections. Not only does it make the collection more interesting to persons who see it—especially to those who are not philatelic experts—but it adds, in my experience, to the pleasure of mounting and arranging the collection.

The idea came to me from one of the collections of U. S. Telegraphs that was exhibited at the 1913 exhibition in New York. The maker of that collection (I don't at the moment recall who he was) had added to nearly every page that was exhibited in the frames something in addition to the stamps. One page, with early Western Union stamps, had a telegram and envelope from the same period as the stamps on the page. Another had a picture of the sending-room of the old Western Union main office on lower Broadway, New York. For another page, a design of poles and wires formed the background. The page for the Postal Telegraph early issues had a map showing where that company's lines ran. I remember also portraits of some of the men prominent in developing telegraphy: Professor Morse of New York University, the inventor; Ezra Cornell, the leading telegraph financier; and others.

Of course the ideal set of items for extra-illustrating are photographs taken by yourself in the country whose stamps you collect. These are not always possible to get. In mounting my South Africans of the pre-Union period, when Cape, Natal, etc., had separate issues, I happened to be fortunate in having photographs taken when I lived in South Africa. I found that for the ordinary Ne Plus Ultra or Orial size sheets, photos of not over 2 by 4 inches in size and not less than 1 by 2 inches looked best.

I did not have enough photographs of relevant interest to supply all my pages. From tourist agencies I got two illustrated travel-books about South Africa, one issued by Cook's Tours and the other by the Union Castle line. These provided me with enough further pictures to have one for every page of both the colonial issues and the national issues of the Union since 1910.

Usually the most advantageous place in which to paste such pictures has been one of the upper corners of the page. Occasionally, two pictures, one at each upper corner, within the printed margin line and with the heading between them, have made a good-looking page. A long and narrow picture, such as that of a monumental building or a piece of scenery, is more advantageously placed at the bottom of the page. I have been exceedingly free-handed in trimming the pictures—often removing nearly all the foreground. One particularly happy effect was secured with a photograph of a narrow lane in Durban, Natal, by trimming a 1A kodak photo down to an inch wide and four inches high, and placing it in the upper right corner of the page.

One of the best sources of illustrations is the National Geographic magazine. Back numbers of this may be picked up at ten cents a time in second-hand bookstores in the larger cities. A dozen or fifteen numbers of this journal will give any collector enough material to illustrate quite generously many countries in a general collection. The only caution needed is: don't be afraid to trim the picture down ruthlessly.

Personally, I like a title for each picture. When I have a photograph, or when I have to trim down a printed picture, my practice is to letter the title in very small print beneath the picture. I do not make any attempt to keep the exact printed title, but change it to suit my fancy.

In a printed album, the selection and placing and trimming of the pictures must of course be guided by the space left blank on the page by the album-maker. I have, in a few cases, in which I was still using sheets from such an album, not hesitated to put illustrations right over spaces for very scarce stamps which I had no expectation of getting.

In printed albums even more than in specialists' ones, it is necessary for best results to keep the illustrations within the printed border of the page.

The type of picture that I consider relevant may be judged from the following that I have used on my pages of Cape of Good Hope:—Photo of house "Schoongezicht," Stellenbosch, C. P., built 1799; view of Table Mountain, Capetown, from the harbor; Houses of Parliament, Capetown (on page of revenues); view of main street of the old Dutch town of Stellenbosch, Cape, showing post office; typical old Cape farm gateway; post office at Oudtshoorn, Cape; main street of Port Elizabeth, Cape, from the post office; General Post Office, Capetown. One page carries a map of the Cape Province. On the Natal pages some of the illustrations are:—tea-picking on a Natal plantation; Natal sugar-fields; Mercury Lane, Durban (the narrow street mentioned above); Saturday morning at a missionary normal-school in Natal; rickshas on main street of Pietermarizburg, Natal.

But the extra-illustrating need not be limited to photographs. An occasion-

U. S. CANCELLATIONS

We have decided to add another volume to Gibbons U. S. Library, if we find the interest taken justifies the expense entailed. This volume will be on U. S. Cancellations, with several plates showing approximately the designs of the scarcer items.

We shall be pleased to receive letters from those interested and ask any who may have cancellations of real interest (not merely stars or crosses, etc.) to send them in for inspection, with any details known, such as place of issue, date, scarcity, etc. Every care will be taken of stamps sent, and they will be returned as soon as they have been noted.

We wish to buy Cancellations on U. S. Stamps all issues and will appreciate offers of any you may have for sale, and give same our prompt attention.

What do you want in the U. S. and Colonies, Great Britain and Colonies, French and Colonies? I have the goods.

H. F. COLMAN, 509 7th Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

al map is worth while. For my Griqualand West page I have made a map, carefully showing the district, its towns and Communications, and what provinces adjoin it. One page of Union of South Africa bears the coat-of-arms of that country; one for railway stamps of that country has a picture of trains leaving the busiest station in the country at Capetown.

The list of possible extra-illustrations is, of course, much greater than I have indicated. The collection of telegraphs which I have mentioned may suggest some other items to be used. In case the collector has some odd covers, philatelically of little or no value, but of human interest, they may serve for illustration. I recently saw a commonplace cover with 3-cent 1861 U. S., used for extra-illustrating the page on which that issue was placed. It was quite worth while, for it was addressed to a friend of the owner of the collection, at a place where that owner had spent many summers, and where there is no longer a post office. Pieces of cover showing characteristic postmarks are often interesting extra-illustrations.

Let me commend extra-illustrating of the collection to beginner and specialist alike, as a most agreeable addition to the pleasures of philately.

INSECURITY OF EARLY MAILS

By Charles G. Wilson.

During the infancy of the American postal service the mails were carried long distances without protection of any sort. The law extending absolute protection to mail had not been formed and it was loudly complained of that letters and packages were opened and examined by the carriers. It was not until after many years when the quantity of the mails had so greatly increased and the carriers found no time to open the letters in their custody that this malicious practice came to an end.

For a long time after the Revolution the insecurity of the mails gave rise to the practice of men high in the political and business circles of the nation using a cipher code in writing all their communications. Such was the custom of Madison, Jefferson, Monroe and Aaron Burr.

HONOR AMONG PHILATELISTS.

Elmira, N. Y., April 2—A man who broke into a safe in Tepper Brothers' Department Store here last night and obtained $797 in cash left a note in which he said he passed a pleasant half-hour looking through a collection of stamps he found in the vault.

The note, which was written in the stamp book, declared that the writer, too, was a stamp enthusiast and that it required strong will power on his part to resist the temptation to take the collection, which its owner said was worth $5,000.

The thief wore gloves to prevent leaving finger prints, and in his note asked that his writing be excused for this reason.—Boston Herald.

THE MATTER OF GUM.

By Percy A. Hill.

The opinion expressed herewith is naturally only personal, but I heartily agree with the philatelist who desired to collect stamps and not mucilage. Outside the specializing and getting down to the fundamentals of philately we might say that the greatest thrills come from the face and not the blank back of the adhesive. How many philatelists in looking over their albums, turn the stamp and gloat over the gum. Mighty few. The kick comes from the design, its color, cancellation, and what it teaches.

Of course it is true that the special class of mucilage in some cases authenticates the stamp, but few again are so lucky as to possess a Post Office Mauritius or a 2c Br. Guiana. Again the variable climate of the Orient, and we might say all countries outside of the temperate zone is a factor to be reckoned with by collectors, in fact, I know a philatelist who would not bring his albums to the Orient on this account. The humidity and alternate extreme dryness make the adhesive, really adhere. You may use talcum, or squares of oiled paper, but they stick just the same, and a thousand Fr. Colonials or Neurope arriving here in the Philippines are a study for the glue-pot in many cases, as the mucilage used on many of these is not only viscous — it is vicious.

O. G. was originally made to stick and is not a thing of beauty. Your correspondent was right. Certain gums discolor the stamp, others like the handsome specimens of Bosnia and the K. U. K. S. (not the Ku Klux) become rumpled and crinkled in a short time, and yet others from Br. Colonies draw up like a German mattrass on the least climatic provocation. Just stack up a hundred of these and measure against ordinary stamps and you will see the difference. Perhaps the O.G. men will some day evolve a millimeter scale to measure, together with a barometer and other contraptions.

Again your correspondent was right in saying that many used stamps have gum. I have before me, at present, not a block but an entire pane of Philippine stamps which have done postal duty and retain their O.G., and in the case of singles it it much more common. When a lucky collector gets a stamp he thinks is a Ferrarity, he can easily solve the gum question by purchasing a few of the transparent pockets used today at a small cost and thus respect both his hobby and his album, but the general run of collectors with from 10 to 25,000 never expect to get these by "swopping" or less than a divine dispensation of a Philatelic Providence. They also never expect to make their collection an item in an exhibition, nor do they visualise it being sold at auction, hence I believe gum, mucilage, O.G. or N.O.G. has small charm for nine-tenths of collectors as against the stamp itself. As for gum preserving the "life" of the stamp or its natural color, it is a very debatable question.

Coming back to fundamentals, collectors collect for the pleasure it them, and pass on their accumulatio their families, so we agree with the Greek when he said "nothing in ex not even mucilage.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

The Forum completed its first half year April 4th. At the end of this period a summary is quite in order. What did you learn? Did you take up any new branch of collecting? What suggestions have you to offer for this column?

From my standpoint quite a number of things were brought up which may be improved. For example, can we add the day of issue of any more of our old stamps to the list? It has the 1c of 1851, the special delivery, and the 2c 1890 established authentically.

Then think of the other interesting things that may be written about, lists of railroad cancellations on our 3c greens; lists of precancels prior to the 1894 triangle issue; record of the first machine cancellations; list of "Patent" cancellations with examples; and our earliest grilled stamp, which is open still for discussion. I have an idea that some town or towns made use of the grill in an experimental way, as did the device which cut holes into the stamps, as used in Buffalo, New York City, etc., for it must have competed with these "patent" cancels to be awarded the contract it would seem. Some years ago the grilled "all over" was thought to be the first grilled stamp to appear, and it was thought to come from Little Rock, Alabama, and that all others were "bad". Why not pool our interests in this "all over" stamp, and make a list of the towns using it, with the month date of its use? I know of no one who specializes in this stamp on cover, in fact you are fortunate if you have one copy on the cover.

If we could divide this study of early U. S. into groups it would be a means to getting at the facts, many of which are unknown, or very hazy at present. Summer is a grand time to study your stamps, not meaning the O.G. ones of course. Take on a summer night, it gets cool around midnight, and from then on there is not much noise, and most of the mosquitoes are at work where the sleepers are. Some collectors tell me they do more actual stamp study and work on summer nights than in the winter. Probably many collections will be put into shape for the International Exhibition in 1926 during these coming summer months. Make the most of the summer I say.

For the Forum I'm going to stick by these cancellations. They have a fascination to the most of us, and next year I may be trying to find out about the "whys" of some of our odd foreign rates. That is an interesting study. Why did they stick on 5c worth of stamps in the fifties, no matter if the letter went to France or to Hong Kong? It cost much more to go to Hong Kong, yet the 5c seemed to carry the letter there all right enough.

The rate across the U. S. was 10c, and in the West it was 6c at times. Guess we have a lot to study about the application of rate to foreign countries, as they do not seem to have adhered to the postal regulations with meticulous postal markings on all of their covers.

One reader asks "How many skull and bones cancellations were there on early U. S. stamps"? How many were there, we can get at that only by having some system. They were easy to cut into cork, for if they came out reversed they did not show it, whilst an "O K" reversed looks like a foreign tongue, maybe Russian for "K O."

Mr. Beverly S. King writes that he went thro about 1000 old letters, and had a good time! Here are some of his enclosures—on 3c 61s stars, Paid, a shield, wheel with spokes from Newaygo, Mich.; some pretty 10c Nationals to France with those star effects in circles and pretty red transit marks at cheerful intervals on the face of the covers; a lot of pretty 3c greens including the famous Danbury Hat, purple star, horizontal strip of six 3c Nationals each being cancelled in blue with a neat open star cut into a solid circle, with around it, from Newport, Va.; Derby, Ct., leaf; and on a 3c 1869 is a neat triangular device from Westerly, R. I.

Off cover, a 12c '67 shows marked shift in form of a double wavy line at bottom. These stamps come in jet black as a rule. A 30c 1867 has a delicate lace like pattern for a cancellation, and a 2c National has what may be a man in a cap, at a guess.

Think of a thousand covers that have never seen the philatelic eye!

Mr. G. A. Hitchcock has sent in some of the covers from his collection, and they are a fascinating lot. A 3c 1852 print on creased paper from Yarmouth, Me., shows a vertical colorless line about 2mm wide. A 3c 1856 print shows Thorn-

BOOK REVIEW.

We have received from the Philatelic Magazine, 46 Victoria St., London, England, a review copy of, "Who's Who in Philately" an international philatelic directory. It is brought up to date and is a worthy successor of the editions that have preceded it. The price of the book is 85c postpaid. The book pays special attention to the collections of members of the royalty, no fewer than fourteen being mentioned. The best praise that we can bestow upon this book is to say that we have frequently made use of the data contained in it and would recommend it to anyone who desires to know "who's who in philately."

Another publication from 46 Victoria St. is "A Short History of the Post Office from Earliest Time" by A. E. F. Cain. The price of the book is 12c and the title is self-explanatory of the text of this interesting 20-page pamphlet. A. Ginn goes back as far as the reign of King John, where the official records show payment made to messengers for the conveyance of government despatches. The romance of these early days is covered in an interesting manner.

CANAL ZONE INVERT.

Emil J. Rall of Ancon sends us the following clipping from the Panama Star and Herald of April 2. It will interest specialists in Canal Zone Stamps.

To W. Lindo, a messenger boy in the office of the Captain of the Port at Cristobal belongs the honor of having discovered that a sheet of 100 one cent Canal Zone stamps had been surcharged upside down by the Bureau of Printing and Engraving in Washington.

The stamps are the new issue, surcharged "Canal Zone" across the face.

So far, 43 of the stamps have been accounted for or recovered, and there yet remains 57 which it is believed have been mailed to the States on postal cards.

Lindon discovered the error on mail brought back by the pilot from the S. S. Mobile City, when he found four cards with the stamps surcharge reversed. He reported the fact, with the result that an investigation was started and a total of 43 recovered. All were sold in the Cristobal post office.

It is believed that the stamps, because of the fact that only one sheet was surcharged wrongly, will have a high value, and those of the personnel in the Port Captain's office who have any of them, are holding for a rise in value.

REPEAL OF DUTY ON RE-IMPORTS.

The Honorable E. R. Ackerman has introduced a bill in Congress amending paragraph 1671 of Schedule 15, Title II, of the Tariff Act of 1922, putting United States stamps on a parity with foreign stamps by eliminating the duty imposed on United States stamps re-imported into the United States. It is urged that every dealer and collector write to his congressman and senators asking them to support this bill. Refer to House Bill 9159.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR ROLL.

Robert C. Beal, N. Y. City, N. Y.
John L. Howard, Suffolk, Va.

We have two new members for our Honor Club this week. One is Robert C. Beal, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, 25 Broad St., N. Y. City, who has been a subscriber to the Weekly for more than fifteen years. Mr. Beal is interested in early U. S., his collection being entirely given over to stamps issued prior to 1890.

The other applicant for membership is John L. Howard, Suffolk, Va., who remits $5 for a five-year renewal, and adds "Since I cannot do without your paper I enclose my check of $5 for a five years' supply."

The Managing Editor.

NORWAY AND THE NEW WORLD.

(This editorial appeared in the Boston "Herald" and is in keeping with similar editorials that have appeared in this enterprising daily and to which we have referred in the past. The "Herald" has a real philatelist for one of its editors.—W. O. W.)

Persons who like to see history put into pictorial form will welcome issues of commemorative stamps, no matter what the stamp collectors think. The post office began more than thirty years ago with the printing of stamps in honor of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. At intervals followed the Panama-Pacific, the Hudson-Fulton, the Alaska-Yukon and various other issues. In 1920 were sent out the Pilgrim centenary stamps; last year we had the Huguenot-Walloon tercentenary issue; this month stamp users will be able to commemorate the day in 1825 on which the first shipload of Norwegian immigrants arrived in New York City on the sloop "Restaurationen." The new two-cent stamp, red and blue in color, will have for its chief design a picture of the sloop, with the words, "Norse-American" and "Centennial." On the five-cent stamp, blue and black, are to be shown the Norwegian and American flags.

In this way we shall be reminded throughout the year of a modest undertaking that had great results. The men who ventured to America from Norway a century ago were Quakers, whose imaginations and ambitions had been stirred by reports concerning life and its possibilities in the New World. Kleng Peerson, one of their own number, visited us as early as 1821 and failed not to carry back with him the story of what he had seen. Then, after maturing his plans for a voyage to the United States, he succeeded in gathering around him a group of fifty-one enthusiasts, eager for the venture, yet knowing no more than Columbus what fate might be in store for them. One comment written at the time described the sailing of the "Restaurationen," a small vessel of 45 tons burden, as an enterprise which argued "a good deal of boldness in the master of the ship, as well as an adventurous spirit in the passengers." But "after numerous adventures, including the finding of a pipe of wine floating on the sea not far from Madeira, and the birth of a daughter to one of the passengers," land hove in sight and they found themselves in New York harbor.

A tract of land had been purchased for them in Orleans county, and there the Norwegians settled. The home country soon heard of their successes with result in more cross-Atlantic trips. As the numbers of the colonists grew, many of them migrated to the western states, notably to Illinois, Missouri and Iowa, with final result in a growth which has given us, according to recent census returns, a Norwegian population of more than a million, if account be taken not only of people born in Norway, but of individuals one or both of whose parents are natives of that country. All the while these incomers have been helping us to utilize Norwegian contributions to the literature, art and music of the world; they have all the while been active as educators and patriotic as American citizens. And the new stamps will appropriately recognize these debts of ours to the "land of the midnight sun."

EDITORIAL.

It will be remembered that the convention of the American Philatelic Society was advertised by a special postmark, insofar as the cancellation was concerned, as follows: "American Philatelic Society Convention, Aug. 14-17, 1922," and Springfield's achievement was heralded far and wide as reflecting credit upon the influence and enterprise of the philatelists of Springfield. Since that time, there have been other examples of recognition of philately in stamp cancellations and it is not too early to say that a movement to secure a philatelic marking for use during the international exhibition at New York next year should be instituted. If collectors will keep in view the advisability of telling their senators and representatives at Washington what is on their minds, the results will be assured. Further than a tribute to American Philatelists, a cancellation has another effect, if its adoption is pressed through our Washington representatives; and that is: attention is called to the fact that philatelists are watchful and appreciative and that their good opinion is not to be flouted. The progress of philatelic legislation, from time to time, by no means would be hampered, if philatelists were quick to keep their mouth-pieces at Washington informed as to their philatelic likes and dislikes.

Under the date of April 9, 1925, many a newspaper carried under a headline similar to, "Roosevelts Not To Bring Back Postage Stamps," a story none too seriously written, to the effect that the two brothers on the eve of departure on their hunting trip to Kurdestan, cannot accept commissions to "bring back any Pamir postage stamps . . . . for the many persons who have asked for them." The reason for this negation is ascribed to the quaint condition that there are no Pamir postage stamps. However, Colonel Roosevelt shows that he is not untutored in the ways of the philatelic world when he says that there may be stamps from there in a few years from now, but inasmuch as he will not stay that long, he, while very sorry to do so, will have "to disappoint the New Jersey stamp collector who asked our help." This is good stuff and will be read with a relish by stamp collectors and their cousins and their aunts.

A correspondent sends in a clipping from the San Francisco Bulletin of March 25, 1925, saying that the "first machine for the manufacture of postage stamps was the invention of James Bogardus, who was born in Catskill, N. Y., 125 years ago." There are further particulars of his inventive genius as applied to other objects. There is a foundation of truth for the statement that is made as will be seen when we refer to Bogardus in a later issue. Meanwhile, we ask if any of our readers can say that a biography of Bogardus has been published.

In the Collectors Club Philatelist for April, 1925, Mr. Elliott Perry gives a demonstration of the results of his scientific investigation into the plating phases of the ten cent black of 1847, U. S.; and he charts his discoveries in a manner to compel admiration for his philatelic perspicacity and perseverance, aside from any consideration as to the value of the work on the score of added philatelic knowledge. Two superbly printed plates, accompanying Mr. Perry's article, which is a continuation of his studies of the ten cent black in the Collectors Club Philatelist, heretofore, illustrate twenty-four positions on the right pane of 100 stamps. While the significance of shifts, recut frame lines and other minute variations is given weight, the position dots are depended upon to furnish the greatest number of clues, as to correct placement, inasmuch as 180 out of 200 subjects on the sheet, as originally printed, have a position dot near the left trifoliate or three-leaved ornament. The stamps, twenty in number, that are without these dots are those in the first vertical rows on each of the two panes of the sheet and while these twenty stamps are not to be identified by dots, they have small distinguishing marks that serve as guides for the microscopic eye. However, the dots, themselves, are not large and clearly printed copies of the stamps are necessary to show them definitely. In the illustrations of the stamps on the plates, these dots are given in enlarged form, but they are placed with exactness; and they would cover the area of the smaller dots on the stamps. As Mr. Perry says, the largest dot will not exceed ¼ millimeter in its largest dimension; and the student will take into consideration, the vagaries of printing in searching for them. Guide lines are mentioned by Mr. Perry as furnishing clues but too much importance is not attached to them, as factors of difference, as they were burnished away, theoretically, by the plate-workers. As for the illustrations themselves, they are magnified and show about everything but the central oval containing the head of Washington; and in this blank space, the trifoliate is drawn on a large scale, with the tell-tale dots. We suppose that plating the 10 cent of 1847 will never become the popular occupation of the average collector; and in proof of this observation, the impossibility of obtaining enough specimens of the stamp to make a showing may be cited without referring to the acumen and patience required to pursue the task. Mr. Perry is deserving of a laurel wreath for developing the subject that at first must have seemed formidable, indeed, to an orderly arrangement of the stamps. Mr. Lindquist scores as an editor in influencing this remarkable study to anchor on the pages of the quarterly and the findings are presented in a trim way, typographically. The further contents of the April number represent philately at its best elevation in this country.

Make way for the Postmark, issued monthly by the post office of Springfield Illinois, which has been relayed to us by Mr. W. A. Steiger. The enterprising P. M. issues the paper for patrons and employees of the post office and the mimeographed sheet comprising the April number has a philatelic cast, as we find references to the new Lexington-Concord commemoratives, the half and 1½c ordinary stamps and the 1½c stamped envelope, in popular parlance. For instance it is said about the Lexington-Concord stamps: "These stamps will soon be on sale at this office in a limited amount. May this "free and frank first first-class publication in Ill." get an approving nod from the postal potentates in Washington.

The new 1½c stamped envelope has made its appearance and already it has the appearance of a chum. Speaking of stamped envelopes, Mr. F. G. Floyd has received the following letter from the third assistant postmaster general, under date of March 27th, 1925: "Referring again to Department's letter of February 11th, you are informed that the Philatelic Agency has now on hand a stock of the current United States stamped envelopes and is in a position to take care of your needs." As Mr. Floyd says, one would understand from this statement that all scheduled envelopes may now be had in any quantity from the Agency.

Some weeks ago, a correspondent in New York, Mr. Thomas L. Kelley wrote to us asking if his plan to start a syndicate whose purpose would be to furnish cuts of newly issued foreign and other stamps to such of the large newspapers that would use them was feasible in our estimation. Evidently, Mr. Kelley forgot to include his address in his letter and so he cannot be written to, but we are of the opinion that if Mr. Kelley will provide the cuts, a good number of the newspapers will print the stamp picture. If he expects the newspapers to pay for the service, that is another angle to the subject and the less said about it the better, as over twenty years ago we tried to experiment in this way but the paper did not greet the proposal with cheer. If Mr. Kelley is in a position to get the space for stamp cuts, we are of the opinion that it will be seen to that he will not have to pay for the cuts himself. Write again, T. L. K., and let us know where you live.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Our old friend Edwin B. Hill of Ysleta, Texas, has done the WEEKLY so many favors that we make a news item based on a letter just at hand from him. He would like to hear from any of our readers who collect the large copper cents of the U. S. 1793 to 1867 inclusive. He believes that some of our readers are interested and we confirm his belief.

—We have received from Edouard Locher, Tegna, Switzerland, two finely gotten up price lists. One deals with the stamps of Switzerland and is finely illustrated. The other price list is general in character and a fine assortment of rarities is noted. No fewer than twenty-six full page plates are used in illustrating this list. The Swiss list is priced at 10c but the other is probably furnished free of charge upon application.

—We are indebted to LeRoy C. Brown, Olean, N. Y., for two new yearly subscriptions. Mr. Brown believes in interesting the young collectors and demonstrates his interest in a tangible manner. We would pass the coveted 10,000 mark had we a sufficient number of boosters like Mr. Brown.

—In a chatty letter recently received Hiram N. Gilkison of Seattle, Wash., tells of his experiences prior to taking up with the stamp business. He first commenced business in Ohio, then later in Kansas City and Vinton, Ia., and is now conducting quite a successful business from Seattle.

—J. E. Guest, Sales Supt. of the American Philatelic Society, who has continually made new yearly records in sales of the department, announces that he will again be a candidate for appointment to that office. Last year his yearly sales ran over $44,000, and this amount will be exceeded for the fiscal year ending in August.

—In April American Philatelist is a warning against a M. Fryberg, 206 W. 119th St., New York, and we wish you would also issue a warning against this party who is using A.P.S., S.P.A., M.P.A., P.P.A., etc., as references, and has obtained a wholesale selection from us and very likely others have been stung also.—HAWKEYE STAMP CO.

—W. F. Slusser, for many years secretary-treasurer of the A.S.D.A., has announced his withdrawal from official life at the close of his present term. The election is soon to take place. The work that Mr. Slusser has done has been of a very high character and he will be greatly missed from his sphere of activity.

—Information has reached this office of the death of Charles D. Higley of Norfolk, Va., who passed away, December 23, 1924. He was a longtime subscriber to our publication and in the years gone by his name has been occasionally seen in our publication.

—Mr. F. R. Brooks, Martin, Tennessee, writes: "I notice an error in Dr. Evans' book on Canal Zone that is likely to cause some confusion as I know it worried me for some time. In chapter eighteen on the Issue of 1909, he states that the Mt. Hope surcharge is ½ mm. smaller than the New York surcharge. Of the New York surcharge, the 1c is spaced 10 mm.; the 2c is spaced 8½ mm. and 9 mm. and the other values, 8½ mm. The Mt. Hope surcharge is spaced 9 mm. on the 1c, 2c and 5c with a variety of the 2c spaced 10 mm. The 2c was issued in 1920 which would account for the wide spaced surcharge not appearing on the 1c and 5c. I have never been able to locate the 10c with Mt. Hope surcharge and so far as I know it does not exist."

—The United Stamp Company Herald is out with a reference list and catalogue of Barbados numbered according to the spaces in the Marquette Sectional Album, the Barbados section of which is now ready. The publishers of the Marquette album are making steady progress and the goal of a completed album is in sight.

—We thank Mr. Frank Silvestri for an envelope bearing different varieties of the recent Holy Year issue of Italy. The Philadelphia Ledger recently illustrated a similar envelope. The London Times of March 26, 1925, shows a fine cut of the new Syrian one piastre in lilac rose, with design of the Temple of Jupiter at Damascus.

—It is due to the existence of such collections as Congressman Ackerman's that the great work of plating the ten cent of 1847 by Elliott Perry is possible. The number of stamps required as a basis for operations is so great that specimens by the hundreds must be examined.

—A sale of the stock of Mr. F. B. Nayer, Alice, Texas, who for many years before his death some months ago, engaged in the business under the style of F. Noyes, will be held at auction by Eugene Klein, Philadelphia, on April 25, 1925. The sale is held under the jurisdiction of the A.P.S., in conformity to the resolution passed at Milwaukee to assist in disposing of the effects of members deceased.

—A correspondent writes that Mexico is to have special stamps, the sale of which are to help defray the "ravages of grasshoppers" in that country.

MORE FIRST DAY COVERS.

Since my last advertisement appeared, the Department has issued two new varieties, namely, a 15c orange Special Delivery, and a 25c green Special Handling. I have had posted to me a few first day covers bearing these two varieties on separate covers, each having in addition a 2c Lexington-Concord. This extra 2c postage has been necessary in view of the fact that the new stamps pay only for a certain service and the regular postage must be paid in addition.

While these covers last, I offer the two at $1.00 (50c each.)

The other first day covers mentioned in my recent advertisements are still available. If you are interested in these historical first day covers, I have on hand at present quite a few varieties.

A few of the recent Lakehurst to Bermuda "Los Angeles" trip, the first airship mail between the two points, are available at $2.50 each. The mail carried on this trip was only a small part of the quantity brought across as the ZR-3, and consequently these covers are much rarer.

More New Varieties

On Saturday, April 11th, there was placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency in Washington, two more new stamps previously described in this column and issued because of the new Postal Act, which went into effect on April 15th.

The 15c Special Delivery, printed in the orange of the 6c, was issued, and those seen bear plate numbers 16836 and 16859. The stamp is a duplicate of the current 10c Special Delivery with the figures of value changed. These stamps are printed in sheets of two hundred and distributed in post office sheets of fifty.

At the same time the new 25c Special Handling stamp printed in green was placed on sale, and the variety is so much like the 25c Parcel Post Postage Due, that the two could be readily confused. The copies of this variety that I have seen have been from plates Nos. 17097-99 and 103. This variety is printed in similar sheets to the Special Delivery just described.

In a communication from the Department dated April 9th, handed to the Associated Press, they announced that with these stamps the department has taken final steps to comply with the recent legislation covering the new plates, and supplies of these two stamps it is stated will be available at all post offices during the month of April. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing in designing and engraving the plates, together with the manufacture of the stamps, has broken all existing records to meet the unprecedented orders received from the department during the last month.

The New Postal Rates

The department has made every effort to have the 1½c and ½c stamps distributed throughout the country by April 15th, but it is believed that there is quite a possibility of some of the smaller postmasters, who have not received their supplies, to take it upon themselves to issue provisionals or split some of the current issues, if the demand warrants it. Mr. Louis G. Barrett has just sent me a home made provisional, where he has cut the current 1c stamp in half, overprinted it ½c and used it in connection with the 1½c stamp. The letter came through the mail without Postage Due being collected, but of course this was an oversight and the stamp in no way can rank as a provisional.

If such varieties do appear, it is quite likely that it will be due to philatelic efforts.

An Interesting Cover

Every few weeks a most interesting stamp leaflet entitled, "The Stamp Hunter" arrives from Mr. W. W. MacLaren, and in a recent issue quite an unusual item, viz., a cover with a sticker, is described. To quote from the leaflet, Mr. MacLaren states—

"In a recent purchase, I acquired a cover that is new to me. I wonder if many of my friends have run across one like it. It was mailed in Boston, to Bedford, Mass., with a 2c 1870 stamp—insufficient postage for out of town mail. There was no return address, and stamped on the face is 'Held for Postage.' A 1c stamp has been added, and on the back is a printed label one inch high by two and a half long, reading as follows: 'This letter was held for postage, but was saved from the Dead Letter Office by a stamp furnished by I. L. Cragin & Co., Phila., Pa., manufacturers of the world renowned "Dobbins Electric Soap." They will be amply repaid for their trouble and expense, if you test the merits of their soap. One trial will show its economy. Please make your grocer get it'."

New "Sepcimen" Varieties

Since our recent notes upon the special printing of Department stamps with error overprint "Sepcimen", I have been fortunate in acquiring three varieties not listed or known heretofore, namely the 3c Agriculture, the 24c Justice and the 30c Justice. We would we pleased to add to this list any other varieties that have not been heretofore noted.

ALBANIA.—Red Cross Stamps. We gather from Continental sources that 50,000 copies of each of the values already mentioned were printed.—Philatelic Magazine.

BELGIUM.—We learn from Le Philateliste belge that the long-expected series commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary (which occurred last year) of the introduction of postage stamps into Belgium are now available, King Albert having signed the official decree relating to them. The design is a handsome one, having the portraits of King Leopold I and King Albert (both in military uniform but bare-headed) in frames set diagonally, with Crown and garniture between the portraits, "BELGIQUE—BELGIE" in a scroll at foot, scrolls in the left and right upper corners inscribed "1849" and "1924" respectively, numeral of value in the left lower corner and "c" or "f" in the lower right-hand corner.

Unfortunately these striking souvenirs are not to be on issue in the ordinary way (unless the decree is subsequently modified), but are only obtainable by subscription in complete sets!

The denominations and colours are as follows, these having been printed to the extent of 100,000 sets. 10c green, 15c lilac, 20c brown, 25c steel-grey, 30c red, 40c sepia, 50c ochre-brown, 75c deep blue, 1 fr violet, 2 fr ultramarine, 5 fr dull black, 10 fr granite.—Stamp Collecting.

CHINA.—Mr. F. Z. Chun kindly informs us that $5, $10 and $20 stamps have been withdrawn, as from Jan. 1, 1925, owing to the fact that so many of them were stolen by brigands, in whose hands they now are. We presume that, with postal use stopped, the unlawful owners will try to find an outlet through the philatelic world.

A letter from the General Supervisor at the Foochow post office, kindly forwarded by Mr. J. Cush, states definitely that the stamps of $1 and upwards, overprinted with the name of the office at which they are to be sold, were so overprinted in order to prevent lost stamps being illegally used, and to avoid malpractices

INDIA.—As has already been stated these pages, Messrs. De La Rue & C contract for the printing of Indian p age stamps expires next year. The lowing extract from a recent issue The Englishman (for which we are debted to Capt. Laws, R.A.) gives s interesting supplementary details:—

"As the Government of India inte to print the postage stamps in future Nasik, new designs for these stamps now in hand. Contrary to general bel the question of designs for postage sta and promissory notes requires consi able attention, because there is always danger of forgery to guard aga Many experiments have been made the designs of the postage stamps of different denominations in vogue. W the final decision as to the designs not been made it is understood that experiments have proved very satis tory, and it is probable that a series designs recently produced will proba be accepted. In this some of the sta are smaller in size—narrower, in fa than those now in use, and the desi are most elaborate. The King's h with the crown, peeps out, as it w

nography is responsible for the delay the appearance of some picturesque postage stamps now being prepared Paris for use in Indo-China, says The es, which explains that the official sion that the designation of the De-iency is to be rendered in future as word instead of two has necessitated re-engraving of the frame designs, ch are to enclose vignettes of the ernment palace, a native temple, river
e, etc.—Stamp Collecting.

TAQ.—We have to thank Mr. G .W. L.
Bracklough, F.R.H.S., for the informathat there is to be a change of colour
o the 2 rupees stamp—what printers rw as "Australian gold" (olive-bistre) ead of black. Possibly this change is rder to obviate the necessity of print-the overprints on this stamp ("ON TITE SERVICE" and "REVENUE") in a dif-ent colour from the rest of the series.
—Stamp Collecting.

APAN.—In our issue dated January we dwelt on the impending appear-of new 5 and 10 yen stamps. These ve now appeared. They have the port of the Empress Jingu Kogo, one of great empresses of the land of Nippon a heroine of olden times; Korea was quered during her reign. According Messrs. Yuasa & Co. (writing to the tt Stamp & Coin Co., New York), style of the four Japanese letters at top of the stamp, meaning "Japanese t," is taken from certain records of ingu Kogo's time. The designs in the spidrels show parts of her dress decorations and neck ornaments.

1924-25: Portrait of Empress Jingu Kogo, Granite paper, Wmk. Wavy Lines. Perf. 12: 5 yen grey-green and 10 yen dull violet.—Stamp Collecting.

MONTSERRAT.—Mr. G. V. Stewart noting our extract from the West End Philatelist regarding the possibility of the discarding of the stamps of this colony wrote the Postmaster at Montserrat and subsequently received the following reply:—"In reply to your letter of the 15th of February, there is absolutely no truth in the quotation. I have just sent in an Indent for some of the 1d Montserrat, also certain issues of the Leeward Islands script so as to have a full set.—Signed, O. K. Helsick."

NEW GUINEA.—New issue. We have now received from The Australian Philatelic Review further particulars about the new stamps which were to be issued on New Year's Day. The design, engraved by T. S. Harrison, shows a fine picture of a native village. They are printed in sheets of thirty, 6x5, on unwatermarked paper, perforated 11, and are in the same colours as the current Commonwealth stamps. The values will be ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 9d, 1sh, 2sh, 5sh, 10sh, 20sh. Most values will also be issued overprinted "On Service" for official purposes.—Philatelic Magazine.

PORTUGAL.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 30c in a brown shade, on white paper.

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—Messrs. Bright & Son give us particulars of several varieties of the new Vasco da Gama pair, chronicled last week, comprising the following:—6 reis—No. 9: no shading in value table. 1 tanga—No. 19: "1c" joined. 1 tanga—No. 20: small "I" in "REPUBLICA." 1 tanga—No. 8: broken frame over "TU" of "PORTUGUESA."

By the way, the stamps are lithographed (and printed in sheets of thirty-five)—not typographed, as stated last week.—Stamp Collecting.

SAHARA. New series. From Whitfield King, Camel design, foreshadowed on August 9th: 5c blue-green, 10c grey-green, 15c turquoise, 20c violet, 25c red, 30c red-brown, 40c blue, 50c orange, 60c purple, 1p carmine, 4p brown and 10p claret. For use at La Aguera and Rio de Oro.—Philatelic Magazine.

SOUTH AFRICA.—Mr. Stephen G. Rich sends for chronicle four values of the new Air-post stamps that he has received from a correspondent in Franklin, Cape Province. The colors are 1p red, 3p ultramarine, 6p violet and 9p light green. Mr. Rich adds the following information: The date of issue is the same as that of inaugurating the air mail service, which is daily in each direction from Durban to Capetown and return (650 miles each way), stopping at Port St. Johns, East London, Port Elizabeth, and Mossel Bay. The rate on inland or domestic letters is 3d; on letters going oversea 9d; on parcels 6d in addition to the regular parcel-post rate. The 1d is for use in bringing matter regularly stamped up to air mail rate. Mr. Lowis does not tell me the use of the tan label enclosed also. The stamps are apparently local manufacture (Govt. Printing Office, Pretoria) as the paper, gum and workmanship are the same as on the locally printed postage dues of 1923.

SYRIA.—Mr. Francis J. Field reports the finding of one or two varieties of the 1923 and 1924 air stamps with inverted surcharge.

The "Avion" bi-lingual surcharge in green on the new pictorial series, 2, 3, 5 and 10 piastres, has appeared. Mr. Francis J. Field furnishes the information.

TRENGGANU.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts a copy of a 6c orange, on script watermarked paper. This is a new denomination.

TURKISTAN.—New colours. Messrs. Whitfield King report: $2 blue and brown, $5 red and grey-green, $10 green and claret, $20 purple and blue.—Philatelic Magazine.

URUGUAY.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise us of the appearance of the 15c violet, 20c buff, 36c rose and 1 peso yellow brown of the type of the 1923 issue without watermark.

Collection Ten Cent 1847 For Sale

100 COPIES 10c 1847 AS LOT ONLY $3000.00

My fine private collection of this stamp is for sale at above low figure. I have been 7 years getting lot together. None have been plated. Of 100 copies several are unused, there are 2 pairs on covers, 2 pairs off cover, about 25 singles on cover, and rest used copies, many good cancellations. Think of it, an average of $30 per stamp, for 10c 1847 issue. Most anything good in this stamp brings $25 or over, so at 100 for $3000.00 it is an opportunity for dealer or collector. I have 15 copies, scant margins, otherwise o. k., at $15, $18 and $20 each, according to condition. Address.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF.

British Empire.

Great Britain.—Mr. G. Wood states that he possesses the current 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 6d and 9d, with inverted watermark, in addition to the values normally issued thus in booklets. Also the 1d with wmk. sideways, and the 6d inverted and reversed.

Ceylon.—Mr. A. R. W. Ross, Jr., shows us the 10c in a very pale and yellowish tone of sage green.

Hejaz.—Messrs. Marsh and Fletcher inform us that the latest provisionals bear in the overprint the date, as they suppose, of the accession of King Ali, vice King Hussein. All the current Hejaz stamps are reported to have received this overprint, and our kind informants add the following consoling bit of news: "The Hejaz Government Press was left in Mecca when that city was evacuated to the Wahabis, consequently there are likely to be further provisionals." Our only hope is that the Wahabis may have a violent dislike to printers, and particularly "overprinters," or stamp collectors are in for yet more horrors.

India.—If proofs had not already been seen in London, the new "Service" provisionals would have come as something of a surprise. Presumably they are intended to remedy a shortage of the lower rupee values until the local stamp factory gets to work. Mr. R. Roberts states that the overprints were first set up in electros of 48 subjects, 8 across by 6, repeated twice on the sheet of 96 stamps. All the 2r were printed in this manner. Later, further electros were made of 96 subjects, so that the whole sheet could be printed in one operation. These settings are easily recognizable in complete sheets owing to the recurrence of minor varieties, only in one, or sometimes in both halves of the sheet, as the case may be. So far, Mr. Roberts has seen the 2 on 10r and 1 on 15r (both King Edward), in the 48 setting, and the others in the 96 setting.

Irish Free State.—Mr. A. R. W. Ross, Jr., shows us a postmark new to us, hexagonal in shape, with "LATE FEE DUBLIN" in the double frame, and time and date in the centre.

Mr. W. Sayers tells us that Postage Due stamps are to be issued as British Dues run out. Values ½d, 1d, 2d and 6d of the same size and shape as the British labels, the design consisting of the value in a circle on a background of Irish tracery.

Mauritius.—Mr. Oswald Marsh made the editorial knees tremble the other day when he showed us two specimens of the new 5r Script, one on the ordinary creamy yellow paper of the tone which has come to be associated in our minds with the description "new yellow," and the other on a much brighter yellow, the colour of which, however, seemed rather patchy. If they are going to introduce colour variations into the Script watermarked papers, we can only use an Americanism and remark that "this is where we get off." There are quite enough paper varieties in the Georgians already—too many for some people, including the unfortunate Chronicler.

Mr. H. R. Baldwin kindly sends us a cutting from the Cape Argus, recording the discovery of another copy of the 1d "Post Office" Mauritius. This was purchased in a mixed lot of stamps by Mr. J. Gordon Lowe, of the Natal Philatelic Society, when on a business trip to the island, together with other rare early Mauritius items. Would that such a find might come our way!

Northern Rhodesia.—According to an official notice, kindly sent us by a correspondent, the new issue will be on sale on April 1st. Stamps of the present Rhodesia issue will be available for postal purposes up to September 30th.

Palestine.—The Egyptian Gazette states that the rumour that the stamps of Palestine are to be printed in Germany is now officially denied.

Messrs. Whitfield, King and Co. show us new shades of the current issue: the

From Louis Gun finger, Fresno, Calif., comes a year's subscription for the Public Library of t city. We take great pleasure in recording four subscriptions received through Passaic Stamp Club of Passaic, N. J. The secretary, S. Evinger, in behalf of Club, sends us the four subscriptions entered below under Passaic. This Club ta its place with the Worcester, Mass., Stamp Club and the Collectors Club of Angeles as boosters for the Honor Roll.

The new subscription for the Berkshire Athanaeum is from the Pittsf Philatelic Phraternity of Pittsfield, Mass. The organization consists of sev high school boys, who have formed a stamp class under the guidance of Leo Lincoln.

Who will be the next to introduce the WEEKLY to the local public library?

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF.

1m in a black-brown shade, and the 2m in a more orange shade of yellow.

A cutting from the Egyptian Gazette sent us by Mr. M. H. Abela states that large sums are collected by the Palestine post office every year, owing to the fact that many people in Great Britain seem to think that the postage to Palestine is 1½d, whereas it is 2½d.

Straits Settlements.—The new shade of the 6c, listed this month, is so distinct as to rank as a change of colour, though whether it was intentional or not we do not know. The new colour is nearly pink, while the old shade was verging on plum.

Mr. A. L. Bird is informed by the Straits post office that when the present stocks of 21c and 45c are exhausted, no more will be printed.

OTHER COUNTRIES.

Belgium.—The new stamps, commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the first Belgian issue, will not be ready until April, says Mr. P. Massez, owing to technical difficulties which have arisen

Bolivia.—Mr. S. A. Ximinez points out that the "Habilitada 15 cts." on 22c provisional has already been forged. In the genuine surcharge the flag of the "5" is disjoined and the "c" and "s" of "cts." are broken at the top, the reverse being the case in the forgeries. In the sheet of forgeries described, the top row has the surcharge in red and the second in black.

Can any reader tell us whether the bi-sections of the current Arms type of recent months were officially authorised by decree? They were, of course, in regular use, but this does not always imply full official status, which is necessary before the stamps can be catalogued in bisected condition.

China.—Mr. F. Z. Chun kindly informs us that $5, $10 and $20 stamps have been withdrawn, as from January 1, 1925, owing to the fact that so many of them were stolen by brigands, in whose hands they now are. We presume that, with postal use stopped, the unlawful owners will try to find an outlet through the philatelic world. It is expected that the 4c red, Junk, will be surcharged for use as a 3c.

A letter from the General Supervisor at the Foochow post office, kindly forwarded by Mr. J. Cush, states definitely that the stamps of $1 and upwards, overprinted with the name of the office at which they are to be sold, were so overprinted in order to prevent lost stamps being illegally used, and to avoid malpractices.

Colombia.—Mr. R. G. Sparrow kindly shows us a pair of the 50c red "PROVISIONAL," imperf. between. (Cat. No 526.)

Costa Rica.—Messrs. G. Noriega and J. Gottfried kindly send us details of the new issue of stamps intended to provide funds for the Central American Olympic Games, which we understand were to take place at the end of last year. Thirty thousand of each value were issued, half being perforated and the other half imperf. The stamps were sold at a premium of 10c in aid of the Olympic funds. This issue is apparently the first produced by the new Government printer, who, we are told, is a practical man. We do not think very highly of his first effort, however.

De Luxe Approvals positively the last word. To all serious collectors they are highly recommended. Those with less than 15,000 varieties should send for a selection. Mention your specialty. DE LUXE APPROVALS, Box 572A, Detroit, Mich.

Denmark.—We made a foolish mistake last month, in attributing the refusal of the first Postal Commemorative design to H.M. the King of Norway, instead of to the Danish sovereign.

Egypt.—According to an interview with Egyptian P.M.G. (quoted in Stamp Collecting) it is proposed to issue special stamps for Air Mail and Express matter, which will be printed in Egypt. The design of the former shows a biplane in flight, while a motor cycle figures on the Express stamp.

Germany.—Mr. Douglas G. Denny of British Columbia now holds the M.J. record for high value German covers, his best being franked with stamps to the value of 250 milliards.

Holland.—Mr. P. Gordon Wimberley states that stamps of 7½, 20, 35 and 60c and 1g are expected in the new design.

Hungary.—A special set will be issued this month in aid of Hungarian Sports Associations. The designs will depict skiing, skating, swimming, fencing, a scout's camp, an athletic parade, and association football.

Persia.—Mr. R. W. Gray states that 300,000 of each of the provisionals listed this month, have been printed. They were required owing to the non-arrival of supplies of certain values in the new series. The letters "Pre" stand for "Provisoire" (Provisional!).

Peru.—Mr. M. Bucnano sends us a copy of the decree authorising the new "Battle of Ayacucho" series, which we list in full this month. The quantities printed are as follows: 2c, 750,000; 4c, 1,000,000; 5c, 100,000; 10c, 3,000,000; 20c, 500,000; 50c, 85,000; 1 sol, 75,000; 2 soles 20,000. This issue will be in use until exhausted, concurrently with the new issue which we also list this month.

Portugal.—Mr. J. N. Marsden writes that an error in the Camoens set has just been discovered. When the stamps were examined on arrival it was found that a half-sheet of the 3 escudos was without the value. This half-sheet was at once destroyed. In the parcels post office at Oporto ten stamps were noticed with the value 3E twice printed. This must be part of the other half-sheet. There must have been 50 of the double value, in all, but 40 were sold before the error was noticed.

Portuguese India.—Mr. Jno. Godinho shows us specimens of the 2½r local "REPUBLICA" overprint, inverted, and states that only one sheet of 28 was found thus.

Russia.—The new "Lenin's Tomb" stamps are very attractively designed and produced, apparently by one of those photographic processes which are being more widely used every day for stamp printing. The imperf. stamps are only a stop-gap, and we are promised perforated stamps before long. In the building shown on the stamps, the arch-Bolshevik lies in a glass tomb, for all the world to see.

Siam.—The striking new Siamese air stamps were to have been issued on January 1st, but owing to the closing of the post office during the national holidays they were not on sale at the post office counter until the 5th, says Mr. A. Poreecha. The complete set is to consist of seven values, according to the Oriental Stamp Co.

Syria.—Several readers have shown us copies of the recent Syrian overprinted stamps, some of which have a comma before the "P" and others have not. We do not yet know whether this is merely a variety in the sheet, or yet another attempt to create a new set, so we refrain from listing them for the moment. When will that permanent issue come to hand? (Late news. We understand that the new permanent issues for Syria and Grand Lebanon are now ready for issue. At last!)

Venezuela.—Mr. Geoffrey Barron, in sending us the new Ayacucho Commemorative, states that he anticipates that there will be plenty for stamp collectors, as they are only to be on public sale for a month!—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

dike, Ms., in a brilliant spring green perfectly centered over the stamp, a beauty. Cover with block of three 3c '57 prints and 1c '51, are used in '57 from "Yankee Jims, Cal." which falls in the center of this "block." Never saw a neater cancellation.

Here is a nice historical one, it being a 3c claret (1857 print) cancelled in blue "A. & St. L. & A. Kenbk. R. R. 10 May." This 10 is a big fellow, far bigger than any of the letters. From a note with the cover is "The Atlantic & St Lawrence was originally built from Portland, Me., to Island Pond, Vt. It was begun in 1846 and finished in 1853, and was leased to the Grand Trunk in that year, and is now a part of that system. The Androscoggin & Kennebec extended from Danville Junction, on the line of the A. & St. L. to Waterville. It was begun in 1841 and finished in 1849."

A most unusual regular size envelope looks as though it were made of 3c '61's, as one side shows nothing but stamps, and the other has barely room for the address. There are 30 of these 3c stamps, it being the 90c (double) rate to Swatow, China, from Bristol, N. H., Cancellations, transit marks, due marks, and the red crayon marks do not mar its appearance in the slightest and each stamp is cancelled with a light "3" in mss. It left Bristol May 29 (1865). Boston Br. Pkt. hit it May 30 in red, London hit it in red "Ju 15 65", and Hong Kong got it "6 Aug", it was not swatted at Swatow tho. After this long trip the cover is fresh as a daisy, and is a beautiful cover.

Another cover taking the same trip tho from a different town in N. H., shows a fine strip of four 10c '61 and a black brown 5c making the 45c rate, the regular single rate. A cover has a 3c grilled all over from Boston. This is in very fine condition and is pmkd. Sept. 7 (1867 in mss.). Who has an earlier one?

I have recorded all the above faithfully and without covetous eyes, which is more than I can say about these Black Jack covers. The first is a pair of BJ's and a pair of 3c, all grilled, going "By California & China Mail" (mss.) to Swatow, China. There is a huge "Paid All" in a big circle in raspberry color, at bottom right of cover. This color seems to have been "controlled" by San Francisco, I know of no other town using it in the '60's, tho Hartford, Ct., used magenta which approaches it closely. You will note that this cover went the other way round the world to get there. I think this rate was 53c, which means that 43c was paid in cash when it reached San Francisco, maybe before. These things, "Paid All," often puzzle me.

Another cover, pair of Black Jacks again, and pair of 3c '69's this time, went west to Swatow, and have the small single ring "San Francisco Paid All Ju[illegible] 3" (1869) in this same odd color. It too, is a beauty. The address is apparently written with a Chinese brush, or a crow's quill. It left Bristol, N. H., May 29th (same day only 4 years later than the cover plastered with the 3c stamps above mentioned,) and reached Swatow which is back stamped on this cover, Aug. 7, Hong Kong the 6th, which oddly enough is the same date of that cover four years before, and which went via Europe, or the reverse way of the world. Great little world, isn't it? Please excuse me for raving over these BJ covers; but I wish that you could all see them.

Last is a cover bearing a 1c '61 and 2c BJ. The 1c shows a bottom sheet margin about 8mm deep, reading "The National Bank," and below "No 27." They are too pretty for words, hence, Finis.

NO SOUVENIRS—ROOSEVELTS.

Theodore and Kermit Besieged by Persons Making All Kinds of Requests.

New York, April 16th.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and his brother, Kermit, are not accepting any commissions on the eve of sailing for England on the first leg of their hunting trip into Kurdistan. Regretfully they have had to announce that they cannot bring back any Pamir postage stamps, or any Thian Shan wolfhounds, or any snow leopard's teeth, or any other souvenirs for the many persons who have asked for them.

The reason is clear why the Roosevelts can't bring back any Pamir postage stamps—there aren't any. "Maybe there'll be some a few years from now," said Colonel Roosevelt recently, "but we only plan to stay till the end of the summer. We were very sorry to disappoint the New Jersey stamp collector who asked our help."

A red cap in Grand Central Terminal, of Abyssinian birth, wrote that he met the late President Roosevelt "on a hunting trip in India." Colonel Roosevelt said his father never made a hunting trip to India.

COUNT THE COMMEMORATIONS.

The success of America's Philatelic Agency appears to be leading our U. S. friends into a whirl of commemorative issues. They are almost tumbling over each other—the commemoratives, not our U. S. friends. Here we were expecting the two bi-coloured stamps about April 1st to celebrate the arrival in God's Own Country of the first Norwegian immigrants, but these have been pushed aside a bit so as to squeeze in another little series to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the happenings around Lexington and Concord, in April, 1775. Let us not be suspected of any national grudge against commemorating the first shots in the war of American Independence, but we may yet protest that commemoratives may be overdone. Possibly the "Dawn of Liberty" set will include Bunker Hill, whose sesquicentenary comes in June, but it is not suggested in the advance details of the Lexington-Concord series. If our energetic colleague at the Boston end of Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News has any say in the matter, Bunker Hill will have to get a look in, and, for our part, we would sooner contemplate its towering monument on a postage stamp than climb its many weary stairs. Seriously, however, we think our United States friends will grow tired of commemoratives if the present rate of output of new ones is maintained. They will bring confusion to the public and to the postal service, and may easily disturb the even, but busy tenour of the Bureau's way of producing the vast quantity of stamps and securities papers required in the United States each year.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

NEW ZEALAND POSTMARKS.

By CHARLES SIDNEY THOMPSON.

Experimental chromatics proves that of all color combinations, black on yellow has the highest visibility. This being the case, it is difficult to understand why the Universal Postal Union has not made the rule that the stamp used for domestic letter postage should be printed in yellow instead of red.

With an increase in the New Zealand letter rate to two pence, it happened that the current two-penny stamp was printed in yellow (No. 161) and hence the opportunity which this stamp presents to those interested in postmarks is quite unusual. It is an impossible undertaking to get all the postmarks of a country the size of the United States, but a country like Jamaica, Tasmania, or New Zealand, with a comparatively small list of offices, offers a fascinating opportunity to do some interesting specialism at a small cost. The Jamaica postmarks on the "waterfalls" make a fine showing. Those of Tasmania on the engraved 1d carmine, Mt. Wellington, also present a most attractive field, but the tuppeny yellow New Zealand, gives more chance at variety, including "loose letter," railroad, parcel post, registration, and other cancellations, added to which is the fact that a neat cancellation on this stamp is as visible as a black cat in a bird cage.

Furthermore, for historical reasons which will be presented, New Zealand offers the postmark collector a field which is quite without equal, and suggests possibilities of all kinds, from anthropology to theology, folklore, natural history, and almost everything else.

Judging from the very large number of Maori place names, the exact and intricate character of these, and the utter absence of any other aboriginal names (or any aboriginal remains not Maori) it seems extremely probable that New Zealand was uninhabited, or at most exceedingly sparsely so, at the time the first Maories entered the New Zealand area. These first comers, according to Maori tradition, came from Hawaiki, generally identified with Savaii, the principal Samoan Island. But it should be noted that Hawaiki, Savaii, Hawaii, and Haabai are all forms of the same name, as is apparent to any student of philology. However, it has not previously been pointed out, as far as I am aware, that this name has always been applied to the largest island of a group inhabited by Polynesians or the island having the highest mountain: Hawaii is the largest, though not the principal Hawaiian island; Haabai or Haapai has the highest peak in the Tongan archipelago; Savaii is the principal Samoan island. So at the outset we are introduced to the fact that the Polynesians, like other races, are fond of naming new localities after the old ones in the homeland, though where the homeland of the Polynesian may be, other than somewhere in the vast Pacific, is something which it is quite impossible to state.

Having entered New Zealand, the first Maori proceeded to display their nomenclatural abilities at once, and named everything in sight. These immigrants, according to tradition, arrived in a large, decked-over, double canoe, "Te Arawa", "The Shark", and were soon followed by other migrants. The names of all these canoes (or in reality ships, they carried 150 or 200 people) have been carefully preserved, and are known in Hawaii as well as in New Zealand, having been transmitted orally in the sacred schools maintained by the tohungas or priests. Here let us digress to notice that "tohunga" and "Tonga" are the same word, and Tonga was considered sacred. A fanciful picture of "The Shark" is shown on the ½d Christchurch Exhibition stamp of 1906. For the present it is sufficient to say that the Maori or Polynesians made journeys of thousands of miles, and penetrated to every part of the Pacific, their most distant outpost being Easter Island, 2,500 miles off the coast of Chile, and one is led inevitably to the conclusion that some of these Argonauts must have reached the mainland and were responsible for the sculptures and megalithic ruins at Tiahuanaco, whose "monolitos" have a strange resemblance to the images found on Easter Island.

A peculiarity of the Polynesian language is the great preponderance of vowels, each of which is pronounced. Every syllable must end with a vowel, and with the exception of the "ng" combination, no two consonants may come together. The letter "g" is pronounced "ng", which explains "Toga" for "Tonga", and "Pago-Pago" for "Pango-Pango", in Samoa. Due to the variety of vowel inflection, and the variation in quantity thereof, the meaning of Maori place names, especially as rendered by European letters (the Maori had no written language except at Easter Island, and this is undecipherable) is often obscure, and not seldom impossible of elucidation. For instance, "papa" is said to have sixteen meanings, "nui" has eleven. The combination "Papanui," evidently was a place at which some enterprising hunter erected a platform from which to snare birds, but it is entirely within the range of linguistic possibilities to translate this pair of words as "sweet mamma!" Many localities bear the names of individuals, as with us. Numbers of places are names of battles, discoveries, and other happenings, not excluding various more or less scandalous occurrences in family and individual history, for the Maori is no prude, and pepper would not be referred to merely as a condiment.

New Zealand except those immense birds called moa, so that there are no names of this kind except those of birds, for example, "Kiwi," the wingless surviving representative of the moa. This is a somewhat ostrich-like bird about the size of a hen, but quite wingless, hence the scientific name Apteryx. Another bird name is "Kakapo," which is a kind of parrot. There are fish names, like "Kawhia"; shell names, like "Kakahi", the fresh-water mussel; and tree names like "Horopito" and "Kawakawa", "Akeake", and "Aohanga".

Localities named for individuals often have the prefix "O", which seems to have exactly the same meaning as the Hibernian "O" in similar position, as for instance, Opotiki, the place of Potiki-mai-Tawhiti, one of the original ancestors of the Maori, or, as we might say "Potiki's." Ohinemoa preserves the name of Hinemoa, an adventurous damsel who reversed the Greek story of Hero and Leander, and did the swimming herself in order to hold a tryst with a gentleman friend.

Many elements of word building occur often in combination; "Ao" is a cloud, hence "Aorangi," of which there are several in Polynesia, the present example being Mt. Cook, or to translate the Maori. "Cloud Rest," or perhaps "Cloud that Floats in the Heavens." "Ao-roa" is "Long Cloud." "Ao-tea" is "White Cloud."

The prefix "Ara" means a path, hence "Ara-moana," a sea road; "Ara-nui," an important path, and this word "nui' is also a component of many names, as "H u k e r e - n u i," large waterfall, or "Whanga-nui," big beach, which the cockneyism of the early settlers rendered as "Wanganui." This elision of various sounds makes many names quite unintelligible, while others are without meaning because no one alive knows the conditions under which the appellation was given. We are in similar fix when someone inquires the meaning of a name like Denver, Chicago, or Pasadena, though a few people know the meaning of Iowa and Los Angeles.

When the foreigners came, they behaved exactly as the Maori had done. These "pakeha" named various places, which already possessed names, after places in England, or Scotland, or some other place. Canterbury was founded by members of the Church of England; Balclutha, Bannockburn, and Invercargill are sufficiently Lauderesque to suit anyone; Belfast, Queenstown, and Shannon are reminiscent of Orange and Green; Levin may have been founded by the Scotch, though this is doubtful; and Dannevirke preserves the name given it by its Danish settlers.

Heroes of the Motherland have given their names to Wellington, Auckland, Cromwell, Clyde, and Hastings: Nelson, Hampden, Collingwood, and Havelock: Marlborough, Blenheim, Olive, and Napier. Other great names are Milton, Stirling, Cobden, and Sefton, though whether these are all named after the originals, and not after some insignificant descendant, is questionable. Cambridge and Oxford are both here and Thames, Stratford, and Winchester. St. Kilda reproduces the name of a far northern islet, and Parnell reminds us of a brilliant orator.

We descend from the sublime to the ridiculous with such names and Nightcaps, Bulls, and Bluff: Gore has a bloody sound, while Woodend suggests a coffin. Blackball is ominous, while Taradale suggests the presence of an Irish kingdom somewhere in the vicinity.

But it is to the Maori names that we must look for the greatest interest possibilities, even though the meaning of these names is hopelessly buried for most people. However, the strange vowel combinations, the irresistible desire to at least attempt to pronounce these, and the fact that they are associated with the finest of all aboriginal races, should be sufficient to interest many philatelists in assembling the postmarks which express them. Some of these names follow: meanings are given in cases where it is possible, but Maori nomenclature in general is a place where one should tread cautiously.

Aka-roa—Great Harbor. Should probably be spelled "Whaka-roa," thus avoiding a cockneyism.

Aki-toa—Name of a famous jade club. The maori named their weapons—so do we. Cf. "Big Bertha," "Long Tom," "Archie."

Awa-moa—Moa River. So named by the celebrated naturalist W. B. D. Mantell.

Hawera—A Clearing.

Hikurangi—"Cloud piercer," i.e., "point" and "sky." A famous mountain in Polynesian tradition.

Kai-koura—"Kai" means "to eat," and the rest of it means "crayfish." Probably the site of some Maori gourmet's indulgence in lobster Newburg.

"Manaia" was named by Europeans, after a Maori chief.

Manga-weka—A river and a bird, i.e., Woodhen River. The weka is a flightless rail, it has plenty of wing surface, but the action is n.g. This name re-appears in Motueka, cockney for Motuweka, meaning Woodhen Island.

Rotorua, is a lake, the second discovered on a traditional exploring expedition, "Rua" meaning two, or "Second Lake," as we should perhaps say.

Te Awa-mutu—"Te"=the, "Awa"=water, "mutu"=end, i.e., "Short River." This litttle town is the residence of a well-known New Zealand philatelist.

Wai-kino — Bad Water: Wai-mate—Calm Water: Wai-toa, perhaps Rough Water.

Wanganui (should be Whanganui)—Big Bay.

This small list of Maoir place names will give merely a slight hint of the richness of the field: there are several hundred different New Zealand postmarks, and half of them, or more, are names such as these.

The reason for the large number of small towns lies in the fact that New Zealand possesses four large centres of population, instead of the usual one or two usually found in island dominions. These four centres are Wellington, Christchurch, Dunedin, and Auckland. Each has a large number of small communities appertaining to it, and thu is that we have hundreds of munici ties, towns, and villages in a country ing only about a million inhabitants. fact that there are many small comm ties makes the acquisition of postma copies of a particular stamp much difficult, and those who enjoy this of a paper chase will have plenty of portunity to exercise their talents.

As to supplies, there is plenty of N Mission Mixture to be had from dea in the Antipodes, and whether it has picked or not, it will supply vast qua ties of 2d yellows at 60c or 70c a po postpaid. If the postmark picker is

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL
A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."
The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

ular about shades, he will immediately ice that this two-penny yellow comes at least three shades, the extremes be- a clear yellow, which is very pale, and deep orange-yellow, which is a rich, color.

Town postmarks are generally single- d circles, though occasionally double- d, and in many instances the town ne is not curved to conform to the cle, but is set straight across. These linary town cancels are 22, 28, or 29 n. in diameter, and the small-sized ex- ples are exceedingly neat and attrac- e, especially when parked carefully on centre of the stamp. In addition re are large circular parcel cancella- ns, 49 mm. in diameter. These totally n a block of four stamps, but certainly play the postmark. There are also ge ovals 45x62 mm., which are equally ective in these directions. Such items uld be collected only when they fall irely on a block of four or more mps. There is quite an array of these cels cancellations, but they are only sideline to the small circular towns. e also finds such novelties as "Travel- P. O. North Otago" and "Frankton nction R.Wy. N.Z.", both circular, and the same size as town cancellations. so "Loose Letter" in capitals large ough to extend over two stamps.

In closing it may be well to point out t these stamps are on chalky paper, l curl considerably on drying if they not pressed between two blotters.

As we have a considerable number of lynesian place-names in our own Ha- iian Islands, the accumulation of a lection of New Zealand postmarks uld be of peculiar interest to Ameri- n collectors.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

This true story being quite out of the ordinary, thought you too might enjoy it, so put it in for you to glance at. Saturday a couple of boys came in quite excited, they had read one of my ads for old postage stamps in the paper of a neighboring city, then put on full steam ahead for my office with their plunder. Their father, or rather the father of one of them—the other spoke the King's English, had bought a very old house built about 1775 he said. In this house were many things, one in particular which might interest boys of their age, this being a cat. Details at this point became somewhat blurred. How the cat got up into the rafters of that roof I did not get quite straight in my mind from the garbled evidence, tho I gathered that the cat was traveling very fast for a reason. In its flight, a box of old letters was knocked from the girder, the contents being scattered in all directions.

We are all right so far; it would be a dandy plot for a real story. Have half a mind to stop right here. But to tell the truth these covers were all sadly stained, and rain soaked, yet from the lot one was salvaged in readable condition, the 3c 1861 stamp being canceled by "US" cleverly cut from a cork and used in Saratoga Springs, N. Y. There were a few with PAID and the rest help make the word "junk", a good philatelic expression.

Now isn't that a sad ending? Possibly, as a cat has nine lives, it may live to knock over some other boxes placed in a less exposed position, and they may contain all the '47's and Brattleboros, etc., for right then the boys gave up their pursuit, meaning for more old letters—not the cat. Nice kitty.

Mr. C. A. Heath has sent in a 3c 1861 stamped envelope, No. 2332, with the following cancellation in black ring measuring 27 mm., "Riegelsville 2nd Line Sept 9 B D R R." Who can tell us something about this railroad and this cancellation?

Mr. Wagnall has sent in ten cancellations on early U. S. He made mention that some of them might prove unusual. There are a couple of those odd "Worcester Mass" ones cut into cork so that the letters are colorless on 1c 1882's; one very neat little circle on a 2c vermilion, and that 5 pronged affair, a new name having arrived for it lately—"Ant Eater". This thing generally shows on the 2c red browns of 1883, and I've never made up my mind just what it may be. One collector insists it is an elephant, while a precancel enthusiast says we are all as imaginative as usual, now listen to that from a precancel man! Show him one of their entirely indecipherable towns, and he says without hesitancy that it is Oshkosh, or Saxafonefalls, or something like that. It does no good to remonstrate gently with him for he admits it is a bit hard to see, being a double invert! But you've probably heard them.

Mr. W's use of the word "unusual" probably referred to this item, and I'll bet he smiled when he wrote it. This is the very first time that this animal has been called to my attention, he says he found three in 8,000 or so, of the 3c greens.

Add this to your menagerie list, pig, for it sure is a pig. In detail, a snout, a little round eye, a little stub of a tail, ears, and knuckles, my what knuckles! You'll see this pig, and the "maybe" elephant among our illustrations.

Just a word about these cancellations. There are about 100 ready to go to press, and I hope that all of you who are interested have turned in your quotas. In a month or two you won't feel like mailing them, and I'll feel less like drawing them, so send them now if you care to have them in the list, and pictured in the Forum. Last call.

There have been quite a number of added cancellations which have not been mentioned in this column, and they will all have a bit of a name under them, or a query as to what the name really is, and from what town their origin. When you answer, we can add it to our illustration, and we will have its history in our reference lists.

Must stop right here and get away some of your 483, more or less, unanswered letters.

P. S. Talk around the lunch table revolves round the volume of business the Philatelic Agency must be doing. Many local orders were sent in for their new Spring styles, and the disappointment at not receiving them in time for Easter was quite poignant. It is said that the Boston P. O. sold about $75,000.00 worth of Concord-Lexington commemoratives the day they were placed on sale. Looked like tickets for the World's series had been put on sale—in Boston? ? ?

PROVISIONAL ½c STAMPS.

We have received from Olaf J. Olson of St. Paul an interesting cover with one-half of the current 1c stamp on it. The stamp is cut diagonally and there is a rubber stamp notation on the cover to the following effect:—"No ½c stamps available". This is an interesting provisional and doubtless other communities will report similar curiosities.

From Fresno, Calif., comes a provisional ½c stamp, used with the current 1c stamped envelope. The 1c green adhesive is cut in halves vertically and an interesting provisional is thus created. This cover came from the Fellowship Stamp Agency, and we are glad to acknowledge this unique variety.

A CRITIQUE OF CRITICISM.

By WILLIAM D. PIERSON.

May I offer a correction in the description of the five cent Lexington-Concord Stamp by Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., in your issue of April 20th? The words of the poem referred to are not by Longfellow, but were written by Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes on the occasion of the dedication of the monument near the bridge at Concord.

I should also like to take issue with him in his adverse criticism of the new one-half cent Nathan Hale stamp. In my opinion the very ruggedness of the portrait is its greatest charm, and much more pleasing than some of the simpering attempts at idealism which have appeared in the past few years.

Possibly the full faced portrait is a little large for the frame, and it might have been better had the portrait been taken from the statue by St. Gaudens in City Hall Park, New York City.

It would seem to be quite desirable that better acquaintance be made with what are termed minor celebrities. Here was a young man of education who entered the Continental Army and volunteered his services for the most dangerous deed, knowing full well the ignominious penalty if he was discovered. His display of heroism is certainly worthy of being commemorated.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

The estimated expenses of the exhibition will be between $35,000 and $40,000. This amount will have to be secured from three main sources (1) Contributions, (2) Rentals, etc. (3) Membership. To date pledges received approximate $12,000, of which less than one-quarter has actually been paid in.

Contributions—A formal campaign is being opened to complete the necessary funds and interested philatelists are requested to contribute liberally and send their contributions to the Treasurer, Theodore E. Steinway, 109 East 14 St., New York.

Rentals—Income from this source is undetermined as plans and specifications have not been completed.

Membership—Every philatelist should lend his support and show his interest in the forthcoming exhibition by becoming a member of the Association. Application blanks may be obtained from the Treasurer.

The Finance Committee desires it to be understood that all moneys received are for the exclusive use of the exhibition and no part of the funds will be diverted to the Collectors Club or any other organization.

Program—The program is now in process of revision by the committee who are correlating the suggestions for improving the original draft.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Louis G. Barrett sends us an interesting April 19th souvenir. It consists of a cover bearing two of the 1c green Lexington stamps postmarked at Concord on April 19th. Mr. Barrett affirms that this cover is of more than ordinary interest, and we are of the opinion that he is absolutely correct.

—The new 1½c brown Harding stamp has been received with the regulation Canal Zone overprint. We are indebted to the Canal Zone Stamp Co., for specimen.

—James Matheson, president of the Rochester, Minn., Philatelic Club, gave an interesting address on, "History of Perforations of U. S. Postage Stamps" at the semi-monthly meeting held April 2nd, at the Commercial Studio. Eight new members were elected. Meetings are held the second and fourth Thursday evenings of the month. H. E. Tubbs, secretary, will be glad to correspond with interested parties.

—W. S. Aldrich, St. Joseph, Mo., has just issued a pricelist in which he quotes at wholesale 10, 25 and 100 copies, a wide variety of U. S. and foreign stamps. It is well worth perusal and will be sent on request.

—First day covers are at hand from S. D. Arnett, Pine Bluff, Ark., with the ½c Hale under date of April 18, and Dr. Edward Snell, Hollister, Calif., the 1½c Harding under date of April 16.

—Arthur W. Line, Dunkirk, N. Y., sends us a Chicago cover upon which the postal cancellation reads "Transfer Clerk La Salle Station." Mr. Line writes:—"I enclose herewith a cancelling machine postmark used by the clerk at the La Salle Station, Chicago, which would indicate that the volume of loose mail handled by this particular mail room must be considerable. So far as I am aware this is the only mail room in the country using a cancelling machine. Who knows of another instance?" Mr. Line also informs us that Easter Island is still on the map nothwithstanding the persistent rumor that the island was engulfed by an earthquake or volcanic eruption in 1922.

—Our old friend George S. Chapman, formerly B.P.S. 554, Arlington, Mass., but now residing in Mobile, Ala., has sent us an airmail cover which was despatched to Beverly from Mobile via Chicago The cover is dated April 17 and the envelope bears the inscription "Experimental flight, New Orleans to Chicago" Mr. Chapman sends us a clipping from the Mobile Register giving the particulars of the flight, which was instituted by the aviation committee of the local Chamber of Commerce.

—It is not likely that we can chronicle all the early dates on the new issues that have been put into use, but we are constrained to acknowledge courtesies from the Mack Stamp Co., Goshen, Ind.; S. Williams, Elgin, Ill.; W. C. McAlister, Davenport, Ia.; and H. S. Dicke Newton, Kans.; all of whom submitt covers with the 1½c postmarked on d of issue in their respective localities.

—The Niland Stamp Shop, 306 Amterdam Ave., N. Y. City, has issued Da zig and German Republic pricelists whi are very complete in their listings. Copi will no doubt be sent upon request.

—From Mr. Frank F. Wills, St. John we have received the Report of the Po and Telegraph Department for the la fiscal year; and from it, we learn th there are now 864 post offices in New foundland. Among the general notes, find the following simple paragra which tells of the hazards run by ma couriers in the north: "Two Ma Couriers, John Clair and Horation Wel who conveyed the Winter mails fro Loon Bay to Boyd's Cove, Twillinga District, were caught in the ice in the boat in March last, and drowned, the bodies and mail being recovered son days later."

—Editor Bailey of the Decorah, Iow Republican may print what he wants his paper and so, he welcomes the ne half-cent stamp in this way: "On Satu day last, the new half-cent stamps we placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency Washington, and on Monday, the edit of the Republican received a letter fro Washington bearing four of these stamp They were the first of this denominati to pass through the Decorah post offi and attracted the attention of the enti force. From the standpoint of the co lector this cover is of special interest b cause of its use on the first day that t stamps were on sale." That is telli them.

—An inquirer wishes to know if a countries other than the U. S., Cana and Canal Zone have Philatelic Agenci or their equivalent. We have memori of accommodating bureaus of sale stamps to collectors at Paris, Berlin a Lisbon, in years gone by, but it is like that the three Stamp Agencies named a the present sum total.

—Mr. R. A. Wagner, Long Beac California, writes in reference to Mr. J. Newcomer's article on a plate varie of the 5c Walloon issue, saying Plate N 15,754 is of interest in this connection, —Speaking of Mr. Newcomer, we must y, Mr. Newcomer found that the father one of the boys was a collector and is Mr. Newcomer added "one more to ows news when it smells it and says:

'The boys are drawn together not only a great deal of trading. Three of the mbers are general collectors; one spec-collector is also a dealer and makes nself useful to the club in that way.

new law our place in the air will be a high one.

—We have new 1½c newspaper wrappers as well as envelopes of that denomination and already there is a number of decided shades to be found in the stationery impressions. By-the-way, the redemption of one cent stamped envelopes is not authorized by the department.

—To those thoughtful subscribers who sent us first day covers from their respective towns, we waft our thanks. We liked the Cash, Texas postmark on one of the letters.

—The Southern Philatelist illustrates a local possibility from Sparta, Alabama, of the denomination of two cents and no doubt effort will be made to validate it from printed records of the early days of the Confederacy, and otherwise.

—At a meeting of that select organization, the Prosperity Club, Chicago, the editor of the WEEKLY, was the speaker who told of the philatelic newspaper publishing business as well as other things incidental to our pursuit.

—In a contemporary, a writer says that he has never seen a forged postal card, as issued by a government, even though counterfeits may be in existence. There have been forgeries to defraud the government but we suppose that he means at the expense of collectors.

—A real special delivery service is planned by Postmaster General New, he announced today in directions to postmasters for administration of the new postal law which provides three special delivery rates instead of one as in the past, and pays added compensation to special delivery messengers.

At offices where no special facilities were provided in the past for handling special delivery parcel post packages, arrangements must be made for special delivery messengers with Ford trucks or motorcycles with side cars.

"All special delivery letters and special delivery parcels will be specially delivered by messengers except in cases where equally efficient and expeditious service can be rendered by the regular city letter carriers," Mr. New said.

"With the increased compensation to messengers there must be prompt and efficient handling of all special delivery mail during the hours prescribed."

Under the new law, for delivering special delivery letters and packages, messengers will be paid 8 cents on pieces weighing not more than two pounds; 11 cents on those weighing from two to ten pounds where the special delivery postage is 15 cents, and 15 cents on mail matter weighing more than ten pounds, on which the special delivery postage is 20 cents.

FIRST COMMONER ON STAMP.

By CLINTON L. CHALFANT.

(The Lima "News", of Lima, Ohio, pays quite a compliment not only to philately but to Mr. Chalfant by permitting the following editorial to occupy the place of honor in a recent issue. We are pleased to reprint the same for the encouragement of those who would like to engage in similar publicity.—W. O. W.)

The picture of the first commoner to be placed on the postage stamps of the United States is that of Nathan Hale, Revolutionary patriot, whose portrait now appears on the new one-half cent postage stamp.

Hale was a school teacher before he entered the Continental Army. It was as an officer of the American army, seeking information in the British lines disguised as a Dutch school teacher, that he was seized and executed as a spy.

Altho the government has issued postage stamps since 1847, 78 years, it was not until 1925 that a "commoner" was placed on the postage stamps of this country.

Heretofore, only the pictures of presidents, justices of the supreme court, cabinet members, admirals of the navy, and generals of the army as well as ambassadors have appeared on the stamps of this country, until Nathan Hale was placed on the one-half cent stamps. Not only that, but foreign explorers and monarchs have been on some of the special commemorative issues, as for example, Columbus and Queen Isabelle of Spain, on the Columbian Exposition issue of 1893, and Balboa on the exposition issue which celebrated the opening of the Panama Canal.

Among the cabinet members that have appeared on the United States stamps are Alexander Hamilton, secretary of the treasury, under Washington; Edwin M. Stanton, secretary of war under Lincoln, and William H. Seward, secretary of state, under Lincoln. Robert Livingston, American ambassador to France, has been pictured on the one cent Louisiana Purchase exposition stamp, and Chief Justice John Marshall on the $5 postage stamp of 1894-95. Likenesses of Admirals Perry and Farragut appeared on the $1 postage stamps of 1895 and 1902 and General Sherman on the eight cent 1894-95 issue. Other generals, who later were presidents, were on other American stamps. Benjamin Franklin, first postmaster general, has appeared from time immemorial on the one cent postage stamps, while Martha Washington has appeared twice on the postal issues in 1904 and 1925, but not until 1925 did an American commoner appear on the postage stamps of the greatest Democracy in the world, and his name is NATHAN HALE.

EDITORIAL.

As a rule, the half-cent stamps were available at all the post offices on April 15th but it seems that at some of the offices the supply was insufficient to stem the demand and in consequence, the post office department arose to the emergency by a stroke of enterprise that is described in the following notice from the authorities, dated Washington, April 17th: "While all postmasters throughout the country were supplied with the new one-half cent stamps made necessary by the postage rates which went into effect on April 15th, because of their great demand and owing to the limited time given to furnish them, it was necessary to reduce the amount of postmasters' requisitions. As a consequence some of the postmasters have already exhausted their supplies and in order that the public might not be inconvenienced, particularly at distant points from Washington, Postmaster General New announced today that a special plane will leave Bolling Field Saturday morning with additional supplies of the half-cent stamps. Five hundred pounds or approximately three and a half million stamps will be carried in the plane. The first allotment is destined for Denver and will be dropped off the plane at Salt Lake City. The plane will then go on to San Francisco where allotments for Los Angeles, Seattle and Portland as well as San Francisco will be distributed from that city. Another plane with a like supply of stamps will leave Bolling Field Monday for other western cities."

In those cities where the stack of half-cent stamps melted completely away under the warmth of their reception, a Gordian knot was tied, the undoing of which was attended with wrinkled brows. Upon receiving from St. Paul a one-cent stamped envelope, flanked with a bisected one cent green, with the rubber-stamped line: "No ½c stamps available," we wrote to Mr. Olaf J. Olson for some particulars of the make-shift. Mr. Olson says that when he went to the St. Paul office for the ½c stamps on April 15th, there was none to be had; and when he sought the postmaster, he was referred to the Superintendent of Mails into whose ear Mr. Olson told of his worriment in not being able to send out circulars in 1c stamped envelopes. After some argument, this officer admitted that it was not equitable to penalize a customer because there were no ½c stamps available and he authorized the recognition of the halved one-cent stamps on this occasion, at any rate. We do not know just in what category to place these homemade half-cent stamps but they are curiosities having some claim for existence at any rate. It is likely that provisionals of this kind were employed at other cities.

The death of Max Thier, Charlottenburg, Germany, at the age of seventy-five years in March, 1925, has occasioned sympathetic comment particularly from those of a former generation of collectors although to the end of his days, Mr. Thier was recognized as an authority on philately. Our contemporary, the Southern Philatelist well may couple the names of Moens and Thier "as perhaps the greatest savants of our science." One paramount advantage was possessed by Thier in his complete knowledge of all the printing processes by which stamps were evolved and his findings on the character of the stamps that came under his scrutiny were accepted with a feeling of certainty. The passing away of Max Thier leaves a void that becomes a testimonial of his philatelic eminence and we deplore the removal from our little world of one who did so much to fortify it.

The foregoing paragraph becomes a prelude to one that created a deeper impression in this country. Under date of April 18, 1925, Mr. J. Murray Bartels, New York, writes: "I received this morning the enclosed death notice of Mr. Paul Kohl, Chemnitz, Germany. His loss will be keenly felt in the philatelic world. He achieved great things and devoted himself, his time and his resources in a very unselfish manner to the welfare of philately. Kohl's Handbook is the finest work of a general character which has ever been published and American collectors very often refer to it for information which they fail to find anywhere else. As you know, the Handbook is being published under the able leadership of Dr. Munk, whom we expect to see at the exhibition next year. He is expanding it greatly and accomplishing far more than had ever been attempted previously. Note the treatment of Canada in which our Mr. Lichtenstein gave substantial aid." The obituary notice is dated March 31, 1925, and gives Mr. Kohl's age as 73. We all remember the excellent catalogues of Mr. Kohl and some of us met him when he came to this country on a visit about twenty years ago. At that time, Mr. Kohl had with him, a fine assortment of classic stamps in superb condition and it was apparent to those who came in contact with him that he was a philatelist heart and soul. While a dealer his sentiment for stamps was unsullied by sordid considerations and moreover, he was a man of high principles and of the most engaging character. Our loss is not a light one but a compensating thought is found in the fact that literally the work that Mr. Kohl instituted lives after him.

Mr. G. A. Jackson, Boston, transmits the following particulars of a graceful tribute that has been paid, in an official sense, by the post office authorities and we are sure that the consideration of the department is appreciated: "I mailed a few first day covers with the Lexington-Concord stamps and from the Boston office were received copies as enclosed. I was rather curious to know why the covers had been canceled twice. I concluded that as they had been placed at the regular window, the cancellation clerk had run them through the machine in the regular way and then discovering that they were the special issue ran them through again so that the circular Boston postmark would fall on the envelope. However, wishing to have this confirmed I called upon Supt. Norris who told me that they had instructions from Washington to do everything that the philatelists wanted and they certainly have been very patient and accommodating. On first day covers they were to cancel the stamp by hand so that the whole impression, showing Boston, time, date and year would fall on the stamp itself. In the event of this not showing clearly due to wrinkles in paper or otherwise, they were instructed to repeat the complete cancellation at one side on the envelope so that it would be clear and easily identified. This, then, is the reason for the two cancellations as shown."

The day before Easter, the members of the Boys' Stamp Club of the Hyde Park, Chicago, Y. M. C. A., competed in an Easter egg hunt that for philatelic originality is worth telling about. Stamps of some value were attached to Easter eggs that were placed in the woods and the boys were then given a full head. The finders were the keepers of the stamps and the eaters of the eggs; and a campfire was to close the day in a burst of glory.

We read in correspondence fro Madrid, Spain, of the "mata-sellos" o stamp killer. He is the chap who as clerk cancels the stamps and one is re ferred to as having been arrested recentl at Malaga on the charge of having take quantities of mail home with him an removing the unused stamps which h sold later, pocketing the money. As th writer says: "His story belongs to world that is slipping past." The phil atelic idea of the "stamp-killer" is clerk who pounds away at the stamp on letter with fiendish perseverance until th specimen is reduced to a large blot.

WEGIAN "NORTH POLE STAMPS".

es Condemned as Speculative by the Kristiania Filatelist Klub, Oslo, Norway.

s you may be aware there has here now been issued a series of the so-ld "North Pole Stamps", of which a is to be sold at the various post of-from the 1st April this year.

Kristiania Filatelist Klub very much rets that the Norwegian Government issued these stamps, which have no al title at all.

he history of the stamps is as lws:—

hen the explorer Roald Amundsen ae arrangements for his flying-expedi-to the North Pole in the summer ; he applied to the Norwegian Gov-ient for financial assistance, but on cnt of the Budget it was considered ssible to assist him. Amundsen then kl whether he could not be helped in-rtly, viz.: through issuing a special ap, which should be used for postage etters and cards which Amundsen cld take with him to the North Pole. ang been made aware of this resource, egovernment decided to meet Amund-n wishes, and placed the matter before eNorwegian Postal Department. The eurtment protested against issuing aps without any postal title, but when egovernment then stated that it had e decided to help Amundsen, there was way out of the dilemna. The idea a further discussed between Amund-nand the Postal authorities and was tded to comprise a series of stamps, hh free of cost should be placed at ndsen's disposal. The stamps were ied and ready for distribution last a but Amundsen then had to give up sexpedition on account of financial ifulties.

Te matter has however been taken up za this year and it is now intended to ll.t the post offices about 50,000 series N th Pole Stamps" consisting of 7 al-s from 2 ore up to 25 ore, for which aps there is no need at all. It is thought that through such sale there will be given an official character to the rest of the stamps, about 250,000 series, which have been sold to the Norwegian Aerial Society, who is arranging the Amundsen North Pole expedition this year. The stamps have been sold to the Aerial Society at face value, about Kr. 180.000. The profit for Amundsen is to be obtained by selling the stamps at prices above face value, i.e., it will be tried to sell the stamps to collectors all over the world. We learn that the Aerial Society already has tried to sell the stamps en bloc (wholesale) to a speculating company.

Kristiania Filatelist Klub held a meeting on the 18th February, 1924, and it was then and there agreed upon to work against the recognition of these stamps, they being not worth collecting, and being purely speculative stamps.

The Society's Board herewith begs to send you this explanation, which has been agreed upon in a Club meeting today, March 31, with the request that you bring the true nature of these stamps to the knowledge of collectors in your country.—Courtesy of J. M. Bartels and C. J. Phillips.

CAMEROUN PROVISIONALS.

From letter to DONALD E. DICKASON.

"I have been apprised, by the six or eight stamp letters that have come to me lately, that the stamp news I sent you some time ago about the surcharged stamps of Cameroun got into print in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. Since then other things have transpired, so I will send you the sequel to do with as you see fit.

There had been sent to the Colony only 1,000 each of the 25 centimes on 2 francs and on 5 francs, 2,000 stamps in all, out of a printing of 65,000 of each. On March 1, 1925, these 2,000 stamps, having been divided up proportionately among the various post offices of the Colony, were sold over the counter. In order to prevent cornering by speculators, each person purchasing was allowed but two stamps, one copy of each surcharge, and the names of the purchasers recorded. The stamps were sold only to Europeans and near-Europeans. As the post office here at Lolodorf is small, the allotment was just 10 stamps. The largest number were kept at Douala, 1490, where are about 800 Europeans, the next largest number at Yaounde, the seat of Government, with 220 stamps, and the other post offices with from 20 to 40 stamps each. So the issue has now been made legitimate. However, used stamps on original cover should be worth far more than unused, as the proportion that will be used will be comparatively small in all. The sale of the stamps will close March 8th."

BALTIMORE EXHIBITION.

A Real Hulergerlulu

"Hulergerlulu" is philatelic for something many people want that the other fellow can't furnish, because he slept late on the morning of issue—hence, his thoughts philatelically didn't function sufficiently to capture this rare bird. Scan the paper, boys, and girls, too, and see if this "Hulergerlulu" can be bought elsewhere.

On April 15th the new Postal Act requiring circulars to carry 1½c postage went into effect. A ½c Postage Due stamp was ready to collect the deficiency, provided some poor deluded soul should post his circulars with 1c. A deluded soul did this very thing—hence. I can furnish an unsealed circular letter with postage paid by a 1c stamp and the extra ½c collected by means of a ½c Postage Due stamp tied to the cover—canceled April 15, 1925—the date of issue. A real first day cover, of which less than a hundred are available. Something to set those pages of due stamps off—to make them worth talking about. Did you ever own or even see a "due stamp" of any series used on day of issue? They will cost you one iron man each (translation, $1.00 each). Only one to a client, as there are not enough to go around. Come early and avoid disappointment—none available unused. Sorry, but Uncle Sam does not sell them in this shape.

1c WALLOON BI-SECTS

As ½c stamps did not arrive in time here it became necessary to bi-sect 1c stamps for two days only. Our firm had a quantity of 1c Walloons which we privately perforated into two halves, thus making provisional U. S. ½c stamps. This is unique. Will send one on cover, nicely cancelled and an additional 1c Walloon cut triangular into ½c stamp and cancelled on cover, BOTH covers for a dollar bill, post paid. E. J. CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the address of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

Unofficial Provisionals

On April 15th, the new postal regulations changing the rates of postage on certain matter went into effect, and as was to be expected, the department was unable to distribute the ½c stamps to all post offices in time to be used in accordance with the new requirements. As a result, numerous collectors have sent through the mail halves of the 3c stamps used as 1½c and half of the 1c stamps to pay the new ½c rate.

Mr. Olaf J. Olson kindly sends a circular communication from St. Paul, wherein the postage is paid by the 1c envelope plus half of a 1c stamp. In addition, I find rubber stamped, "½c stamps not available." At this writing I cannot state as to whether this was applied personally by Mr. Olson, or whether the rubber stamp was used by the Post Office Department.

Mr. A. F. Robertson kindly sends me a similar communication from Chase City, Va., posted under a half of the 3c stamp used as a cent and a half. He states that he sent out numerous circulars on the first day, and that when he called at the post office for the new stamps, there were no ½c or 1½c stamps available. I have written to the Department to ask their opinion upon the subject in order to see if such use meets with their approval. If this happens to be the case, it looks as if these provisionals should be more or less recognized. I really would like to see a copy, however, that was sent out by a firm in the regular course of business, wherein philately was not a factor.

Under date of April 17th the Post Office Department announced that while all postmasters throughout the country were supplied with the ½c stamps (?), made necessary by the postage rates which went into effect on April 15th, because of their great demand and owing to the limited time given to furnish them, it was necessary to reduce the amounts of postmasters' requisitions.

As a consequence some of the postmasters have promptly exhausted their supplies and in order that the public might not be inconvenienced, particularly at distant points from Washington, Postmaster General New announced on April 17th that a special mail plane will leave Bolling Field Saturday morning with additional supplies of the half cent stamps. Five hundred pounds or approximately three and a half million stamps will be carried in the plane.

The first allotment is destined for Denver and will be dropped off the plane at Salt Lake City. The plane will then go on to San Francisco, where allotments for Los Angeles, Seattle and Portland as well as San Francisco will be distributed from that city.

Another plane with a like supply of stamps will leave Bolling Field Monday for other western cities.

New ½c Postage Due Issued

The new ½c Postage Due issued for use in collecting deficient postage where the fraction of a cent is required made their appearance on April 15th. The stamp is similar to the other denominations of the series and is printed in the lighter shade, not the dark lake shade that has been used here of late in connection with the 1c and 2c stamps. They are perforated 11 on unwatermarked paper. These varieties are not obtainable from the post office in an unused condition, but I have seen the stamp used on a circular letter cover in connection with the collection of the ½c deficient postage.

The new 20c Special Delivery stamp completing this series will be placed on sale in Washington on April 25th, the design consisting as previously stated, of a motor van drawn up in front of the Washington Post Office. The stamp is printed in black in sheets of two hundred, which in turn are cut up into post office panes of fifty each.

Under date of April 18th, the Postmaster General announces that a real Special Delivery service is planned in directions to postmasters for administration of this new Postal Law, which requires three Special Delivery rates instead of one as heretofore. The new rates, by the way, provide for added compensation to special delivery messengers.

At offices where no special facilities were provided in the past for handling Special Delivery Parcel Post packages, arrangements must be made for special delivery messengers with Ford trucks or motorcycles with side cars. Mr. New states that all Special Delivery letters a Special Delivery parcels will be specia delivered by messengers, except in ca where equally efficient and expeditio service can be rendered by the regu city letter carriers. With the increas compensation to messengers, there m be prompt and efficient handling of Special Delivery mail during the ho prescribed.

Under the new law, for deliver special delivery letters and packag messengers will be paid 8 cents on pie weighing not more than two pounds; cents on those weighing from two to pounds where the special delivery post is 15 cents, and 15 cents on mail mat weighing more than ten pounds, on wh the special delivery postage is 20 cent

From a casual reading of the po laws, I was previously under the opin that the new Special Delivery sta were for use in connection with Pa Post mail only. I now learn that thi not the case. On all classes of m weighing less than two pounds, 10c is quired; on packages weighing two to pounds 15c is necessary, while on m in excess of ten pounds there is a cha of 20c for this service. These char apply to all classes of mail.

State Revenue Stamps

In a recent chronicle, I described a of tobacco tax stamps issued by the S of Tennessee, in accordance with A of 1925. I enumerated various denom tions. Mr. Warren P. Ware now se for inspection a new one, namely a carmine not seen heretofore.

Canal Zone

I learn upon excellent authority the recently issued 1c Canal Zone o printed at the Bureau has been foun the Zone with inverted surcharge. seems that a sheet was broken up after fifty-seven copies had been usec souvenir postals, forty-three copies unused condition were saved. I have as yet seen the variety but unders that the little unused lot is now on way to the States.

MEXICO.—Mr. A. B. Walker sends for chronicle the 1c brown, in the new series. The stamp is rouletted and shows the view of the statue that is on the other low values of this issue.

NEW GUINEA.—The long-expected pictorial stamps are now on issue, a set of the available values (½d to 9d) having reached us on Monday last. Our Sydney friends, Messrs. J. H. Smyth, Ltd., who kindly send them, inform us that the other denominations would be "ready shortly"; their letter is dated February 18th. The design uniform to the whole set, consists of a native settlement overhung by tall palms. The inscriptions are: "TERRITORY OF NEW GUINEA" (two lines at top), and "POSTAGE" (in small capitals under the picture), the value being indicated in words at foot and by a numeral in the lower right-hand corner. 1925, February. Engraved and printed by Commonwealth Stamp Printer, Melbourne. No wmk., Perf. 11. ½d orange-brown, 1d green, 2d claret, 3d blue on grey, 4d olive-green, 6d sepia, 9d purple. —Stamp Collecting.

PALESTINE.—New Issue. We learn from the Echo that a new issue should appear at the commencement of next month, thus coinciding with the commencement of the financial year, 1925-26. The values will be expressed in dinar, divided into shekels, drachma, etc. One dinar will be the equivalent of one pound. Twenty-six values will be issued, including postage due stamps.

Gold, silver and nickel coins, also bank notes in the new currency, will be issued at the same time.—Philatelic Magazine.

PORTUGAL.—The recent 15 and 30 centavos Charity provisionals have now been superseded by definitive stamps of those denominations. They are in the "Para os Pobres" type of 1915, copies having been shown us by Messrs. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. 1925, For the Poor, Perf. 12: 15c deep carmine and 30c lilac.—Stamp Collecting.

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have sent for chronicle the 1t red lilac of the Vasco da Gama series produced locally. We are also informed that a 6r brown also has been issued in the same design and that 2 million were issued while 1 million of the 1t were placed on sale. They had to be used in addition to the ordinary postage from January 30th to February 18th.

RUSSIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise that a series of five values of postage due stamps have been issued. They are to replace the provisionals of the Kerensky régime. Of small transverse oblong format, they have the Russian equivalent for "Russia" curved over the Soviet sickle and hammer, on either side of which are the letters "C.C." and "C.P." respectively; in the centre is the numeral of value and curved below it the word which means "to pay". SYRIA.—A new value, 4 piastres, has been added to the current set and three varieties have been issued, overprinted on French stamps as follows:—(1) on the 75c Pasteur type (2) on the 75c Ronsard and (3) on the 85c Sower. The same varieties have, we believe, also been issued for Alaouites and Grand Liban, thus making nine different varieties. Our agent at Beyrout, in sending about ten per cent. of our standing order, writes as follows:—

"I must add that there are so many people out here trading in stamps that when new ones are issued the local post office is invaded and one has to fight to get only part of the number he desires. Besides, all the new issues are unknown and kept confidential until the day of their appearance and that is why it has always been hard for me to buy the number desired according to your standing order."—Whitfield King & Co.'s Philatelic Bulletin.

OPEN HOUSE OF THE N. Y. SOCIETY.

The announcement that Dr. J. Brace Chittenden was to exhibit his wonderful collection of Mexico, brought nearly eighty collectors to the big "Open-House Meeting" of the New York Stamp Society on April 16th. After he had been introduced to the members and visitors, the doctor immediately won his way into the hearts of the members present.

The surprise of the evening came in the form of no other than H. A. Diamant himself, from St. Louis. Mr. Diamant's work and activity in western philatelic circles preceded him, and his introduction was followed by generous applause.

Following Mr. Diamant's address, about one hundred lots of fine stamps were auctioned off. Major Camp, vice-president of the society, acted as auctioneer.

On May 21st, the N.Y.S.S. plans to hold another similar affair and everybody will be welcome. Meetings are held the

Collection Ten Cents 1847 For Sale

100 COPIES 10c 1847 AS LOT ONLY $3000.

My fine private collection of this stamp for sale at above low figure. I have been 7 years getting lot together. None has been plated. Of 100 copies several are used, there are 2 pairs on covers, 2 pairs off cover, about 25 singles on cover, and rest used copies, many good cancellations. Think of it, an average of $30 per stamp, for 10c 1847 issue. Most anything good in the stamp brings $25 or over, so at 100 for $3000.00 it is an opportunity for dealer or collector. I have 15 copies, scant margins, otherwise o. k., at $15, $18 and $20 each, according to condition. Address,

HALF CENT.

This is the first time in the history of the United States that half cent postage has been in use. The half cent stamp have been common in Canada, and the half penny stamp in all of the British possessions, for many years. They were first used in Canada in 1868. The half penny stamp was used by British colonies as early as 1852 but it was not until 1870 that the mother country first used them. The half penny stamp of Great Britain and her colonies is equivalent to the half cent stamp of the United States.

The new postal rates are responsible for the introduction of both the half cent and the one and a half cent stamp in the United States. The latter was placed on sale in Washington on March 19th.—Decorah, Iowa, Republican.

THE SECOND ATTACK.

By A. Cum Backer.

I'm in love. And, in love the second time. The worst of it is that I'm a married man. Yet, my better half is a widow — not a grass widow whose hubby died of hay fever—but a stamp widow. At least she considers herself as such. To offset this somewhat, I am a "Cross Word" widower so why should either of us care.

Part of the evening's conversation is something like this—

Hubby — "Hey. Isn't this coloring on the new Congo's beautiful and the workmanship is exceptional."

Wife—"Listen, what river in Europe begins with W something, I something, Z something, O, N."

Hubby—"When those are mounted they will look beautiful. Of course, they are considered junk by some but I like them for themselves alone."

Wife—"What's another name for eel grass? And look, do you know another name for 'boob.' No, I'm not getting personal but I can't seem to— Oh, go in your den with your old stamps, you are about as helpful as nothing at all. Run along."

And so it goes unless we each shut our door.

It happened—the second attack—about a year and a half ago. I collected as a kid and gave it up as there seemed to be so much detail. Chasing the girls was a lot more fun and I do not know but less expensive. There were no movies nor ice-cream cones and yet we could look at the family album or take a walk up to the cemetery to see the flowers. Sometimes I would get free feeds if I took "her" up river in the canoe.

Well, as I say, I gave up my stamp collecting back in 1900 and, as I wanted a new suit to sport around in, I took some of my U. S. Departments (I wish I had them now) to a dealer and the next day I was adorned with a postage stamp suit.

In 1907 I went into the book business, having a large store with a sixteen foot frontage, on a good street. As a side issue I handled old prints, autograph letters of noted people and "Americana" in general.

Strange to say I never thought of stamps and seldom ran across any. I have been in attics a great many times and, of all the correspondence I looked over, I never found a stamp worth while. I'll tell you the reason a little further along.

During the war I was given a knock out blow in the solar plexis and took the count for three years. We'll pass over this period quickly. About two years ago I re-opened and, not wishing to work quite so much for the portly landlord took smaller quarters in other words two rooms. Not having so much space I had to give up handling of old prints as they were so bulky. I missed them too, for often I would make a collection as a hobby and then, after being tired of them would pass them along at a goodly profit.

About the time I was missing them the most, I seemed to come in contact with a number of stamp dealers and collectors. The thought flashed into my ivory dome, "Why not collect stamps again." Guess I'd been asleep for twenty odd years like old "Rip." Once I get an idea into my pate there's nothing to do but rush to it. Nothing could wait or stand in the way of that new desire. I was living in the stamp days of 1900. My knowledge was of the vintage of 1900. My ideas were of that period. Stamps were stamps. A thousand was a whole lot. In order to get started and, to learn just what I wanted, I bashfully went into a dealer's and asked for one of those window envelopes full of printed pieces of paper. 1,000—$3.00 or 2,000 $5.00, I have forgotten which. Then I purchased the three albums. My, but hadn't stamp collecting grown—three albums, whereas the one I had was only an inch thick and contained more spaces than stamps.

I took them home and made some excuse to my better three-quarters about having "picked" them up somewhere and that I was going to collect again. She thought I ought to have my head examined and I soon thought so too, for, upon looking over the artistic pieces of paper I found that I could not even tell to what countries they belonged. All was new. All strange. But, I was having some fun with it all and, strange to say, my wife took the catalogue and went over it page by page to help me find the stamps of certain countries. It almost resulted in a divorce as we both wanted to be the first to locate a certain stamp.

Well, I began to get my eye teeth cut and soon found that I would have to call a halt and confine myself to certain countries. That's almost two years ago and I do not yet know what I want. What you can have you don't want and what you want you can't have.

In the store I had made a lot of connections and friends from whom I thought I could get stamps. Here was the nth mistake. Stamps had not been mentioned by any of these people in the many years of my acquaintance and yet when I said I was a "stamp nut" to lawyers, business men, young men, a judge, etc., much to my surprise they replied, rather sheepishly, "Oh yes. I've been collecting for some years. Don't want to sell anything but might swap." This showed up one important point. Most men over eighteen years of age will not admit that they are so foolish as to collect stamps, unless someone else mentions it first. The point to bring home is—that there are more stamp collectors than we know anything about and it only takes a word or two to bring them out in the open. Try it.

I still go into attics looking for "Americana" and you can make a safe bet I always say—"Got any stamps." Invariably there are a few tucked away in a tin box which are brought to light. I have picked up some fine covers and some nice singles.

A lot has been said as to the loss of interest by boys in collecting stamps. I believe the reason is, too much detail. Now what difference does it make whether or not there is a toe nail missing from the English Lion or that there is a wart on King Ka-Zook's nose. The specialist says—"Don't bother with them if you do not want to do so." All right, we needn't. But, here is the rub. If one is looking through a lot of stamps worth only an nth part of a cent and one has the wart making it worth a dollar, one feels that they cannot afford passing it by.

Another point—a lot has been said as to collecting for investment. It's all poppy-cock, in my estimation. There's no such thing as collecting for an investment. When we start collecting we necessarily get the low values first. Who wants those low values when we sell? The dealers have more than they can ever use and anyone, with a collection at all, has them. Nevertheless they have cost us money and the better stamps and the high values have to carry along the dead wood. And, what of it? Haven't we had the fun? Does anyone take their cigar stubs back to a dealer and say he wants to sell them? Do you take back your theatre checks after you have enjoyed the play and want a rebate? Of course not. You've had the pleasure and enjoyment and have been well repaid.

Same with stamps. And yet, it is not the same, for you get the fun and at the same time you get a rebate. Of course stamps can be purchased as an investment and comparatively common stamps can be plated, specialized, etc., for investing purposes. But, let's not be continually harping on the dollar side of stamps but instead let's say "ain't we got fun."

I have recently read several articles regarding the prices in catalogues and the desire to have some real guide as to value. My suggestion would be to do the way the book trade does. That is—at the end of each season issue a catalogue which would be a summary of the prices brought at auction. We booksellers pay $15. for the yearly catalogue and, often it pays for itself in referring to it once. Nothing is listed which brings less than $7.50. Stamps selling for less than 50c or $1.00 need not be quoted. The "Book Prices" is limited and sold by subscription; 650 copies are printed. With the millions of stamp collectors it would seem that at least 10,000 could be sold and I for one would be willing to pay $10. I think it could be done for $5.

FIRST POST ROUTE IN THE COLONIES.

By Mark Stuyvesant.

On New Year's day of the year 1672, a lone horseman started out on a perilous journey from New York to Boston, to open up the first postal delivery route in the American colonies. A proclamation had gone forth that letters would "bee conveyed to Hardtford, Connecticott, Boston, and other parts along the Road and bee carefully delivered according to the directions by a sworne Messenger and Post, who is purposely imployed in that Affayre."

The path which this first postman traveled was beset with dangers. First, there was the tractless and uncharted wilderness which had to be traversed. Raging storms and savage beasts might be encountered and worst of all, death bearing arrows from the hand of the Indian. But the pioneer spirit shrinks at nothing and some unnamed hero was found to undertake this perilous ride.

The postman started out on the first Monday of each month from New York and returned within the month. His mailbag he gathered up at the coffee house on the Battery, for the keeper of the tavern was none other than the postmaster. Letters were left with the innkeeper who, after collecting a small fee, affixed certain "Post Payed figures and designs," and sorted the letters according to their destination. The incoming letters were kept in a rack until they were called for, in person, by those who were expecting mail.

The mailbags, which were destined for such cities as Boston and Hartford, were carefully sealed by the secretary's office, but the bag that contained mail to be delivered along the road was left unsealed.

All along the route the postman was received with the greatest cordiality and enthusiasm. He was invited into the homes of the most prominent citizens, tempted with food, plied with questions. In those days, without the aid of newspapers, news traveled so slowly that the postman was regarded as the best informed person within reach. He came direct from the large centers and brought the latest news from home and abroad.

In those days there were no such things as postage stamps and even in 1692, when the postoffice was moved from the coffee house to Richard Nicoll's grocery store at 62 Broad Street, the "Post Payed Figures and Designs" were still employed. It was not until 1844 that the postoffice could boast of an office of its own, and then three years later congress authorized the first issue of stamps.

Back in 1673 it took one month to send a letter from New York to Boston and back, and people thought that the world was being revolutionized. Yesterday we sent a letter over the same route and received an answer the following day. And now, behold the miracle of the air mail. What next?—Kansas City Post.

NEW YORK CITY

The Science of Stamps

By WILLIAM BOLITHO.

(This article from the New York "World" of April 20 is a notable contribution to philatelic literature. It occupied an entire column in the "World" and was finely displayed. We recommend it to our readers as publicity of a superior order. If this article could have been syndicated and used in the general press of the country it would have proven of tremendous value in interesting the public in stamp collecting.—W. O. W.)

Inlaid here and there between the plate-glass fronts of the antiquity shops in every rich city in Europe are more sober strips of window-dressing, usually not more than a door and a pane—the stamp dealers. Separating these are romantic jumbles of old and curious porcelain, rosewood, lace, ivory and gold, the general heritage of Europe's past, in which every tourist is attracted to buy a share.

These stamp dealers make a more austere and unintelligible display. The antiquary's shelves show off his baubles where chance has set them. But behind his small neighbor's windows are the invisible bones of a system. No untidy art, but a pretty science governs the philatelist's rows of tiny colored rectangles and adjusts their transparent gum hinges on the cardboard, numbered strips and albums that exactly fit his window, in a soft colored mosaic as prim as Queen Victoria's bedspread.

At most, the dealer in these precious scraps allows a fat envelope or two of bargains to hang from clips on a horizontal string to break the order. To every fish its own bait. Any one can like the cut glass of Queen Anne, or the clay fairies of Dresden. Stamp collecting is an esoteric business. It is a Puritan in our Vanity Fair; it strictly abjures all poetries and vulgar utilities. Here they deal only in the very essence of rarity.

By this fanaticism, philately has universally spread; by this mark it is no mere hobby. Philately is a characteristic in modern culture. It is the unique refinement of our civilization. All other vices, all other tastes we have inherited from an ancestor age that excelled us in them. The passion for treasuring used postage stamps we ourselves invented.

The sole customers of the stamp shops, wherever you find them, are from the two socially supreme classes of our age: schoolboys, the propagators of sport; millionaires, the cornerstones of capitalism. They never conflict in their purchases. The fat envelopes are for the boys; the single lonely specimens for the rich men. Without millionaires, stamp collecting would languish; without schoolboys it would never have existed. They are both necessary; and from their interplay in the cult, rays shoot on the secret places of our inextricable times.

Stamp collecting is a chapter in sociology. It began in the fifties; naturally in England, for that first sufferer from the mechanical revolution set the ways of life for the whole world besides. It was a by-product of the self-improvement tide, which has not spent itself today. These fifties were the days of spelling bees, and serial educators, and popular zoology, when the miserable multitudes, under the fierce incitements of Samuel Smiles, flung themselves into the desks of Faraday, Sir Robert Ball and the Rev. H. Wood to get some cure for their economics in the "systematic acquirement of scientific knowledge."

Science was tipsy with logic, and reeled after Linnaeus's old dream of a straight classification of all living things: mnemonic, easy, complete. Science is the way out of the sixteen-hour day, hoped the clerks and ambitious workmen, and science is simply card-indexing. Thousands of natural history books with six plates in litho at three and sixpence preached the way to get on by counting and alphabeting the stamens of wild flowers.

When that bubble burst, under the uncountable variety of creation, it left an heir in this game. Since beetles and sea-urchins and the wonders of the microscope refuse to have a grammar of size and shape, let us find a field of knowledge more manageable, where every example can be distinguished by rule, where every rare exception may be known. The disappointed amateur scientists, with the satisfying smack of the ruined taste for learning in their mouths, looked around and saw the schoolboys playing with a science game.

Those colored tabs of adhesive paper the Government sold as receipts for postage, so convenient in size, so cheap, so varied; so amenable to reason and classification. Schoolboys who collect all the activities of man, once they can get rid of the contaminating ethics, had long discovered philately. So a new hobby appeared.

The first error roofed its success. Some poor employee in a fright found out he had printed the Queen's head upside down on a batch of stamps. Those which had been sold were "errors," precious exceptions, which every science (so much they had learned) must have. Stamp collecting followed the Bible, and cloth caps, and calico, and footballs and all the vast apparatus of steam culture round the world. It grew and flourished

312 Walnut St., S. E. Mplis., Minn.

The new ½ and 1½ precancels will come with a rush. It is likely that the large cities will use the government printed ones. Pending the arrival of supplies of the Bureau printings, the local offices will have to precancel with their regular plates. It is likely that the local emissions from the larger cities will become scarce. H. A. Nordquist of this city, on April 17th, showed us the following: ½ and 1½ regular series and ½ postage due all precanceled in the Minneapolis current style, Type IX. Also the 1½ Duluth in the U-1. H. A. Thatcher forwards the 1½ Bureau Print from Sioux City, Ia., which is the first to reach us in the government type.

The 4-cent Bureau Prints have been noticed from Chicago, Philadelphia and New York. Doubtless there are a number of other cities which have a supply.

New varieties of the 10-cent specials continue to appear. During the last week we have received Caldwell, N. J., Helena, Ark., and Tulsa, Okla., all precanceled with electroplates. Helena employs the U-1 style while the other two use the U-10.

Besides the U-1 electro, Alameda, Cal., precancels with the U-51 handstamp. The 16-cent aeroplane, old series, has appeared with an overprint from the latter device.

Batavia, Ill., is using precancels produced by the typeset method, as well as those of the handstamped kind. Thin serif caps between lines describe the general appearance of these items.

Centralia, Ill., has a new handstamp, entirely different from any standard style. Two lines of block caps, spaced widely apart are set off by very thick bars. The 5, 10 and 12 are at hand.

The old issue 30 cents, handstamped in the U-53 style is our first from Clay Center, Kansas.

Several pretty precancels from the neighboring State of Wisconsin are the 1- and 2-cent values from Fond du Lac. For several years smudgy handstamps have made the precancels from this city difficult to decipher and accordingly of reduced value. Now they are printed in the U-10 style.

We were surprised to run onto a six and seven, current set, from Lawrenceburg, Ind. Both bore inverted overprints of the U-9 electro.

Pensacola, Fla., which has heretofore used precancels of the U-3 style is precanceling the higher values of the current series, with a U-53 handstamp.

Peoria, Ariz., has broken into the field with a handstamped precancellation similar to U-4. The 1, 3, 4, 5 and 10, present issue, have been seen.

H. S. Thatcher shows us the 6-cent from Pukwana, S. D., in the U-53 style, which represents the first contribution from this town to precancel circles.

Stuart, Florida, precancels are coming in red ink as well as black. All are printed from typesettings. Several styles of overprint have been noticed on the old issue, current series, including the Special Delivery, and the Huguenot-Wall

The general style of overprint was trated in a recent issue of Phil Gossip. Stuart, Florida, in two with double lines between, describe In respect to having the lines betwee names, instead of above and below cancellation resembles the Canadian of precancel. It might be noted, how that this style of overprint is n accordance with the U. S. P. O. regulations setting forth the mann which stamps shall be precanceled.

Walschburg, Colo., is a newcomer. 15 and 30, present issue, have arr They bear the overprint of the handstamp.

Universal style charts printed on board may be had from the editor o department for 16 cents. The Star Catalogue of Precancels will likewi furnished for the convenience of re on receipt of $2.10.

CANAL ZONE POSTAGE DUES

Emil J. Rall, Ancon, Canal Zone, informs us that the U. S. postage stamps surcharged "Postage Due" at the Panama Canal Press during February, 1925, were supplied to cover a temporary shortage of the regular U. S. dues. The quantities of stamps surcharged were as follows:—1c, 15,000; 2c, 25,000; 10c, 40,000.

Mr. Rall also submits an official circular from C. H. Calhoun, Director of Posts, in which the attention of postal employees is called to the fact that the sale of postage due stamps is not permitted and special mention is made of the prohibition as regards stamp collectors.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Notes, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

It is such a beautiful morning after the heavy rain of last night, one of those hot steamy Spring mornings such as only New England seems to ever produce, birds caroling, trees bursting into little leaflets as you look at them, and the green grass growing all around; I don't really know how to write a Forum article in keeping with this day.

Let's see, what goes best with a fine spring day? Maybe Green cancellations, or perhaps budding collectors (came near saying Green collectors!).

Some few collectors lately have asked me what to collect. They have general collections, and are beginning to find that the philatelic world is quite extensive—and expensive. I don't like to tell them to go in for cancellations, some would not like these cancels, and if everyone collected them there would not be enough to go round.

"All Gaul is divided in three parts." That popped into my head at the moment, and I asked the man what country he liked best. He named a South American one of the "A B C" Group—Argentine, Brazil and Chile. So in his case I merely suggested the other two, which seems to be the collecting style of this day, and he seemed right well pleased with the idea. Next thing he will be studying Spanish, then taking up Paraguay and Uruguay, and the rest of them. You know Brazil issued their first postage stamp in 1843, only three years later than England started with their "Penny Black".

It is not the kind of a morning to dwell on what we see called "The Old Classics". This expression appears in ads and articles oft and anon. Why is the word "old" used? I never read of any young classics in stamps. Do you suppose collectors in the year 2000, which is as far away from now as we are from our first issues, will be referring to the Million Mark German stamps, and the Russia Soviets, and Harding Precancels, as "The Old Classics"? There's a lot to stamp collecting, and I don't wonder at all at the beginner being a bit confused about what to collect.

Machine cancellations on U. S. stamps. There have probably been many interesting articles on these Machine cancellations, which are of course in general use throughout most of the cities of the U. S. A., and some of the smaller towns. They are great time-savers, just feed the envelopes in right side up, and turn the crank. In the larger cities I suppose you do not have to turn any crank. They have been done away with on ice cream freezers, clothes wringers and autos. Electricity is a great help in reducing the percentage of cranks, speaking literally.

The morning's mail fetches three air-mail covers to the Forum from Mr. John B. Whitney, Jr. These are the Bermuda Flights by the Dirigible "Los Angeles", which is a step toward our airmail service to foreign ports.

He says "The one pmkd. 'Air Mail Service N. Y. Feb. 20', and on back, 'Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 21', is one which went down to Bermuda on the first trip, and because the airship did not land, the letters were dropt off. The other two I received today." They having arrived at Lakehurst, N. J., yesterday on the dirigible, and are all cancelled "Bermuda First Overseas Airmail". One has an added "Airmail Service Bermuda".

The collecting of airmail is now in full swing, and these collectors seem to have as many phases to their line, as specialists in other forms of collecting. For example, they all must have a "Par Baloon Monte" of the Siege of Paris in 1870, then they want a Pigeon Post of Gt. Barrier Island, and then they are off on the collecting of what they call "Pioneer Flights", which they say are most interesting.

I suppose those three men who have organized flights to the North Pole this summer will be asked to add just a few letters to their already heavy equipage. You may have read of how one leaves from the U. S. A., another from Gt. Britain, and the other from Norway. Maybe you helped to finance one of the trips by buying a stamp.

Have any of you started to collect the Radio stamps? I see books in local windows called Radio Stamp Albums, but to date have not enthused greatly.

This number of the Forum seems to have rambled round quite a bit without arriving at any particular spot, except that it sure is one fine Spring day.

MILWAUKEE OFFERS CANDIDATES

Ever since Milwaukee had the honor of holding an A. P. S. convention a number of the members of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society have been urged to run for office. So finally, after more than usual outside pressure this year, Dr. F. A. Kraft (President M. P. S.), W. O. Staab, and Dr. S. G. Keller, have consented and were unanimously elected to do so at the last M. P. S. meeting. Promises of support from many quarters in the A. P. S. assure them that their move is appreciated and that they are backed by strong forces in their run for the vice-presidencies.

"Old Reliables"

We have never heard anyone express regret because he had collected these stamps in really fine condition. These are all imperf. "earlies", world-wide in their popularity.

NEWS GLEANINGS

—From Mr. Jas. H. Cooke, Carmel, California, we have received a copy of the Official Bulletin, National Society. S. A. R., wherein the program prepared by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, celebrating the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington and Concord, appears. These exercises marked the great day of which so many descriptions appeared in the newspapers. It was the Committee on One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Lexington and Concord, with whom, according to the statement of the post office department, the authorities conferred regarding the adoption of designs for the Lexington-Concord stamps.

—From California comes a clipping sent by Mr. L. J. Newberry, San Lorenzo, taken from the editorial page of the Boston Traveler; and we repeat the following words from the paragraph, as peculiarly applicable to collectors: "Now is the time for about everybody to become a philatelist and secure specimens of the stamps as they appear in their historical sequence. They are bound to appreciate." Here is out-spoken doctrine that is worthy of the confirmed stamp booster.

—We have received from Dr. C. W. Hennan, president of the Chicago Philatelic Society, a set of eight photographs of pages from his album containing Dutch stamps. These prints are reduced to about five by six inches and clearly show the stamps; and in fact, next to seeing the pages themselves, the photographs would be chosen. The idea of exhibiting by proxy, as it were, could be developed, to the satisfaction of the owner of the stamps and the one favored by the reproductions. On one page of the Hennan collection, we notice in addition to pairs and a block of four of No. 1 Dutch Indies, a strip of ten of the stamps.

—The newspapers have given particulars of so-called North Pole stamps which have excited the romantic longings of collectors whose minds dwell with interest on Arctic reaches but the Kristiania Filatelist-Klub of Oslo, formerly Christiania, Norway, repudiates the issue. Coming after the fiasco attending the stamps issued previously for Amundsen, the explorer, which have never been circulated because of the financial difficulties of Amundsen, the protest of the Christiania club will have weight, especially as it is shown that the stamp collector is being exploited for private ends.

—Recently, in the rooms of the Hungarian-American Club, Detroit, a number of collectors of that city, organized the Hungarian-American Philatelic Club. As the membership is not limited to any nationality, the object is to bring into closer communion the big family of American collectors. Meetings are held on the second and fourth Friday of the month and the officers for the first year are: Dr. Andrew L. Hoenig, A. P. S., S. P. A., etc., and the secretary-treasurer, Dr. Nicholas Galdonyi, 7862 W. Jefferson Ave., Detroit. A sales department is to be established soon.

—Collectors are complaining that they are not having sufficient notice of first and other postal aerial flights and are wondering why information that may be acted upon to their advantage comes so late as to be valueless. For instance, the news of the trip to Porto Rico was released only a few days before the date of the flight we understand. If there is some good reason why announcement may not be made in time to benefit the collector, we should like to hear it.

—One of the questions that is frequently asked philatelic editors is why stamps with inverted watermarks are not catalogued. Stanley Gibbons says that there is little demand for stamps and that is the reason they are not included in the catalogue published by them; and we quote: "That is, however, no reason why any collector should not include these varieties in his collection, with an appropriate note. A stamp catalogue should be made use of as a friend, not slavishly obeyed as a master." Not a bad rejoinder.

—George Elliott, 6103 Brynhurst Ave., Los Angeles, Cal., would like to know the present address of C. A. Rodgers, formerly of Rialto, Cal., but more recently of Los Angeles, from which point he was to go to Seattle, Wash. Letters addressed to him at that city have been returned.

—The Hampden County (Mass.) Stamp Dealers, consisting of H. P. Atherton, W. C. Rackliffe, H. R. Oppenheimer and C. F. Fitzgerald, held their first auction of U. S. and foreign stamps in the Stamp Shop at Springfield, Mass., on May 8th. Future catalogs may be obtained by addressing 318 Main St., Springfield.

—We acknowledge the receipt of postcard greetings from a group of S. P. A. "boys" who were at Baltimore, Md., recently, making arrangements for the big S. P. A. convention to be held in August. Eight signatures are attached to the card:—M. Ohlman, Joseph Hoffman, James Hoffman, Paul Wise, R. C. Bach, Guy W. A. Camp, Dr. Frank Gorham and Francis F. Greeley.

—The Ridgwood Stamp Club was organized on Wednesday, April 22nd, and officers elected as follows:—H. C. Meyer, Pres.; James E. Purdy, Vice-Pres.; O. F. Muller, Treas.; H. V. Heusler, Sec'y; F. Kurz, Treas.; G. H. Fabian, Sales Manager. Meetings every first and third Wednesday in month. Any collector desiring information in regard to the club can receive same from the Secretary, whose address is 201 DeKalb Ave., Brooklyn.

—Here is one of the "Question and Answer" features taken from a newspaper some time ago that has been aw ing attention on our desk:

"A man entered a post office with th packages of equal size. Each one c him 70 cents to mail.' The postmas gave him the following stamps: 50, 25, 20, 20, 20, 10, 10, 10, 5, 5, 3, 3, 2, 16 stamps in all. How did he arra them on the packages? He placed equal number (five) on each package.

Answer:

The man had stamps of denominati as follows: 50c, 25, 25, 20, 20, 20, 10, 10, 5, 5, 3, 3, 2, 2.

He placed them as follows:

First package: 25, 20, 10, 10, 5.

Second package: 25, 20, 20, 3, 2.

Third package: 50, 10, 5, 3, 2.

Thus each package contained an eq number of stamps (five), and each tota 70 cents."

Friday, April 24th, was very good to WEEKLY in the receipt of three appli-

b. Two came from subscribers by name of Hurd. We do not know any relationship exists between these
, but it certainly is interesting that h remittances for $5 arrived on the ne day.

Mr. C. R. Hurd is located in the Eagle lg., at 257 Fourth Ave., N. Y. City, ile Mr. Frank Huntoon Hurd is with ss their pleasure in receiving the

The New York Philatelic Society, lo-

es out membership in our Honor Club.
lis is a rather unusual proceeding and do not know of any other club or t the action was taken by the unanius vote of the Board of Directors.

e society has been established eleven the past. Our thanks are extended

Soon after the Managing Editor began legislative career at the State House, eaker of the Legislature. He is a nable attorney associated with Powers

Hall at 101 Milk St., Boston. We are

An old friend of the WEEKLY in Louis
Olney of Lowell, Mass., has also sent his application for membership in our

As we close this list, we receive two plications, one from Frederic J. Grant,

REMEMBER OUR NEW ADDRESS

AN OLD OLD QUESTION

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

(The WEEKLY decided some years ago that its space could be devoted to a better use than to print articles against the Standard Catalog, and we have discouraged the submitting of contributions discussing this matter. We insert Mr. West's article, as he is an old contributor to the WEEKLY, and trust that this will be (for some months at least) the last word on this question.—W. O. W.)

If it takes a three-legged hippopotamus 8,000 years to walk across Niagara Falls on a tight rope without getting his (or her) toe nails wet how long will it take a two-legged bolshy to rebuild the Capitol at Washington, D. C., U. S. A., if he pulls down two stones every time he raises one?

I mention this because I've noticed a discussion regarding constructive criticism—accent on the "con"—in the stamp papers and said discussion seems rapidly to be approaching a temperature of 212 deg. Fahrenheit. With your permission I'd like to toss a stick or two on the fire before it burns itself out.

What I want to know is what to do to make more stamp collectors, and make their stamps more valuable. Whenever some lad that's afflicted with microscopitis finds an error in the Standard catalog shall we all grab a fog-horn, rush to the nearest house-top and proclaim the glad tidings throughout the world? Is that the way to make outsiders hanker to collect stamps or to make insiders collect more and better stamps? If it is, then whatever fills my head where the brains ought to be is addled.

No! I would try to remember that the Standard catalog is a product of human intelligence and that the intelligence required to make it even so good as it is must be way above the intelligence that cannot recognize who is most anxious to have the catalog closely approach perfection. I would remember that the catalog has shown a pretty steady improvement for the 25 years I've known it intimately and that the Scott Co. has more to gain by having it errorless than anyone else. I would also remember that the catalog is not published by an endowment fund but must to a definite extent pay its own way and if published by a book concern which sold no stamps would cost every dealer and collector something like four times what it does now.

Remembering all this, I would sit me down and write Clark or Luff and tell them just where I thought the catalog could be improved, and why. And I'll bet with any three-legged hippopotamus or other curious creature that my suggestion would receive careful attention and if in the Scott Co.'s judgment its adoption would be of permanent benefit to philately they would try hard to find a way to adopt it. I know they will because I know they have.

I know a few other things too, and they reflect little credit on those who "construct" by pulling down two stones in order to build one. It's human nature for each of us to wish to sell for as much as we can get and to buy as cheaply as we can. We all like to have catalog prices advanced on stamps our collections contain but we don't like it so well when prices are raised on stamps we wish to secure. That will be so until the end of time. Also, just so long as there is free competition in the stamp market those who know how can find stamps for sale at "half cat." Is there any constructive critic anywhere who wishes the next edition of the Standard—or of any catalog—to reduce every price 50%? I trow not. In taxation the great scheme is to make "the other fellow" pay the tax. In philately the great scheme is to make the other fellow sell at 50%. With collectors as well as dealers how often one's own holdings are described as "worth close to catalog" or "worth full catalog" or "undercataloged"!

So far I have dodged a phase of the subject which I would prefer to omit altogether. Unfortunately some of the constructive criticism — so-called — has gone beyond the bonds of fair play and has tended to undermine the confidence between collectors and dealers, which certainly must be maintained if philately is to progress, or even hold its own.

It is a well-known—almost notorious—fact that very few stamp dealers have ever obtained much more than a living from the business. In most cases their bread and butter depends upon their honesty and good faith. The large concerns are no exception. Indeed, they have more at stake than the smaller dealers. To say or intimate that the dealer is no longer a necessity to philately is to make myself ridiculous. The dealer's importance to philately has not decreased. It has increased and today is greater than ever before. There are no signs that it will decrease in the future. To weaken or destroy the collector's confidence in the dealer's good faith is to weaken or destroy a vital part of philately. Who can impair a part without impairing the whole? Where is the constructive part of criticism which leads toward such an end?

Yes, I know of places where I am convinced the Standard catalog could be improved to the benefit of all philately and I look forward confidently to a broadened philatelic enlightenment which will sustain these changes. Impatience will not bring them. Education among collectors, coupled with courtesy, patience and confidence in their good faith toward the officers of the Scott Co., who have these matters in charge, will surely bring these or any changes which broad and forward-looking philatelic judgment approves. I believe this method will work in the future because I know it has worked in the past.

Patience is necessary. Too often in the past the Scott Co. have altered catalog prices in order to reflect actual market values, acting at the request or upon the judgment of supposed experts whose opinion was believed impartial, and later found that the opinions accepted in good faith were much less impartial than they had believed. A few experiences of that kind would make even a critic wary.

We cannot justly criticize Clark or Luff if they do not always accept suggestions—sometimes couched as demands—instanter, or because they wish to be fairly sure the informant has no personal axe to grind before they go ahead. Personally, I'm inclined to be skeptical of the motives of those who do not hesitate to imply bad faith, but I'm strong for those who build up, even when they progress slowly.

EDITORIAL.

In the Art World Magazine of the Chicago Evening Post of April 21, 1925, there is a large half-tone, six by six inches, "Counsel and a Stamp Dealer," by Copley. The reproduction is made by the courtesy of the Albert Roullier Galleries, Chicago, and underneath is the text: "A show of new etchings of John Copley and his equally talented etcher wife, Ethel Gabain, is current at the Roullier galleries." The picture shows the bewigged judge attending to the duties of office albeit though he takes more than a glance at the alluring stamps of the tempter. The etching certainly would be an appropriate hanging in the philatelic den.

Mention has been made of James Bogardus, who was born in Catskill, N. Y., 125 years ago, in consequence of a newspaper statement to the effect that he was the inventor of "the first machine for the manufacture of postage stamps." There is some slight foundation for the claim, inasmuch as when the Lords of the Treasury of Great Britain, in 1839, invited "artists, men of science and the public in general" to compete for cash prizes offered in connection with "suggestions or proposals as to the manner in which the stamp may best be brought into use," Mr. Bogardus, in connection with Mr. Coffin, submitted data, which was awarded one of the prizes, four in number, of one hundred pounds each. While nothing seems to have been preserved that would identify the Bogardus and Coffin entries, yet it is probable that Mr. Bogardus submitted the idea based on a patent allowed him on August 26, 1839, for an "Improved means of applying labels, stamps or marks to letters and other such documents." The following description of the design of Mr. Coffin coincides with the specification of Mr. Bogardus: an engine-turned device in the form of a transverse oval printed in black on thick, white, wove paper, apparently faced with silver. Above and below the design, according to the position in which it is held or placed, is a circular hole measuring 18 mm. in diameter and round the edges of this space is the remains of red sealing wax. It is seen that the sealing wax when placed over the hole would seal the letter and secure the stamp. A copy of this essay reposes in the Royal collection. Our information confirming the inventive application of the American, James Bogardus, is taken from the Line-Engraved Postage Stamps of Great Britain, printed by Perkins, Bacon & Co., by Edward Denny Bacon, M. V. O., Volume I, published by Chas. Nissen & Co., Limited, London, 1920.

When in March of this year, the postmaster general issued an order that gold coin, gold bullion and gold dust will not be accepted for transmission to foreign countries either in the letter or parcel post mails, except in quantities not exceeding $50 in value, he curtailed the use of high values, U. S. to some extent and more to the point, narrowed the opportunities enjoyed by several collectors situated abroad in advantageous positions for getting the high values. We believe that Alaska, as an integral part of our country is not affected by this ruling and that high values still come on gold dust from there.

We have not heard up to this moment of the nomination of a successor to Mr. Wolsieffer, president of the American Philatelic Society; the determination of Mr. Wolsieffer not to run a second time has made a realignment necessary politically and candidates will be forthcoming, we doubt not. Several members do us the great honor to ask that we run for the presidency but we must unqualifiedly refuse the distinction because of lack of time to attend to the duties of the office properly, if elected. No illusions should be entertained that there is not a good bit of work required of the president of our growing national organization. The right man is to be found somewhere and it is incumbent upon us to discover him! The president who is elected this year no doubt would deserve a second term and thus, he would have high office during the international exhibition at New York. In a sense, he becomes the titular head of the philatelists in this country. We have been told that the excellent Board of Vice-Presidents, resident in Kansas City, will not serve again; and the loss of their services as working officers to the society is much regretted. In this connection the announcement is made that the Milwaukee Branch of the American Philatelic Society has nominated three estimable men as the Vice-Presidents: Dr. F. A. Kraft, Dr. S. G. Keller and W. O. Staab.

A letter has come from Paris from a close observer, who says: "I was impressed by your remarks in an issue some weeks ago by the comparison between the public knowledge of stamps and collecting in the U. S. and other parts of the world. The point that an understanding of stamp collecting at home does not match that abroad was not pressed to an extreme, I should say. One of the satisfactions that I have from an extended stay in Europe is the ready appreciation of the sanity of collecting by an adult business man, by the non-collectors here. This is due to several reasons, one of which admittedly is that philately is more in evidence in Europe than in America and the other is that here the people do not look askant at expressions of individuality as the devotion to stamp collecting may be called." Our correspondent gives examples illustrative of his opinion and concludes by saying that the dealers abroad are becoming more reluctant than before to sell really good stamps and that in some cases they are eager buyers rather than sellers. This condition is one that reflects credit on the faith of the dealers in Europe since competition is keen there and it is represented that luxuries are not commonly shared by the people.

Some of the old irreconcilables are still tilting at us with sharpened pen for seeming to be unharried by the issues of commemorative stamps, actual and prospective. We do not sense the danger that they profess to see in these issues and further, we regard them as inevitable. By reason of the modest denominations of the stamps, any charge of exploitation of philatelists for financial reasons falls of its own weakness. Stamps provide a convenient and direct means for commemorating persons or places or to celebrate incidents or events and this fact is recognized officially. When governmental profit is not the animating impulse of issue, the position of the authorities is not a weak one. Aside from all argument, the fact remains that each special issue has its value as a missionary force. New collectors are made and dormant collectors awakened as a consequence of the stamps and though there may be some sentimental wrench felt by the philatelic precision, yet on the score of the great good for all, the stamps which are a reflection of the order of things at present, should be accepted philosophically. It must not be forgotten that these issues have many friends and there could be no united or unanimous opposition to them.

From Madrid Filatelico for March, we take the total of the stamp issues for 1924 as 1,709, which compares with

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

THE NEW 1c MEXICO

By HERMANN FOCKE.

In the present issue of Mexican postage stamps, which began to appear in 1923, no 1 centavo value had been included, for being practically obsolete, as far as postal use is concerned, but in March this lowest value has again appeared, not to fill actual postal requirements, but rather in the form of a charitable issue, inasmuch as the proceeds of its sale are to be applied to a recompensation to agriculturists in the Southern states of the Republic for their losses caused by the ravages of a Locust plague which has devastated large areas of fertile lands over a period of several months.

We, therefore, find this stamp added to the regular postage on letters, primarily domestic, but occasionally also on foreign mail, thus letters to the United States being franked with 11c instead of the usual 10c rate.

The stamp is of a pleasing appearance, upright in form and steel engraved in a greyish-brown color, having as a centre the monument of the Mexican patriot, soldier-priest Morelos, who was executed by orders of the Spanish Inquisition on Dec. 22, 1815, and his monument which stands in the Plazuela Morelos in Mexico City was unveiled on Sept. 30, 1865, the hundredth anniversary of his birth, by Maximilian, Mexico's only Emperor since its conquest by the Spaniards under Cortez in 1519.

Like all the low values of the present issue, this late-comer is rouletted 14½ and bears the following inscriptions: at top the name of the country in a curved ribbon with scrolls on either side, at bottom under the monument the words Monumento A Morelos, below these the word CENTAVO and a large number "1" in a square in the two corners, at sides the word CORREOS, and underneath the stamp proper the usual imprint Oficina Imp. de Hacienda-Mexico.

The use of the stamp not being obligatory but rather optional, very few copies seem to be coming out of the country so far, and as the issue must be considered provisional, collectors should try and get it before it is too late.

OBSERVATIONS OF A STAMP CLERK

By BARON COOK.

Apropos of the tercentenary issue of the "Huguenot-Walloon" stamps, it was surprising how many persons seemed to know so little about the history of some of the early settlers of this country; and through the purchase of and the various inquiries made concerning these stamps, many amusing incidents came to my attention. A number of persons, evidently because of the similarity of the last syllable in "Walloon" with that of that erstwhile champion of wrestling, in purchasing them, asked for "Muldoon" stamps. Quite a few for some reason or other, must have got "Huguenot" confused with the name of those South African people, who originally occupied the Cape Colony region, and asked for "Hottentot" stamps. There were many who, instead of "Walloon" called them "balloon" stamps, and a colored man coming to my window one day, who no doubt heard them spoken of as such, said, "Gimme one a dem bal'-loon stamps, Ah wants to send a letter by air mail." One man although somewhat careless in his pronunciation, yet rather apt, in speaking of their size, said, "Hugé-u-not was a very appropriate name for them;" and a druggist told me in addition to selling them for postage, he had suggested their use for plasters.

In view of the absurdly comical instances which have been related, and in defense of the stamp collector, who, because of this hobby, has been referred to at times with very unkind and inappropriate epithets, it might be a splendid thing if there were more students of Philately, as there is no doubt that the study and collection of stamps is both interesting and educational. Especially helpful would it be to young boys, as the little stamp, which carries messages of all kinds, far and wide, might be instrumental to some extent, in shaping their future lives, if they would but heed the advice given in the words of Josh Billings—"Konsider the postage stamp my son, its usefulness konsists in its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there."

The need for a cheap stamp album was mphasized in a recent number and in this nnection, Mr. Harry G. Horton, Afton, ew York, writes: "About a year ago, I as on the lookout for a moderate-priced ank album to hold a certain quantity of amps which I needed to mount. I finally lected an album advertised in your lumns at a reasonable price. I found to be nicely bound, with pegs to hold e sheets securely; and the sheets inted in quadrille on good paper as lvertised. The fault of the album lies the too great flexibility of the cover, ith the consequence that the leaves nd and do not open flat; and thus the amps are subjected by frequent hand-ng to undue strain and wear. If the akers of this book would improve it ith a nicely bound stiff cover with rtridge board leaves, linen-hinged and ld the cost for the necessary changes, am convinced that this album would eet with favor among the conservative llectors who want a good container but ho would not be willing or able to pay hat seems to be a fancy price." Since e publication of our little paragraph, e have received several letters calling at-ntion to cheap blank albums that are on e market, but it is agreed unanimously at a cheap printed album is a necessity. volume is wanted rather better than e cheap gift album and not so expen-ve as the rather pretentious album of e stationer and book-seller.

A Real Hulergerluiu

"Hulergerlulu" is philatelic for something many people want that the other fellow can't furnish, because he slept late on the morning of issue—hence, his thoughts philatelically didn't function sufficiently to capture this rare bird. Scan the paper, boys, and girls, too, and see if this "Hulergerlulu" can be bought elsewhere.

On April 15th the new Postal Act requiring circulars to carry 1½c postage went into effect. A ½c Postage Due stamp was ready to collect the deficiency, provided some poor deluded soul should post his circulars with 1c. A deluded soul did this very thing—hence, I can furnish an unsealed circular letter with postage paid by a 1c stamp and the extra ½c collected by means of a ½c Postage Due stamp tied to the cover—canceled April 15, 1925—the date of issue. A real first day cover, of which less than a hundred are available. Something to set those pages of due stamps off—to make them worth talking about. Did you ever own or even see a "due stamp" of any series used on day of issue? They will cost you one iron man each (translation, $1.00 each). Only one to a client, as there are not enough to go around. Come early and avoid disappointment—none available unused. Sorry, but Uncle Sam does not sell them in this shape.

1c WALLOON BI-SECTS

As ½c stamps did not arrive in time here it became necessary to bi-sect 1c stamps for two days only. Our firm had a quantity of 1c Walloons which we privately perforated into two halves, thus making provisional U. S. ½c stamps. This is unique. Will send one on cover, nicely cancelled and an additional 1c Walloon cut triangular into ½c stamp and cancelled on cover, BOTH covers for a dollar bill, post paid. E. J. 20c Black Special Delivery Issued.

Under date of Saturday, April 25th, there was placed on sale at the post office at Washington, D. C., and at the Philatelic Stamp Agency for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers, the new 20c black Special Delivery stamp for use on parcels subject to the increased special delivery fees, as provided under the Act of February 28, 1925.

The stamp is of attractive appearance—is the same shape and size as the current 10c Special Delivery and has for its central design a motor truck standing at the post office with a carrier loading parcel post packages for Special Delivery. At the top upon a curved ribbon are the words "Special Delivery" in dark letters with "U. S. Postage" directly beneath on a ribbon in white letters. Above the motor truck are the words "At Any United States Post Office" and at the bottom within a panel "Twenty Cents". In both upper corners upon ribbon scrolls are the numerals "20" and within circles in the lower corners are the same numerals. The stamp is enclosed within a cross line border and as previously mentioned is printed in black. The variety is perforated 11 and printed on unwatermarked paper.

The ½c Sepia, Issue of 1925.

Mr. Hugh McLellan writes a most interesting communication regarding the new ½c stamp chronicled in this column a few weeks back. He states:

"Having just read your chronicle of the new ½ cent stamp, in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, in which you say that in your opinion this stamp is possibly the most unattractive stamp ever turned out by our Country—that it seems to have nothing in its favor in "design, color or appropriateness," I am impelled to write you.

There is no doubt that we philatelists were rather shocked by the stamp on all your three counts, but on consideration I wonder whether the "appropriateness" cannot be defended. When the 1922-23 set of stamps was issued rather an elaborate defense was issued (I believe officially) on the appropriateness of the subjects chosen; as I remember, it was based on Americanization—a sort of biographical and historical panorama for our adopted brethren. And Martha Washington's portrait was to show the respect and honor in which the sex is held in America— also the exalted position women have attained, politically. Now, can it not well be that those who decide such things have intended to pay, in the portrait of Nathan Hale a tribute to the upstanding, clean and patriotic youth of our country?

And I doubt if a better symbol for the American youth could be found; product of our soil in the fourth generaton, and of a family in which are many illustrious names. Nathan Hale is an inspiration to the patriotism of American youth, and the selection of his portrait very appropriate in this "sesquicentennial year."

Dirigible "Los Angeles" to Bermuda and Porto Rico

The famous "Los Angeles," formerly ZR-3, made its second trip to Bermuda carrying mail in accordance with previous advice given in this column. This time the ariship found it possible to land and brought back three sacks of mail from the island. Through the courtesy of Mr. Erwin Strasser, I have received a communication bearing a 2½d Bermuda stamp postmarked "Hamilton—16th of April 1925" and in addition bearing in black rubber stamped letters in two lines, "BERMUDA FIRST OVERSEAS AIRMAIL." The Postmaster General announces under date of April 25th through a circular sent out by the Information Service to the General Press, that he has on that date telegraphed Postmaster Kiely at New York authorizing the dispatch of not to exceed two hundred pounds of specially addressed mail on the "Los Angeles" from Lakehurst, N. J., to Porto Rico. Arrangements were made for the dispatch of mail through the courtesy of the Navy Department.

The "Los Angeles" is scheduled to make the trip to the island on Monday, April 21st, or on the first date of favorable weather conditions thereafter.

Airmail News.

Through the courtesy of Mr. S. H man, we have received a clipping fr the Chicago Daily Tribune of April 1 advising that on the previous day ar aviators made an airmail test flight w $3,000,000 worth of Registered mail fr New Orleans to Chicago in eight ho and fifteen minutes. It was a test fli taking in Mobile, Montgomery and B mingham, Ala., Nashville, Tenn., Lo ville, Ky., and Indianapolis, Ind. trip of probably 1,000 miles was made Captain Herbert Fox and Lieut. Vinc Meloy, who flew the last lap from Na ville. Bankers and post office offic met the plane at each of the cities al the route. Captain Fox is a Rese Officer, interested also from the sta point of the banker for he is an assist cashier of the American National B of Nashville.

The Postmaster General also sends an announcement under date of A 25th relative to the transcontinental mail service, which will be of espe interest to business firms located Southern California. The announcem reads as follows:

"Southern California air mail for east will be advanced in dispatch p tically one full day as the result o change in the transcontinental Air M schedule, announced by Postmaster G eral New today.

Daily mail planes which formerly San Francisco at 6.30 a. m. will take at 8.45 a. m., the delay permitting the ceipt of mail from Los Angeles by So ern Pacific train leaving Los Angele 6 o'clock the previous evening. On present air mail schedule the only patch from Los Angeles is one in early morning which really only ta mail posted the day previous.

The change in schedule will not af the arrival of mail planes at New Y The difference in time will be made by speeding up the cross country fl time. Pilots who have been arri ahead of schedule at the various divi points will be able to utilize the d time heretofore consumed in wait The transcontinental schedule is t shortened from 31 hours and 35 min to 28 hours and 50 minutes.

Under the new arrangement South California mail will be taken from So Ir. H. Clay Reed sends for inspection ies of the new 1½c envelope on white m both die A and die H2, in addition the former on blue.

Ir. Benjamin Cadbury has shown me c permit printed in brown from New k and within the concentric circles ring the name of the city, we find in e lines, "Extra ½c paid," making a c rate. This no doubt is a provisional mit, which will shortly be superseded he normal type.

rcotic Overprints.

ollectors purchasing Documentary nps with the Provisional Narcotic rprints are especially warned to learn to the source of such varieties, for e of late there has come upon the rket numerous stamps which cannot raced to any Internal Revenue Office. eral of the larger offices issued pro- ional stamps, such as Philadelphia, w York, St. Louis, New Orleans, De- t, etc., and at the time the stamps e in use, we thought that we had the about complete. It was believed then possibly rightly so, that the denom- ıions in excess of $2.00 were issued ne office only. Here of late, these nps have been available with other rprints, not seen until recently.

s we desire to learn more about the nps floating around, the writer would sider it a favor if those owning these ier denominations would kindly drop a line.

We wish to thank Messrs. E. J. New- ier, Charles Metz, H. F. Metz and S. Arnett for notes of interest.

am in receipt of advice from the stmaster at Balboa Heights stating under date of April 15th the new and 1½c stamps surcharged "Canal ne" were placed on sale, to be used in ordance with new postal rates. The nps are the current perf. 11 flat plate rieties, which bear a similar overprint n the one found on the other issues. Philatelic Agency of the Zone sends a list of those varieties available, ch include not only the items men- ed above but the current stamps from co $1.00, the 25c and 49c booklets, the types of 1c postals bearing the por- rt of Jefferson and the Canal Zone e, in addition to 1c and 2c envelopes of h the head type and sealed type.

AZORES.—The Economist Stamp Co. e sent for chronicle the following ues of the Camilo Castelo Branco series with the surcharge "Acores": 2, 3, 4, 5, 10, 16, 25, 32, 40, 48, 50, 64, 75, 80 and 96c and, 1.50, 1.60, 2, 2.40 and 3.20 escudos.

BARBADOS.—Mr. Arthur V. Lynch informs us that he has received from a friend in this colony the following values of a new series, printed on script watermarked paper, very similar in design to the 1916 issue but with "Postage & Revenue" across the top and the values in numerals in ovals in both lower corners: 1p carmine, 3p violet on yellow, 2sh deep violet on blue and 3sh deep violet. The letter was dated April 2nd, last, but the postmark was two days later.

DENMARK.—A. E. Pade reports the appearance of a new value of the current "Porto" issue of this country. It is the 5 kroner dark violet.

GREAT BRITAIN.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the 1d postage due stamp, same design as before, but on the new watermarked paper.

JAPAN.—We have received a circular from Ackermann & Hayama advising of a proposed new issue of stamps in commemoration of the silver wedding ceremony of the Emperor and Empress, which will be on sale the 10th of May. The values to be printed are 1½s, 3s, 8s and 20s.

NORWAY. — In order to assist Roald Amundsen in his forthcoming flight across the North Pole, the Norwegian Government has given orders for the printing of 2¼ million postage stamps showing a Polar bear gazing up into the sky, watching the flight of a flying machine. The greater part of these stamps of a total value of 180,000 kroner has been placed at the disposal of the Air Navigation Association on behalf of the Polar flight. We have no information as yet as to the denomination of the new stamp, nor whether there will be more than one value.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

PARAGUAY.—We are advised that new stamps are in preparation of the values of 50 centavos, 10 and 20 pesos, design at present unknown.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

MARQUETTE

By Chas. G. Wilson.

More than two hundred years ago a humble French priest won such fame as an explorer that the United States saw fit to memorialize him in the series of stamps issued in 1898 to commemorate the settling up of the country West of the Mississippi. On the 1c stamp of that issue is shown Pére Marquette on the Father of Waters.

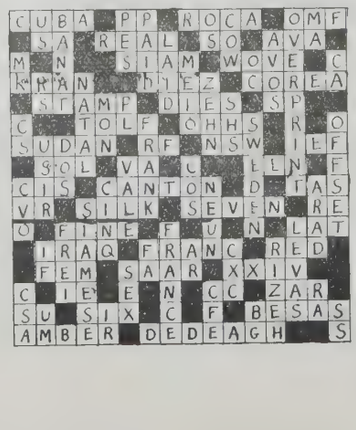
In 1675, at the time of King Philip's war, the Colonies in America on the Atlantic Coast from Maine to South Carolina were subject to England. Florida was in the hands of Spain. The French settlements were on the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes.

It was in this year the young Robert La Salle made a vain attempt to reach the Misssissippi and explore it and determine where it emptied. Through many leagues of forest he journeyed and made his way down the Ohio until his men mutinied and he was forced to return.

A little later Governor Frontenac sent out two more explorers, Louis Joliet, a fur trader, and Pére (Father) Marquette, a Jesuit priest, who set out on this momentous voyage in birch bark canoes with but five followers.

There is something very stirring in the history of this voyage of these men of such different characters; the stern, handsome priest, relying only on the Crucifix which was always with him, for his sole protection, and the grim resourceful trader, trusting in his tough sinews and his senses of perception quickened by a life spent in the wilderness. But it shows that goodwill begets goodwill for among the savage tribes that they met they ever found a welcome, and to these simple people the Jesuit taught the word of the Prince of Peace.

Near the land of the Arkansas Indians, sure that the mighty river emptied into the Gulf of Mexico, and fearing that if they ventured South they would fall into the hands of the Spanish, they turned their faces towards Canada. For eleven weeks they toiled against the stream down which they had so easily floated.



La Salle was greatly interested in the story told by the explorers and he obtained from the King permission to build a line of forts down the Mississippi and put a strong Colony at its mouth. In this way France controlled the fur trade with the Indians along the river and shut off the British Colonies from expansion towards the west.

In the dead of the winter La Salle led 50 or 60 persons out from Canada. They dragged their canoes and provisions on sledges on the ice until they reached the site of the present City of St. Louis where in the Spring, they were able to embark in their boats and float with the current.

On April 9, 1682, La Salle claimed in the name of "Louis the Great, King of France and Navarre" all the land drained by the Mississippi and by all the rivers that flow into it!

And it was this lonely little ceremony on the shores of the Mexican Gulf that caused France to claim all the land between the Alleghenies and the Rockies, which claim led years later to the French-Indian War, and one hundred and twenty-two years later to the Louisiana Purchase.

MAKING FINDS

By CEDRIC W. LEMONT.

Yesterday I received in the mail from an old friend a nice little bunch of covers. Among them was a beautiful N. B. 3p, a 10c N. S. and the first English shilling, with a lot of lesser stuff. This all came as the result of a casual enquiry made last summer of my friend as to whether he had any of his father's old correspondence. He said that he didn't think he had, but that if ever he found anything he would send it to me. The receipt of this little packet so unexpectedly recalled to my mind many nice finds made during my collecting career.

The first lot of old stuff that I can recall coming across was in an old desk belonging to my grandmother. This was when I was just a youngster and I remember tearing 12c 1869's from the letters, with 5 and 10c N. B. and hundreds of 6c pink. Alas, they are all scattered, as well as twenty-seven N. B. 3p's and one beautiful 6p that a dear old lady gave me at about the same time.

However, within the last ten years I have been fortunate enough to turn up some really choice pieces and I have had thrills galore. Perhaps one of the luckiest finds was made when my brother and I were on a fishing trip in New Brunswick. We had paddled along for several miles in the moose country without passing a house and on rounding a turn suddenly came to a clearing. As we were short of potatoes, we stopped and after buying some from the farmer's wife, I enquired casually if she had any old letters of any kind with stamps on them. She replied that just a few days before she had come across a few old letters of her mother's and would I care to see them. There were just seven covers, but one of them had a beautiful pair and a single of the 5c U. S. 1851 on it. The money I passed over to the lady apparently gave her just as much pleasure as finding the stamps gave me. I have always found that it pays to give a fair price for anything that turns up, whether the owner has any idea of the value of stamps or not.

Another year, on a vacation trip to N. B., in a little town I heard of an old attic where there might possibly be some old letters. After some diplomacy I was permitted to enter and found thousands of letters dating from 1835 to 1870. But somebody had been there before me and must have made a rich haul. Whoever it was, though, overlooked three nice N. B. 3p and a few 5 and 10c, which I picked up. Worth while? O, yes. And in the same town I ferreted out another place where a deceased county official had lived. Here I found a whole hat box full of Canada registered Queen's head issue of various denominations, from about 1875 to 1900 and possibly 1,000 covers, mostly registered mail, of the same period. I had three full days of joy sorting that lot.

In Mobile, Ala., I was offered a cigar box of Columbians and although I had no particular use for them I paid the $1.25 asked and felt quite generous about it. On looking them over some weeks later what should I find but a mighty nice N. Y. Postmaster and a few Confederates. Buying that unwanted bunch certainly paid me.

Within the last two years I have turned up not less than 1,000 nice covers right within a few miles of home. Two attics and some persistent efforts brought out most of these. One never knows when or where stamps are going to turn up. To prove this—while calling on a man whom I knew only slightly I enquired casually if he ever had collected stamps. No, he never had to any extent, but he had saved some old correspondence of his father's which he thought had stamps on the envelopes. Going up-stairs he brought down a package of old letters. There were perhaps 75 all told, N. S. and N. B. mostly, among them being 3p, 1, 2, 5 and 10c. My friend and I made a happy little exchange and both were satisfied.

But the best and biggest find ever I made was of a half barrel of the Canada 1868 issue. I'd give a lot to repeat that thrill. If you and the editor are sufficiently interested I may tell you of that find sometime. In the meantime I'll see what I can turn up. Here's luck to all cover hunters.

THE SWISS U. P. U. JUBILEE

A valuable article appears in the Berner B.Z. for February on the recent U.P.U. Jubilee stamps, and we give below the principal points.

Date of Issue.—9th October, 1924. Available until 30th November, 1924.

Printing.

20c	2,400,000
30c	2,100,000

Designs.—Old building of the Council of the States, where the Postal Union was born. 20c designed by A. Tieche and 30c by W. Stettler. Both engraved by J. Sprenger.

Paper.—Slightly satin surface, medium thickness, granite.

Watermark.—Large cross of 1905, vertical in 20c, but horizontal in 30c.

Plates.—Several for each value. 20c made up of four panes of 25 (5x5); 30c made up of two panes of 25 (5x5).

Marginal Numbers.—The four panes of the 25c are numbered 1—4 in the middle of the sheet margin to the right of the fifteenth stamp of each pane. The 30c numbered 1—2 to the left of the eleventh stamp.

Impressions, etc.—The 20c was printed on hand presses by the "Service Topographique Federal," but as not sufficient were produced to meet the demand, a small quantity was printed by the firm of Orell-Füssli of Zurich. The 30c was printed entirely by this latter firm.

Gum.—This was done by different firms to accelerate production. One firm used a white clear gum and later another quality, slightly greenish in tint. In both cases the gum soaked through the paper, and sheets often stuck together. The 20c is rare, with either of these, but the 30c, with the scarce harrow perforation, probably only exists with the white or greenish gum, because both of these were suppressed immediately for the reason stated. It is likely that only a few sheets of the 30c (harrow perf.) exist with yellow gum. At first the layer of this yellow gum was thick, but later on it was thinner.

The white gum is very thinly applied, but a few sheets have been found with a thick layer of a greenish tint.

Perforation.—Apparently two machines were used. The first was of the harrow variety, perforating the whole sheet at a time. It was made by removing the second, fourth, eighth and tenth vertical rows of pins from the ordinary machine, and the 20c was perforated by this. In the case of the 30c it was found, after a little work had been done, that the paper had stretched during printing. The Federal Mint therefore had to make other arrangements to obtain a more even perforation. To meet the difficulty, they took a comb machine and increased the distance between the second and fourth horizontal rows of pins by one hole. There are thus two sizes of the 30c, the first, third and fifth rows having twenty-three holes, and the second and fourth horizontal rows having twenty-four. In entire sheets the two perforations are easily distinguishable, since the harrow machine does not touch the margins, whilst the comb machine does.

The importance of this distinction will be realised when it is learned that while the comb trials were being made for the 30c, by chance a few sheets of the 20c were run through. The greater part were destroyed, but a very limited quantity got into circulation.—Phil. Journal of Great Britain.

GREEK PICTORIAL ISSUE OF 1925

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

The new pictorial issue of Greece is a superb production. Inscriptions have been reduced to a minimum, frames are of charming simplicity, and the subjects are of extreme attractiveness, interest and allure. But underneath all of these things, in addition to the undoubted intention to appeal to philatelists, there is a far deeper significance. In short, this series of stamps is a superb piece of Pan-Hellenic propaganda, as will appear clearly when we proceed.

The plates were produced in England, apparently by Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson and Co., judging from certain characteristics of the engraving, but the printing is being carried out by Messrs. Aspiotis Brothers of Corfu. Perforation is of the usual type, and not the aggravating serpentine roulette which results in so much serpentine profanity.

The designs are eleven in number, of three formats, values from 1 l. to 80 l., being of the ordinary size and upright rectangular shape; those of 1, 2 and 3 Drachmai are oblongs; while the higher values, 5 to 25 Drachmai, are large oblongs. All have ELLAS at top, various styles of letters being used. Value is expressed in figures and "1". (1 lepton and 10 lepta), "lepta", "Drachme", or "Drachmai". The 1 lepton and 10 lepta have the value in the lower left corner; all the others, except the 3 lepta, and 25 lepta, have the figures in both lower corners, and the coin between; the 3, 10 and 25 lepta have the figure in the centre of the bottom label, the coin on each side.

The 1 and 10 lept. portray a charming damsel of the Dodecanesus. The lady reminds us of Marion Davies in one of her recent films, and regarding the attractiveness of this design, nothing more needs saying. When we consider that this is the stamp used on newspapers, postals and ordinary letters, we appreciate the fact that the Greeks want everybody in the kingdom, or whatever the country is at present, to understand that those twelve islands are no longer in the possession of the Italians, but have returned to Greece. They are barren rocks, with a couple of exceptions, it is true. Most of the inhabitants are Greek sponge fishers, but their produce has evidently irritated the Greek skin for many years, judging from the amount of squabbling that has taken place over them. At the present time all of the islands, Kalimno, Kaso, Kos, Karki, Leros, Lipso, Nisiros, Patmos, Piskopi, Skarpanto, Simi, and Stampalia, have been turned over to the Greeks. Rhodes is to have a plebiscite in a dozen years or so, to decide this question. Three other islands, Tenedos, Imbros and Lemnos, were occupied by the British during the late war, but were restored to the Greeks in 1921. This occupation was due to the fact that the islands commanded the entrance to the Dardanelles.

The 2 and 40 lept. picture the White Tower of Salonica, a portion of the ancient fortifications. Salonica is the ancient Thessalonica, named after the sister of Alexander the Great. The lady was the wife of Cassander, who founded the city 315 B. C. The city is of overwhelming interest to the antiquarian and archaeologist; it is crammed with the relics of bygone ages and civilizations—Macedonian, Greek, Roman, Byzantine, Turk, and all the other conquerors who have held it. The tower shown is only one of many similar interesting structures in Salonica, the Heptapyrgion being an old castle with no less than seven.

Salonica is the most important of all Aegean seaports, and the outlet of a very large portion of the Balkan peninsula. It is of great strategic importance, and it is easy to understand the satisfaction the Greeks feel in possessing it, after all the tribulations they have endured during the last hundred years in order to accomplish this. The vilayet, or province, has an area of more than 13,000 sq. kilometres, and has Cavalle within its boundaries. Philatelists are familiar with the stamps of this city, among the Levantine issues of several of the powers.

The 3 and 25 lept. picture a most interesting building, the Monastery of Simopetra on Mt. Athos. Athos is the easternmost of the three peninsulas of Chalcidice, and is the site of no less than twenty of these establishments, all of the Order of St. Basil. With the exception of 3, they are occupied entirely by Greek monks.

The monasteries of Mt. Athos are of great interest to those who desire to study Byzantine art, as they possess vast collections of such objects, as well as thousands of priceless manuscripts in Greek, Slavonic and Georgian.

The peak itself is 6,350 ft. high, its summit being composed of snowy marble. It is visible from Troy to Olympus, and is remarkable for the magnificence of its scenery. Anciently the peninsula was known as Acte, probably from the Greek "akte," meaning "shore," of which the peninsula has a very large amount considering its area, the ratio being about a mile of shore to two square miles of surface.

The 5, 50 and 80 lept. depict the greatest of modern Greek engineering accomplishments, the Corinthian canal. The completion of this work in 1893 marked the attainment of a desire which had been felt for two thousand years. In ancient times boats were actually dragged across the isthmus at Diolkus, whose name means "to pull over." Nero started excavations in 67 A. D., but evidently forsook the canal for the fiddle. hundred years later a French company tried to cut a canal, but abandoned the project in 1889, after which a Greek concern finished it. The canal is four miles long, 70 feet wide, and 26 feet deep, and shortens the trip from the Adriatic to Piraeus, the port of Athens, by 200 miles. The point shown on the stamps is about a mile from the western end, where the bridge of the Athens-Corinth Railway crosses it.

The 20 lept. shows another attractive feminine type in national costume, and when we see this little picture it is easy to understand why Paul said "Come over into Macedonia."

The Macedonians were allowed to participate in the Olympic games, and hence must have been considered Greeks from the very earliest times. Now that the province is again part of Greater Greece, it is particularly fitting that such a design has been chosen.

We now come to the oblong stamps, the first of which, the 1 Dr., pictures the so-called Theseum. Archaeologists agree that there is no possibility that the building so named is the real Theseum, which must have been situated a considerable disance east of this structure, on the opposite side of the Agora. Though called the Theseum, it is likely a temple of Athena. It is the best-preserved of all Grecian temples, due to the fact that it has been used as a church and a museum. It is built in the Doric style, with thirteen columns on each side. Its present appellation dates only from about 1500 and is opposed to all ancient testimony, but as Theseus was a Greek national hero, and typified all the best (as well as some of the worst) of Greek ideals, his so-called temple is an inspiration to those who seek to conjure future greatness from the mists of the past.

The best known of the exploits of Theseus was the destruction of the Minotaur, and the consequent cessation of the annual tribute of Athenian youths and maidens who were sent to Crete to feed the monster, but the tales of all the adventures of Theseus would fill a volume. They probably contain a considerable amount of historical truth mixed with a much larger portion of myth, conjecture, and pure imagination, which leads us into the "realm of speculation, attractive, but unsatisfying."

The 2 Dr. presents a panorama of the Acropolis, the crowning achievement of the Periclean age. Originally a citadel, the rock eventually became a spot dedicated to the gods of the Hellenic pantheon. Here were erected the temples of Athena Parthenos, the Virgin Pallas; the Erechtheum, to Erechtheus, son of Poseidon and Gaea, reared by Pallas Athene, and the patron god of Athenian agriculture; the little temple of Nike Apteros, the Wingless Victory; shrines and precincts sacred to Artemis and other deities. The original temples were entirely destroyed by the Persians in 480-79 B. C., and restoration and reconstruction took place under Themistocles, Cimon, and Pericles, from 437 B. C., but is it doubtful if all the edifices were replaced. A monument to the sacrifices of the Athenians of 2300 years ago, it is still an inspiration for modern Greeks and for all the world beside.

The 3 Dr. pictures a battleship, the cruiser "Georgios Averoff." Other ex-

THE FORUM.

By H. P. Atherton,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

From Mr. G. A. Hitchcock comes another very fine assortment of covers, to wit:—3c '51 pmkd. "Eastern R. R. Ms. Mar 8" at top left of cover; "Paid" at top center; and regular 7 bar grid on the stamp, all these cancels being in blue. Another 3c '51 cover is pmkd. across stamp "Atlantic & St. L. R. R. Feb 11". Here is a beautiful pmk. "Rattlesnake Sep 2 Cal." The cover is a 6c green Nesbit on buff, having in addition a 3c '51 and a 1c '51 type IV, pencanceled, making the regular 10c rate to Searsmont, Me. There are no "Rattlesnakes" in our P. O. Guide of today. Wonder if it died, or changed its name?

Then there are two strips of three of the 1c 1857's showing Types I, Ia and II, all pencanceled. The '61 issue is started with a 10c August on a "Patriotic", the one where the sailor boy in the blue trousers has shinnied up the Flag Pole, and is nailing the Stars and Stripes to the mast with a heavy Navy revolver. He also has another revolver in his belt, and he wears whiskers—great chance for a Colgate ad. This cover is pmkd. "Mokelumne.....(probably Hill) Cal. Nov 15" (1861). There are two more covers to Swatow, China, one with pair of grilled Black Jacks and pair of grilled 3c '67's sent "By Pacific Mail", backstamped Hong Kong and Swatow. The other cover in addition to pair of grilled B.J.'s has pair of 3c '69's. Left Bristol, N. H., on July 9, arrived Swatow, Sept. 9—a fast trip in 1869. Face of cover has a rectangle reading Paid Only To Hong Kong in two lines and 10c carried this letter!

Then we see one of those nice combinations of issues doing duty on one cover,—a grilled B. J. and a 1c 1869. Another cover shows a 3c 1869 pmkd. in red Barre, Mass., this is a brilliant combination, the colors being very handsome indeed. Another nice item is a face of cover in mss. "Reg '51", bearing a 1c Nat'l, 7c Nat'l, and a 3c Cont'l. The cancel is of four lines crossed in an unusual manner, with no pmk. at all as this was on a package presumably. And I had better mention that the 7c stamp is grilled, a rarity on cover.

Some of the old time collectors drop off a train or two passing thro Springfield, and they have a system of showing me their stuff, it being something like this—first a few odd cancels, then a bunch of interesting covers, etc., and a little conversation with them of course, me doing my share of course, and then just before they leave, they haul out their one best bet, the big works, their choicest morsel, as 'twere. I am trying this with Mr. Hitchcock's lot, the last item being his "cabinet piece" as they say on the other side. Will quote from the description accompanying this rare cover, "Superb Block of Ten 1c 1851 Type II, used, on back of original cover (it is a small valentine cover) from Cambridge, Vt., to Pike River Landing, C. E. (Canada East). Stamps are pencanceled, but also bear transit cancellations, namely, "Rouse's Point, N. Y., May 29; St. Johns, E. C., May 29, 1857; Montreal, May 29. On face of cover in mss. Cambridge, Vt., May 28, also "10" (10c) and "6" (6d?).

How would you like to find some of these up in some attic? Here's an idea gratis: organize the "American Attic Cleaning Co.", broadcast that you'll guarantee an A No. 1, job at removing all debris (mean name for those covers!) and will make the place all neat and tidy with no old papers laying round, for a paltry sum. Good scheme, what?

From Mr. D. H. Graham a note saying there is one good cancel in his lot. He said it! Who has ever heard of a little tyke standing in a circle assuming what was called in an auction lot "a derisive attitude", had to borrow that expression, which is about the best way of expressing this cancel, till you see it illustrated. This little chap is no angel, tho the pmk. is from Los Angeles.

One collector has sent in several very beautifully executed designs on 3c greens, and as they averaged one to each thousand, he is a bit doubtful as to their OK'ness. One of them shows a neat "F" in a maltese cross, and the other is a perfect little black square and compass. The third is a small dog in a circle, you can count the ribs on the dog it is so well made. They are so perfect that one wonders?

He shows three copies of the 1c re-engraved (1882) in which the shading around the lower right part of the medallion grows stronger in color near the bottom. Around the pearl at right of the big numeral "1" the color is very dark. On the general run of this stamp the shading is of even depth below the medallion.

One never tires of looking at those Waterbury cancellations in the '60's, and later. They are great stuff, as you who have any will agree. Am going to hurdle the first four which Mr. M. R. Sanborn has sent in to the Forum, they being, a pumpkin, a shield (1867) and another shield of 1869, and the spray of rose. Who can send a distinct copy of this spray of rose for illustrating? This copy shows the bottom part of the design clearly, tho not the top well enough to draw absolutely. The bottom leaves look more like those of a tobacco plant than of a rose. Have you got one? But here is the item:—drinking mug! This cancel is applied to this cover on Dec. 28 (1869 from letter inside): It is the first time that any of us have seen this design. It is a beauty, cleanly hit, and the detail is absolutely clear and perfect in every way You feel as tho you would like to grab it by the handle and take a drink from it even with its contents unknown.

A big lot of cancellations are now drawn up, they are quite a remarkable lot. Collectors enjoy looking them over, and many helpful hints and descriptive notes have been added to them by folks who know their history. Sorry that I cannot personally call on you all and make sketches of any unusual ones that you would care to have go into the illustrations, and wish to thank the many who have helped out with such a fine lot of cancellations.

THE "SPECIMEN" DEPARTMENTS

In the March 23, 1925, special number of the WEEKLY, Mr. Ward, in his department, had a criticism of the article by Mr. H. M. Konwiser, New York, that appeared in the American Philatelist for March, 1925. Mr. Konwiser, takes umbrage at the observations made by Mr. Ward and deems some of them unwarranted and others beside the issue. Mr. Konwiser says that he wrote not as a stamp dealer, but as an amateur collector who based his findings on authorities that were mentioned and he asks that the facts be presented as he has them. It is evident that Mr. Konwiser has reason to feel that his statement in rebuttal is entitled to consideration and we give his specific counts as follows:

"Mr. Ward specifically arraigns me for the prices quoted as being current. I am not to blame if certain stamps 'sold low' at auctions. I merely present the facts, not argument. If Mr. Ward had read the article he would have noted my words re the prevailing low prices, but not being a dealer, having no particular reason for creating prices, I could but mention the facts.

Mr. Ward doubts the Agriculture, 1879, on soft paper. A copy of this description was sold by the same firm in the Scott sale, Sept. 22, 1924; and another similar copy was sold by the same firm in their sale of Oct. 30, 1924. These were of the one cent variety. A block of four, 1c yellow, was sold at the Morgenthau sale, May, 1923, for $140. It is not believed that Mr. Morgenthau misrepresented the item.

Re the Executive, 2c and 3c on soft paper, the article plainly stated these were listed only because J. N. Luff claims that they exist. Specific mention is made of the fact that there are no records of sales of these stamps, likewise is there no other information available.

The 1c 'SEPCIMEN' error, Executive, has been recognized as existing for a number of years, though personally I have not seen a copy. But, when reliable dealers—who checked my work—assured me that there was a stamp of this type, I believed. The information re the 1c 'Sepcimen' error on the 1c Interior came from a reliable source.

J. N. Luff laid claims to the existence of the 1c Navy, soft paper. I have seen copies that can not be termed 'Hard Paper' copies. Hasn't Mr. Ward?

Mr. Ward cavils at my listings of State on soft paper. I refer to these as being recognized by J. N. Luff and F. E. Goodwin. There was no attempt on my part to justify these. In the State group these are merely noted, not listed, by me. The prices given on the high value State stamps are plainly noted as 'selling prices in 1924' and no one should misunderstand the language. I am quite afraid that Mr. Ward wrote his critical remarks without proper thought, otherwise he would not chide me for failing to include February auction sales in a March issue of the American Philatelist."

Mr. Konwiser adds that Mr. Ward has said later that he had found a 3c Agriculture, "SEPCIMEN" error, which was mentioned in the article in the American Philatelist.

A RARE BADEN DISCOVERY

(Clipping from San Fran. Paper.)

The attention of postage stamp collectors is today centered on San Francisco through the accidental discovery of what is described as one of the rarest specimens of adhesives in existence, a 9 kr. stamp issued in Baden in 1851.

The stamp, today owned by L. H. Eilken, 1371 Seventh Avenue, is valued at several thousand dollars, and cost its present owner $40 with about 7,000 European stamps issued during the nineteenth century included in the bargain.

Until the present "discovery," only four copies of the stamp were known to exist two being held in the German government collection at Berlin and the remaining two held by private collectors. For several years the "find" had been in a collection owned by a former attaché of the Swiss government stationed in San Francisco, who last month returned to Germany with a San Francisco bride. The stamp, a dark blue green had been placed in his collection upside down, the former mistaking it for a 6 kr. of the same issue. The error was in the color of the stamp, the 9 kr. having been ordered in a lilac rose color.

Just before his marriage in San Francisco the former diplomat met Eilken and the latter purchased several dollars' worth of inexpensive stamps. Just before his departure for Germany the former owner offered his entire collection to Eilken "as is" and asked for a bid on the lot.

"Most of your stuff is junk, just duplicates which I can't use," replied Eilken, "but I'll give you $40 for the lot."

The diplomat wanted $75, but on the day of his departure accepted the $40 offer.

For several weeks Eilken had his new collection "kicking around the house," until two weeks ago, when he found the stamp pasted in the collection upside down. Rushed to New York by special registered air mail, the adhesive was turned over to an expert for examination. Yesterday it was returned to Eilken marked "genuine," and last night was displayed to the members of the San Francisco Stamp Society.

News of the "find" has spread rapidly, and scores of offers to purchase the stamp at various prices up to full catalogue value have been received.

"I don't know whether to sell it or keep it," remarked Eilken today as he described the discovery. Eilken, as he explained, is withholding the name of the former owner "out of kindness."

British North America

I have just purchased another large and fine collection of this popular group of stamps, making the third collection of these stamps I have bought in the past few months, in addition to two other collections of Canada only.

I have remade all my approval books of Canada, Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and British Columbia and am prepared to send selections of unused or used, "pence" or "cents" issues, and stamps on covers to anyone interested in these fine stamps, which, at present prices, I consider the best buy of the day.

For my own Investment I am prepared to purchase any fine collections of the above or any single fine items.

DONALD KING, POSTMASTER

We take great pleasure in announcing the appointment of Donald A. King of Halifax, N. S., as postmaster of that city. When the Managing Editor was in Halifax last August indications were evident that Mr. King was to be thus honored and our congratulations are sincere. Mr. King is an oldtime philatelist and one of the most prominent of Canada's collectors. His contributions to philatelic literature have been of a high order. Here are the opinions of the Halifax daily papers:—

The New Postmaster.

It is with great pleasure that The Halifax Herald this morning congratulates an admirable public official on receipt of promotion that has been well earned. Donald A. King has been appointed Postmaster of Halifax. It is the right choice,—right in the public interest, and right as a personal tribute for work, well done.

There is an old jibe that the man who gets a government appointment is often not he who is ablest to discharge the duties, but rather he who is ablest to be appointed. The reproach has no application in the present case. Choice lay not with any "patronage committee", but with the Civil Service Commission. Mr. King has become Postmaster, simply because during a long experience in subordinate positions he has attested his capacity and thus won his way by merit to the top.

What are the qualifications for such a position as he has now reached? Thorough knowledge of postal work in all its branches, tact and organizing effectiveness in dealing with the staff, geniality and courtesy in relations with the public. These are qualities not always found in the same person, but it is safe to say that Mr. King combines them in a remarkable degree. There is no more urbane official in the city. He knows every phase of Post Office business, and it is within the memory of most of us how efficient was his handling of the mails during the exceptional war period for the troops overseas.

This appointment will be welcomed on all sides by those who are to serve under Mr. King in official duty, and by the community in general to which a well-conducted and punctual mail service is among the most important of public utilities.—Halifax Herald.

The Halifax Postmastership.

No appointment could be more commendable or more generally acceptable than that of Mr. Donald A. King to the Postmastership of Halifax, official notification of which was received yesterday.

There can be neither doubt nor question as to Mr. King's special qualifications, in all respects, for this most important position. Although still in the full vigor and activity of life, Mr. King has served a long and thorough apprenticeship to the Postal Service. He has climbed and tested every rung of the ladder of promotion. There is no department of the Halifax Post Office work with which he is not intimately acquainted by personal experience. In particular, he has dealt, for many years, and familiarised himself with the Foreign Mail service, which is of such urgent importance at this great Canadian Atlantic port. He has had a number of years of practical experience in the duties of general supervision, as Assistant Postmaster, from which position he has now been advanced to the principalship.

Mr. King is a comparatively young man, of wide interests and activities. The whole city, as well as the Department at Ottawa, knows and appreciates him. He is of unusually pleasing address, agreeable presence and courteous manners. He is sympathetic with and kindly towards all, and will meet the public regardless of social distinction, exactly as the public has a right to be met by one in the position he is to occupy. There will be neither incivility to the complaining poor nor cringing to the fault-finding rich from him. In short, Mr. King will be exactly the right man in the right public office.

While Mr. King is to be congratulated on reaching the ultimate goal of his official career, the Civil Service Commission and the Government are to be complimented with equal warmth on the selection of Mr. King for the Halifax Postmastership.—Halifax Chronicle.

PORTRAITS ON RECENT U. S. ISSUES

By CALVERT R. STIER:

In a recent issue of the WEEKLY, Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., pointed out the impropriety of putting Nathan Hale's portrait on our ½ cent stamp and also of the unattractiveness of this adhesive. While not entirely agreeing with the latter point, as I think sepia makes a pretty stamp, Mr. Ward is certainly correct in saying that Nathan Hale does not deserve a position on one of our issues which places him along with a galaxy of Presidents. Let me say here that I am not nearly as great a philatelist as Mr. Ward and do not question any of his statements, but simply add the following reasons to his article in the April 20th WEEKLY.

First, men earn a place on our issues by their having accomplished great things and only those persons who have done a signal service for their country really deserve a position on our adhesives. Nobody can question the worthiness of Franklin, Washington, Roosevelt, Monroe, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Grant, Jefferson, Cleveland or Hayes. They are all great Americans and deserve their places of prominence. But what did Nathan Hale do for his country? Died for it. You say that he could do no more than that. Which statement is true, but have not millions of men died as heroically for their country as he did? Have they not as much right to recognition as Hale has? Hale accomplished nothing! He was sent as a spy and died as such, though it was no fault of his that he was unable to bring back the important documents to General Washington. Yet he is placed along with Washington, his commander and chief, the first President of the United States and the father of independence. Such inequality is certainly plain to everyone.

Mr. Ward in his article also points out the absence of three great men: Wilson, Madison and Jackson. Certainly Wilson and Jackson have as much right to places on our stamps as Hale, Harding, Martha Washington or the American Indian. I think so.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL
A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."
The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

EDITORIAL.

We have received a cablegram from the Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman of Plainfield, New Jersey, bearing the date of Paris, France, May 4, 1925, which tells of the triumphal dedication of the International Stamp Exhibition at the French capital. Congressman Ackerman's message is as follows: "Tremendous and enthusiastic crowds greeted the opening of the International Stamp Exhibition in Paris today. I stood in line an hour. The catalogue covers two hundred pages. Exhibits are very fine and a special souvenir five franc stamp in red in blocks of four has been reissued. Messrs. Lichtenstein and Caspary are here." It is gratifying to hear that the Paris exhibition has started with flying colors and we are pleased to have the cablegram from Mr. Ackerman. The American representation at Paris reflects philately at its best.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Eugene Klein, Philadelphia, we now have the circular letter that has been distributed by the Kristiania Filatelist-Klub of Oslo (formerly Christiania) Norway, on the subject of the North Pole stamps to which reference was made in the preceding issue. The club in question strips the romantic trappings that concealed the skeleton and the statement is made that no title whatever for philatelic acceptance is borne by the stamps. Regret is expressed that the Norwegian authorities would loan themselves to the mummery that attends the exploitation of the issue. The inglorious outcome of the previous plan of Roald Amundsen to fly to the North Pole with his expedition through the issue of a special stamp to raise the wind has been told about. As for the present issue, we quote from the letter of the Oslo club: "The matter has been taken up again this year and it is now intended to sell at the post offices about 50,000 series, 'North-Pole stamps,' consisting of seven values from 2 ore up to 25 ore, for which stamps there is no need at all. It is thought that through such sale there will be given an official character to the rest of the stamps, about 250,000 series, which have been sold to the Norwegian Aerial Society, who is arranging the Amundsen North-Pole expedition this year. The stamps have been sold to the aerial society at face value, about 180,000 kr. The profit for Amundsen is to be obtained by selling the stamps at prices above face value. We learn that the Aerial Society has already tried to sell the stamps en bloc to a speculating company." The Kristiania Filatelic-Klub took up the cudgels against the stamps at its meeting of February 25, 1925, much to its credit; and it has been circulating industriously, this statement of fact, in order that collectors all over the world may be in possession of the full particulars as to the dubious origin of the issue.

The note subjoined is taken from the April number of the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain: "We have recently been shown a letter written by the 'Iron Duke' in 1822 in answer to an appeal for assistance on behalf of the wife of an officer's servant. The woman claimed that she had been under fire, tending the wounded for three days at Waterloo. In his reply, the Duke, after disposing of the claim, adds, 'I am enclosing one pound in stamps for her.' The question arises, therefore, what were the stamps of which he speaks?" Here is something for the old birds to sharpen their bills on. The philatelic antiquary should delight to penetrate the air of mystery that surrounds the use of the words in this connection with a lightning flash of fact. In the United States "stamps" mean money, speaking somewhat lightly about a subject so serious but we believe that the expression did not antedate the Civil War period, beginning in 1861. As collectors know, when the war was on in earnest, coin disappeared from circulation and for a time stamps took the place of small change. Then, soon small bills for fractional parts of the dollar were issued, including the postage currency. Hence, the significance of "stamps" from that time on but the "stamps" of the Duke of Wellington came long before and in another country.

A letter from Mr. Raymond G. Frazier of Cincinnati, Ohio, who takes the trouble to supplement a recent reference to the old Chicago dealer, Mr. J. A. Pierce, occasioned by the philatelic reminiscences of Jesse Grant, as a boy in the White House, is appreciated. He says that in Lewis Robie's book, Stamp Hunting, published in 1898, the author says: "A set of executive now is worth about thirty or forty dollars. Fifteen years ago, Mr. Pierce bought all he wanted at seventy cents a set and could practically corner the market on these stamps. A son of the private secretary of President Grant had secured the majority of them and wrote the stamp dealer from Dixon, Ill., that he could have the lot for a very low price, but Mr. Pierce was afraid to buy over 100 sets, which he secured for $70 now cataloguing $6,000." This quotation somewhat amplifies the one made in our issue of March 9, 1925, when it was said that Mr. Pierce bought a batch of Executives from some one connected with Jesse Grant. For a short time J. A. Pierce made his headquarters as a dealer in Cincinnati, where he was instrumental in organizing a stamp society.

In the Elks' Magazine for May there is a capital article by Burt M. McConnell with the heading, "Uncle Sam's Air Mail Makes Good," which describes at great length the successful inauguration and operation of the transcontinental service. Mr. McConnell starts off by saying that a post office clerk told an inquirer for "an air mail stamp for Cleveland" that the air mail did not go there; and he reprobates the ignorance of the folks in service and deplores that of those who are not informed about all the concerns of the aerial postal service. The general public has not made the contact with the mail that it should and a campaign of instruction should be started by the department to tell them how they may use the aerial service and at what cost. The programme of expansion that the government has announced could well be backed up by a list of the advantages that are now available, if the man on the street knew how to turn them to account. A new route is opened, experimentally or otherwise, and there is publicity in the press for a few days and then the picture fades. "Inquire of your postmaster" is all right in theory but what chance has the customer of a big office to see the postmaster; and the clerks are apt to be too busy for their own comfort and that of the patrons.

We are told that Queenie Smith, the star of "Is Zat So?" gives so much feeling to her lines in the play, to the effect: "I'm afraid they'll take away my stamp collection" that chivalric philatelists in the audience can scarcely refrain from rushing up in the hope of being deputized as a body-guard to protect Queenie, who makes the perfect score in beauty and charm. Our idea of high adventure would be a trip to the theatre to get this story first hand.

The folks at Washington frown upon the enterprise of collectors and others who have been using half of the one cent stamp to make up fractional rates and the postal potentates at Washington have issued an irade to the effect that it is unlawful for philatelists to bi-sect the one cent stamps. The fore-handed fellows who have already garnered their crops of splits are resting easily.

Writing under date of April 22, 1925, Mr. Gustave de Lachasse, Avignon, France, says that he had the pleasure of a visit from Mr. Carroll Chase, ex-president of the American Philatelic Society, who, we understand, is to reside in the vicinity of Saint Raphael.

A man somewhat along in year brought a stamp collection to our des in an old album, International, that ha lain dormant for many decades or sinc about 1880. The number of stamps i the book was 697, according to th Spencerian chirography inscribed, boy like, on the inside cover. While ther were a few good stamps among the for eign, they were the worse for wear as rule and stained from the "glue" use in pasting them down flat. In the U. The color were fresh and strong but the centerin was characteristically poor, on the whol In answer to the question as to ho these unused stamps chanced to be in boy's collection, the explanation wa given: "When I started this collectio as a boy, I put in the one and two cen unused even though they cost me a three cent piece. NOTES ON NORWAY NO. 4

By Rev. Elias Rasmussen.

Norway No. 4 is a stamp with wonderful possibilities, and a stamp that has been sadly neglected. In one sense I'm not sorry, for if that had not been the price of this stamp would not have been 10 cents and it would have been in the line of aristocrats. As it is no one can blame any one but himself if he does not build up a collection of this, the most interesting stamp of a most interesting country.

Norway No. 4 was issued in 1856, and will therefore celebrate its 70th anniversary next year. It carries the picture of King Oscar I, one of the most popular of the Swedish dynasty, and that is not saying so very much, for Norway never were enthusiastic about its Union with Sweden, because Sweden repeatedly seems to forget that it was a union on equal footing, and Norway never forgot this fact. The stamp was issued in 10 million copies, and because of it being plentiful the waste was tremendous. It was Norway's second stamp and the first issued perforate and is the rarest of all the stamps of Norway in pairs, strips and blocks.

Because of the imperfect method of production (galvano plastic) many plate flaws can be found. When I first began to study this stamp I never expected to find any flaws as I examined several copies without noticing a single flaw. But examining thousands of stamps in the course of years I have found not only 40 different varieties but now about 80. Since I wrote that article on Norway, No. 4, in Collectors Club Philatelist, I have conferred with Norway Specialists and checking up varieties that they have with varieties of which I had only one copy and this could not prove the constancy of the variety. I believe intensive specializing of this stamp will prove a hundred different plate flaws.

When to this may be added that the stamp abounds in shades from pale blue and blue green to the deepest blue, that there are 383 different numeral cancellations to look for, about 400 town cancellations, several dozen steamship cancellations, extremely interesting pen-cancellations, grid, foreign and blue cancellations—what more does a specialist want? You have 1,000 to 1,500 varieties to look for. If you then go in for dates of which you will find a very fine lot, since only steel dies were used making a very fine clear impression on the stamp, you have the years 1859-60-61-62-63, and occasionally a few from 1858 and 1864, but they are scarce.

No wonder this is now the most popular stamp in Norway. It has outrun Norway, No. 1, and still it is catalogued only 10 cents. Personally I'm not sorry as I need more than 200 different numeral cancellations and hope to get some before the big jump. The price, however, is so ridiculous that specialists pay 25c, 50c or even $1.00 each for numeral cancellations and there are numbers that I will gladly pay $3.50 to $5.00 for each copy. In 1911 Norway No. 1, was cat. 18 cents; today an ordinary copy sells for $2.50, a fine copy full catalogue $3.50 and a very fine double foot $42.50. The reason for this popularity of the double foot variety is not because it is more rare than other plate flaws of No. 1, but because it is given a catalogue value and therefore given special attention. There were 2 plates of Norway No. 1, and 2,018,000 copies issued making only 1,000 copies of each consistent plate flaw if the flaw was there originally at the first printing. The only exception would be the now famous cracked plate flaw which undoubtedly came after considerable wear and because of it. For the printing of Norway No. 4, several plates were used. Two plates are still in the possession of the Norwegian Postal Authorities, if more have been used, is not known. But for the sake of an argument, let us say only two plates were used considering the greater wastage of No. 4, the plate flaws should be just as scarce as those of Norway No. 1. If that guess is anywhere right I should like to know the price of Norway No. 4, in 1940! Meanwhile I should like to hear from other students of this stamp and promise in the near future to write an article on the relative rarity of the numeral cancellations and probably another illustrated article giving all the plate flaws discovered. Co-operation of collectors and dealers will be greatly appreciated.

A Real Hulergerlulu

"Hulergerlulu" is philatelic for something many people want that the other fellow can't furnish, because he slept late on the morning of issue—hence, his thoughts philatelically didn't function sufficiently to capture this rare bird. Scan the paper, boys, and girls, too, and see if this "Hulergerlulu" can be bought elsewhere.

On April 15th the new Postal Act requiring circulars to carry 1½c postage went into effect. A ½c Postage Due stamp was ready to collect the deficiency, provided some poor deluded soul should post his circulars with 1c. A deluded soul did this very thing—hence, I can furnish an unsealed circular letter with postage paid by a 1c stamp and the extra ½c collected by means of a ½c Postage Due stamp tied to the cover—canceled April 15, 1925—the date of issue. A real first day cover, of which less than a hundred are available. Something to set those pages of due stamps off—to make them worth talking about. Did you ever own or even see a "due stamp" of any series used on day of issue? They will cost you one iron man each (translation, $1.00 each). Only one to a client, as there are not enough to go around. Come early and avoid disappointment—none available unused. Sorry, but Uncle Sam does not sell them in this shape.

Half of 1c Stamp Used as ½c

Several collectors have shown us covers where half of the 1c stamp has been used in place of ½c stamps during the few days immediately following the advance in postal rates, at a time when ½c stamps were not available at all offices. Mr. J. E. Guest has just shown me such a cover from Delano, Calif., as well as one from St. Paul. Dr. Paul S. Goble has posted a similar cover from Toms River, N. J., stating that ½c stamps were not available at that point.

In asking the Department for their opinion as to the use of such stamps in such a way, they write under date of April 27th that—

"While irregularities such as these may have obtained at a few places, I may say that with few exceptions, all postmasters had the one-half cent stamps on April 15. All postmasters now have them and consequently there will be no occasion for such irregularities in the future."

This is more or less ambiguous, and I know of one case in particular where no ½c stamps were available and where the use of a bi-sected provisional was made in sending out notices from the Superintendent of Schools, as well as other business circulars. I am in communication with the department in further reference to these covers, and cannot see how they can help from recognizing them under certain conditions.

In the Postal Bulletins of April 29th and 30th, the attention of postmasters is invited to paragraph 3—section 522 of Postal Laws and Regulations, from which it will be seen that mutilated or fractional parts of stamps cut from embossed stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers or postal cards may not be used or counted in payment of postage. Patrons we are informed should be advised that it is not permissible to cut a 1c stamp in two in an endeavor to pay the fractional part of a 1c postage on mail. Stamps of the denomination of ½c and 1½c are furnished for this matter.

This order is all very well, but there were numerous offices which could not furnish the ½c stamp, and we hope to have more upon the subject in our next issue.

1857, 3c, Type I, Imperforated Horizontally

I have recently been shown a legal cover posted from Jonesborough, Ind., addressed to the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Fincastle, Va., bearing a vertical pair of the 1857—3c, Type I, imperforated horizontally

The pair is neatly canceled with a black town cancellation dated October 11, and legal information written and signed upon the cover show that it was posted in 1857. I know of one other pair of this variety off cover, but I believe as a cover, the piece is unique. Fortunately the pair is in wonderful condition, plainly imperforated between.

Porto Rican Air Mail

The dirigible "Los Angeles" left Lakehurst, N. J., on the afternoon of May 3rd and we are advised by press reports that the ship was sighted off Porto Rico at 6.19 o'clock on the night of May 4th.

The Post Office Department had made arrangements as previously stated in this column to carry mail not to exceed two hundred pounds.

ALBANIA.—Commemoratives. The new Albanian Government is evidently intent on covering the expenses of the coup d'état by which it obtained power. Following two Red Cross issues, there now appears a set of 7 commemorative stamps, overprinted on current issue in black,

Will send one on cover, nicely cancelled and an additional 1c Walloon cut triangular into ½c stamp and cancelled on cover, BOTH covers for a dollar bill, post paid. E. J. ALY.—We are informed that a decree ished in the Official Gazette for Feb- y intimated the surcharging of two ions of the 10 lire rose and sage-green up of 1910 as Lire 1.75 provisionals. reason for this is the increase in the al and telegraph rates throughout r. A 15 gramme letter will cost 60 ad of 50 centesimi, and other rates increased more or less in proportion, here will be an urgent need for pro- nal stamps to suit the new tariff in r, and, so far as the changes apply, in Italian colonies. Mr. Fred J. Mel- l, writing in the Daily Telegraph on subject, says:—"At the time of the titution of the kingdom the old prov- es retained the Sardinian tariff of 20 esimi, which was extended to Lom- y, Romagna, Emilia, the Marches and bria, while for the Tuscan, Neapoli- tan and Sicilian provinces a 10 centesimi rate was adopted. From January 1, 1863, a uniform rate of 15 centesimi was adopted, raised 'provisionally' in 1865 to 20c, but the provisional change lasted for forty years, until in August, 1905, the 15c rate was reverted to. This prevailed until the war, when it was raised to 20c (January 1, 1916); 25c (April 1, 1920), 40c (February 1, 1921); 50c (January 1, 1923), and now, on March 16, 1925, to 60c. It is difficult to foresee what new values of stamps will be required, but already we have a provisional 1.75 lire created by a surcharge in black on the current 10 lire. This was ordered under a decree of February 1st last, to represent the fee on insured letters (value declared up to 200 lire), but its issue only took place concurrently with the change in the ordinary postal rates, which renders such a denomination unnecessary. Under the new tariff express letters call for a 70c fee instead of 60c, the supplement for pneumatic post letters is raised from 15c to 20c, and these, together with several other changes, will necessitate quite a number of new stamps."—Stamp Collecting.

PARAGUAY.—It has been decided to issue three values of stamps, 1, 4 and 10 pesos, with the portrait of Christopher Columbus to mark the Pan-American Postal Congress at Buenos Aires. The engraving of them has been entrusted to the firm of Colombatti & Co., of that city, and it is believed that the designs will be handsome ones. Around the explorer's portrait will be pictures of caravels, etc., of his time and above it a star. Following are the colours and quantities, the actual printing being done at the Paraguay Mint:—1 peso blue, 200,000; 1 peso blue, overprinted "c" in red, 500,000; 4 pesos green, 50,000; 10 pesos orange, 10,000.—Stamp Collecting.

PORTUGAL.—The private stamp for the Lisbon Geographical Society, in the 1911 type (S.G. Type P22), has again appeared in a new colour, a copy having been kindly submitted to us by our esteemed correspondent in Oporto, Mr. J. Gerard Graham. This time the ground is in azure and the rest typographed in black and perf. 11½.—Stamp Collecting.

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—We have received from the Economist Stamp Co. a copy of the 4T in a slate color in the usual type.

SAAR.—Mr. P. J. Kranz sends for chronicle two values of a new set of stamps that were recently issued, but have not been put in circulation. They are known as the "Sorrowful Mother stamps" and picture the Madonna holding the body of the Master. In the upper corners are the figures of values, at the base the word "Saargebiet". The 45c red lilac and the 10fr brown are the two values submitted.

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT BELONGS

We have had a merry chase in crediting the poetry on the 5c Concord-Lexington stamp to the right author. One stated that it was written by Longfellow and a later correspondent attributes it to Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. Charles R. Voight now enters the field and positively states that the lines were written by Ralph Waldo Emerson in 1835 and were part of a hymn sung on April 19, 1836, at the dedication of the Revolutionary monument at the old North Bridge in Concord. Mr. Voight submits good evidence of his claim and we think it best to publish the "Concord Hymn" containing the lines in question.

CONCORD HYMN.

Sung at the Completion of the Battle Monument, April 19, 1836

By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood
And fired the shot heard round the world.

The foe long since in silence slept;
Alike the conqueror silent sleeps;
And Time the ruined bridge has swept Down the dark stream which seaward creeps.

On this green bank, by this soft stream
We set today a votive stone
That memory may their deed redeem
When, like our sires, our sons are gone.

Spirit that made those heroes dare
To die and leave their children free
Bid Time and Nature gently spare
The shaft we raise to them and thee.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

NOTE: The Concord Hymn was sung to the tune of Old Hundred, April 19, 1836, at the dedication of the Revolutionary Monument; and again May 25, 1903, at the Centenary of Mr. Emerson's birth; and will be again at the Literary Exercises, April 20, 1925.

A DUSKY HEROINE

By W. GARDNER.

Away in the North Pacific Ocean lie the Hawaiian Islands, formerly known as the Sandwich Islands. They are a small archipelago, twelve in number, and have an area smaller than Wales. They are 2,100 miles from America, and form a coaling station for vessels crossing the Pacific.

They are said to have been discovered by Gaetano in 1852, and re-discovered by Captain Cook in 1778, who named them the Sandwich Islands in compliment to Lord Sandwich, First Lord of the Admiralty.

It was here that Cook met his death in 1779. Missionaries came from America in 1820, and in less than forty years taught the whole of the natives to read and write.

In 1898 the islands were annexed to the United States, and in 1900 they were organised as one of the territories of the Republic.

The great stamp rarities of the Hawaiian Islands are the "Missionaries," and although this story has nothing whatever to do with them, it is for all that a missionary story.

The islands are formed partly of coral, but with lofty volcanoes in their midst. One of these is Kilauea, and it is one of the largest and most terrible volcanoes in the world. Its enormous crater contains a lake of liquid fire, from six to nine miles round, and the smoke from it rises like a cloud. The natives used to believe that amid the fire there dwelt a fierce goddess named Pe-le, whose bath was in the mighty crater, and whose hair was supposed to be the glassy threads that covered the slopes. Everyone stood in awe of Pe-le, especially women.

The native priests said that if a woman climbed the mountain, picked berries from the bushes and flung them into the lake of fire, the goddess would "shake with her thunders, and shatter the island."

When the missionaries came to the island, gradually the people gave up their old faith, but the fear of Pe-le was still upon them, and her flaming mountain was the heathen stronghold.

Then it was that a brave Christian woman resolved to defy the goddess in her fastness and break the spell that bound the people. Her name was Kapiolani, and this is the story told of her:

One day Kapiolani plucked a branch of the sacred berries which it was sacrilege for a woman to touch, and started to climb the mountain. It was a toilsome and terrible ascent of two and a half miles; very dangerous, too, when she reached the slippery sheets of lava and the slopes of crumbling cinders.

The outraged priests of Pe-le came out of their sanctuary among the crags and tried to bar her way with threats, but she heeded them not. She pressed on to the summit, and clambered down the side of the terrible crater, till she stood on the brink of the boiling sea of fire.

Then she hurled into it the sacred berries, with the words: "If I perish by the anger of Pe-le, then dread is her power; but, behold! I defy her wrath. I have broken her orders; I live and am safe, for Jehovah the Almighty is my God. His was the breath that kindled these flames; His is the hand which restrains their fury. Oh, ye people, behold how vain are the gods of Hawaii, and serve the Lord."

Safely Kapiolani descended the mountain, having broken the power of superstition by her brave deed, and won her cause of faith and freedom.

On January 1, 1882, Hawaii entered the Postal Union, and the following May issued three new stamps. They were engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Company of New York, and one of them, the 15c, shows Kapiolani the dusky heroine, in a semi-low necked dress.—Postage Stamp.

NEWS GLEANINGS

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—J. L. Riedel informs us that the two German stamps 886a and 887a have both been forged, and they are being offered by a certain German dealer in large quantities, although only one hundred copies of the genuine inverted overprint exist. Collectors purchasing these two stamps will do well to have them expertized.

—A letter just received from Herman W. Boers corroborates the information given by A. H. Pike relative to the abandonment of private advertising cancellations. Mr. Boers called on the Detroit postmaster in order to secure such a cancellation for the A.P.S. convention of last year. A few days later he was called in and informed that the P. O. Department had discontinued this form of advertising. The few distinctive cancellations now in use are in connection with matters which concern the U. S. Government.

—We have received from Arns & Schrott of Dusseldorf, Germany, a sample set of war labels surcharged "Choose Hindenburg". A set of eighteen values of obsolete German issues was surcharged. They were not good for postal use, but being on regular German stamps will be of interest to stamp collectors. It is an instance of the use of postage stamps as a means of political propaganda.

—Albert H. Hall has submitted an interesting meter cover. It consists of the regulation 1c permit with an additional circular marking reading as follows:—"New York N. Y. Extra ½c Paid". The purpose of this provisional is very apparent.

—We have received from H. A. Lhernault of the Emerald Sales Service, N. Y. City two clippings upon matters already covered by us. Mr. Lhernault advises us that the new special handling stamp has appeared in two distinct shades of green, one a very dark and the other a pale seagreen. These stamps are coming through precancelled. Parties favoring us with items of news concerning precancelled stamps will greatly favor us by sending them direct to Mr. Allen.

—The Bronx Philatelic Society will be organized May 17 at 1017 Tinton Ave., N. Y. City. Interested parties are cordially invited to attend.

—We are indebted to Karl Huhndorff for a set of Lexington-Concord stamps postmarked San Antonio, Tex., May 2. This was the first day of use.

—Charles F. Richards sends us a press clipping giving the particulars of the death of Charles L. Moreau, which occurred Sunday evening, April 26. Mr. Moreau was seventy-two years old and had been ill since last October. He will be remembered as a former advertiser in the Weekly.

—J. Weer Chew sends us the first instalment of an article, "How Are Our Post Offices Lighted?" printed in May issue of Light. It is a specialistic article and we regret that we do not have space to reprint it.

—The Franklin Stamp Club, Phila., Pa., held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, April 20th. The officers are as follows:—William Hess, Jr., Pres.; William Wilhelm, Vice Pres.; H. W. Weidman, Treas.; H. L. Weber, Secy., 4504 No. Uber St.; Frank Lodge and John H. Weber, Ex. Committee.

—A bargain bulletin has just been issued by J. C. Matthews, Olympia, Wash. It comprises a nice line of sets, also Olympia precancels. A copy may be obtained on request.

—"In a recent number of the Stamp News you asked for information in regard to a biography of James Bogardus who invented the first machine for the manufacture of postage stamps. I am glad to send the following references:—Appleton, Cyclopedia of American Biography, Vol 1, page 301 (column sketch); National Cyclopedia of American Biography, Vol. 8, page 193 (same as above with date of death, April 13, 1874). New York Times, April 14, 1874, Obituary notice. Residence, 220 E. 14th Street."—J. I. Wyer.

—Our latest cross-word puzzle by A. C. was solved by Frederic C. DePuy.

—The Rutherford Stamp Club secured twenty new members during April and is making rapid strides. The club meets every Monday evening at the Fire House, Ames Ave., Rutherford, N. J., and stamp collectors will be welcomed.

—A new stamp firm, the Oroc Stamp Co., San Francisco, Calif., will be noted in our columns. The manager is a well-known philatelist and we have no hesitation in recommending this firm to our readers.

—P. J. Drossos informs us that three commemorative stamps were issued the first of April by Egypt for the Geographical Congress held in Cairo. The stamps are rather enormous in size, being nearly three inches long and an inch high. The set consists of 5m brown, 10m pink and 15m blue. They are not sold at the post office, but in order to get them one has to write to the postmaster for a permit which enables one to secure a maximum of twelve sets. Mr. Drossos says that it was necessary to stand in line for an hour or more in order to make a purchase. The stamps are printed in Egypt. The design is an Egyptian god.

—Here is an echo of the past, even though the following editorial, submitted by Mr. Harold Vinje, Brooklyn, N. Y., is taken from the columns of a newspaper of the present. If such is the case, we may only wonder at the persistency with which some of the old "fillers" on ph. lately intrude themselves in the columns of today:

"Only recently a young stamp collector who had been about six months at this fascinating hobby, told me he had been offered a certain collection for ten dollars and refused it. Among other stamps it contained, he mentioned that there was a specimen of the 1851 edition of Hawaii thirteen cents. My friend's jaw dropped when I told him that particular stamp today is worth from $375 to $500.

There are several other even more valuable stamps for which a sharp lookout should always be kept. Probably the best known example is the 1847 edition of Mauritius, originally issued at 2d. The last price quoted for good copies of this stamp was $2,000. Another stamp is the 1858 edition of Moldavia eighty-one parale. Occasionally this is quoted at $1 a specimen, but the price has been u high as $1,750. There are some e editions of Great Britain which ma named. The higher values of the edition watermarked with Maltese cr are all valuable, that for tens being w about thirty dollars, while the s originally issued at five dollars b from twenty-five to fifty, according t condition. Some of the stamps is in 1880, especially those with the ro spray watermark, are very valuable.

A very sharp lookout should als kept for American stamps issued in Two very valuable ones are St. Louis Alexandria, worth about $1,000 do each, while that of New Haven in same year is worth little less."

TENNESSEE TOBACCO STAMPS

ADVERTISING CANCELLATIONS

(A recent writer in the WEEKLY urged an advertising cancellation for the 1926 Exposition and we are in receipt of a carbon copy of a letter written to this party by A. H. Pike, which we think deserving of publication. It will give the present-day status of advertising cancellations.—W. O. W.)

"I read with a great deal of interest your appeal in the last issue of MEKEEL'S for an advertising cancellation for the 1926 Exposition. This is a very commendable idea and no one could wish for this more than I do, still there are some facts that you are evidently not familiar with.

As you probably remember I compiled a check list of these cancellations in 1922. I have collected them for nearly twenty years and have accumulated a stock of over a million. Naturally I have watched for new varieties very carefully and government rulings effecting them.

While attending the A.P.S. Convention in Washington, in 1923, I spent an afternoon at the offices of the First, Second and Third Postmaster General assistants and talked with all office employees.

They informed me at that time that all advertising cancellations would be discontinued except those pertaining to the mail service or some other branch of the government. During the fall of 1922 and the year 1923 marks a period of the greatest use of the advertising cancellation that has ever been known in this country Nearly a hundred country fairs and purely local events were advertised in this way. Some of the larger cities were running three or four different dies at the same time.

Even the great number that were in use, there were thousands of requests that were not granted. I was informed that where the P. O. Dept. were able to please one locality or group, hundreds of other groups were disappointed. The only solution was to refuse every one, and if you have followed them as close as I have since the first of the year 1924 you will realize that not a single cancellation has been used except those pertaining to the Postal Service, such as 'Register and Insure Valuable Mail', 'Address Your Mail to Street and Number', etc.

Of course, it might be possible to put one of these through, but you should realize in doing this it would lead to hundreds of requests by other groups, and I very much doubt if it would be possible."

FIVE-YEAR HONOR ROLL

Mercantile Library, Philadelphia, Pa.
Clyde D. Brill, Tacoma, Wash.
E. Kellogg Trowbridge, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Our old friend P. M. Wolsieffer, president of the A.P.S., very generously subscribes for a five-year subscription to the WEEKLY for the Mercantile Library of Philadelphia. In sending this in "P.M." writes us that he feels like a "piker" because he receives our paper for nothing as an advertiser. He says:—"However, I will make amends and have you send the WEEKLY for five years to the Mercantile Library of this city, and for which you will find my check." In passing we wish to say that this gives Mr. Wolsieffer the honor not only of contributing the first library membership to our Honor Club, but also the longest term library subscription in our Library Roll of Honor. Mr. Wolsieffer has been with the WEEKLY from its first issue and has always been a staunch supporter of our publication.

We welcome to membership in our Club, Clyde D. Brill, 951 Market St., Tacoma, Washington. Mr. Brill owns the Auto Tire Co. in that city and sends us his check for $5, which will as he suggests keep him "in good standing for some time to come."

We enter with great pleasure E. Kellogg Trowbridge, of Bedford Hills, N. Y., as a member of our Honor Club. The Managing Editor counts it a great pleasure to know Mr. Trowbridge as an acquaintance and friend. He is a long-time subscriber to the WEEKLY and we are glad to add his name to our Honor Roll.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

amples of patriotism such as this may have occurred, but they have not been recorded. Georgios Averoff left a legacy to the Greek government for this purpose, which realized £140,000 in 1910. The remaining cost, £680,000, was met by the government, and the vessel was built at Leghorn, Italy, by the Orlandos. The Italian cruiser "Pisa" is a sister ship.

The 5 Dr. and 15 Dr., large oblongs, portray the Academy of Sciences in Athens, a beautiful building in the classic style, constructed entirely of white Pentelic marble. It is wonderfully adorned with sculptures, gilding, statuary, and painting, and is the gift of the late Baron Sina, a wealthy Greek philanthropist.

The 10 Dr. shows the Theseum again, while the 25 Dr. presents the Acropolis. Both stamps are of the large size.

This issue of stamps will undoubtedly kindle much interest in Greek issues, which have been considerably neglected during recent years. It will probably create a considerable demand for the revolution issue of 1923, as that issue consists largely of Cretan pictorials with Greek surcharges. In addition, the Cretan issues themselves will certainly increase in popularity, as they show so many examples of Minoan, Mycaenean, and Hellenic art and archaeology.

There are seventeen values in this new issue, from 1 lept. to 25 Dr., and the entire set will probably retail for a price around $2 or $2.25, so that any collector may possess them. As there are only 100,000 of each of the higher values, it may be just as well not to wait too long before acquiring a set, as they are certain to be in great demand in Europe, and the entire issue may be gone before we know it.

The following are the designs and colors:

1 l. brown, Dodecanesian girl.
2 l. red, White tower.
3 l. red, Monastery.
5 l. dark green, Corinthian canal.
10 l. carmine, Dodecanesian lady.
20 l. dark violet, Macedonian lady.
25 l. blue-green, Monastery.
40 l. blue-green, White tower.
50 l. dark violet, Canal.
80 l. dark blue and black, Canal.
Dr. 1 dark blue and bistre, Theseum.
Dr. 2 dark green and black, Acropolis.
Dr. 3 violet and black, Cruiser "Averoff."
Dr. 5 orange and black, Academy.
Dr. 10 claret and black, Theseum.
Dr. 15 green and black, Academy.
Dr. 25 olive and black, Acropolis.

We have to thank several European friends and officials for advance information regarding this issue.

A GERMAN PHILATELIC EXHIBITION

The Thirty-first Annual Philatelic Congress will be held at Hamburg, August 3rd to 9th and in connection with same a postage stamp exhibition is announced, comprising government and private issues. The latter will be composed exclusively of stamps of Germany and its states, but will include stamps on covers, also covers before the use of stamps, philatelic publications and accessories. Entries will be accepted from all countries only up to May 15th, and should be sent to the manager of the exhibition, Hugo Hartmann, Hamburg 37, Hagedornstr 49, Germany. According to announcement, it is stated that this exhibition will exceed anything ever previously shown in Hamburg. J. M. Bartels, the well known New York dealer, will attend.

CONGRATULATIONS MR. VALLANCEY

A few months ago F. H. Vallancey, publisher of Stamp Collecting, congratulated the Managing Editor upon the political honors attained and it is now our turn to extend congratulations in view of the fact that Councillor Vallancey has now been returned at the head of the poll at the recent election held by the Sidcup Urban District Council. There were fifteen candidates and Mr. Vallancey received 1078, being re-elected for three years.

SOME EXCURSIONS IN HUMBLE PHILATELIC FIELDS.

By M. H. Hoover, Lockport, N. Y.

Wise is the average collector of United States stamps, who wishes to enjoy the delights of cancellations and minor varieties, if he "despise not the day of small things." Not so many years ago "kicking mules", cracked plates and double transfers were trivial things even in the opinion of collectors who today class these items among de luxe possessions and prize and price them accordingly. By the vast multitude two decades ago, our present S.U.S. "white blackbirds" were unhonored and unsung, because not recognized as rara avis worthy of attention.

Now every collector is on the lookout for the cancellation and minor variety rarities. But I fear most of us are making the mistake of the amateur ornithologist who kept his eyes on the tree tops, while the specimens sought were fluttering about him among the lowly shrubs. Are we not prone to forget that a "Paid" cancellation on a 2 cent 1890 is vastly rarer than the same postmark on a 5 cent '47?

Some time ago Mekeel's entertaining editor of The Forum, Mr. Atherton, expertized a U. S. cover collection for me. In many instances where I thought I saw "fine things", he saw nothing out of the ordinary, in some cases where I saw only a black blackbird, his trained eyes detected a hummingbird, as for example an "inverted transfer" of the 1 cent, type II '51, a cover priced at $5.00 he appraised at $30.00.

This rather led me to the conclusion that my vision was not adapted to the long range of the treetop and that I might enjoy myself more in the humbler fields.

So I took an excursion among the 2 cent eighty-threes. I had two boxes of 35,000 each of this interesting stamp unpicked. In the first box, the second thousand disclosed a beautiful specimen of the "kicking mule". Naturally my hopes ran high, but the mules galloped much faster, apparently, because that "pride of the army" still grazed alone in the vast field of 70,000!

Without describing the raptures afforded by the variety of wonderful shades and interesting minor varieties, just a few words as to the cancellations found on the stamp that represents the last ecstatic efforts of the artistic postmasters who seemed to sense the approaching day when the unromantic rulings of the post office department would place the ban on private artistry and limit the marks of postal use to standardized machine obliterations virtually.

Besides the cavorting donkey, in the first 35,000 I found ten jack-o-lanterns or masks, one scare-crow, one heart, two clubs, two spades, five anchors, three horse-shoes, three cog-wheels, one lobster, three arrow-heads, a half-dozen each of distinct flowers and insects, five small shields enclosed in coin-like circles, two large 5's, one "Paid" in the tall close letters (Steele F) in circle, colored cancellations, about 200, running the gamut of U S M monogram (5), stars, etc., 8 railroads, 25 canceled with town and postmaster's name, geometric designs.

Of the commoner cancellations I sorted into envelopes, nice copies, 100 large single letters (these from the first 35,000), 125 U.S., P.O., C.C., N.W., etc., 200 rosettes and quarterings, 100 oddities in print, margins, imprints, perforations, arrows, etc., 225 towns and year dates, 200 letters, 400 numbers, 200 targets, 400 grids and other "round" cancellations, 75 block letters and figures, 100 bars and checkered.

The second 35,000 ran very much like the first box, but without a kicking mule. This absence was forgotten in the discovery of some unusual things not found in the first box, like a large P O in a round-cornered box, an ancient shield, an ornamental checker-board, three copies of the large double-lined S, a C in star and circle, three pepper-box tops, a buzz-saw, Grecian vase, three blue "Paid", and 3 in circle.

All of which and much more reminded me that this present day of "small things" may tomorrow come into its own, and bringing with it the larger army of the "average collector."

Some time you may find space for a promised article on the little gem of philately, the 1890 issue. Even today the 2 cent lake, canceled with stars and jewels, looks like a patrician.

The average collector who is hunting cancellations may grudgingly take my hint concerning the merits of the 1883 and 1890 issues, but I imagine he will brush aside a suggestion not to despise the coming day of the U. S. envelopes and post cards. He will probably scorn as a "far-cry" the post cards. I want to say that the cut-square envelope is calculated to preserve the entirety of a cancellation much better than the adhesive stamp with its much more limited area.

I have a collection of about 700 entire post cards and this humble accumulation has solved the problem of the origin of more than one cancellation found on the earlier U. S. adhesive stamps. For instance, I had a 3 cent green canceled with a large V in circle, but knew not whence it came. Lo! a post card dated 1882 bore the postmark "Vermontville, Mich., Apr 29" on the right and the encircled V on the left of the goddess of liberty! The peculiar purple quartering of Williamstown, Mich., was identified by the lowly post card mailed from that hamlet. The Saratoga Springs, N. Y., beautiful colorless star in lilac, encircled, takes on a pristine lustre on a clean card, the star on the goddess and the town postmark supporting it; this same cancellation comes in light magenta. A card canceled town and year date and target in bright magenta hails from Fentonville, Mich., 1878. How many have found the octagonal Milton Junction, Wis., town and target in purple on an adhesive off cover? The little post card supplies them. Wilson, N. Y., in navy blue target and town would make most collectors advocates of post card collecting. Rochelle, Ill., presents itself in double circle with full dates in brown magenta. Jackson Center, O., flaunts the royal purple, also dates complete. The postmaster of Sheridan, Ill., is proud of his town, so he advertises it and himself in a triple-circle and a heavy three-ringed target magenta. Niagara Falls in 1877 proclaims its supremacy as a scenic resort by a solid purple star and full-date town postmark. Schenectady gives its town with a colorless purple star. South Ryegate, Vt., artistically uses the delicate tints of the violet hepatica, shading it into the blue in some issues. Batavia, N. Y., shows us the black green of the seventies. And, on the post cards, one can read the "railroad" cancellations distinctly. The surface is flat and conducive to clear impressions.

Some Notes on 19th Century GUATEMALA

By CHARLES S. LANGSTROTH.

Bibliography.—Of the smaller countries of Latin America, Guatemala has always been one of the most popular with collectors. Several good general articles on the stamps of that country were written twelve to fifteen years ago, but little has since been printed although many matters had received only inadequate or incorrect treatment. My purpose in these notes is not to repeat information, which has already appeared in well-known publications, but simply to comment thereon and call attention to some errors and omissions that have come to my knowledge.

The best general article for your scrapbook is "The Early Stamps of Guatemala," by W. J. C. Pope, reprinted by MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in leaflet form some years ago, after it had been printed in the WEEKLY of December 30, 1911 and January 6, 1912. Another is that by W. P. Barnsdall in Gibbons' Weekly, May 1, 8, 15, 22, June 5 and 12, 1909. Less complete, but containing much of interest is the Guatemala section of L. G. Dorpat's serial, "What Appears on the Faces of our Stamps" in the Collectors Journal (Chicago) November-December, 1911. And if you can find a copy of the American Journal of Philately for February, 1888, you can add a short but useful article by H. L. Calman. While looking for that, you may happen to see some reference to an article in the Pentucket Philatelist for November, 1892, but I would advise against going to the trouble of locating such an obscure publication, as after I had done so I found it was valueless. The Philatelic Gazette for November, 1912 contained the first installment of an "exhaustive compilation" by C. B. Duffy, and, if the quality of its first part is a criterion of what the rest of the article would have been, the sudden death of Mr. Duffy, which prevented its continuance, was a great loss to the Guatemala collector. A valuable line of information not to be found elsewhere is contained in the series of "Stray Notes on Sheets of Stamps" by R. R. Thiele in the Adhesive, September, 1900 and November, 1903.

The foregoing list comprises all the general articles I have been able to find on Guatemala. In addition, some articles, limited to one issue, have appeared, and will be referred to later in these notes as the issue is reached.

First Issue.—The 1c, 5c, 10c and 20c issued in 1871 were delivered to the post office in sheets of 150, fifteen horizontal rows of ten, with sheet margins on both sides as well as at the top and bottom. Accordingly there are no straight edges to contend with. These margins contain no engraver's imprint, nor any other marking except two little crosses printed thereon for use in centering the sheet when perforating it, one just above the fifth stamp in the top row and the other just below the fifth stamp in the bottom row. Each mark reaches to within about an eighth of an inch of the stamp. Accordingly, if a block of stamps from the top or bottom of the sheet retains a portion of the margin showing this mark, the original position of those stamps on the sheet can thus be placed. I found this of assistance in plating the 5c, when I wished to determine the position of the two inverted stamps on the sheet of that value. It must be remembered, however, that these marks are not symmetrically placed at the middle of the sheet, but at the middle of the fifth stamp.

I succeeded in reconstructing the sheet of the 5c, as I described recently in the WEEKLY, but I believe it would not be possible to do this with the 1c, 10c or 20c, as the blocks of those values which I have seen do not appear to contain so many of the little flaws and other points of difference that I found so prevalent in the 5c. Nor would the undertaking be so profitable, there being no purpose to it corresponding to the interest of locating the position of the inverted stamps.

Another mark to be found on the sheet margins of this issue, generally at the top near the right side, although I have seen it inverted on the bottom margin near the left side, is a small oval (about three-quarters of an inch by three-eighths) containing in two lines "Controle T. P." This mark is in blue ink and was doubtless applied with a rubber stamp when the sheet was inspected and counted at the printers. This issue was printed at the French Government printing works in Paris and the blue control mark is the same as that found on the French stamps of that period.

At least three different counterfeits have appeared of the stamps of the first issue, but they are decidedly inferior products and need deceive no one. Only one set of them is even a fair imitation, and it is the lithographed set of which a description by R. R. Thiele may be found in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY for October 31, 1903.

Reprints of the 1c are sometimes said to have been made, but there is no evidence of this, and the only foundation for such a statement is the existence of so many of that value on the market as com-prepared with the quantity available of the three other values. The true explanation of this is, however, that the use of the 1c was discontinued sooner than the others, when Guatemala abandoned the experiment of a decimal currency in centavos and returned to its former currency of reales, giving to the 5c, 10c and 20c the respective values of ½r, 1r and 2r.

Lithographed Issue of 1872. At the time of the change back to the real basis of currency, a need developed for stamps of a higher value than the 2r, and stamps were prepared for 4r and 1 peso, the former being issued in November, 1872, and the latter some time later, perhaps after the first of the next year.

It is known that these stamps were prepared locally. There our knowledge ceases, and so far as I can find not another fact about these stamps has ever been published. Even our usual standby on sheets, R. R. Thiele, fails us on this issue. Who knows how many of these stamps were printed, and by whom, or even how many there were on a sheet? They show on their face that they were produced by lithography, and there seem to be so many different types of each value that surely they would admit of plating, if one could only find the material, but single stamps are scarce and pairs really rare, while I have never even seen a block or strip. If any reader of these notes should have any information whatever in relation to these stamps, he could render no greater service to Guatemala collectors than to publish it. Perhaps some collector in Guatemala City can pick up something locally, in government records or in the files of old newspapers in the public library, but fifty-two years is a long time in that land of revolutions and earthquakes.

These two stamps catalogue the highest of all issued by Guatemala, except, of course, some minor varieties, being priced by Scott at $12 and $15 unused and $7.50 and $10 used, and as is to be expected the faker has been at work upon them. To consider first the ordinary counterfeit, I have a 4r, which is a very poor imitation and can be distinguished easily from the genuine by many obvious points of difference. The simplest way of describing them is to refer you to the illustration of the 4r in either Scott or Gibbons, as the counterfeit curiously enough seems to have been copied from those illustrations rather than from the original stamp itself. Note how they show the shield at its upper right corner piercing the inner circle of the surrounding oval, while this circle is complete at the lower right corner of the shield. Now on the genuine stamp, the contrary is the case, the circle being broken at the lower right corner and complete at the upper. Also notice how faithfully the counterfeit copies the illustrations in the two little ornaments at the beginning and end of "Correos de Guatemala," making them a matter of straight lines and right angles, while these ornaments on the genuine differ altogether from both counterfeit and illustrations, being composed entirely of little curves and circles. Many other points of difference can be observed, but the foregoing are sufficient to enable the collector to distinguish this counterfeit.

A "facsimile" exists however that is a much better imitation of the genuine, and more calculated to deceive an unwary collector. It is another counterfeit, known of both values, which the maker himself was good enough to label "facsimile" in tiny white letters placed immediately beneath the shield. Why concern ourselves with them, if they are already labelled? Well, in the first place, the letters do not show unless they are looked for, obvious as they appear after attention is called to them. I once saw one of these "facsimiles" reposing as a genuine in a fine collection the owner of which was surprised when I pointed it out to him, and, even more remarkable, I once found one of them undetected in the stock of a well-known dealer who makes a specialty of Latin America. More important, however, is the necessity to watch out for these fakes after they have been "doctored" by having the little word tinted out and perhaps covered by a cancellation. This fraud has been worked very cleverly, but need deceive no one who is forewarned, as even these "facsimile" stamps differ from the genuine in so many obvious points that the faker would never be able to conceal them all with his cancellation without blotting out the whole stamp. The most important is that no part of the shield pierces the circle surrounding it. Then the gun lacks its bayonet and the stock is not accurately drawn, but it is not necessary to describe all such differences here, as it would make tedious reading and the collector can easily work them out for himself but he must be careful to avoid condemning what is really a genuine stamp simply because it differs in some minor detail from another genuine one, as these stamps vary some among themselves because of their method of production. But be suspicious of any heavily canceled stamp on which the lower right corner of the shield is hidden. Fortunately on the genuine used stamps the cancellation is generally not very heavy.

PARIS MEDAL WINNERS

A telegram from Mr. Eugene Klein, Philadelphia, informs us of the success of American exhibitors at the International Philatelic Exhibition at Paris. John A Klemann of New York captured a gold token and silver-gilt medals were the portion of Jos. A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia for his rarities and airmail, respectively. Silver medals were awarded to Philip H. Ward, Jr., Philadelphia, for his Irish and to Eugene Klein, Philadelphia, for his display of Turkey-in-Asia. It is gratifying that the showing made was such as to qualify for substantial honors by exhibitors from this country.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. Atherton,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

The general collector who has barely time enough to mount his accumulating specimens, seldom takes time to count the pearls on his One Penny lilac of Great Britain of 1880 to see if it has 14 dots in the angle and catalogs at 25 times the copy with the 16 dots; nor does he count the loops all the way round the postage dues of Netherlands to see if there are 32, 33, 34 or 37 of them.

He believes that certain of our own United States stamps are in the same "difficult" class of items, when it takes but a moment to pick the common from the better ones.

Let us take that 1c 1857 stamp. We wish to pick the common ones from the high priced items. So our problem is to pick the Type V stamps only, the rest will take care of themselves.

Look at the righthand side of your stamp. If the ornamental lines on that side are complete, you are looking at one of the better stamps; but if these curves are incomplete, or if they show irregular vertical dashes or lines of color running up and down at random thro those ornaments, you can immediately class them as Type V, the common stamp, which has the same catalog value as the 1c 1861 Civil War stamp.

The 1c 1857 Type V ran from 1857 to 1861, four years. The 1c 1861 ran till 1867, six years, yet we find each bears the same catalog value. This ratio of stamps seems to favor a preponderance of the 1c 1861's, as they were in use many months longer than the '57's, and it is thought that much more mail was used in the '60's than in the '50's, yet the two stamps seem to be nearly equally found today, and the catalog value is pretty near right I should say, for both stamps are being collected by specialists in quantity, and they do not seem to find great quantities of either stamp in good condition these days.

Grills at a glance. The good grills are those that measure larger than the 11x13 mm ones (on 3c stamps). There are exceptions among the smaller grills which we will eliminate now. You can pick a "good" grill from the little ones by looking carefully at the way the small bit of a point of the grill hits the paper. If the point goes into the face of the stamp, i.e., if it looks as tho dented in, you are looking at a common grill, and the color of this stamp is a reddish brown as a rule. If the point of the grill comes up toward you, and is square, you have a "good" grill, i. e., larger than any 11x13 grill, and the color is of a pale pinkish tone. These two points of speedy recognition are just for the general collector, for if one wishes to study these stamps further, there are all kinds of articles about each of them.

I have before me a couple of old time cancelling devices. One is in big capitals for the town and abbreviated state, and it has no side arm for the obliterator, which means that two swipes had to be made to cancel the stamp, unless the pmk. happened to hit it first. It is a huge clumsy affair in the form of an iron cylinder about 1½ in. tall, with a metal pin projecting at the top for another 1½ in. to fasten the wood handle to. The postmark is an inch and a half across the face, and the month and figures for the day came separately in type, being plugged into a square opening in the center of the pmk.

The other device is better, tho clumsy also. It has an elliptical grid of metal at the right of the town pmk., the whole thing being fastened together at the top by the metal frame and the month and day being inset in type, and held in place by a thumbscrew.

From Mrs. O. W. Mott comes five 2c Columbians in which the nearest part of the foliate ornament to the numeral "2" at the right, is white down into the label. Possibly the depth of the cutting into the shadow part of the plate was insufficient, and permitted the white to show through. A 3c 1851, cover canceled in red from Pittsford, N. Y., is a very heavily inked one and is good to look at. There are some "Patriotics", one being the proposed obsequies of Mr. Davis, being pmkd. Washington, D. C. Another is a Confederate flag with wording which changes the sentiment considerably; another shows General Grant in pale gray, with his famous remark; and a 3c '61 shows a "Held for Postage" cancel in an ellipse.

From Mr. A. A. Leve comes a lot of covers with various postal markings. A 3c Nat'l with "Have Your Mail Matter Addressed to Street and Number" in 3 lines of which the top line is curved. It also has a big month and day mark, and the hand with "Returned to writer". On a 3c '61 to Canada is "U. S. 10cts" in a frame with rounded ends. A cover from Neidenburg is without stamps. A "T" in a big rectangle shows on the front, while in a circle is "In U. S. Notes 10". Those who are looking for the return of their sendings to me, should have them back in the near future. Please do not send any more cancellations now.

DEATH OF JOSEPH V. K. WELLS

It is with great regret that we are compelled to announce the death of Joseph Van Kirk Wells, one of the partners of the Home of the Postage Stamp. Mr. Wells was the younger member of the partnership, but he has prepared the advertising copy which during the past months has been so prominent a feature of one of our middle pages. Mr. Wells had a natural instinct in ad writing and his copy was always a marvel of neatness and accuracy. He had been in poor health for some months.

The firm will continue to carry on along the lines that have marked its operations in the past.

REGARDING "SPECIALIZING"

There being practically no limit to the number of stamps and their cost, the limit a collector imposes on himself is governed by money, time, or inclination.

Rarities and near-rarities have become more and more numerous and more costly. Among even the newer issues of nearly any country will be found a number of stamps whose value the ordinary collector can scarce afford. This cost has in many instances been a factor in his later specializing in a certain country where he has filled the blank spaces with comparatively high-priced stamps, probably at the limit of his stamp-money or a little beyond. The filled sets, the completeness, as well as their value and the money involved, appeal to him. And gradually, perhaps, he loses interest in those countries whose sets are incomplete in his album. A minor variety comes along, he buys it, another, a cover or two next, and, Presto! he becomes a "specialist" in that country, or rather an embryo-specialist, for he has just started to specialize. With waning interest in the others, he sooner or later sells or trades them for more of his "pets".

Of late the yearly output of stamps of the different countries has been and still is enormous. The general collector who had a decent sized collection years ago and who has kept it up is certainly "sitting pretty" both in work accomplished and the cost of those same stamps today. The tremendous amount of labor involved, as well as the cost of the stamps themselves, becomes more and more overwhelmingly apparent to the newer general collector the more often he checks up with Mr. Scott's "Bible". And he, too, finally drifts toward one or more "favorite" countries no matter how much money he may have, if he does his own work. In this case time, or rather the lack of it, is the determining factor that makes a man "specialize".

As to the part played by inclination, if the collector has not been inclined toward certain countries or even certain issues of a single country by lack of money or lack of time, there are still a lot of "urges" to do so. Perhaps through seeing the specialized collection of a friend, or some strikingly attractive display at an exhibition; perhaps by suddenly acquring a large number of stamps from a single country or a single issue and finding he is now the possessor of a lot of minor varieties and shades, or a lot of odd cancellations. Again, the attractiveness to his eye of the designs or colors of the stamps of a country may be what induces him to collect them exclusively. His knowledge of a certain country or family ties and correspondence often gives the specialist his start. Or the present low price level and the chance for future profit.

From a cold blooded investment standpoint, the buyer or dealer must be a "specialist" in the broad sense of the word, to make the most money out of stamps. He can never be too well informed on certain stamps, the color, shades, papers, cancellations, condition, etc., etc., as well as the probable market, the buying and selling values. Like the buyer on the Stock Exchange, more, perhaps, the bond market, he must be a "specialist" to be successful. But we can cut this phase short, as to most of us "stamps" are a hobby, in which few of us lose much money.

You might say that "specializing" begins as soon as a collector keeps two copies of a single stamp, as a major and minor variety, or two different shades of the same stamp. This might be considered a pretty fine distinction by some,—but we've got to start somewhere. And as to ending, why, "there ain't no such thing"! Some "specialists" have 8,000 to 10,000 or more 3c Greens, or a slightly less number of 2c Red Browns, 1c Ultramarines, or the like of U. S. Others apparently have every known kind ever issued, in singles, pairs, strips, blocks and sheets!, cancelled and uncancelled, on and off cover, of the U. S., or Gambia, Newfoundland, Baden, or any country you can name, to say nothing of the U. S. Revenue, M&M, Confederate, etc., collectors. And are they looking for more? Is there any limit? Ask a "specialist"!

To many of us "specializing" seems to be carried to extremes. Perhaps so. But remember that the specialist is usually the person who should be credited for the increase in value of many of the stamps each of us own, through his knowledge of comparative rarity, of the number issued, still in existence, or available in the open market. And his study of "shifts", of "lay-out dots and lines", of "cans" and "covers", or of shades, papers, watermarks, et cetera, on even the more common stamps, calls for no unjust criticism or condemnation. That knowledge will no doubt be both available and useful to you later on.

All this has been written neither as a plea to "specialize", nor as a defense of "specializing". It is merely a few reasons and remarks on "Why" they specialize.

But the knowledge gained through "specializing" should be better broadcast, should appear more regularly in the philatelic press and become common knowledge the sooner, for in that way it will be of even greater use to philately in general and each of us in particular. That it can be made entertaining and interesting to even those who do not "specialize" is entirely up to the writers of the articles. Good illustrations in many instances would much more clearly and quickly demonstrate the points to be brought out than the most accurate description.

Philately is forging ahead. Every collector is doing his part. Whether or not your field lies in "specializing" makes no particular difference. Your wholehearted enjoyment and co-operation in worth-while hobby is what counts, f your assistance to others comes back you with interest, and your pleasure giv others pleasure.

WHY "STICK" TO THE GUM?

The fellow-philatelist who figured th "O. G." was "paid for by many collecto at $10,000 a pint" was probably not f from right.

Like many another I have liked "O. G and its favored (I almost said "flavored brother, "Mint O. G." But exactly wh To most of us a "Mint O. G." mer gives the first chance to put on a hin And to put it on properly I hope, for poorly and wrongly (too solidly) hing "O. G." copy, where a former "butt" a hinge remains to mutely testify to th is very often seen.

And anyway, why this "O. G." des or even mania? From a stand-point beauty the uncancelled stamp depends no way on the gum. When looking o a collection of "uncancelled" in the albu of a friend, neither you nor I probab ask, "Are they all O. G.?" nor have the "nerve" to pry up each individu stamp to find this out.

On mounted stamps this gum son times becomes so dried-out as to crin or curl the stamps, thus lessening th beauty. In exceptional cases stamps, a valuable ones, too, have become split half and ruined just because a partic larly susceptible-to-drying-and-crack gum was allowed to remain. On t other hand, because of the susceptibil to absorbing moisture of some kinds gum, its presence on stamps may stick solidly to the page in a too moist atm sphere and while under pressure. A

In this collection there are about 30 covers of letters addressed to prisoners in Federal prison camps. Most of these went thru the lines under flag of truce. Such letters were opened by censors, and notations in red ink made on them. This class of material is very rare and historical.

The collection is for sale as a whole only.

G. ALLEN, PEASON, LOUISIANA

In the gum may have to be removed gether in order to salvage the stamp. all events, gum can cause trouble and a source of bother to a great extent in proper care.

The presence of gum is no absolute erion of the unused state of a stamp. ny of us have probably run across ny used stamps, some heavily canled, on which the original gum was as lck and apparently unmarred as when ued. And as to trusting to any gum positively prove the genuineness of a mp, I may be wrong, but I would far her trust the magnifying-glass on the e of it and an examination of the pa- on which it was printed. Gum is re easily imitated and chemically reduced than either the paper or the mp-design. Then, too, in warm moist nates, many stamps used to be sent out the government or the printers to the st-offices "ungummed" (the gum being lied later, just prior to sale) so that y would not stick together and could readily handled. If you got one of se stamps "gummed" would it be "int O. G."? And if "ungummed" uld it be considered declasse even if it s "Mint Ungummed"?

On account of market conditions used by the present demand for "O. G." "Mint O. G." the same stamp, equal every way except for a square inch or s and a fraction of a cent's worth of s same "O. G.", sells for a difference sometimes several dollars if the stamp fairly scarce. Is it worth this difference? For completing or beautifying ur own collection,—No; for present- cy resale,—Yes. Later on the "gum" rket may decline and "gum" not stick s tightly to the "list of necessities" of buyer of uncancelled stamps.

But why not buy the ungummed at a ving, all other things being equal? When unted in your album you alone, probly, will be the only one to know it is t "blessed" with gum. And in the ars to come, if you sell it and when you , you will undoubtedly get a proporate, if not a larger profit than if it re "O. G."

A MAIL AUCTION SUGGESTION

When buying stamps at a mail-auction, if you get the one item or all the items you bid on it proves your bids were sufficiently high. But if you never hear of it again, or if only one or two come your way (usually the ones you cared least about), it proves that you did not bid sufficiently high on the "lost". But how much too low was your bid?

You were really interested in obtaining what you bid on, thought your bid reasonable and even generous for the stamps as described, but might have bid a bit more if you'd known exactly what prices these had been selling for at auctions this season. Of course you could send on one dollar for a "priced auction catalog", but was it worth one dollar to you to find out about the ten items, say, you bid on out of a total of 700 to 1000 in many cases? You decide it would not be, you'd rather add that dollar to your bid next time. However, you would like to know how much you "slipped".

How many of us mail-auction buyers have been in about the same quandary? I get a number of auction "cats", bid on lots from a number of different dealers, —and "lose out" about as regularly as the average. And I, too, would like to know how much I "slipped" in my losing bids. The priced catalogs run from twenty-five cents to one dollar. I buy a number each season. But I am only interested particularly in ten items bid on in each sale, and what they were sold for! The remaining 99% is more or less a loss to me. However, the dealer laboriously had it priced and charges me and must charge me for it. It is a case of "all or none", and rather unsatisfactory in general.

How many priced cats. do you buy? What's your "batting average" in buying? Do you miss out badly,—just "nosed out",—or don't you know? That's me, too!

So here's a suggestion to auction dealers and to buyers alike:—Why would it not be feasible to send each bidder a list of sales-prices on the lots on which he bid, and no others, free, gratis, for nothing, after each sale? A post card would do. Does this sound "Radical"?

For the Bidder: (1) it would show him exactly how much too low he bid or was bidding, (2) it would show him about how much more he would have to bid, if he wanted to buy, (3) it would be an incentive to bid more when he found he was just being "nosed out", (4) and, profiting by visible experience, he would buy more!

For the Dealer: (1) its cost would be negligible and the labor slight, (2) it would relieve him of charging for wholly unwanted things, altho full priced cats. could still be offered, (3) it should stop a lot of unreasonable or inexperienced bidding, (4) it would indicate a cordial co-operation and a "helping hand" on the part of the seller, (a "Too bad,—you only lost out by a dime,—try it again!"—sort of message, and incidentally an ad for the next sale), (5) and it would sell more stamps!—and for more money!

What do you do as a mail-auction buyer,—you as a dealer,—think of this? It is merely a suggestion, but think it over.

In the past mail-auction buyers have been much "at sea" compared to buyers at a "face-to-face" auction (there will always be a difference, of course), especially in the "knowing what it sold for". Some mail-auction dealers have been accused of asking too much for their priced cats. ("too much for what I wanted to find out". is the usual cry), altho they only asked an honest price, not too much but for too much. Other dealers claim to sell and do sell at an actual loss, charging it off to "sales expense" or "advertising". And while it may or may not be the cost to the bidder of the priced cat., the fact still remains that the bidder is either paying for or being given something he does not want, need, or generally care for.

I think I am right in my idea that a big improvement can be made in mail-auction bidding, and buying, along the lines suggested from both the buyer's and the seller's point-of-view.

But am I right? Let's hear some discussion from both parties. Or, better still, let some dealer try it out at a coming sale or two and study the actual results. I think he will find it is a service that is appreciated.

EDITORIAL.

These "Specials."

If you will hark 'way back to MEKEEL'S of Oct. 20, 1924, you will find in an editorial that a poor collector was elected to be editor of a "special issue" and told to "laugh that off"—if he could! He couldn't, or didn't, and for this issue has refrained from dipping his pen in the ink of humor (alleged), wiped the smirk off his face, and tried to assume the dignity which the occasion demands. Ye editor pro tem only asks that no "Postage Due" messages of condolence (?) be sent "us" as "we" will be safely out of reach until rancor has ceased and critics' pens gone dry.

But, seriously, these "special issues" are attempts to find out "what you want, what you like, how you like it served". One of the best things a reader of MEKEEL'S could do would be to write the real Editor and tell him what he don't like or does like about these Special Issues, and why! Unlike a newspaper, MEKEEL'S is more or less of a "family" periodical, "Issued in the Interest of Philately and Philatelists", and the "special editors" ("we" do not speak for "ourselves") deserving of your thanks and recognition of what they have done or attempted to do for you. They have shown you somewhat of their ideas and of how they think you might like your MEKEEL'S. Constructive criticism is welcome, and a bit of honest appreciation for their efforts in your behalf would be but small pay for their labors. How many of you, readers, would offer to edit a Special — and do the work?? Mr. Severn will pass out numbered checks. Don't crowd! Everyone will be accommodated!

Why Not?

Why should not some record of the witty or wise sayings of philatelists be kept? Many a philatelic bon mot or "wise crack" as well as bit of inspiration is worthy of record in the philatelic Hall of Fame. The archives of stamp collecting should keep the best of these for posterity to smile at, perhaps, or profit by. Said one old-timer lately, "My album is like a cemetery, I've so many 'dear' ones buried there!" Another, "The viewing of a large collection or great exhibition should be an Inspiration, and in nowise a discouragement, to every collector. See what has been done, do it better! If not bigger, then more thoroughly, more artistically!, tho you collect but a single country, a single issue or a single stamp." "Ain't them yur sentymints?", as M. T. Dome would say? And wouldn't you like to be able to laugh over or at the "nifties" of the collectors of the '60s and '70s, as well as study what they thought, those pioneers?

While agreeing with Mr. Lindquist's ideas for a number of proposed changes in the WEEKLY as outlined in his admirable editorial in the Special Issue of Feb. 16, there are two points on which we do not agree.

First, he advises, "departmentize" the paper. The "Forum", for instance? Do away with the "Forum"? ? ? Why, it is just beginning to show what can really be done under an expert who is as much interested in it as any one of its multitude of readers. What it does need is Illustrations! And help, from you. Help the "Forum" to help others and others will help it to help you, in anything pertaining to the "early issues". We consider this "exchange of philatelic knowledge" in Mr. Atherton's entertaining style and capable editing as the equal of any other section of the WEEKLY in interest to the average reader. What say you?

Second, "leave the 'heavy' articles to the monthlies and quarterlies". But MEKEEL'S has several more thousands of readers than these "monthlies and quarterlies"! And where, pray, would those readers not now subscribing to the "m. & q.'s" and not having the time to do so much philatelic reading, where would they be able to profit by the knowledge of experts given in these "heavy" articles as they now do under a single cover at a single price? A few of them might be forced to subscribe to the "m. & q.'s" by their desire for this knowledge, if no longer to be seen in the WEEKLY. But one of the strong points of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY is that it "covers the field" of philately to the satisfaction of its readers, and these "heavy" articles are certainly appreciated by the greater number of these readers. Moreover, these deeper articles are not duplicated in MEKEEL'S and other periodicals, and too much knowledge of any particular stamps or issues has not been written for the collector specializing in them. Rather, let us keep on with more of this expert knowledge of true philatelists, read it, digest it, and use it!

Might we suggest substituting two things in place of the above. Make the WEEKLY Bigger! (in the number of pages and number of subscribers both) and illustrate it! Every reader is "one of the family" and has a vote on this. Of course it might cost a little more, but, have you read "What is MEKEEL'S Worth to Me?" in this issue? It explains at some length what we mean.

No doubt you have noticed how much a historical sketch tends to brighten up the necessarily prosy description of details of a stamp or issue and makes the whole article more pleasantly readable to the ordinary collector. While, "A bit of humor now and then is relished by the deepest men" may not be an exact quotation, it is a true statement of fact. And we imagine a smile or two tucked in the odd corners between the meaty articles adds zest to these articles much as a pinch of salt brings out the flavor of a meal. If you have smiled at any of the lighter stuff which we have used from time to time you will understand what we mean. At times we are lacking this "pinch of salt". We know that among our army of readers there are quite a few quick to see the funny side of things and who get a hearty laugh over humorous happenings with a "philatelic phlavor" that are bound to arise from time to time among the many philatelic goings-on. None of the society meetings that we have ever attended or heard of have resembled a meeting of bankrupt undertakers. So when you get a good laugh, or even a broad smile, jot it down, and let us smile with you! Not ridicule, but a laugh with a man or at a happening, and of general interest is what we all enjoy.

"Tears brought to eyes by Humor's whim
Are ten times worth the tears of grief.
A smile will rout a scowl most grim,
And to the scowler bring relief." (M.T.D.)

Our idea is that MEKEEL'S needs to be "brightened up" with illustrations. In the "Forum", of any exceptional oddity that would be of interest within its scope, be it a rare "can" or new-found "shift". In the "New Issues", of at least an example of the most interesting items. And elsewhere through the WEEKLY wherever it would add to the clarity of description or tend to arouse interest. Eight or ten illustrations each week would not make the WEEKLY remind you of a pictorial, but would "show you" what was meant and add to the value of the articles.

Too often a really fine and deep study of a stamp or issue is made to appear "heavy" because of the lack of illustrations which would give the reader ready reference to the points mentioned and bring them out more easily and clearly.

The personality of the editor is reflected to a great extent in the issue he edits. And this being the case, "we" must humbly plead that "we" are by no means so egotistical or anxious to see our name in print or our personal views on things philatelic so thrust upon the readers of MEKEEL'S as this issue would seem to indicate. The chief reason for this deluge of articles by "M. T." Dome and ourselves is that it seems to be a "time of famine" or "between crops" for MEKEEL'S insofar as articles from our well-known and usually contributing philatelists were available. And so, instead of merely "editing", we have been forced to "write".

However, "we" are so thoroughly "written-out" that, having painfully waded through this issue, you may feel relieved that little if any of our "stuff" will appear for quite a while. ("Thank goodness", say we all.)

But, stepping out of the editorial into the personal role, before the forms are locked, I want to say that this issue is not all that I would have it, is not so Big, so Full, so Well Illustrated as I expect to see it as time goes on. Nor are all the different fields and different departments of philately so well covered as I might wish.

There remains much to be done, much that can and will be accomplished through co-operation. But, the enduring worth and long and successful continuance of MEKEEL'S under the present ownership and management proves that we readers of it have been well and faithfully served in the past, and is a surety that we will get whatever may be best in the future.

R. L. H.

AN "I. S. E." SUGGESTION

It is to be hoped that the coming International Stamp Exhibition will not finally end up in being a "millionaires' display", beautiful and costly but not a really great incentive to beginners or inducement to "start collecting". Let us feast our eyes on the "Post Office Mauritius", the "Early British Guiana", the "Boscawen" and all the other "uncomparables" (and "unobtainables" for most of us). But, way down at the other end of the line we hope to see, "Junior Class Limited to 18 yrs., 5 sheets, total catalog value $5. Awards made on, (1) attractiveness, (2) knowledge of stamps and of buying them, as shown in completeness or range of possibilities within the price limit. No limit on choice of subject, a general display, a single country, animals, rulers, whatever you choose. Suggestions and advice may be asked of parents or others, but all work must be done by the contestant himself." Some such competition with worth while awards would go far to lead our "future philatelists" toward real efforts for improvement, while the price limit makes it democratic enough for all. Such a class should prove interesting to us all, old and young alike, and it offers possibilities worth the effort.

The Home of the Postage Stamp has suffered great loss in the death of our manager and junior partner, Joseph Van Kirk Wells, on May 6th. For a year he has been fighting a losing battle for health. Thru it all the "little firm" has ever been the inspiration and ambition of his life. The business, which he founded six years ago, will go on as he wished it might; under the same name and with the same policy. The friendly existing relations between our customers and us have been our joy, and that these may continue unbroken will be our earnest effort.

Faithfully yours,
J. AVERY WELLS.

A METHOD FOR DISPLAYING "SHIFTS"

It has always been more or less a problem to properly display the details of difference in such minor varieties as "shifts", "dots", "position-lines", and the like, which may be readily apparent under a magnifying-glass of two diameters, say, but which are practically unnoticeable to the naked eye.

Yet these varieties are really very interesting when once pointed out and present a worthwhile study and sideline to the student willing to spend the time hunting for them. Like "cancellations" there are grades of rarity, from a common "shift" which appears in the ratio of one in one-hundred stamps, to the really rare "all-over shift" which may not appear oftener than once in ten thousand stamps if you do not have phenomenal luck.

"Cancellations" have been coming to the fore very fast of late, not only because of historic interest but because they can be presented so clearly to others. A well-centered and sharp-cut cancellation makes such a striking exhibition that it readily attracts attention. The details are practically seen at a glance. This has been as great a factor for the popularity of "cans" as that a generous number of different copies on the more common stamps could be sorted out at a cost of considerable time but moderate expense.

Admitting that there is far more labor in hunting out the elusive "shift" "dot" or "line" because a magnifying-glass must be used, and that when found, they are difficult to display, it is small wonder that no more than a moderate amount of interest has been taken in this branch of philately. The labor has not been rewarded by apparent results, the "finds" are not clearly enough visible to the naked eye and a public display impossible.

Descriptions, no matter how accurate, only present a "mind-picture". Long descriptions tend to confuse and short ones do not tell us all of the story. In a public exhibition, such as the next International, a page of "shifts" would necessarily consist of copious notes and few stamps. And the benefit of the display would be lost unless a glass was used or each stamp mounted under a magnifying-glass, in either case a tiresome process and unsightly manner of display.

The sure-to-be-remembered articles of Major Bonesteel on the 3c Green and 1c Blue (published in MEKEEL'S) were especially interesting and valuable, as much because the "shifts" were accurately illustrated and discernible to the naked eye as that they were accurately described. A "mind-picture" was not necessary,—the shift itself could be seen! But, few collectors have the artistic ability of Major Bonesteel.

After considerable experimenting I believe a way for enjoyment and display of these "hidden" varieties has been found that can be used by the ordinary collector or the deeper student at a very considerable saving of time and yet give a maximum accuracy of detail and clearness of display.

I have used only the 2c 1883 U. S. for illustration, but there is no reason why the 3c Green, the 1c Ultramarine or any other stamp cannot be handled in exactly the same manner. The cut shown here is about half-size as used in my album.

An enlarged drawing of about six diameters was made as accurately as possible except for the portrait and the portion in which is mounted the stamp itself, as shown. A "cut" was next made from this drawing and prints made from this "cut". On these prints are drawn the details of "shift" and the "shifted" stamp itself mounted in the center.

The enlarged lines of "shift" are clearly visible and attractively interesting in this enlarged copy, which acts as a frame for the stamp itself. The result is a pleasing presentation of otherwise hidden interest. A description of the "shift" on the face of the portrait, if any, can be added in a foot-note. Reading matter has been reduced to a minimum and attractiveness increased ten-fold. The stamp itself can verify the accuracy of its enlargement and is most handy for comparison under a glass, as at a private showing. A single enlargement showing the most striking example of a class of "shifts" when mounted in the center of a page with other "shifts" properly grouped around it makes a most striking and interesting display. A single rare shift centered alone on a page is equally or perhaps more noticeable. A single enlargement showing all the "dots", "position lines" or "oddities" of stamps mounted around it, with each dot or line numbered to correspond with a number adjacent to the stamp having the oddity, brings out these "differences from the perfect" in a visible and interesting manner.

Well laid-out pages thus mounted are fit for public exhibitions, as the points of interest can be seen at a glance, easily understood and thus attractive to philatelists in general.

After a "cut" has been made the cost of a hundred or more copies on suitable paper is very small compared to the results obtained. A pencil will do to lay in the lines of "shift", or other details, altho India-ink and a pen or brush is more workman-like. Red ink used to show the "lines" or "dots" would make them even more apparent by contrast with the black lines of the enlarged fac-simile. The cost of enlarged copies would be lessened considerably if some headquarters could be established where copies could be purchased. The genial editor of the "Forum" would be the logical choice for us MEKEEL'S readers. This angle of specializing is confined to a great extent to the early issues, and with minor changes these copies would be available and handy for illustrating "cans", etc. If Mr. Atherton could only be induced to furnish enlargements of the 3c Green, 2c Red-Brown (2c Gr. same) and 1c Ultramarine as a start (and providing a sufficient number of advance orders were received to pay for the cuts, etc.), I believe further orders would result as interest was aroused and benefits became apparent.

This article is not offered as a positive solution of how "shifts" and the like ought to be shown to best advantage, nor with the thought that the ultimate has been attained, for I do not flatter myself that this is so. And while it was primarily for myself that this experimenting was done, the results have been so gratifying to me that I have thought it worth while to present it for your approval or use, and I pass it on for what it may be worth toward the betterment and increase of a branch of philately.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

A Real Hulergerlulu

"Hulergerlulu" is philatelic for something many people want that the other fellow can't furnish, because he slept late on the morning of issue—hence, his thoughts philatelically didn't function sufficiently to capture this rare bird. Scan the paper, boys, and girls, too, and see if this "Hulergerlulu" can be bought elsewhere.

On April 15th the new Postal Act requiring circulars to carry 1½c postage went into effect. A ½c Postage Due stamp was ready to collect the deficiency, provided some poor deluded soul should post his circulars with 1c. A deluded soul did this very thing—hence, I can furnish an unsealed circular letter with postage paid by a 1c stamp and the extra ½c collected by means of a ½c Postage Due stamp tied to the cover—canceled April 15, 1925—the date of issue. A real first day cover, of which less than a hundred are available. Something to set those pages of due stamps off—to make them worth talking about. Did you ever own or even see a "due stamp" of any series used on day of issue? They will cost you one iron man each (translation, $1.00 each). Only one to a client, as there are not enough to go around. Come early and avoid disappointment—none available unused. Sorry, but Uncle Sam does not sell them in this shape.

Norse-American Series

Under date of May 6th, the Third Assistant Postmaster General officially announced to the Postal Service and public that the Department would issue on Monday, May 18th, a special series of postage stamps to commemorate the arrival in New York on October 9, 1825, of the sloop "Restaurationen", with the first group of immigrants to the United States from Norway. This series, which is known as the Norse-American series, was previously described in this column and will consist of a 2c red and black and a 5c blue and black, the former illustrating the sloop which arrived one hundred years ago, and the latter having as a central design a viking ship.

On the day of issue these stamps will be available at Washington, D. C., St. Paul, Benson and Northfield, Minn., as well as Algona and Decorah, Iowa.

As the issue will be small, postmasters are requested not to submit requisitions for a supply of these stamps, but they are informed that an apportionment will be made by the Department and sent to the postmasters without requisition.

New Coil Issue

The new list just issued by the Philatelic Agency lists the new 1½ endwise coil, which has not been seen heretofore. The sidewise coil appeared with the perf. 10 and the perf. 11 varieties some time back.

Porto Rican Air Mail

Mail sent via the dirigible "Los Angeles" to Porto Rico has just been returned, and I find that such communications bear the Lakehurst postmark but have not been backstamped at destination. Dr. Jose I. de Guzman Soto kindly sends me covers on the return trip from Porto Rico, and these are postmarked "San Juan—May 6—5:30 P. M." and backstamped "New York—May 11, 4:30 P. M.". They reached Philadelphia May 11 at 11.00 P. M. No special cancellations were used in connection with this most interesting air mail flight—the first to our colonies.

½c Provisionals

Much has appeared here of late in print regarding 1c stamps split in half and used provisionally in paying the ½c rate. Numerous letters have been written to Washington regarding the Department's attitude concerning this use, and in their reply they have as a rule referred to paragraph 3 of section 522 of the Postal Laws and Regulations, wherein postmasters are instructed not to recognize mutilated postage stamps, and are informed that mail matter bearing such stamps shall be treated as "held for postage". They state that this regulation has never been waived. They further advise that to permit the practice of using mutilated stamps would result in loss of revenue, as the uncancelled portions of cancelled stamps would be used.

While undoubtedly these laws and regulations are applicable under normal circumstances, nevertheless, on April 15th, abnormal circumstances existed, wherein the postmasters in many cases took the only means at their command to pay the ½c rate and bi-sected stamps to meet the deficiency. This procedure was followed in dozens of cases throughout the country, and many of them had no philatelic taint whatsoever.

It is very well to refer to the rules and regulations, but if a postmaster in a town is unable to furnish ½c stamps and a quantity of circular letters are presented, what could he do? He could not post them for 1c, and he had no right to charge 2c. How would the Third Assistant Postmaster General as a postmaster have acted under similar circumstances? He no doubt would have taken the procedure followed by many of the postmasters.

Dr. Paul S. Goble, writing from Toms River, N. J., gives the following most interesting information:

"This provisional did not originate with a collector, and not a single cover was put through the Toms River Post Office until after many covers had gone through in regular course of business.

The first lot of covers that I am personally acquainted with was mailed by Chas. A. Morris, Ocean County Supt. of Schools, in his circularization of County teachers.

This lot passed through the post office on or about the seventeenth of April. The eighteenth, Harold Brindley, a local attorney, with insurance as a side line, used the provisional in mailing advertising blotters advertising insurance to his clientele.

The following Tuesday I inquired at post office if any one-half cent stamps were available. They told me that they were unable to get any and that people who found it necessary to mail that class of mail were cutting one cent stamps in two and using them as half-cent.

I have inquired every day since, and up to May 2nd, the date of this letter, the half-cent stamps are not available and the local post office has been accepting the provisionals in good faith."

In a previous Chronicle, mention was made of St. Paul, Minn., and Chase City, Va., using similar provisionals. Fresno, Cal., so we are informed by the Morning Republican of Friday, April 17, used provisionals. Quoting from the paper, they advise that—

"Cent Stamps Halved to Meet Emergency."

"Acting on the proverb that necessity is the mother of invention, postmaster George W. Turner of the local post office had one-cent stamps cut in half yesterday, to serve as half-cent stamps, in place of the regular half-cent stamps which were supposed to arrive in time for the postal rates increase that began Wednesday. Under the new rates all circulars and merchandise weighing under two ounces costs a cent and a half to mail, so, the need of the half-cent stamps being imperative, the post office rose to the occasion and cut the full portion stamps in half."

The Philatelic Gossip mentions similar use of the provisional in Reedly and Selma, Cal.

These are possibly only a few of the cities that have used the splits through necessity, and not because of any spe philatelic desire.

We wish to thank Messrs. J. V. N sen, Jr., A. H. Loehr, D. B. Damon, D. Arnett and Forrest Sathre for n of interest.

NEWS GLEANINGS

—"Have found a double impression in the upper part of the present 20c stamp recently. It runs from the bottom of the label clear to the top. This copy came in mail from Bemidji, Minn."—B. E. NYROP.

—D. G. Allen writes us that G. S. Chapman was mistaken in crediting the recent air-mail trial from New Orleans to Chicago as having been initiated by the Mobile Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Allen claims that the credit belongs to New Orleans and that Mobile figures in the flight because of the fact that the city has a landing field and is on the route travelled.

—Elsewhere in this issue will be found an important auction advertisement of H. R. Harmer. The Verburgt collection, which is advertised took a gold medal at the Rotterdam exhibition and a silver-gilt at the recent exhibition at The Hague. The lot of U. S. is one of the finest ever sold at auction.

—N. R. Hoover reports an oddity in precancels. It is the ½c Hale with a double Philadelphia. One sheet only was located. The Hoover Bros. used precancelled ½c Hale's on an auction catalog sent out Saturday, April 25.

—Mr. Frank E. Robbins, Ann Arbor, Michigan, favors us with the following correction of a correction: "Re the inscription on the Lexington-Concord five cent stamp, Mr. Ward and Mr. Pierson are both wrong—Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote it. By-the-way, did you see the film, 'Abraham Lincoln' and observe him officiating as postmaster at New Salem, Ill.? That was in 1833, yet if my observation didn't play me false, he was sorting over envelopes, each with a neat little stamp on the upper right hand corner." A little stamp learning is not out of place in the head of the stage director.

—Notice of the death has come of A. N. Kissinger, Reading, Pa., father of Clifford W. Kissinger of that city; and the sympathy of the friends that he has made through years of philatelic activity goes forth to the son.

—We have received from the Geo. W. Linn Co. a specimen of the approval book that the firm offers for sale in their advertisement this week. Those in need of such a book should send for a sample.

PORTO RICO AIR MAIL

By courtesy of George W. Angers, Springfield, Mass., and Erwin Strasser, Cleveland, Ohio, we have received covers indicating an air mail flight from Porto Rico to New York. The markings upon the two letters are interesting. The Angers envelope is postmarked San Juan, May 6, 3 P. M., and has a green rubber stamp marking "By Airship Los Angeles from Porto Rico to Lakehurst". On the reverse side is the "City Hall Station N. Y. 4" marking, with date "May 11, 4 P. M."

The markings on the Strasser envelope are the same excepting that the distinctive airmail cancellation reads, "Via Air Mail San Juan to New York by U. S. S. Los Angeles" in carmine. Thanks to both of our friends for these favors.

FRENCH AMERICAN STAMP COMPANY

322 EIGHTY-FIRST STREET, BROOKLYN, NEW YORK

STAMPEDE.

(A Philatelic Moving Picture.)

As true a tale as that water runs up hill.

By "M. T." DOME.

I.

A gloomy attic tenement in New York in all the disorder of "moving". "Granny" Smith's brave old eyes were wet with the tears of memory as that morning she packed her few belongings preparatory to leaving, for where she did not know. No money to pay the long-past-due rent, she was to be ejected if not out by night. No money, but a faith that "everything would turn out all right".

Ever since he was six years old John Strong, her little orphan grandson, had helped "Granny". And for the past two years had sold papers on the street-corners. A manly little fellow he was as he bravely helped to pack. "Cheer up, Granny, I won't ever get so sick again, and I'll soon make enough money to get us a real nice home somewhere. But what's in this little old trunk?"

"Just some old letters of your grandfather's. I've always hated to throw them away. But perhaps I'd better look them over and only keep a few. Then we can pack something we really need in the space."

And "Granny" dried her eyes and, opening the trunk, took out several bundles of ancient correspondence tied 'round with bits of string or tape. As she untied the knots she continued, "John, your grandfather was not a good man, not the kind you are going to grow up to be, but I loved him in spite of his waywardness. Some of these letters, or rather the envelopes, were his. He spent a few years in Canada, in prison, some say, for his part in a counterfeiting plot (he was an expert engraver, you know), and after his return, about six months later, I'd say, he brought home a bunch of letters he'd bought 'from some of his Canadian friends'. And even after his death I kept the envelopes, for the stamps had such an interesting and foreign look. But I don't suppose they are worth saving any longer.

"Someone's rapping. Jump up, Johnny, and see who it is."

But the gruff voice and unpleasant face of "I. M. Ruff, Rental Agent", added nothing to "Granny's" comfort.

"I said we would be out of here by evening, and we will be out by then. But after paying you rent for so many years I think you ought to be a little kinder and—"

"Nothin' doin'. That's th' orders I got—But wots this stuff?", kicking over some of the old letters. Ruff had read in the "Sunday Journal" only a few days before of the money to be found in old stamps. Maybe he ought to "take a chance". So, "I'll give yuh fi' dollars fer th' bunch", he continued shortly. "They ain't worth nuthin', but th' kid brother saves 'em an' I'll give 'em to him as a present. Wot say?"

"No, Mister Ruff. They are mostly letters of my dear dead husband and I am going to keep them, much as I need the money."

And with a gruff "Well, see that you're outa here by t'night. Good-bye", Ruff left the room and stumped down the bare and noisy attic stairs.

But behind him he had unconsciously left a tiny seed of an idea, an idea which quickly took form and grew in the mind of old "Granny" Smith. "If these stamps and old letters are worth five dollars to such a man as that Ruff, why, they might be worth more to someone else. But who?"

"Say, Granny, I seen, I mean, I saw, a place down-town where it says they buy stamps. Let me take 'em there and see how much they'll give for the ones you are going to throw away, anyhow. It's quite far, but I'll be right back in a jiffy."

"Well, John, that is not a bad idea. I'll give you a few of them. Find out what they will give, but don't sell them! Tell the man to come to where you live as you have some more, or rather your grandma has, and bring him here to me. If it seems best, and perhaps it is, to sell them all, the stamp-man might give a better price for the whole lot of envelopes and to an older person than he would to even a brave little man like you.

And she picked up a number of envelopes, including two of those from Canada, pulled out whatever letters were in any of them, and tied them up in a neat little bundle.

"There, John, skip along. Remember, don't sell! And, 'Good Luck'!"

II.

At the palatial offices of the "Stickem Stamp Shop" John was met by a kind-appearing gentleman, to whom he stated his errand. The bundle was unwrapped and the dealer had just started to look through what John had brought, when in walked a rather smug but over-dressed man, whom the dealer addressed as "Mr. Gettit". (C. U. Gettit, that's me! as John later learned.) "No hurry", said Mr. Gettit, "I just dropped in to ask if you had any 'Post Office' Mauritius for about ten dollars. I suppose not. But I've got a client who wants to buy something good, so I'll just look around".

"Say, what do you call these?", said Mr. Gettit, as he reached over to the little pile of John's envelopes and picked up the two bearing a "Thirteen Pence" orange-colored Canadian stamp. "1850's, eh? Well, 'spose you've cornered 'em".

"No, sir", said John. "They belong to my grandmother. She wants to know what they're worth before she sells them. She's the one who will do the selling".

"Well, g'bye, everybody, I've gotta be movin'," said Mr. Gettit, as he hurried out of the door.

"COLLECTOR" VS. "PHILATELI

Not every collector of stamps "philatelist", nor is everyone who fines his collecting to a single cou issue or stamp a "specialist" in the t sense of these words.

A "philatelist" is a collector "loves" stamps, and gives his tim the study of them as well as to the lecting. No man deserves to be c a "philatelist" who merely "col stamps", no matter how many he own or have collected. He may great collector, but is no true "philat unless he is also a student deep in knowledge of philatelic treasures, histories, their designs, the detail manufacture, the kinds and colors of and papers employed, the method separation, the cancellations and p usages, and all the diverse knowl pertaining to philately. But if he he is truly a "Dean of the Fraternit Philatelists", a "Master of Phila Science", a "Philatelist"!

A philatelic "specialist" is a phila devoting his collecting, "love" and s or at least the greater part of it, single subject,—a single country, isst stamp. But one who merely collec single subject ought rightfully t called an "exclusive collector", as he lects that subject exclusively. And when he studies and has knowledge philatelic sense of his subject shoul be considered a "specialist".

Many of us have not the time t come a "philatelist" or a "specialis and perhaps no desire to do so. If are hailed as a "general collector" a as an "exclusive collector—of U let's say, we neither of us ought to hurt or ashamed. To call a man " tor" before he has graduated is se done, except in jest. So, let's leave "degrees" to those who deserve then

WHAT IS "MEKEEL'S" WORTH TO YOU?

"What is MEKEEL'S worth to me?" Probably few of us have asked ourselves that question. We have simply taken it for granted that it is worth the dollar per year that we have paid for it because of the chance to save money on many of the stamps offered by dealers through its many advertisements, or because we wanted to keep up-to-date on new issues and philately in general, or because of the many articles written by philatelists of authority and at least national reputation, as so many of them are. If it had not been worth the price from the angle in which it appealed to us individually, we would not have renewed our subscriptions year after year, and pointed out its worth to our friends.

But it has been worth the price from any angle, and all angles, as its list of subscribers is growing, like philately, not like a fad, by leaps and bounds, but steadily, solidly, year by year. To its many subscribers MEKEEL'S is worth a dollar a year at least. No argument, the figures prove it.

But, what is it worth to You? Per copy, say? One dollar a year is less than two cents per copy. Is it worth a 2c stamp? Two sticks of gum, to-day's newspaper, a cigarette or two? Are five copies worth as much to you as an ordinary cigar? Or eight or ten copies as much as one gallon of "gas" for your car? Did you ever think of the value of your old standby MEKEEL'S in that light? And yet all of those things are quickly used up, go up in smoke, nothing left, but MEKEEL'S can be pleasurably and profitably referred to from time to time long afterward. I for one believe MEKEEL'S is worth considerably more to me than the price I pay for it.

Perhaps as one of the little brothers of MEKEEL'S large family of subscribers I may be forgiven for writing things which other more influential and dignified philatelists might refrain from saying or writing. But since there is a rather friendly and neighborly feeling between us who enjoy the same hobby, I may be pardoned if anyone disagrees with my thrusting my views upon him. Just blame it to my enthusiasm and desire to help the game, or what you will.

During the past year have you saved as much as a whole dollar on the real bargains advertised in MEKEEL'S? Or have you taken advantage of the rise in value of certain stamps as predicted by some of MEKEEL'S well-posted contributors? Or have the articles on "Specialized" stamps, on shifts, cracked-plates, rare cancellations, early dated covers, rare shades and other items constantly rising in value, have any of these increased the value of your collection as much as one dollar? If you say, "Yes" to any or all, then, your MEKEEL'S has not cost you one small red copper cent!! Why, you really owe it money for all the valuable knowledge and genuine pleasure it has given you free, gratis, for nothing! And who, if any of us, could answer, "No"?

The number of philatelists is increasing daily and the national and local societies were never so large. The demand for stamps has made many more rarities and increased all values more or less all down the line. Stamp catalogs have increased in price until we are asked (and gladly give) $2.00 per copy, and have grown from a half-inch to two inches thick. Everything philatelic seems to be growing. Why not a larger, thicker MEKEEL'S? The same fine quality but more of it?

The special articles and departments, the philatelic exchanges and general news are all wonderfully fine. But wouldn't you enjoy more of them each week? More illustrations and more of the "departments" which are many times shortened because of lack of available space, not lack of available material? A MEKEEL'S every week bigger than this issue, and more interesting?

How would you enjoy more of the wonderfully historic and authoritative articles by those eminent philatelists who have so generously contributed in the past? On the country or countries in which they specialize, which may also be your pet country?

"The Forum", which Mr. Atherton is so generously and ably conducting, would be still more entertaining and instructive if more space was allowed it, so that some of the most interesting and rare items could be illustrated to good advantage. Would you enjoy a larger, Illustrated "Forum"?

A larger — and a better because it is larger—MEKEEL'S will certainly increase its list of subscribers, its number of advertisers will increase (and their sales likewise), and all this will give the publishers a better chance to give us more quantity of the same quality, better illustrated, than at present. This will undoubtedly cost us a little more, and be well worth it! Especially from the very angle in which MEKEEL'S appeals to you, no matter what that angle may be.

Beside asking yourself, "What is MEKEEL'S worth to me?", think over the additions and improvements which a little higher price would make possible, and ask yourself, "What would MEKEEL'S be worth to me then?".

TRICKS WORTH KNOWING

There are a number of tricks in the conditioning and mounting of stamps which, while "old stuff" to the old-timer, may be new to the more recent beginners. If followed out with care and judgment, the following simple suggestions will add considerably to the attractiveness of each stamp individually and the collection as a whole.

The Stamp: Unless "uncancelled, O. G." or in perfect condition, soak it in cool water, remove all gum and old hinge "butts" if any, wash the face with Ivory soap lather and a soft brush, rinse, press between blotters, and, seeing that no perfs. or corners are bent under, place it between the pages of some large, heavy book for several hours (over night, for instance). It should then be perfectly clean and bright, flat, and in as fine condition as possible. (Compare one thus "laundered" with another copy not "gone over".)

The Page: We are talking to "loose-leaf blank-page" users now, — Never Crowd!, the fewer the stamps per page, the more each particular stamp will "stand out". Mount a single set, and never over 18 stamps, per page. Make your "layout" attractive and balanced. With India-ink and a ruling-pen draw a light-to-medium-heavy line as a border around where each stamp will be mounted and about ⅛ inch or less from the ends of the perfs. You are now ready for, Mounting: Use "peelable" hinges only and always! Bend over about 3/16 inch of one end of the hinge, gum outside. Moisten it lightly with tip of damp (not wet) finger and apply it to the stamp just below the upper perf. holes. (Higher would show, lower would prevent examining back without bending or creasing stamp.) Then dampen a spot on hinge about ¼ or ⅜ inch below bend of hinge and place stamp in position, pressing down firmly. If stamp is a little "off-center", its appearance can be improved by mounting it so that the design falls in the center of the border-lines rather than that the stamp itself is centered there. With this way of hingeing, if you ever want to examine the back of a stamp, first,—lift it lightly,—then bend it back on hinge,—and the upper perfs. will not become bent or damaged.

"Show Mounting": Especially fine, "superb copies" and rare or valuable stamps can be made to look still more striking if mounted on black paper cut to extend about 1/16 inch beyond the ends of the perfs., and then borderlined about 1/16 to ⅛ inch beyond this black background when mounted in the album. Your "best" stamps will become prominent, show every perfect perf., and one to a page or set, sprinkled throughout your album, will make it "rich looking."

Lettering: Clear, clean and simple, with year figures, etc., to match, adds materially to the "finish".

An album with stamps "conditioned" and mounted as above has twice the "value of appearance" of another with exactly the same stamps "unconditioned" and not attractively arranged and mounted. The little extra work more than pays for itself in the "pride of ownership", and in real dollars and cents if ever you sell.

Duplicates, before being offered for sale, should be "conditioned" as above, the best and highest-valued mounted separately or even "show mounted". Their "looks" will be more attractive and their "condition" will bring higher prices.

"STICKERS"

By this time collectors in general know how to properly mount a stamp and that a peelable hinge is cheap insurance and a time-saver, especially when remounting becomes necessary. But we have seen some quite worth while stamps on the approval sheets of supposedly first-class dealers mounted with the old-time "stick-tights" which have been the ruination of so many good stamps. When torn off there is likely to be a thin spot on upper edge remaining, if nothing worse. An improvement, but truly a lazy man's makeshift, has been to tear the "sticker" off at the joint, and frequently two, three or four "butts" remain to be soaked off by the buyer if he cares to put the stamp in condition. Possible and probable sales are often lost because the buyer does not care to take a chance on what may be underneath these "butts" nor to spend the time and trouble of soaking them off. There being no great saving in money or difference in price, collectors will buy clean stamps which readily peel off the approval sheet and hinge in preference to others. And as "condition" is growing more and more to be a prime necessity in the eyes of collectors, stamps ought to be offered in good condition as far as possible. The difference in cost per mount between "stickers" and "peelable hinges" is about $.00015! And yet "stickers" are still offered for sale and sold to those who have never been shown the difference, the saving in all ways. It would be a good thing for philately and philatelists, present and future, to abolish "stickers" now, and dealers could best lead the way by stopping them at the source, by not selling them to beginners, nor ever using them themselves.

When tired of "collecting", the artistic "can" or the elusive "shift" will give the needed change and a pleasant vacation with worthwhile results. Ever tried it?

Washington Philatelic News

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

1922-23, 10c Orange Monroe, Imperforated

During the latter part of April, one of our valued correspondents in the Commonwealth of Oklahoma was the fortunate finder of a most unusual item, namely, the complete southwest pane from sheet No. 14818 of the 10c yellow Monroe in an imperforated condition. The pane was blue penciled and should have been discovered and thrown out by one of the inspectors at the Bureau. They have, however, been running twenty-four hours a day here of late in turning out the many stamps required by the department, consequently it is not at all surprising that such a sheet should creep out when it is remembered that stamps are being printed no longer by the thousands but by the millions. The pane shows no traces whatsoever of perforations either horizontally or vertically, and your editor has been enabled to acquire this unusual piece.

Norse-American Series

In accordance with schedule, on Monday, May 18th, the new bi-colored Norse-American series was placed on sale in Washington, as well as in the other cities recently enumerated. The stamps are most attractive and the two colors are certainly pleasing to the eyes. The number issued is but 10,000,000 of the 2c and 2,000,000 of the 5c, and this small supply is not expected to last very long, although there are ample quantities, in order that all of our readers interested may have their requirements. As the Philatelic Agency had sent out advance notices regarding this new issue and as the daily press had brought the varieties to the attention of the general public, it was not surprising that there was a good line practically all day long in front of the agency at Washington.

The stamps were watched very carefully and to date none have reached the public with inverted center. As a stock, however, has been sent to a number of the post offices, there is still a possibility that a sheet may crop up here or there. We are anxiously awaiting advice as to the discovery of any such error, for we are always anxious to see that our readers have early information concerning any happenings in our most interesting current issues.

As a matter of historical reference, it may be well to repeat verbatim the official report of the Third Assistant Postmaster, dated May 6th, and found in the Postal Bulletin of the following day. This also gives a detailed description of these two most interesting and attractive varieties.

"Postmasters and other officers and employees of the Postal Service are notified that the department is about to issue a special series of postage stamps to commemorate the arrival in New York, on October 9, 1825, of the sloop 'Restaurationen' with the first group of immigrants to the United States from Norway. These stamps are issued in two denominations, 2-cent and 5-cent, and are described as follows:

They are the same size 75/100 by 87/100 inch, as the ordinary series of postage stamps but with horizontal design, printed in two colors.

The 2-cent stamp has for its central design a ship representing the sloop 'Restaurationen,' with a smaller vessel in the background. At the top of the stamp, in a straight panel, appear the words 'Norse-American' in white Roman letters, and below this, on a curved ribbon, is the word 'Centennial' in dark letters. Ribbon scrolls appear in the upper portion on each side of the stamp with the years '1825' at the left and '1925' at the right. At the bottom of the stamp in three straight lines, are the words 'United States Postage Two Cents' and in both lower corners, within circles with dark backgrounds, is the white numeral '2'. The central design is printed in black with the border design printed in red.

The 5-cent stamp has for its central design a Viking ship. At the top of the stamp, in white gothic letters, appear the words 'Norse-American' and below this, on a curved ribbon, is the word 'Centennial' in dark letters. At the left of the stamp is a shield of Norway with the year '1825' above, and at the right of the stamp is a shield of the United States with the year '1925' above. Below the central design, in three straight lines, are the words 'United States Postage Five Cents,' and in both lower corners, within circles with dark backgrounds, is the white numeral '5'. The central design is printed in black with the border design printed in blue.

The first issue of the new Norse-American Commemorative stamps will be placed on sale May 18, 1925, at the following post offices: St. Paul, Minn.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Benson, Minn.; Northfield, Minn.; Algona, Iowa; Decorah, Iowa; Washington, D. C.

These stamps will also be placed on sale on the same date at the philatelic agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department, for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers.

By reason of the fact that the issue of the Norse-American Centennial stamps will be small, postmasters will not submit requisitions for a supply of these stamps. The apportionment will be made by the department and sent to postmasters without requisition."

postmasters having stocks of the 1c envelope to revalue them and surcharge them 1½c. So far, two different dies have been made for use on the two types of canceling machines, and it is to be hoped that duplicates which will shortly be made will be identical with these two which have been used in Washington. At present about 30,000 envelopes have been overprinted, but a definite date for their release has not as yet been announced.

New United States Envelopes

Mr. H. Clay Reed, one of the most active collectors of the new series of envelopes has kindly furnished me a detailed list of those that he along with Mr. Roy Curran have located to date. It will be recalled that a new contract was recently entered into between the Post Office Department and the manufacturers, whereby envelopes would be furnished under certain arrangements for the next four years. As is customary, the contractors watermark the envelopes with the watermark of the year in which the contract begins. As there are two paper manufacturers, they have been using two distinct watermarks, so that they might distinguish the product of one firm from the other. The watermark consists of a monogram "U. S." with the date 1925. Those with the date horizontally across the top of the monogram have been philatelicly designated as watermarked 26, whereas those with the monogram diagonally from top to bottom are listed as watermarked 27. Except with the new date, the new watermarks are identical with the others of the circular die issue. The designs, of course, including the new value of 1½c, are all identical.

In the case of the 1c dies, A and C have so far been located but die D has not been noted as yet. The department has not signified its intentions of discontinuing the 1c varieties, although with the new rates, the necessity for this envelop will be much less. Circular letters to Canada, however, still require only 1c.

All of the current 2c dies have been located, but the 4c and 5c with the new watermark have not as yet been seen. In the following list envelope collectors will readily recognize that L. B. and H. B. refer to low back and high back and that X.Q. refers to extra quality paper. The size numbers are those given to the envelopes by the department.

½c Provisional

Mr. Benjamin Delovage informs us that between April 15th and 19th, the postmaster at Portland, Oregon, instead of bi-secting the 1c stamps in order to take care of the extra ½c rate, had a rubber stamp prepared reading "Postage fully paid."

When such cities as St. Paul, Minn., Portland, Ore., and the like were without supplies of the new ½c stamp, it is not at all surprising that many of the smaller offices were called upon to take care of the extra postage in the best way possible. The old adage tells us that "Necessity is the Mother of Invention"—hence, the new provisionals which are well worthy of recognition in the catalog.

State Tax Stamps

Mr. William P. Ware kindly sends one or two new tobacco tax stamps issued by the State of Tennessee that we have not seen heretofore. There is a 5/10c and 1c in blue, a 5/10c in orange, a 1c in brown and an 8/10c in green. Mr. Ware writes under date of May 12th that the new 8/10c in green has just been placed on sale in Memphis, and he was informed that they no longer have on sale the 2/10c and 6/10c in blue of the first issue which we chronicled some time back. It seems the new green stamp takes their place.

Mr. Charles Hiaumet kindly sends from Arkansas package tax covering an Arkansas tax on one hundred pounds of high grade fertilizer. These tags carry serial numbers and have the facsimile signature of the Commissioner of Agriculture.

He also sends for chronicle a rectangular blue on white feed inspection stamp covering payment of tax on 100 pound and this is also signed in facsimile the Commissioner.

Mr. Delovage writes that the proposed law to tax tobacco in Oregon is being strongly contested, so that at the time he wrote there was a question whether the state would issue tobacco stamps or not

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Last week was the meeting of the Southern New England Stamp Societies, held at New Haven, Ct., this year. The old expression of "A good time was had by all" doesn't tell the half of it. There were stamps on sale at the Bourse, revenue stamps sold at your own price as the auctioneer says, then exhibitions of stamps, and talks on them by a couple of enthusiasts, which may be mentioned in another part of the WEEKLY, and will be breezed over here. The idea in mention of this is that you all can have a "Get-together" in your part of the collecting world just the same as we do round here. There is to be a meeting of the United Stamp Societies in Worcester, Mass., on May 30th.

These meetings along in the spring when the weather is fine are decidedly welcome among the stamp folks, and if you follow up with the suggestion, you should have a good lot of fun and a future meeting to look forward to the next year with much pleasure. Try it.

While at this meeting a true copy of the "Cap on right 2" of the 2c red 1890 was shown me by one of the members. It was just as clear as that on the left 2, and the cap on the left 2 was just a bit wabbly as tho it would have liked to be a "Cap"; but had decided not to be one. So you can add "Cap on right 2" to your list as being authenticated. Mr. Nolan also showed me a present issue (pardon me, the last issue, No. 515, the 20c ultramarine U. S.) with a very clear shift noted principally toward the top, tho it showed also in other parts of the stamp. Several other odd cancellations were added to the list of cancels and some of them will be shown during the summer.

Mr. H. V. Swallow is one of the old time collectors of cancellations. I have omitted mention of the items that he sent in to date, as I would like to group his items all in one lot; but he has so many that they are getting beyond me. When the cuts begin to appear you will note the name frequently, and he has them all the way from '51's to date. Some of the nicest cancels that will be shown are from his collection. There should be some sort of a "Bureau Central" where collectors could congregate during lunch hours, even tho they live but a few hundred miles apart. The cancels from Canton, Miss., which he shows are very fine and would make a separate study in themselves. There are many of these alone perhaps twenty of them all told, ranging from stars to Odd Fellows, crosses, three links, etc., etc. Once in a while one town will blossom out with a fine cancellation, then you will see nothing of any particular interest in all the rest of their output. Other towns will start along in the late '50's with an odd design and carry out more odd ones during the '60's. I suppose during the war this whittling out of cancels was a bit of a relief from the general trend of the times, and acted as a relief from thinking about the war tho some of the devices such as eagles and flags were reminiscent of the days they were passing thro at that time.

A cover was just shown me by Mr. Glaze with a patriotic device of the '60's, and in big red letters across the top was the word VICTORY in bright red. This is a new one to me, and he said that among this old lot of covers which he found were quite a number with the same device and lettering.

If you make a find of rare cancellations you will often find the same odd cancel, or maybe a railroad cancel, repeated on several of the covers. Don't be discouraged if you find a whole lot of one particular railroad cancel, for no matter what one it may be, you will eventually find a collector who wants just what you may have in duplicate.

When you find a lot of old letters going to some foreign country, you will be glad to note that the same rate is often made up of different combinations of stamps. This is one of the things that makes the collecting of covers so pleasant to the collector—he is always on the lookout for a new combination, or a cover to a "new" country, or some new cancellation. The sale in Boston of the Chase collection is rich in covers to foreign countries in the early days—'51 to '61. Many collectors ask me what is such and such a cover worth? It is but a natural question. I ask myself the same question, and who can say? Nobody. Some of the early covers bear a 5c rate only, when we well know that it cost far more than 5c to send that particular letter. If it went to a country that received a lot of mail from the U. S. A., it is what we call "common"; but if it went to British Guiana, or to San Marino, well, wouldn't you rather have it than if it went to France or Belgium?

We hear the expression "Auctions establish prices" frequently; but every auction is liable to do what Nurmi has been doing to all records. No values are fixed today on covers, perhaps this makes the cover enthusiast more interested in his collecting than the general run of collectors. Collect just what you please, and what pleases you, is my advice.

EXPOSITION PUBLICITY

W. T. Wilson of Birmingham, England, sends us greetings from the Paris Philatelic Exhibition. The card is of more than usual interest in that it bears not only an Exposition postmark, but also a new stamp of 15c value very artistic in design and bearing the inscription "Exposition Internationale des Arts Decoratifs et Industriels Moderns Paris 1925". The stamp is printed in blue and green and is a large stamp upright rectangular in shape. Jos. A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia, has also shown us one of these cards.

AUG. DIETZ AT THE COLLECTORS CLUB

A DEMONSTRATION OF THE METHODS USED IN PRINTING CONFEDERATE STATES STAMPS

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

Probably the most instructive gathering ever held at the Collectors Club was that of Wednesday evening, May 6th, when Mr. Aug. Dietz came up from Richmond, Va., and gave a most interesting talk and display of the different processes used in printing the Confederate States postage stamps during the Civil War.

Mr. Dietz brought with him various trial plates (including one used by Archer & Daly), lithographic stones, dies, proofs, and a large collection of tools with which he gave us actual demonstrations of the different processes that were used in those days. In the course of his talk he stated that he would divide the first 150 years of stamp collecting into three eras.

The first 50 years he termed the age of chivalry, or the classic era; the second 50 years the era of study and research; the coming 50 years he ventured to call the mercenary era.

He thought that the first era of philately would always be the period for the student and for the man fond of original research work. Lost records are being found and methods by which the Confederate Stamps were produced are being discovered and made public by such students as Mr. Edward S. Knapp. Unfortunately most of the official records of the stamps used in the Civil War period were destroyed by the fire at the Evacuation of Richmond in 1865.

Mr. Dietz told us that for the past twenty years he has been collecting all the material he could find in connection with the production of stamps and the graphic art as it existed in 1861-1865. He compared the men who really study stamps to the archæologist who loves to study the hieroglyphics of the past, and a knowledge of the processes then employed is comparable to the finding of the Rosetta stone.

When we begin to study the production of the Confederate States stamps, Mr. Dietz said that we must try and visualize the printing plants that existed in the South in 1861-62. There were no large establishments, even New Orleans had only about two firms that did lithographic printing, and Richmond had only one. This was the firm of Hoyer & Ludwig and they only did small local jobs. Then came the War of Secession and the necessity arose for finding firms capable of producing paper money and stamps. Attempts were made to get a firm in Montgomery, Ala., to do this work, but all in vain, and after almost a year the offer of Hoyer & Ludwig to print the stamps was accepted. Their chief work was to print paper money, and only during short intervals were they able to print stamps, and the designs had to be rubbed off the money stones to prepare the surface for printing the stamps. These methods were primitive and much as when Senefelder invented them. In brief, three processes were used during the War period.

1. Printing from an elevated surface, called Typography.

2. Printing from a smooth surface, called Lithography.

3. Printing from incised lines, called Steel (or Copper) Plate Engraving.

In Lithography the important matter is to have the right stone, and this has been found to be a limestone of a special quality which is only found in one mine in Bavaria. Of late years science has substituted zinc plates for the old lithographic stone, but in 1861-62 the stone had to be used.

The processes used in those days were as follows, and Mr. Dietz exemplified each one as he explained them:—

First came the drawing in pen and ink, or pencil, of large size, this being submitted to the authorities for their approval. The stone had then to be ground perfectly smooth under running water and then fanned dry. The nature of the stone accepts grease or water, but the two do not mix and where grease goes water will not go.

The printer has to be careful not to touch the stone with his hand, or anything greasy, as this would make a spot which would reproduce on the stamps. The stone is first coated with lamp black, whereupon the design is "scratched" (engraved) through this coating of black, the design showing clearly in the white of the stone. Next linseed oil is rubbed over the design so that it takes in the exposed scratched surfaces. The stone is then rolled up with lithographers' ink and the entire surface subjected to a wash-off with water. After the original design is finished on the stone, it is an easy matter to multiply it by taking transfers, and Hoyer & Ludwig made a "paste up" of fifty subjects. This group of fifty was repeated four times to form the printed sheets of 200 that were used. Sometimes one or other of these transfers did not take and it required a re-insertion by erasing the defective impression with a pumice stone and inserting another transfer. This gives us what students call "substituted transfers", and these rare varieties can only be found by those who "plate" these interesting lithographic issues.

Mr. Dietz then drew attention to the double impressions that are occasionally found in early printings. These are what printers call a "kiss", which is a portion of a second impression cause a sheet slipping down and picking up parts of another impression. This is recurrent and is not a "shift". A must be found on several copies to that it is recurrent.

Mr. Dietz then showed us the proc used in electrotyping and the cutting of the design in reverse on boxw He also showed a trial plate of A & Daly with impressions of the 10c and 20c green. This showed where die was tried time after time as it further advanced. He also showed beeswax impressions used in electrot explained how they were coated plumbago and then copper deposited them. Next he showed the method printing embossed stamps, such as Gambia and Sardinia. Finally, he sh the old method of printing from rules, or rules combined with prin type.

The large attendance at the me voted this talk by Mr. Dietz as one o most instructive that has ever been at the Collectors Club, and Mr. was asked to be one of the lect during the Great Exhibition in 1926

DEATH OF GENERAL BANDHOLTZ

The death of Major-General Bandtz, U. S. Army, retired, at the age of ity-one, at his home in Constantine, chigan, on May 7, 1925, has been reted in the newspapers, accompanied in ne cases with sketches of the career this distinguished officer and we may l, philatelist. Upon his retirement ut two years ago, General Bandholtz urned to Constantine, to enjoy a rest er many years of military activity in erent parts of the world. Our acuintance with General Bandholtz dated m about 1896, he having lived in Chio, when he received his appointment West Point, from where he was gradud in 1890. He was then a lieutenant l a collector of U. S. stamps in a hly specialistic way for those rs. He was detailed to Agricultural llege, Michigan, and when the Spanish- erican war began, he had an important rt in the work of equipping our soldiers service in Cuba. Later, he was ord to the Philippines in those troublous ys, where his disciplinary and executive lity had full play. He was the first nerican to be appointed governor of e of the islands; and latterly, he ieved the distinction of becoming chief the Philippine Constabulary. In the rld war, he was elevated to the office provost marshal general in Europe and s with Pershing; and one of our possions is a photograph showing him and neral Pershing, side by side.

Through all the years, General Bandltz corresponded with us with some gularity and many letters and mementos ne from him, including a series of pice postal cards sent from different ports one of his trips around the world. He it in news notes from time to time and ile he was not always able to indulge bent for stamps to the utmost, by rce of circumstances, yet it was to be en that his interest in philately was inadicable. He made a number of colltions and disposed of them in order at he might always be engaged in buildg up one; and he participated in a numr of finds that were advantageous. hile in the Philippines, a controversy olving the standing of some of the surcharges and other varieties of the Philipnes arose and the matter was pursued inconclusively, we believe. Latterly, certain "Hungarian messenger" stamps of dubis origin were connected with him at the ne he was a member of an embassy to ungary but he knew nothing of these bels and was not concerned with them in any way. As for any intimations based on suspicions that may have arisen in the past, he has said: "Having a clear conscience it gives me no concern beyond the annoyance on an occasional unjust accusation." Those who knew General Bandholtz did not need to be reassured that all his philatelic transactions were based on approved principles and they feel that in the death of the great soldier, they have been deprived of a loyal friend in whose fame they rejoiced; and to the widow of General Bandholtz and the son, Major C. H. Bandholtz, now stationed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, heartfelt sympathy is expressed.

S.

Several of our subscribers have sent us press clippings calling attention to the death of Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz, and the one printed below is taken from the Boston Transcript of May 8. He leaves a wide circle of philatelic acquaintances, having been prominently identified with American philately during the past quarter of a century. His specialty has been United States stamps including departments. Through his military assignment to the Philippines he became interested in the stamps of this country and wrote several articles dealing with them, and especially the O.B. overprints. He was a member of the A.P.S. The Transcript article is as follows:—

Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz, United States Army, retired, died suddenly at his home at Constantine, Mich., yesterday. Death was due to heart disease. General Bandholtz was born in Constantine in 1864, and was graduated from West Point in 1890. He was sent to France during the World War, where he was appointed provost marshal general.

He is survived by the widow, and one son, Major Cleveland H. Bandholtz, now stationed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston.

Nearly all his Army life General Bandholtz did the difficult jobs, first in Cuba in the Spanish-American War, then in the Philippines for thirteen years when conditions in Luzon were at their very worst, later on the Mexican Border and still later in the World War. He was for six months American military representative in Hungary. In this capacity he was in Budapest during the Roumanian occupation, and, according to a story told by his associates, he succeeded on one occasion in driving two companies of Roumanian soldiers out of the Hungarian palace with the aid of his riding whip and an American telephone operator.

Another story is to the effect that General Bandholtz, while American member of the Allied mission to Budapest, was prevented by the French from accompanying the other members of the mission to the Hungarian capital in the special train chartered and run by the French. At the last moment General Bandholtz was notified there was no room for him aboard that train. The American swallowed the insult, but immediately obtained a special train from the Austrians at Vienna and with it beat the French train into Budapest.

GEORGE W. LINN COMPANY, 210 CLINTON BLDG., COLUMBUS, OHIO

EDITORIAL.

The circular issued by the post office department on May 6, 1925, told of the impending issue of the Norse-American commemorative stamps, with a full description of the designs of the two stamps. It was said that the stamps would be placed on sale May 18, 1925, at the following offices: St. Paul, Minneapolis, Benson, Minn., Northfield, Minn., Algona, Iowa, Decorah, Iowa and Washington, D. C.; and that they were obtainable was shown by our mail on May 19th. We received first day covers from E. J. Weschcke, St. Paul; H. S. Swensen, Minneapolis; Olaf J. Olson, St. Paul; H. H. Barber, Minneapolis; Philip H. Ward, Jr. (postmarked) Washington; E. C. Bailey, Decorah, Iowa; Roy Preston, Minneapolis, and from a nameless correspondent in Eau Claire, Wis. The two stamps are of distinctive appearance and are quite unlike any other American issues. The designs seem to be somewhat compressed because of the small size in comparison with recent commemoratives, but they are well handled and the five cent shows skilled treatment of shading in the blue part of the stamp. The ship theme of a Viking ship and the Restaurationen (with a smaller vessel in the background) is acceptable and the two colors for each stamp characterize the stamps as out of the ordinary, in the estimation of public in particular.

The department says that the issue of these Norse-American stamps will be small and that in consequence, postmasters should not send requisitions for supplies of them. The allotment will be made by the department and will be sent to postmasters without their order. For the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers, the stamps are on sale at the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Washington. In this connection it is possible that the department wishes to encourage the purchase of special issues from Washington, rather than locally, feeling, no doubt, that buyers may be given fuller attention at the agency than at home. In fact, it has been reported that at several offices collectors have been advised that their demands for condition and other collecting qualifications could be met with more satisfaction at Washington than locally. However, if we remember rightly, a departmental order said, some time ago, that collectors were to be given special attention by the clerks.

Messrs. Wilcox, Smith &Co., Dunedin, New Zealand, advise that the 2d and 8d, official George, are obsolete and that new officials of values, 4d and 9d, George, have been issued. Three pictorials, ½d, 1d and 4d are to be issued in connection with the great New Zealand and South Seas Exhibition to be opened at Dunedin about November. To commemorate the exhibitions hitherto held in the Dominion, there has always been a special issue of stamps.

A letter from Mr. Spencer L. Haworth of Washington says that a reference in this column to the first issue of fractional currency of the United States in the form of the five, ten, twenty-five and fifty cent notes, with representations of the five cents brown and ten cents green of the 1861 issue on them has been noted. He mentions that proof impressions of this first issue of postage currency, as well as subsequent issues, were printed, front and back separately, on paper watermarked "C.S.A." which was manufactured in England, for the uses of the Confederacy, but which was captured by the U. S. forces from blockade runners.

We wish to recall the information given to a correspondent who wrote recently asking about the significance of the overprint, "Denoting," on the one shilling of New Zealand. From the April number of the New Zealand Stamp Collector we extract the following explanation: "In 1922, a new fiscal stamp appeared consisting of the one shilling postage stamp overprinted, 'Denoting.' In certain instances one transaction is covered by more than one document and the duty payable covers both instruments. In this case, the more important document is stamped with the duty stamp and the subsidiary document bears the 'denoting' stamp, which signifies that the duty has been paid on another instrument." We notice that our Christchurch contemporary is the official journal of no fewer than eight stamp societies in New Zealand; and while something is said about poor attendance at meetings, we think that it is feather in the colony's cap that its philatelic population sustains at least eight philatelic organizations.

We have come into possession of two books of stamps that were prepared by the United States and China, respectively, for distribution to the delegates at the convention of the Universal Postal Union last year at Stockholm, Sweden. The American souvenir is a modest little book, cloth bound, containing the current set, 1c to $5, inclusive; and also, the Harding, special delivery, Walloons and the 8c, 16c and 24c aeroplane. These "United States Postage Stamps, Series 1922-23-24" are all pasted down in ruled squares and on the front cover is the seal of the post office department in gold. The Chinese memento is a gorgeous production, beautifully bound and stitched with silk of brilliant colors, with the spaces for all the current issues of China, ordinary and surcharged including dues and aeroplane, in squares ruled in gold. A card in the book says that it was given with the compliments of the Chinese delegation. Other countries, including Sweden and Holland, prepared similar albums of current issues to meet the amenities of the occasion.

It is with the utmost regret that announcement is made of the death of Ralph L. King, of Waukegan, Illinois, who has passed away at the age of years. Mr. King, as one of the staff the Waukegan Sun and correspondent Chicago newspapers was widely kno as a journalist and in philatelic circles a collector whose U. S. and Briti Colonies were well worth a second glan For some time Mr. King had been disposed and while his fellow members the Chicago Philatelic Society knew t his condition was serious, the news of death was a shock. About a year a Mr. King went to jail rather than divulge the source of information that published involving a scandal attaching the town officers of a neighboring pl and while in his cell, worked his ty writer at jig speed and played with stamps. The story of his incarcerati was well worked up and gained him little celebrity. We shall miss our frie with his many engaging qualities and his widow and son we extend our deep sympathy.

The death of General Bandholtz occasioned a number of reminiscences t are proof of his attachment to philate One of them is to the effect that it w due to his instrumentality that the fi entire set of the special printing of 1 was preserved for philatelists. The was among the papers of one of the c cers of the post office department former years that were found after death in Michigan. These stamps w sold at auction in one of Wolsieff sales in Chicago in 1896 or 1897. w they brought a relatively high price were bought by Dr. S. G. Stein. We lieve that other varieties, such as chemical papers, were among the effe that were brought to light. As we h said, General Bandholtz was among first collectors to gave strict attention U. S. issues and he delighted in thi such as the big shift through the "th cents" of 1851 long before they were the general eye. We remember that one time, some information on postal c ditions in Borneo that General Ba holtz transmitted to us for publicat was commented on by one of the Lon dailies in furtherance of one of political contentions.

NEWS GLEANINGS

-The assistant postmaster of Windom, nnesota, Mr. R. E. Skellie was enter-ing enough to obtain a supply of the se-American issue on May 18th and have to thank him for a first day er from Windom.

-Mr. Frank Haglund, Seattle, Wash-on, writes that he has received a warn-from the Stockholm Philatelic So-y to the effect that the new Liberian nps with the slight cancellations are n to question on the score of philatelic ilarity. Mr. Haglund says: "It is e that Liberia sent an order to Berlin these stamps but before the stamps e received in Liberia, and used there, uantity of them was sent from Berlin Hamburg, where they were canceled n names of the largest cities in Li-a." Collectors should be guided ordingly.

-Those who make it a duty to read of the comments on the new postal s and arrive at the conclusion that post office department is the intelli-et servitor of the people should read Mencken's "Government by Jackass" that eared in the Baltimore Sun recently. manner is which Mencken wields his nkersee may be judged by the "dull nis" that disturb the atmosphere. It uite evident that he does not regard changes with the complacency that ny collectors do as a few new stamps, re or less, mean nothing in Mencken's ng life.

-The postal receipts at every one of fifty selected cities throughout the ntry for the month of April, 1925, wed an increase over the correspond-n period last year. This is no doubt to the fact that the increased postal s became effective on April 15 of this r and are included in the statistics ie public today by Postmaster General Nv. The total receipts for April, 5, were $29,083,231.51, as against $.918,448.79, for April, 1924. This lws an increase in last month's receipts r those for the same month last year o $2,164,782.72, or 8.04 per cent. The of Dayton, Ohio, led in the percent-a of increase, amounting to 29.57 per cent. Cincinnati, Ohio, came next with 21 per cent increase, while Salt Lake City, Utah, ranked third, showing an increase of 14.42 per cent.

—The Hartford Courant in its issue of April 28th, publishes an editorial on "New Stamp Issues" that is based on criticisms of the new Lexington-Concord stamps and the ½c Hale that were penned by Mr. Ward in this paper. The opinion of Mr. Ward is not given weight by the Courant, particularly in its application to the Hale stamp; and it brings its guns to bear on the criticism of Mr. Ward, feeling that Nathan Hale is a happy choice for inclusion in the stamp gallery. Our readers have shown that there are differences of opinion and that Mr. Ward's statements have not passed unnoticed.

—The New York Financial and Commercial World for May contained a very flattering bit of commendation of the M. Ohlman stamp auctions. Everything of this nature helps philately.

—George H. Scharr sends us a syndicated article, "The Crater of Crime" which appeared in the Chicago Tribune and other daily papers. It is a rather weird story.

—In a letter received by Postmaster General New from Secretary of the Interior Work the latter points out the great work performed by the Post Office Department's Air Mail Service at a mine explosion near Burke, Idaho, which took place on April 24, 1925. "The Bureau of Mines engineer of that district," Secretary Work wrote, "who was at Rock Springs, found that he was unable to get a train to Salt Lake City for many hours. He accordingly requested the Air Mail Service to transport him from Rock Springs to Salt Lake City and this was done. As this was a situation in which the lives of miners were imperiled, the action of your department in co-operating to provide speedy transportation to connect with the car proceeding to the scene of the disaster was most helpful. The hearty co-operation of the Superintendent of the Aviation Fields at Rock Springs and Salt Lake, and pilot James Murray, was especially appreciated."

—The San Francisco Stamp Society has placed A. H. Wilham, president of the local society, in nomination for president of the American Philatelic Society. This information comes from the San Francisco Bulletin, which also announces that after the Los Angeles convention a meeting will be held in San Francisco in connection with the diamond jubilee.

—Thanks to C. E. Nickles of Washington, D. C., for a first day cover of the new Norse-American Centennial stamps, bearing the 2c and 5c values. The stamps are handsome productions, the 2c in carmine and black and the 5c in blue and black. The Washington first day cancellation date is May 18th.

—Some time ago there was published an article on the shift in the 5c Walloon. I recently came into possession of a top strip of two rows of this stamp with plate No. F15754. In this the four right-hand stamps of the top row each have the broken circle below the right "5", the left-hand stamp not being so. The second row, all five stamps have a colored diagonal line across the white inner border line just to the left beneath the "5". Then I have a similar piece of the same stamp with plate No. 15754, but without the letter F. Here the two end stamps, that is the last one of each row on each side, are missing, but none of those remaining has a broken circle but all in the second row has the diagonal cut in the white inner border line. Thus it appears from these items that the broken circle only occurs in plate No. F-15754, the same without the F being without that variety, though both have the second row with the diagonal line thru the white border line. —A. The postmasters in numerous sections of the country were required to split 1c stamps in order to prepay the extra ½c postage required on circular letters, in accordance with the new rates that went into effect on April 15th. These historical covers are not available in quantities and are likely to be extremely desirable and difficult to obtain as time goes on. I can offer a limited quantity which I can guarantee as going through the mails at the very low price of $1.00 per cover, — used from a post office where no ½c stamps were available.

First Day Covers

The Norse-American series was placed on sale in seven cities, and I offer the complete series on covers from each of these towns at $1.50 for the 7.

What else do you need in first day covers?

If you have never collected these interesting additions to any collection, send $5.00 and I will make up an attractive collection of several denominations and combinations, all used on the first day.

Also remember that I carry on hand at all times a wonderful stock of U. S. 19th and 20th Century adhesive postage stamps, used and unused, as well as covers.

FROM THE PHILATELIC AGENCY

The following communication has been received from W. Irving Glover, Third Assistant Postmaster General, dealing with the most recent issues placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency:—

The Philatelic Agency will offer for sale for the first time the new 2 and 5-cent Norse-American Commemorative stamps on May 18, 1925. They will also be placed on sale at the following post offices on that date:

Saint Paul, Minn.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Northfield, Minn.; Benson, Minn.; Algona, Iowa; Decorah, Iowa; Washington, D. C.

The demand for postage stamps of the 1925 series recently issued has been so large as to exceed the facilities of the Philatelic Agency and patrons can co-operate with the Agency by ordering at this time only the 1925 issues, which are as follows:

Lexington - Concord Commemorative: 1c Washington at Cambridge, 2c Birth of Liberty, 5c The Minute Man.

Norse-American Commemorative: 2c "Restaurationen", 5c Viking Ship.

By ordering in this manner, it will permit the department to add additional stamp clerks with special credits of the new series to the force of the Agency and in that way greatly facilitate dispatch of the orders.

The attention of the patrons of the Philatelic Agency is called to the new registry rates which were placed in effect on April 15, 1925. There is quoted below for your information the rates now effective on first class registered mail:

"First class and sealed fourth-class articles prepaid at the first-class rate of postage, indemnifiable for $50 or less, 15 cents; for over $50 and not in excess of $100, 20 cents."

It is the strict policy of the Philatelic Agency to fill all orders in regular turn of receipt and it is hoped to fill all orders for the Norse-American stamps, as well as other new issues of 1925, in the shortest possible time. All orders should be addressed to the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department. Money orders and certified checks should be made payable to the Philatelic Agency.

Play Safe In Stamp Investments

As I did when I purchased between $40,000 and $50,000 worth of following:—

U. S. postage including unusual pieces in pairs, strips, blocks and covers. Same applies to my Confederate States and to my large holdings in British North America pieces.

If you are looking for unusual items in any of above lines, this is place to come. I have sold single buyers thousands of dollars worth. I have the goods in my line and I think that 90% of readers of this paper agree that old issues of U. S. A., C. S. A. and B. N. A. are the goods that mean real investment.

DEATH OF PAUL KOHL

J. L. Riedel of Nurnberg, Germany, advises us of the death of Paul Kohl, which followed very soon after the death of Max Thier announced recently in our columns. Mr. Kohl was a celebrated dealer and one of the most eminent philatelists of the day. His catalog has been a standard publication. No particulars are at hand as yet, but German philately has indeed suffered a severe loss in the death of these two men.

—One of the biggest counterfeiting plots ever uncovered by the Secret Service is engaging the attention of the prosecutors and the utterers and distributors of "spurious war savings stamps and revenue strip stamps" are in line for punishment.

—Charles C. Dargue, 209 Maple St., Kittanning, Pa., has several years copies of our paper and Gossip that he will gladly donate to any society that will pay cost of carriage.

ZES WON BY PHILADELPHIANS

e City of Brotherly Love secured a er of prize awards at the Interna- Philatelic Exposition held in Paris. Steinmetz was awarded two silver- nedals as second prizes, Mr. Ward ed a silver medal for his collection ish stamps, and Mr. Klein won a medal for a complete exhibit of y in Asia. John Klemann of New was another silver medal winner. ollowing story was taken from the delphia Ledger of May 12 and was panied by a picture of Mr. Steinree Philadelphians are the winners dals for outstanding exhibits at the national Philatelic Exposition in according to cable dispatches re- l in this city recently.

e local medal winners, whose post- amp collections were placed in com- n with thousands of others from lly every section of the world, are r Joseph A. Steinmetz, Philip H. Jr., and Eugene Klein.

. Steinmetz, who is known among elists the world over as one of the ardent and expert of stamp collect- vas awarded a silver-gilt medal for llection of air-mail postage stamps overs, including "first flight" letters d on virtually every air-mail flight the development of flying. Some of ost prized covers include those car- in the several memorable crossings e Atlantic Ocean by planes.

. Ward received a silver medal for llection of Irish stamps, which con- unused singles and blocks of every y, big and little, of postage stamps l by the Irish Republic.

. Klein's collection, which also won ver medal, included every known y of postage stamp issued and used urkey in Asia. This collection is f the most extraordinary of its kind istence and was the subject of con- able praise and comment among the itors and guests at the exposition.

ther winner, announced yesterday, n Klemann, of New York, who re- l a silver medal.

Paris exposition, recognized by tors as one of the most pretentious uccessful ever held from the view- of the number of collectors repre- l and the extent of the collections, d on May 2 and will close today.

ndreds of collectors from all over rld submitted their most prized collections in the competitions. No stamp collection has been formed that can compete with the collection of the late Baron Ferrary, whose enormous assembly of postage stamps is being sold at public auction by the French Government, but there were many specialized collections on view that marked their owners as among the leaders in philately.

Arthur Hind, of Utica, N. Y., is recognized one of the greatest of American collectors, and his collection of United States stamps was among the more representative American collections shown in Paris.

Mr. Klein, who was one of the officials and a guest of the exposition, was the American representative of the enterprise. He is now in Europe.

CONVENTION AT NEW HAVEN, CT.

On Saturday, May 16, 1925, the third annual meeting of the Southern New England Stamp Societies was held in New Haven, Conn., under the auspices of the New Haven Philatelic Society. The afternoon session was opened in the Assembly Hall of the New Haven Gas Light Company, at 1.00 p. m., and members of the Philatelic Societies of Waterbury, Bridgeport, Hartford and Springfield were entertained by Mr. H. P. Atherton with his wonderful collection of "Black Jacks" and by Dr. J. Brace Chittenden with his highly specialized collection of Austria. Mr. Charles J. Phillips of New York was also on hand and those who caught a glimpse of what was in his innocent looking little book were given a treat as many rare stamps were shown.

In the evening a banquet was held at the Café Mellone and 38 members of the local society and out of town guests, enjoyed speeches by the representatives of the various societies and by Messrs. Atherton, Phillips and Chittenden.

Much enthusiasm was displayed and a noteworthy feature was a goodly number of non-collectors present at the afternoon session, showing that publicity is well worth while.

Mr. H. C. Hyde, President of the Springfield Stamp Club, extended an invitation from that organization to meet in Springfield in the spring of 1926, which was accorded unanimous approval. This movement, started by the Hartford Club in 1923, is meeting with success and we look forward to a bigger and better gathering each year.—E. A. YOUNG.

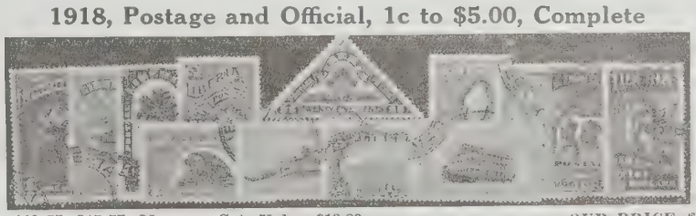
LIBERIA

To Liberia goes the distinction of being the only negro republic in the world.

It is said that the Liberian legislature, with a sang-froid which is the absolute envy of our own more polished Congressmen, passes bills for national defense, vast public improvements, etc., which run into the millions of dollars a year.

The Liberian treasury habitually is in a sadly depleted condition, so that few if any of these stupendous projects are ever finished, or even started. But the practice of putting up a big front, of impressing on the nighboring African tribes their importance and power, has become universal in Liberia; and to this trait can be traced the origin of Liberia's impressive, bright-colored and picturesque postal issues, which have always excited the awe and admiration of every other African country.



No collection is complete without a liberal representation of these beautiful stamps. And the low prices which we are quoting will be a powerful inducement to buy them NOW.

BOOK REVIEW

We have received from Theodore Champion, 13 Rue Drouot, Paris, France, the Fourth Edition of their Historical and Descriptive Catalog of Air-Mail Stamps. The price is 25 francs, and the book is a marvel of completeness. It is printed in both French and English, the publishers placing considerable emphasis upon the energy and ability with which the English speaking nations have developed the air-mail service. An idea of the completeness of the catalog may be obtained by examining the United States section. Thirty-eight pages are required to list the one hundred and fifty-three varieties chronicled. Not only is there a large amount of explanatory matter, but lifesize postal markings are shown. The publishers acknowledge their indebtedness to G. W. Angers, Joseph A. Steinmetz and H. A. Truby of the United States for data furnished. Mr. Champion has every reason to feel proud of this splendid book of more than four hundred pages. A most interesting chapter deals with the baloon post of 1870-71. This special chapter on the siege of Paris postal history will prove of unusual interest. The Monthly Bulletin issued by the firm has a special department devoted to the aerial post and this chronicle will supplement the book now offered to the public. We cannot too highly commend this catalog of air-mail stamps.

From Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London, W.C.2, England, has been received their 13th edition of their A.B.C. Descriptive Priced Catalog of the Stamps of the Continent of Europe and its Colonies. The price of the book is 85c post-paid. The increase in the number of pages over the last edition is approximately one-third, but the price of the catalog has also been reduced one-third, so that one may well feel that here is a bargain in catalogs especially when produced by such a reliable firm. Stamps are priced as low as 1c each. The book is well and fully illustrated and takes its place among the leading stamp catalogs of the world. The publishers emphasize the fact that their listing of Belgium, Portugal and Colonies, Poland, Syria, Armenia, Russia, Ukraine, Danzig and certain other countries cannot be surpassed.

SALE OF THE CHASE COLLECTION

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

In the three session auction held in Boston on Friday and Saturday May 22nd and 23rd, by Mr. Daniel F. Kelleher, there was dispersed the world-wide famous United States collection of Dr. Carroll Chase, formerly of New York, consisting of the 1851-57, 1c, 5c, 12c, 24c, 30c and 90c denominations.

Many of our most important collectors and dealers were present and those who were interested but not present were most certainly represented. Among the better known collectors, I offhand recall Messrs. H. R. Duckwall, A. W. Filstrup, Franklin Allen, R. E. Emerson, S. P. Ashbrook, S. W. Richey, C. R. Hurd, Perry Fuller, Leland Powers and Dr. Hunt.

As for the dealers, the Scott Stamp & Coin Company were represented by Messrs. Clark and Costales, the Nassau Company by Mr. John Klemann. Mr. J. S. Hardy was there from Chicago, Messrs. Krassa and Burger from New York, and "Yours Truly" from Philadelphia. Practically all the Massachusetts dealers were on hand including Mr. Atherton from Springfield.

To say that prices ruled strong is putting it mildly, for while there may have been a bargain here and there, it seemed that choice things reached heights never dreamed of. The sale as a whole brought in the neighborhood of $43,000, quite an amount when one considers that the collection was almost entirely made up of plate positions and the like rather than unusual or large blocks, and such pieces as have been bringing high prices here of late.

Mr. Duckwall was undoubtedly the largest purchaser from the collection, followed in order by Messrs. Ashbrook, Ward, Filstrup and Emerson. These five possibly purchased half of the collection.

One really interested in our early issues should obtain a priced catalog for it will be difficult in these few columns to touch more than the high points of the sale.

Rather than take the more important things first, I will start in with the beginning of the sale and run through with the outstanding pieces in their order.

In the 1851, 1c, plate 1, a reconstructed horizontal strip of six, made up of three pairs including a copy of the type I, 7R1e sold at $505. Mr. Duckwall purchased a magnificent strip of six of this stamp showing type II and type III-A at $425. A block of six on cover to San Francisco which was not tightly tied went to Mr. Filstrup at $180.

A reconstructed sheet of one hundred positions of the left pane from plate I in the late State was sold to Mr. Ashbrook, rumored for the Hind collection, at $2,250.

A copy of the type IV showing a crack above "T" of "CENT" went to Scott at $72.50. A used block of ten with blue green cancellation of type IV was sold to Judge Emerson at $215. A block of six went to Mr. Duckwall at $400. A block of four sold at $58.00, while a soiled and defective block of four of the perforated variety, type IV, went to Judge Emerson at $60. The latter stamp is excessively rare in block form and had this been in wonderful condition, it would have reached a very high figure. A mint block of eleven of the type II from plate 2 was sold to Ward at $370. A complete reconstruction, imperforate, of the major crack from plate 2, consisting of five stamps went to Indianapolis at $400, while the same reconstruction of the perforated stamps brought only $406 to an order bidder, although it is possibly eight or ten times more difficult to get together. Mr. Allen purchased a magnificent pair showing one stamp from a cracked plate on cover at $125.

A truly fine used copy of the imperf. type III, 99-R2, sold to Mr. Duckwall at $600. A superb perforated copy of the same stamp on a neat, clean cover, with black Hartford postmark was sold to Scott at $900. A similar copy, off cover but centered a jot to the right, with light black town cancellation, was sold to the same people at $87.50. These two stamps together are just an illustration of what condition means, for while the cover made a vast amount of difference, the magnificent condition of the one item entered strongly into the price. A copy of type III, on a small cover, with "U. S. P. O. Dispatch" cancellation, the cancellation, however, not tying the stamp to the cover, sold at $160.

A wonderful cover containing a record copy of Ia, together with two fine copies of IIIa, used from Mobile, was sold to Ward at $670.

A strip of three of the 1c, Type V, from plate 7, showing curl on shoulder, used on cover, went to Scott at $245. Single copies of the same stamp off cover sold from $10 to $28. Complete panes of the 1c type V were sold to Messrs. Ward and Filstrup at $290 and $280 respectively.

In the second session, an unusued block of four, showing type II and III-A from plate 11, went at only $32, although this is an extremely rare piece. The price was no doubt due to the poor condition of the block.

A copy of the 1c type IV, used on a circular to Detroit showing the well known New York, "July 21, 1853" cancellation, sold at $70. This 1853 dated cancellation is rare upon the 3c stamp and must be excessively scarce on any other value. Three very fine copies of the same stamp with the "U. S. Express Mail Boston" went to Mr. Burger at $30.

A pair of the type II, on cover, with orange postmark "Lou. & Cin. S. B.

COLORED CANCELLATIONS

House cleaning has hit a large stock book full of cancellations. For years, I have put aside every red, blue, purple, green and bicolored cancellation "for the future."

Colored cancellations are now priced in Scott's Specialized United States Catalogue and are a valuable addition to any collection.

I find many fine cancellation examples on stamps that are off centered, have straight edges or something of that sort, which the "conditionist" rejects but which is a worthy example of a cancellation.

APPROVAL SELECTIONS

are now ready. Books from $5.00 to $300.00 each (one man took $68.55 from a $315.95 book on first sight). Just give me an idea of the size of the selection you can handle—include the names and addresses of your bank and two stamp dealers as reference—and I'll do the rest.

FRANK P. BROWN CO., 53 Bromfield Street, BOSTON, MASS.

Mail Line" in exceptionally nice condition went to the middle west at $107.50.

In the case of the 5c value, a superb copy showing part of the imprint with a French postmark brought $190, while a second copy with imprint with black grid-iron cancellation sold at $150. A reconstructed block of four made up of two horizontal pairs which seemingly fitted together, sold at $180, while $300 was paid for a superb horizontal pair with large margins on all sides. Superb single copies went from $26 up. A copy on cover showing the Paris to Bordeaux railroad cancellation went to Dr. Hunt at $240.

An exceptionally fine used block of four of the 5c in a color, which matches exactly certain of the imperf. stamps, but which is somewhat different from the regularly listed red brown, sold at $725, while a mint block of four in the brown, shade, type II, went into the same collection at $215, a record price for this piece.

Single copies of the 5c brick red went unusually high, for we find them selling at $30, $36 and $80, the latter price being paid for a perfection lightly canceled copy off cover.

A used block of four of the 12c 1851 with the rare red "Philadelphia British Packet" cancellation, with a little tear at top, sold at $365, while a horizontal strip of eight of the same stamp with "Paid" cancellation sold at $875. Judge Emerson paid $147.50 for a superb block of six of the perforated stamps, used, whereas a block of four sold at $91.

Split copies of the 12c, 1851, used to pay the 6c rate, were practically all purchased by Ward at prices ranging from $195 to $390. Included in the lot was a combination bi-sect used with a 3c and 1c stamp, making a 10c rate. This went to Ward at $350; $10.00 less than the price he paid for a similar split with "steamship" cancellation.

A copy of the 12c 1857 carried by the "Pony Express" and bearing several postmarks of the trip, very interesting indeed, went to Mr. Filstrup at $600.

A single copy of the 24c red lilac, unused, without gum, was purchased by Ward at $235. A block of four of the normal shade with imprint on left, but without gum, sold at $165. An extremely fine single copy with "Boston British Packet" cancellation, went to Mr. Duckwall at $155. Mr. Allen paid $92.50 for a copy on cover from New York to London.

In the case of the 30c stamp, a badly damaged and repaired copy of the imperf., No. 38, sold at $86, while blocks of twelve of the proofs, showing imprint, went to Mr. Fuller at $82.50 each. The same price was realised for similar blocks of the 90c value, these larger blocks of proofs having come from the Crawford collection.

A superb copy of the 90c, with neat New York cancellation, went to Mr. Filstrup at $92.50, while the same gentleman paid $72.50 for a copy with red grid cancellation. This stamp somewhat creased on a small piece of cover along with other values brought $51.

Some of Dr. Chase's choice things were found among his original covers showing foreign rates. A copy of the 5c "British Columbia" used in combination with the 5c and 10c 1857, the only example Dr. Chase has seen of this combination, came to Philadelphia at $260.

One of the true cabinet pieces of the sale, a vertical strip of three of the 5c 1857, in brick red, of a very unusual shade, on cover from New Orleans to Ribeauville, in absolutely perfection condition, was sold to Ward at $1,000, Mr. Franklin Allen running it up to this point. Mr. Allen purchased a 12c of the same year, used with 3 1c type V on cover to the same town, at $40. A vertical pair of the 30c 1857 of which one copy had the corner cut off and repaired sold at $80. A copy of the 30c from New York to Tanna, with black grid cancellation, sold at $115.

A combination cover to Hong Kong, consisting of the 1857, 24c, 10c, 3c and a pair of the 1c, was sold to Ward at $230.

Mr. Duckwall bought a vertical pair of the 24c and a pair of the 3c on to Tuscany at $105.

This sale included copies of the stamps with "Specimen" overprint, from the Crawford collection, and were all purchased by Mr. Ashbro the following prices:—1c, type II, $1 type V, $85.00, 5c, $72.50, 12c, $1 24c, $102.50 and 30c, $105.00.

The general run of single copies in fine condition brought anywhere catalog to several times the price upon these varieties by Scott. All those who have wisely invested in issues of our country in the past wil regret having done so, after a glance at the list of prices realized a sale.

The auctioneer, Mr. William L. rich, is certainly to be commende the prompt and efficient manner in the sale was conducted, for at best of this length is somewhat tiresom pecially when there seems to be su repetition of material.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Auction of the collection of Dr. Carroll Chase. As so many of you readers of the Forum were not there (I counted but 26 attending the first session) a word must be interesting to you all, so here goes.

Upon the announcement of the sale, many collectors believed that Dr. Chase had discontinued collecting stamps, wrong, way wrong. He is now devoting his time to the study of the 3c 1851 and 1857 stamps only. One must be persevering tho to get 3c stamps.

But on to the auction held in Boston by Mr. Kelleher. This sale was in three parts, two on afternoons, and one at night. I never saw so little levity preceding an auction of stampic nature before. From the minute the auctioneer, Mr. Aldrich, gave the finishing polish to his glasses, until the gong rang for the end it was bang, bang, and many double bangs.

The first session contained One Cent 1851 and 1857 stamps alone, nothing else. No matter how many of those 1c stamps came along, singly, or like shock troops, there was a most determined onslaught, and when they came in bunches, like blocks of ten, well, "the bigger they came, the harder they fell", and that's the truth.

This column is not intended to give prices—those you will perhaps find elsewhere, and as usual, records were broken. You have probably read of our old friends "7R1E" and "99R2" (they being the par excellence Type One and Type Three of the whole outfit). To this latter stamp, Type III perforated, goes the solid gold medal for being the most popular stamp at the sale. From the numerous manifestations of "I'll raise the bid", you would opine that no one there had a copy of this stamp on cover, or ever expected to see another as good as that one, and maybe rightly so.

Then there were the "stunt" stamps. You know that in your Specialized Catalog you read in these perforated 1c '57's of a copy with "Curl on shoulder", on a Type V stamp. It so happens that there are six copies of this "curl" on the one plate. It looks on the stamp as tho a thread had fallen on his shoulder. Just a nice little curl wrapped up into a figure 8 formation. The idea is that of these six "Herpicide" varieties, only three of them run along in a horizontal row. And do you know that there was a cover in that sale bearing all three of those stamps!

The second session ended up with what they called the "Blockade Runner". This cover carried contents of value, money probably, and went "through the lines" very early in the war, before any arrangements for the passing of censored mail between the conflicting parties had been made. The letter is headed "New Orleans July 3 1861". It went to Louisville, where the U. S. stamps were affixed, a 1c 1857 Type I, and a 5c brown Type II; the cover was backstamped by the American Express Co., being then forwarded to its destination—New York City. This cover found favor in the eyes of many, greatest favor, of course, with the man who made the last skyward motion of his pencil.

There seemed to be a few "new" bidders at the last session held on Saturda afternoon. Possibly it was the attractive "foreign rates", meaning covers showing the various rates in the '50's required to convey mail from the U. S. to foreign shores. Rates varied greatly in those days. The postmasters of small U. S. seaport towns were often in perplexing straits to interpret the rulings I presume, while from the larger towns there was some confusion in the amounts affixed to covers with varying weight of contents, and to little known destinations. These odd rates were well represented in the collection. Postage Due marks in all sorts of money were noted in mss. on those covers, some being in centimes, francs, pence, shillings, and even in reals, etc. Such covers are rarely found, as I well know from hunting them on later issues, notably Black Jacks, my last foreign rate being to Luzon, Philippines, and I sure welcomed that little stranger.

THE HARRIS MAGAZINE

A superbly printed issue of the current Bi-monthly Journal issued by H. E. Harris & Co. has been received. It consists of 46 pages and will prove of exceeding interest to both dealer and collector. Many desirable packets of stamps are offered and there are attractive features in single stamps. It is finely illustrated. A special article "The Romance of the Wrangel Issue" is the leading feature from a literary standpoint. The customers of the firm are entitled to a copy free of charge.

FINLAND AT THE COLLECTORS CLUB

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

Mr. C. M. Ams, as Chairman of the House Committee, called a special meeting of the members on Wednesday, May 13th, to meet our new member Mr. Hans Lagerloef and see his large collection of Finnish stamps.

This meeting is the outcome of an idea to utilize the Club rooms for special meetings of members on other than the regular fortnightly meetings as arranged at the beginning of the session.

Those who attended had a great treat not only in seeing the collection, but in listening to a most interesting talk on Finland.

Mr. Lagerloef who was born in Sweden, established himself in this country over twenty years ago, and has become an American citizen.

He told us that for some 700 years, up to 1809, Finland had been connected with Sweden, and about that date it passed under Russian rule, and so remained until 1917 when it became a Republic. He pointed out that the origin of the Finns is considered rather doubtful, some authorities consider they are from a portion of Hungary, while others think they came from the East.

Mr. Lagerloef said that they are a nation of the race of Vikings, such as the Swedes and Norwegians.

Sweden and Finland were brother and sister for some seven hundred years, about 10% of the population of Finland speak Swedish, and this 10% holds some 60% of the wealth of the country. The population is now about 3,600,000. The official birthday of the Finnish Republic is December 6, 1918, and the United States was the first of the great nations to recognize the Sovereignty of Finland. He further pointed out that in Finland Secretary Hoover is considered a demigod, as he practically saved the nation from starvation during the War. On one occasion when the bread of the people had become so bad as to consist of 90% wood pulp and only 10% of the poorest kind of corn, Hoover sent up eight large cargoes of corn and followed this with many other great gifts which practically saved the nation from starvation and has caused the people of Finland to look up to this great country with all love and respect.

He further stated that the prospects of Finland are very good as she has immense resources in her forests and water power. Only 1% of the people are illiterate and they are exceptionally hardy, which has been proved by the wonderful Finnish athletes now in this country.

Mr. Hans Lagerloef then passed his five large volumes of Finnish stamps round for examination and pointed out that members might note the absence of many of the rarities as he had presented them to the Stockholm Philatelic Museum to which he has been such a large donor that the authorities have added another floor to the building. He also mentioned that his example has been followed by two other local philatelists who have given their collections to the same museum.

The Lagerloef collection of Finland is too large and important to be described in a short article like this. Briefly I might mention that it is exceptionally strong in two ways, one in the very large number of entire unused sheets, and the other in the great mass of used stamps with interesting and rare cancellations. Throughout the collection I must draw attention to the superb condition of the stamps. The hundreds of stamps of 1860-1871 are here with not a tooth of the perforation missing.

A few items I noted are:—

April, 1856

Small pearls. 5 kop blue, 4 copies, 10kop rose, 28 copies, four being on laid paper.

April, 1858

Larger pearls. 5kop blue, four fine copies, two of which are on ribbed paper.

1866-67

1 mark, brown, error in the right hand inscription "M A R K K" for "MARKKA".

1881

5 pen orange, two pairs tête-bêche and a used pair imperf. between.

20 pen ultramarine, eight pairs tête-bêche.

20 pen horizontal pair, unused and imperf. between.

20 pen block of eight dark blue, all imperf. and each block with one tête-bêche.

Mr. Lagerloef drew our attention to the fact that these tête-bêche varieties occur on different positions in the sheets and there were probably several "make ups" of at least two values.

"Wasa" Provisionals.

In the temporary lithographed issue made at Wasa in 1918 Mr. Lagerloef has a wonderful lot with many varieties. He told us that three sheets of each value were imperf and he has blocks of four imperf and used of all values also a pair of the 30 p. imperf vertically.

1921-23 Issue.

50 pen full sheet imperf all but six.
60 pen full sheet imperf all but five.
75 pen full sheet imperf.
1 M full sheet imperf.
2 M block of 10 imperf.
3 M full sheet imperf., all but six.
25 M full sheet imperf., all but nine.

Exting Texarkana, Arkansas-Texas, I not know of any other cities in the S., existing side by side bearing the ne name. Texarkana seems to have one post office, as the cancellation rs the name of both states. Bristol, the line between Tennessee and Virgia, might be another case in point. e two Kansas Cities, however, have arate post offices and so give rise to s marking."

—Here is an editorial from the New rk Sun of May 2nd, received from H. M. Konwiser and we must say t the writer has the better of the ument; witness:

No Stamps; No Relief.—When the w postage rates went into effect the vernment had not put the new stamps sale in the post offices. It has failed n until now to supply them in sufficnt quantities in many parts of the ntry. Not only has it done this: it s officially suppressed an expedient opted by citizens to overcome the conuences of its business blundering.

When people could not buy half cent mps it occurred to some of them to ke up the postage necessary on matr requiring prepayment in fractions by ting one cent stamps in two, and using h half as a half cent stamp. Stamp llectors and dealers at once began to the bisected stamps, which they knew uld some day have a curiosity value.

However, as soon as the postal offiIs learned of this ingenious practice y declared it against the regulation ich prohibits the use of a mutilated or faced stamp. As things stand the vernment does not furnish certain mps it requires on mail matter, and l not allow citizens to extemporize ergency but wholly paid for stamps.

PARIS EXHIBITION SOUVENIR

ALBANIAN AIR-MAIL

The following circular has been received and it takes no acuteness to see how frankly collectors are held up to exploitation. It looks as though the farming out of privileges for the sale of aero stamps to a more or less official wing of the government is a plan that is gaining in favor, in view of the example of Norway preceding that of Albania. It will be noticed that the stamps are sold at a small advance over face and that no collectors need apply. It is unlikely that the reception that the Albanian air-mail stamps will receive from collectors will be such as to bring an encore; in fact, they may be as popular as a park bench on Christmas eve. We are of the opinion that the publicity that the plan will receive will be of a recoiling rather than a promotional nature.

OFFER TO DEALERS.

Gentlemen:

The Albanian government—in agreement with our Albanian branch-company, the "Adria Aero Lloyd"—has decided to establish a regular air-post service and to issue, at the same time, official air-post stamps.

These stamps have just been published and, in order to give you an opportunity to supply your stock without great difficulties and in a quick manner, we decided ourselves to make you an offer of the following air-post stamps, ex Staaken:

Official air-post stamps of Albania (new):—

Complete series comprising the following values:—

5, 10, 25 and 50 Gold Centimes, 1, 2, 3 Gold Francs. Price of 10 series, Gmk. 58.—Price of 100 series, Gmk. 570.—

Small series comprising the following values:—

5, 10, 25 and 50 Gold Centimes. Price of 10 series, Gmk. 8.50. Price of 100 series, Gmk. 82.

The insignificant augmentation of the original prices is only destined to cover our expenses for printing and forwarding this offer, and the postage to forward the series ordered. Orders will be attended to in their turn according to date of receipt. No order to be binding for us if not accompanied by the corresponding amount of payment. To avoid delay in forwarding, we urgently beg you to mark all payments made to the above mentioned banking-houses, etc., as follows:

"KONTO ALBANIEN LUFTPOST"

Private collectors will not be supplied. Payment by cheque will cause delay of delivery, as the ordered stamps can only be forwarded in that case after the cheque has been cashed by the bank. Kindly direct all your inquiries to the following address: "Deutscher Aero Lloyd", Abteilung: Luftpost Albanien.

Yours truly,
DEUTSCHER AERO LLOYD A.G.,
Staaken, Near Berlin

EDITORIAL.

Mr. Michael Miller of Baltimore sends the following letter from Senator Ovington E. Weller, Maryland, on the subject of special cancellations, that clarifies the atmosphere: "May 22, 1925. My dear Mr. Miller: This will acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 18th instant which has had my careful attention. I am enclosing a copy of the bill introduced in the Senate during the last session of Congress by Senator Copeland entitled, 'A bill authorizing the use of cancellation dies by philanthropic and charitable associations.' This measure was referred to the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads for consideration and was not reported out by that committee before the adjournment of Congress. All bills not acted upon automatically died with the 68th Congress, and in order that the subject matter of the bill mentioned might be considered in the next Congress, it will be necessary that a similar measure be introduced when the 69th Congress convenes in December . . ." The bill introduced by Mr. Copeland in the Senate in January, 1925, was read twice and referred to the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads where its slumbers became so deep that it passed away in a state of coma. The bill is a model of brevity: "Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled, That national associations organized and operated exclusively for philanthropic or charitable purposes, having affiliated State associations organized or incorporated and operating in each State and in the District of Columbia, shall have, under regulations prescribed by Postmaster General, in order to promote their activities, the privilege of furnishing to post offices cancellation dies to be used for one period of not more than thirty successive days in each calendar year. The use of such cancellation dies shall be without expense to the United States." A new bill must be ready for introduction next December and its construction should be such that its provisions should apply to the forthcoming international exhibition at New York next year.

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.

The following letter from Mr. Emil R. Klehn, San Francisco, has been awaiting attention for some time: "Naturally, as a specialist of all South Sea Islands' issues and particularly of Samoa, I noticed with great interest your notes in number 1787, dated April 6, 1925, in regard to the 3 shilling stamp, the New Zealand fiscal stamp, Scott 282, in bright mauve, surcharged Samoa. I lived in Samoa nearly twenty years and the enclosure will prove that I know 'something' about Samoan stamps, but I never saw this stamp or heard of it. Really, I am at a loss to understand how the correspondent in Sydney got hold of a parcel prepaid by a 3 shilling stamp. It puzzles me further why Scott gives a quotation for Samoa 154. I just heard a month ago, again, from Apia's postmaster that a two pound stamp had never been issued but, on the other hand, the catalogue takes no notice of Samoa, numbers 120, 121, 122 and 123 with a rough perforation issued in December, 1914; the catalogue numbers 120-123 give a clean cut perforation, 14½ by 14." The enclosure mentioned by Mr. Klehn is a reprint of his article on the first Samoan provisional stamps of 1914, which he contributed to the Australian Philatelist. On August 29, 1914, the Samoan Islands were occupied by the British naval forces and almost at once, the surcharges on the German set from 3 pfg. to 5 marks, inclusive, were prepared. Mr. Klehn had his article ready by October 2, 1914, and it was passed by the Military Censor on October 7, 1914.

A cover reaches our hands from Tristan Da Cunha, the chief of that solitary group of islands in the South Atlantic which now that Ascension Island has its stamps may be said to be of interest because it bears no stamps. Some time ago, we read that the population of Tristan Da Cunha was about 100 and that the inhabitants were remarkable for their longevity. The letter was sent from the island to St. Helena and the addressee having left there for the United States, the letter followed here where it was duly delivered. In the upper right-hand corner is the postmark in blue: "Tristan Da Cunha-South Atlantic." Surely, the philatelic lightning will strike this island before long as in this advanced day it is not the policy of Great Britain to leave her children stampless, be they ever so few in number and remote from home.

From Mr. Robin Lampson, the manager of the Fellowship Stamp Company of Fresno, California, we have received copies of Russian Turkey, No. 262 and Russian China. No. 27, that were offered by one of our advertisers; and it is evident that from discrepancies that are apparent in the surcharge itself and the printing, the stamps are forgeries. As Mr. Lampson points out, "the important sign over the last Russian letter (named 'is-tochkoi'), the function of which is to shorten the vowel sound, is missing" on the Russian China surcharge, while on the Russian Turkey, "the counterfeiters have merely copied the approximate surcharges as shown in the catalogue." On the originals, the fifth letter of the second line of the surcharge is a distinct "K" and not an "H" as shown both on the counterfeits and the illustration in the catalogue. Explanations are in order and restitution ought to be made to those who have bought the stamps.

The "emission speciale" that loaned distinction to the Exposition Internationale de Timbres-Poste at Paris is a souvenir that is at once attractive in itself and a tribute to the interest with which the French authorities regarded the occasion. In the center of a gummed sheet, 8 by 5½ inches, is a block of four perforated stamps of the 5 franc violet, peace and commerce type, in a beautiful rose of the color of the 50c of the 1879-90 issue. The stamps are perforated and are on a white paper. The imprint on the sheet is that of the "Atilier de Fabrication des Timbres-Poste" and the page is a striking one.

We have received copies of the 1c deep brown and 4c green of the "grass-hopper" stamps of Mexico from Mr. W. H. McDonald.

Mr. E. C. Bailey, Decorah, Iowa, tells why Decorah was one of the seven cities in which the Norse-American stamps were placed on sale on May 18, 1925: "Decorah started to be in 1849, and in 1850 the first Norwegians came. More came later, among them Rev. Vilhelm Ulrich Koren in 1853, then just out of the University of Christiania (Oslo). He and his wife, cultured people, lived in a little log house six miles south of Decorah and he served the little Iowa congregations, his district extending into southeastern Minnesota. Here he lived and died. In 1861, Luther College, the first school established by the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, was located on a beautiful tract of ground at the northwest corner of the town. This Halfway Creek, Wis., previously. The school still exists and it is known by the men that it turned out, later to be distinguished in wide fields of endeavor." It seems that Northfield, Minnesota, did not get the stamps on the first day; at least, covers that were sent there to be mailed on the first day came with ordinary two cent stamps.

NEWS GLEANINGS

-P. M. Wolsieffer advises us of the th of S. E. Heineman of Detroit, h., who contracted pneumonia following an operation performed in Johns kins University at Baltimore. Mr. neman was sixty-three years old and spent the greater part of his life Detroit, where he was well known as amp collector, business and club man. was a connoisseur of art and his eries were frequently visited. He es a widow and two children.

-J. Waldo Sampson of E. W. Fowler o., N. Y. City, was a recent caller at Portland office. Mr. Sampson is wn to the readers of the WEEKLY as author of "U. S. Postage Rates" and "7c Vermilion".

-Two Persian covers are at hand rn A. A. Mariam Khan of Baghdad. has specimens of the 2ch green and blue, both surcharged 1925 in English Persian, displacing the 1924 overting. The other cover is one minus cage and bearing the inscription "Taxe coe". Some covers are stamped in French and Persian.

-Mr. G. Vanderkieft, New York, els us a clipping from a Haarlem, land, newspaper showing a first trip mail cover, Amsterdam to Batavia, ch East Indies, dated October, 1924, which there are two of the five gulden cage and two of the air mail, 10 and respectively.

-A copy of the Jackson Heights ws, New York, has been received, a fine half-tone of Mr. O. K. Carphen, who has been elected president the Jackson Heights Press Club. Mr. Carphen will be remembered for his atelic activity of former days parilarly when a resident of Denver.

-Recently, the Philadelphia Ledger nted the following letter from a correspdent which was given space under the ads: "New Two-Cent Stamps. They lebrate the Battle of Lexington Unnessarily, Says This Writer." The ic in making his points, takes an extne view that is not defensible. To e that any animus attended the issue of stamp is absurd; and the event that it commemorates is a matter of history. The issue could not possibly excite resentment anywhere and the design in question will not fan any smoldering fires into a blaze because they have long since burned out. The selection of the subjects for the stamps is a logical one and it is in poor taste to magnify a phase of them into an objection that would not even be felt by those who give heed to national feelings and sentiments. Luckily, the one who makes the protest has an alternative; he does not need to use the stamp in question as the 2c Washington still is paramount in our postal service. Here is the letter:

"To the Editor of the Public Ledger:

Sir—It is a surprise and shock to note that the new two-cent stamps issued by the Post Office Department contain an illustration of the battle at Lexington, at the beginning of the Revolution which resulted in the independence of this Nation, for it awakens a sense of the injustice of power and the cupidity of mankind, which may be offensive to our competitors across the sea. The world is yearning for peace, not war, and it would seem unwise to be constantly reminding our rising generation of the efforts to oppress the colonies for the benefit of the mother country, thus maintaining the jealous hatred, which should be obliterated.

The President and his Cabinet are committed to a peace policy, but it cannot be secured by these blazoned reminders of injustice causing nearly eight years of contest and suffering which should now be forgotten and forgiven. Was not the portrait of the God-given first President a much nobler and better memorial for the rising generation? It seems an unnecessary expense to make a change for one that may cause offense. 'They shoot to kill.'

Ex-'U. S. ENGINEERS,' U.S.A.
Cynwyd, Pa., May 1, 1925."

—Charles Metz of Philadelphia informs us that he has discovered an error on Bavaria No. 413, the surcharge reading "Bom Empfanger" instead of "Vom Empfanger". Mr. Metz considers this quite a rare error.

—Charles A. Davis of Denver, Colo., A.P.S. 3943, sends us a copy of the April number of The Trail, a magazine published in the interests of Colorado by the "Sons of Colorado". In this number is a very fine article entitled, "Godfrey Schirmer—An Appreciation". Not very much is said in regard to Mr. Schirmer's philatelic activities, but it does set off in an excellent manner the many financial responsibilities that he has had placed upon him in recent years. The article is illustrated with a halftone of Mr. Schirmer.

MAY 18, 1925 NORSE-AMERICANS MAY 18, 1925

FIRST DAY COVERS—VIA AIR-MAIL TO CHICAGO

We sent our best man to Washington to mail a fine lot of NORSE-AMERICANS on day of issue May 18, '25. They are all on our famous red, white and blue envelopes, carefully made up, no straight edges. They bear a fine lot of cancellations, air-mail and Chicago receiving stamp, in fact, they are just a little finer than our Concord-Lexingtons were, and that is "going some". They were mailed from Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Pa., New York City, and, by special good planning, Hadley Field ("Air-mail Field, New York, N. Y."), all plainly cancelled May 18, 1925. This took a lot of care and management and expense. We believe you will appreciate the collections offered below at our usual moderate prices. We have a good stock, but advise early orders to avoid disappointment.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL
A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."
The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

—We are advised by Claude W. Parker of Fort Worth, Texas, that the new Norse stamps are showing certain varieties due to imperfect registration of the sheets in passing through the press. All bi-colored stamps show these differences more or less and without a doubt some very marked instances of bad registration will be reported.

—A. H. Hall has submitted a Chicago, Ill., permit where the 1c Permit No. 205 Meter 2460 is supplemented with a circular cancellation within which is inscribed "Extra ½c Paid". Several of these provisional permits have been called to our attention.

—Referring to your article of May 4 about Philatelic Agencies, would say that a year ago I wrote to the Postmaster at Dublin, Ireland, asking for a general list of stamps on sale. I received a prompt reply, accompanied by a mimeographed list of current issues, which I filled out and returned with a United States Postal Order for amount due. The stamps came by registered mail, and letter was signed by C. M. Boylan, Controller, General Post Office, Dublin, Ireland.—MISS E. F. MCCAFFREY.

—Herbert A. Feaster of Long Island City, N. Y., advises us that Hugh Rogers, 2665 Alumni Ave., Eagle Rock, Calif., is a boy confined to the house most of the time on account of sickness. He is much interested in stamp collecting and Mr. Feaster suggests that some of our subscribers send some of their duplicate stamps to this boy.

—The May number of the Aero-Newsletter, published monthly by the Aero Philatelic Society of America, is at hand and we feel like giving it a word of hearty commendation. Geo. W. Angers, Box 412, Springfield, Mass., is editor of this publication and anyone interested in air mail service should write him. The number before us contains Chapter IV in a serial on "The U. S. Aerial Postal Service", by Harry A. Truby. Postmarks and cancellations are reproduced from the originals with excellent results. This labor of love upon Mr. Angers' part is deserving of substantial recognition.

½c Provisionals

The postmasters in numerous sections of the country were required to split 1c stamps in order to prepay the extra ½c postage required on circular letters, in accordance with the new rates that went into effect on April 15th. These historical covers are not available in quantities and are likely to be extremely desirable and difficult to obtain as time goes on. I can offer a limited quantity, which I can guarantee as going through the mails, at the very low price of $1.50 per cover. These were used from a post office where no ½c stamps were available.

Norse-American Series

As announced last week, the 2c and 5c Norse-American series were placed on sale and since our former notes were written, we have received first day covers from Julius A. Kurtz, Edwin C. Brown, R. F. Moreau, J. R. Peterson, L. R. Sours, Olaf J. Olsen, H. M. Southgate, Elmer Wilson and Charles J. Webb. These have been greatly appreciated.

This series being printed in two colors has resulted in a combination of plate numbers on the same sheet, which will be much sought after by plate specialists. The black plate number of the center design appears over the fourth stamp in the top row, while the plate number for the border is to be found immediately above the seventh stamp. As the stamps are printed in sheets of one hundred, with margins on all sides, one may obtain the four arrow positions, in addition to the cross line center block. Immediately above the fifth stamp is to be found on the plate printing the center, the figure of denomination, and a similar figure is found on the border plate immediately above the sixth stamp. This means that a block of twelve can be broken from the top of the sheet showing both the colored and black plate number, the black and colored figure of value, in addition to the top arrow. So far, I have noted the following combination of plates, the first plate number being that of the black center and the second plate number that of the colored border.

Mr. Ernest Kelly writes that Bureau has completed the printing these stamps and that in the case of 2c, there were exactly 105,000 sheets in the case of the 5c, 21,000 sheets.

Other Washington Notes

In the Postal Bulletin of May 2 the Third Assistant Postmaster Gen notifies postmasters that the departme supply of the Lexington-Concord sta is now exhausted and that no stamps hereafter be available for issuance postmasters. They, therefore, are quested not to place requisitions for t stamps. Of the 1c Lexington-Conc the Bureau printed 79,000 sheets of hundred; of the 2c, 132,000 sheets; of the 5c, 27,000 sheets. The same co spondent informs us that in the cas the Huguenots which were printe sheets of two hundred, there were 26 sheets of the 1c; 400,000 of the 2c 30,000 of the 5c.

Mr. Kelly must have been chec the files some distance back, for he w that he has just learned that in the of the 1c surface print, perf. 12½, Sc No. 536, that only 3,400 sheets rece this perforation. It is surprising tha quantity is so small for the stam relatively plentiful, although a good n ber were used on ordinary mail at time of issue. I am officially infor that we may look for all of the cu series in rotaries perforated 10 fro to 12c, to be issued within the next eral months. So far, there has appe the 1c, 1½c, 2c, 4c, 5c and 6c and we look for the 3c, 8c, 10c, etc., in the c named.

½c Sidewise Coil

In my notes of a few weeks bac mentioned the issuing of the 1½c end coil, that is perforated 10 horizon and imperforated vertically, but as appeared without previous notice, I unable at the time to give the exact of issue. There was such a great mand from postmasters for this va that the department did not have th portunity to give advance notice to lectors but I now learn the stamp placed on sale at the Agency and where on Saturday, May 9th.

New Spaced Plates

The department has found that has been considerable waste in the of the flat plate stamps due to the that the perforations quite often l cut the stamps, which necessitates being destroyed. They have reache conclusion that the subjects are p too closely together upon the plat they have begun to space them fu apart both ways. I understand that have already made ½c and 1½c p with this new spacing, which they d nate as star plates, although a star informed, does not appear upon the as was the case with the former sta sues. I could not definitely learn whether all future plates would be sp accordingly or whether this is simp experiment. Further details will be our readers at an early date.

THE A. A. KRANHOLD COLLECTION OF Danish Stamps

I have purchased this famous collection, the largest collection of old Danish stamps in America, and one of the largest in the world.

The used stamps are now being arranged in approval books, and thirty of these books are now priced up and can be sent to specialists known to me, or after usual references.

Books 1 to 10 inclusive are stamps on the original covers. Included in these are two pairs and some 16 singles of the 1851, 2 rbok. blue, and very many pairs and strips of the small, square stamps of 1851 to 1863.

We then have four special books of the rarest used items in the issues 1851 to 1871. There we find some 20 copies of the 1851 2 rbok. blue, the finest strips of used small, square stamps, the rare perforated varieties, including two pairs and many singles of the 16s violet, and in the 1871 perf. 12½ issue several of the rare 2s blue and about 50 copies of the 48s brown and lilac, including a strip of three and block of four.

The other seventeen books that are priced up comprise all the issues from 1851 to 1871, and these are all arranged in the order of the cancellations, and they all include superb shades, pairs, strips and many interesting varieties.

The later used stamps will shortly be priced and on sale.

The vast unused collection has not been touched yet, but I am prepared to deal for this as a whole. It contains a great many entire mint sheets and vast number of superb blocks, varieties, errors, shades, &c.

LBANIA.—The disclosure is made by srs. Yvert & Tellier that in June last the Government of this troubled try had to quit the capital, only re- ing there and to power again in ember. To commemorate this they ed certain values of the current post- adhesives to be overprinted with the ds "TRIUMF' ILEGALITETIT 24 DHETNER " in two lines (literally "Triumph of ality, 24th December, 1924"). 1924, rprinted on current issues as above. 10, 25 and 50 qind. and 1 fr.—Stamp ecting.

LGERIA.—After such a lapse of time, promised definitive stamps for this itory having been expected long ago, somewhat surprising to know that a ic competition for designs for them only opened on the 15th of last th. This prescribes four different s, viz.:—
(1) 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 10c.
(2) 15, 20, 25, 30, 35 and 40c.
(3) 45, 50, 60, 65, 75 and 85c.
(4) 1, 2 and 5 francs.
—Stamp Collecting.

ESTHONIA.—We are informed by Francis J. Field, Ltd., that a 20m blue, same type as the 10m, 1922-24, perf. 14½, no watermark was issued in the amount of 2,000,000 on April 23rd last. The 12 and 15 mark values are also expected.

FRANCE.—The Times published the following paragraph on April 13th:—
"Visitors to the International Philatelic Exhibition in Paris next month will be provided with two attractive souvenirs of the event in a practical and enduring form. The post office in the Pavillon de Marsan will have on sale, in miniature sheets of four, a special printing in red of the obsolete 5fr stamp of the Republic in the familiar 'Peace and Commerce' type of 1875.

"In addition, on a day to be appointed, philatelists will be privileged to dispatch letters by a semi-official air post between Paris and La Bourget, which will be franked with a souvenir stamp showing a classical figure of Icarus in flight, designed and printed for the occasion in various colours by the artistic heliogravure process. Collectors who are unable to attend the Exhibition can still have letters transmitted by the Philatelic Aviation Day Service on remitting the sum of 5fr to the Secretary. The flight will be made under the auspices of the French Aero Club."

The information in the second paragraph is not altogether correct, for the French postal authorities have prohibited the use of the special aerial vignette which had been prepared in view of the "Aviation Day".—Stamp Collecting.

HEJAZ.—Mr. G. N. Taylor sends for chronicle a cover bearing a new 1pi on 2pi provisional and writes the following information:

I enclose on cover a new Hejaz provisional, 1 piastre on 2 piastres, which is entirely distinct from the one you listed in the Chronicle of March 16th.

The 1pi on 2pi already listed has a small and compact surcharge on the upper part of the stamp, the first line of which reads in Arabic "The Government of the Hejaz". This line of characters is approximately 16 mm. The second line is the date, and the third is the new value, while on the lower part of the stamp, the new value, much larger, is again applied by a second printing operation. Whereas in the stamp submitted today the surcharge is evidently applied in one printing, arranged so that nearly the whole stamp is covered. The Arabic characters meaning "Government of Hejaz" take up the first two lines, the first of which is approximately 21 mm. The third line is the date, and the fourth, the new value. This surcharge is distinctly larger than any of those already listed. Under the 1343 in the date there is a slightly concave line ending in character or characters at the extreme left. This does not appear on any of the others in my possession.

LATVIA.—To celebrate the 300th anniversary of Libau as a city, a set of Jubilee stamps will be issued of the following denominations:—
60,000 of 15+10 santimi=25 santimi.
40,000 of 25+10 santimi=35 santimi.
20,000 of 30+10 santimi=40 santimi.
20,000 of 50+10 santimi=60 santimi.
The date of issue is not yet known, but the stamps will be on sale for one week only. They will be available for both inland and foreign postage from any part of Latvia.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

Mr. Karl Koslowski sends for chronicle a copy of the 15s, dark red on rose, and advises of the appearance of the 25s, exact color of Scott's, No. 109.

MONACO.—Three handsome high values have appeared in a striking pictorial type, showing the Prince's palace from the east side, across the harbour. Major W. Lister, of Nice, kindly shows us our first copies.

1925, May.—View of Prince's palace, as above. Transverse oblong format. Engraved and printed in recess. Perf. 14x13½: 2fr purple (frame) and grey-black, 5fr green (frame) and carmine and 10fr brown (frame) and blue.—Stamp Collecting.

NETHERLANDS.—The Economist Stamp Co. and Mr. R. Roberts inform us that the 20c blue and 35c olive bistre, both in the Queen's Head design, have been placed on sale.

PALESTINE.—It is reported that the new permanent issue will appear in April.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

SARRE.—The new 45c and 10fr stamps, foreshadowed last month, have now appeared. They are in a startling new type, showing what we presume to be the Virgin Mary, crowned and haloed, bearing in her arms the bearded and crucified Christ. This strange motif is flanked by fluted columns; in the upper corners are figures of value, and at the foot is "SAARGEBIET." The design is in two sizes, small for the 45c and large for the 10fr. New type: Perf. 13x12½. 45c claret and 10fr dark brown.—Stamp Collecting.

SAN MARINO.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the 5c maroon, 10c olive, 15c purple, 25c bright violet and 40c brown, all in the type of Scott's A11. Also the following postage dues: 5c, 10c, 30c, 50c, 60c, all in blue and brown and 1L in orange. Mr. Roberts further writes that the 3, 5 and 10L in the same color will follow.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the $2 green and carmine, on yellow paper, script watermark.

SWITZERLAND.—We are indebted to Mr. R. Roberts for copies of the 20c carmine on buff, William Tell type, watermarked cross.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF

BRITISH EMPIRE.

Australian Commonwealth.—Readers may like to look out for two minor varieties noted by the Australian Philatelic Record—the current 1½d, with a large circle before "P" of "POSTAGE," and the 1d, with white ring on the Kangaroo's feet.

Our publishers lately received a letter from Melbourne franked with a current 1½d, Great Britain stamp, which had escaped the eagle-eye of the sorter.

Barbados.—The new "Postage and Revenue" set, from ½d to 3s, has now been despatched to the Colony, and may presumably be expected to be issued very soon after arrival. (Arrived).

Bermuda.—Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. show us two marked shades of the current 1d and 1s, Ship type. The 1d is carmine instead of scarlet, while the 1s is jet-black on a yellowish olive paper.

Cayman Islands.—The 1s and 5s, on Script paper, have now been despatched to the islands.

Ceylon.—Mr. R. Roberts points out that latest printings of the 10c, 20c and 25c, Script, are from Plates 7 (top) and 12 (bottom), Plate 7 being Die I, and Plate 12, Die II. It will be remembered that the 12c, rose-scarlet, was similarly printed.

Cyprus.—New printings of the current issue have been made and despatched, the £1 being still on paper with the old CA wmk.

Fiji.—The 2s6d has now been printed on Script paper, and supplies have been despatched to the islands.

Hong Kong.—The $5, Script, has now been sent out to Hong Kong.

India.—We are indebted to Mr. Stephen H. Smith and Brigadier-General R. Ridgway for an interesting souvenir of the historic flight from India to England of the 'plane piloted by Alan Cobham. This consists of an envelope carried by the aeroplane from Calcutta to London, franked with Indian stamps, and bearing a green label inscribed and a triangular handstamp in violet, with similar inscriptions and the device of an aeroplane in each corner. There were no official arrangements made for the carriage of mails, so that the Indian stamps were not cancelled, and the covers, which were posted at the Croydon aerodrome on arrival, were surcharged by the home authorities. The date of the aerodrome postmark, 17 March, 1925, is that of the arrival of the machine.

BY ANGLO-INDIA AIR SURVEY. D.H. 50.	CALCUTTA TO LONDON.

Jamaica.—Mr. L. Whiteley sends cutting from the Gleaner, in whic correspondent pleads for a reductio the size of the 1½d stamp, which is h to lick and clumsy in use. As usual is quite willing to throw the cost of change on to the willing shoulders philatelists.

Kenya.—New values are preparing this colony, viz., 2s 50c, 4s, 7s 50c, £3, £4, £20, £75 and £100.

20,000 VARIETIES, Price $550.00

After a period of several months, during which time it was impossible for us to offer anything whatsoever in the way of a large variety collection, our efforts have finally resulted in the acquisition of a very nice all in good condition and neatly mounted in twenty large books.

Having evidently been assembled according to the Yvert & Tellier catalogue, several hundred varieties not recognized by Scott will be found; this fault has been allowed for most liberally in our low price, although the collection as a whole is of such good quality that it would represent excellent value even without the price-concession which is being made.

The exact catalogue value has not been computed, but we believe it to be between $2,500 and $3,000, with a few of the stamps cataloguing up to five and ten dollars each.

The collection is guaranteed to be of as good (or better) value as those of the same size offered by the large Parisian dealers at 15,000 francs (about $800) and by several concerns in this country at prices ranging from $750 to $1,000. It is sold on the distinct understanding that the purchaser may have ten days in which to make a rigid examination and that the full purchase will be refunded without question if he is not satisfied.

Price $550.00

5,000 DIFFERENT, Price $24.95

With Complimentary Premium For Quick Orders

Does your collection contain less than ten thousand varieties; do you ever exchange or sell stamps for profit?

Opportunity knocks! Here is a collection of 5,000 varieties—all good, clean specimens—which has no equal at the price.

The stamps are mounted in five books and cover a world-wide range of countries. South and Central America are well represented, including many popular commemoratives, peso values, etc. There are hundreds of specimens from the British, French and Portuguese Colonials; pages of "picture stamps" from Nyassa, Persia, Roumania, Neurope, Hayti, Bosnia, etc.

TOTAL CATALOGUE VALUE IS ESTIMATED AT FROM $200.00 TO $250.00

For anyone who wants a good assortment of attractive, popular and quick-selling stamps of the medium class, the collection will "fill the bill" in a most economical and admirable manner.

Special Price $24.95

ADDITIONAL PREMIUM

With orders received for the above collection during the summer months only, we will include with our compliments, absolutely free of charge, the following:

(1) Packet 50 different "better grade" British Colonials, mostly mint, cataloguing over $10.00.
(2) Packet 35 different Bosnia, cataloguing over $4.00.
(3) 5,000 peelable, die-cut hinges.

Premium alone will retail for several dollars! And remember that the collection is guaranteed to give complete satisfaction, or your money back.

H. E. HARRIS & CO., 161 Massachusetts Ave., Boston, Mass.

w, though the design, practical as it does not thrill us. Possibly the ideal mp design should not thrill! At any e the local printers and designers have ne very well indeed and the stamps re at least been issued, which is more n can be said for the new permanent ue of postage stamps for the Union, ich has been the subject of rumour l report for so long. So many readers dly sent us early specimens of the new stamps, many of them by the first ht, that space will not permit of full nowledgment. We ask them all to ept our very best thanks for their help. We learn from the South African Philatelist that there is still talk of issuing special stamp to commemorate the ival of the Prince of Wales. The occion is a worthy one, and we hope the mp will be worthy of the occasion.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Afghanistan.—Faqir Hussain Zahid ows us a new stamp, in the design, proximately, of Type 57 of the Catalue, the value being 10 paisa, colour e red-brown. This was issued to commorate the "7th Anniversary of the Independence of Afghanistan," and was only on sale for one day, 28th February, 1925, so far as our informant can gather. It is not known whether these stamps were printed in blocks of 4 or of 16, but probably the former.

Argentina.—We should be very glad if one of our readers in this country would arrange to send us regular news, specimens of new issues, etc. At present we get very little news from Argentina, and find it particularly difficult to keep our lists of the Ministerial issues up to date.

Austria.—In order not to have stamps in two currencies in concurrent use all the new "groschen" and "schilling" stamps are to be put on sale at the same time. The designs of the lower values will consist of figures of value, while the higher denominations will be pictorial. The charity stamps of last year are still obtainable, but the stock will be destroyed in July, if any remains till then. New air stamps, designed by Starrer, will be issued before long.

Belgium.—The date of issue of the new "two kings" series has been definitely fixed as 1st June. There will be 13 values. The design, as illustrated by the Philateliste Belge, is a very handsome one.

Bolivia.—A continental contemporary states that the new aeroplane issue has been cornered by speculators. Some at least were used for postage, as we have seen them.

Danzig.—The recent colour changes in the 1 and 2 gulden had to be made suddenly, owing to the disappearance of a large parcel of the stamps in the original colours, while in transit. The theft was so cleverly managed that it is not known where it took place.

Egypt.—Mr. C. J. Hunt tells us that three special stamps will be issued to commemorate the International Geographical Congress, Cairo, the values being 5, 10 and 15 milliemes. The design will show Thoth, the ancient Egyptian god of Science, on a pylon, and writing, within a cartouche, the name of H.M. King Fuad I. (Just arrived.)

Germany.—Special stamps are to be issued to commemorate an aeronautical exhibition to be held in Germany in June, and another set to remind collectors of the flight of Z.R. III across the Atlantic. 15 and 25pf stamps are to be added to the current series.

Holland.—Mr. P. Gordon Wimberley shows us various interesting items. The 2½c, in the current low value type, he sends in two shades, the usual deep green, and a much lighter green. The 7½c, Jubilee, he shows with an extra line of horizontal perforation in the bottom margin. A curious perf. variety, current 2c and 10c (Queen's portrait), already shown us by another reader, consists in the omission of perforation holes in the centre and at right and left of the top and bottom of each stamp. Mr. Wimberley explains that these stamps are used in automatic machines, and as the normally perforated stamps came apart too easily this special perforation was adopted to remedy the weakness.

Lettland.—The 300th Anniversary of Libau, which takes place in June, will be celebrated by a special issue of stamps showing views of Libau, says Mr. George Jaeger. A new pictorial series for ordinary use is also in preparation.

Norway.—Only 5 sets of the new Polar stamps are sold to each applicant. It is understood that a large proportion of the stamps printed is being handed over to the organisers of the expedition, for the benefit of their funds, so that naturally the authorities will not put too many on sale at face value to spoil the market for them.

Mr. A. N. Jorstad states that it is proposed that the franking privileges hitherto accorded to Government Departments and Municipal Authorities shall be abolished as from July 1st. It is not yet clear whether this proposal, if carried, would lead to the issue of special official stamps.

Paraguay.—The Revista Argentina states that four new stamps are being prepared by Colombatti and Co., all with portrait of Columbus—$1 (with and without "C" overprint), $4, and $10.

Portugal.—Apart from the designs showing the portrait, house and library of the novelist, those of the other values of the Branco issue are interesting, as they depict characters from his most famous work, Amor de Perdicao.

Mr. C. J. Chambers informs us the "Marquis de Pombal" issue will consist of six values each, for Portugal and ten Portuguese Colonies, making 66 stamps in all. If the prices of stamp catalogues rise collectors will know which country to blame!

The same reader shows us prints of new stamps which are to commemorate the work of the Portuguese troops in the Great War. These are to be issued shortly. (Just received.)

Mozambique Co. For some inscrutable reason, the stamps of this country are no longer sold on a gold basis, but on the basis of the Portuguese escudo. This is rather painful for dealers and collectors who paid for them at the higher rate, but they will no doubt draw consolation from the fact that this pretty set is now within the reach of all.

Nyassa Co. We learn, on good authority, that the triangular Postage Due stamps were made solely for philatelists, and none were sold in the Company's territory.

Russia.—Mr. V. Tchertkoff states that the 7k and 20k Lenin Mausoleum type, perf., exist on ordinary and on thick paper.

Switzerland.—The Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung draws attention to a variety in the 1.20fr (S.G. 331), in which "HELVETIA" reads "HFLVETIA." This error was corrected after 4 million stamps had been printed, and as it occurs twice in each sheet, 80,000 must exist. Probably some of our readers have specimens unnoticed in their collections.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

NEW YORK CITY

NATHAN HALE—PATRIOT AND MARTYR

By Rev. Gerald E. Richter.

Perhaps never before in the postal history of the United States has any portrait appeared upon any stamp as the result of so deliberate an effort as that which has given us Nathan Hale upon the recently issued half-cent denomination. This effort has been put forth by one man, George Dudley Seymour of New Haven, Conn., who for over two years has endeavored to secure the co-operation of the postal authorities to place Hale upon a stamp of low denomination and of general use. About fifty years ago, in his youthful days, Mr. Seymour was inspired by the verses "Hale's Fate and Fame," by Judge Francis M. Finch of Ithaca, N. Y., to make this youthful hero his ideal, and nearly all of his life and much of his means—for he is now a prosperous (not "enormously wealthy," he declares) patent attorney of the City of Elms—has been devoted to perpetuating the fame of his ideal patriot. He has assiduously collected documents, books, pamphlets, relics, bearing any relationship to Nathan Hale and his period, and about a dozen years ago bought the Hale birthplace—a farm at Coventry, Conn.,—where he has installed his treasures and made the old farmhouse a veritable museum, and also has had cast the bronze statue of Hale in duplicate, one of which is on the Yale campus and the other in the front yard of the old homestead.

The year 1923 brought the 150th anniversary of Hale's graduation from Yale, and Mr. Seymour desired the Post Office Department to place the patriot martyr upon the one-cent denomination of the series then being prepared. But Franklin had occupied that place of honor almost continuously, and Washington would not consent, but suggested that Hale be given a place of honor upon some stamp of higher denomination in this series. To this Mr. Seymour demurred, since he felt that his hero was worthy of a place on a stamp of a low denomination that would be in general use. Later, it was suggested to him that Hale would be a fitting subject for one of the sesquicentennial stamps soon to be issued in commemoration of Philadelphia's projected celebration next year. But this did not satisfy Mr. Seymour, who realized that such an issue would be a temporary one, and probably not supplied at all to post offices except under special requisition. But at the beginning of this year came the revised postal rates, with the consequent necessity for the half-cent denomination, and Mr. Seymour gladly accepted the offer of Postmaster General New to use the Hale portrait on this denomination. How general its use will be after the present supply of one-cent stamped envelopes is exhausted remains to be seen, for probably the use of 1½c stamped envelopes will render the use of the half-cent stamp almost nil.

The Hale portrait which appears upon this stamp is a reproduction of a photograph of the clay model of the statue to which reference has been made, designed by Bela Lyon Pratt in 1898, cast in bronze and installed upon the Yale campus September, 1913, with a replica at Coventry. An earlier statue of Hale, by Frederic MacMonnies, stands in City Hall Park, New York City, idealizes the young martyr, representing him in uniform, with lace ruffles, although bound hand and foot. Pratt has striven to picture him in a more practical way. After ten days probably crawling through thickets and into hiding places, wearing the garb of his prewar occupation of schoolmaster, and receiving the harsh treatment which the records show was accorded to him while a prisoner, there was assuredly no lace frill remaining, if it had ever adorned his person. So he is shown with somewhat dishevelled garments, shirt unbuttoned at the neck, looking straight forward. A study of the face upon the half-cent stamp will almost enable one to visualize the flaxen locks and blue eyes described by his contemporaries, and to fancy him with hands tied behind his back and feet bound, looking steadily into the eyes of his brutal jailer and responding to the question ere he is swung into eternity—if he has anything more to say—the immortal words (in a "voice rather sharp and piercing") "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Hale's Brief Life Story.

On June 6, 1755, at Coventry, Conn., which is about 50 miles northeast of New Haven, Nathan Hale saw the light of day. On Sunday morning, September 22, 1776, at New York City, he was executed, thus having passed only little more than three months beyond his 21st birthday. He was the fourth son and sixth child of Deacon Richard Hale, a sturdy, energetic, devout farmer (they grew "deacon timber" on Connecticut farms in those days) and his forebears on both sides were of the best old New England stock. One of the functions of the ministry in those days was to prepare promising lads for college, and thus Nathan was enabled to enter Yale at the early age of 14, and to graduate with the class of 1773, when just past 18. His contemporaries tell not only of his fine scholarship and his devout Christian character, but also of his humanness, for he excelled also as an athlete, and was a "mixer", to which witnesses his membership in the Linonian Society of the university, part of whose records are inscribed in Hale's own fine handwriting.

Upon his graduation, young Hale entered upon the duties of a schoolmaster at East Haddam in his native state, but the following March he changed to the service of the Union Grammar School at New London. While thus engaged came the news of the battle at Lexington, which impelled him to exhort his associates, "Let us march immediately and never lay down our arms till we have achieved our independence." Enlisting immediately, he served as first lieutenant during the siege of Boston and other operations in that locality. When the regiment was located at New York in March, 1775, Hale had attained a captain's commission. After the disastrous battle of Long Island, General Washington desired information regarding the enemy's position and strength. Hale volunteered to secure it. In his schoolmaster's garb, on September 12, 1776, he crossed Long Island Sound at Norwalk, Conn., to be captured after he had made drawings and secured other information, as he admitted when accused, and ten days thereafter he was hanged at the British camp and drill ground which recent researches have located at Third Avenue near 65th or 66th Street. His captors were unnecessarily harsh, refusing his request for a clergyman's consolation and even for the use of a Bible, as witnesses within the British lines have recorded. His memorable last words are familiar to every schoolboy, and almost any American will be disposed to debate Mr. Ward's recent statement in MEKEEL'S of April 20th, that John Marshall or James Madison are better known or more deserving of the honor which has been accorded to Hale in placing his portrait upon the recently-issued half-cent stamp.

H. F. COLMAN 509 SEVENTH STREET, N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF NATHAN HALE

Coventry, Conn., has a grudge against the U. S. Postoffice Department. It is only a little country town, with fewer inhabitants today than in Revolutionary times (about 2000 then and 1500 now) but all who pass over its highways read when entering the town limits "Coventry, birthplace of Nathan Hale, Lorenzo Dow and Jesse Root." It is sometimes necessary to explain that Dow was a famous eccentric itinerant preacher of the first quarter of the 19th century, and that Root was the state's first Chief Justice and otherwise one of its greatest men, but of the fame of Nathan Hale all who read have heard. But when the new Hale stamps were issued New Haven was honored by having these half-cent stamps first placed on sale, although its only claim upon Hale was that there he spent his four college years, while Coventry, the town of his birth, where nearly all of his young life was spent, was ignored. Indeed, had not a collector-admirer of Hale been familiar with his personality, there might not have been any half-cent stamps even by April 15th, when the need for their use began (for supplies were late in arriving at most New England post offices, even in the cities). But a special requisition having been made rendered then available on April 15th, when the first covers were postmarked at South Coventry, the only postoffice in the town. The Hale homestead is about two miles distant, in this section of the town, which is now divided into two parishes, officially designated as "North Coventry" and "South Coventry," much to the dislike of the folk at the north end, who before the days of rural delivery had a local postoffice then known simply as "Coventry," without any trimmings. So keen is their resentment that a few years ago when a sign "North Coventry" was set up on the green near the Second Congregational Church, during one night, the sign was sawed in two, the "North" part being cut off, and the moulding border neatly mitered and replaced—and so it has since remained, with no clue ever having been discovered as to who was responsible for the "correction."

About a dozen years ago the old Hale homestead was bought by George Dudley Seymour of New Haven, who since boyhood had been an ardent admirer of Nathan Hale, and who deposited there a large and fine collection of relics, documents, etc., bearing upon Hale and his period. For many years Mr. Seymour has granted the public the courtesy of inspecting the house and its treasures, but visitors have required so much attention from the caretaker, and some have been so guilty of vandalism and of unpatriotic and irreverent actions that he has found it necessary to close the house to the public. The writer, having been a resident of Coventry for over three years, recently spent about two hours with Mr. Seymour, listening to his descriptions of his treasures and spending a large part of the time before the great fireplace where doubtless Nathan himself helped to pile on the logs, and where he doubtless sat often in his youth.

Upon acquiring this historic place, Mr. Seymour strove to restore it to its original condition, and in removing many layers of wallpaper from the walls, discovered in one of the rooms a black-painted wall surface which proved it without doubt to have been the room where an elder brother of Nathan's had conducted a private school, and where the young patriot may himself have received much of his early schooling and possibly have aided as preceptor a few years later. Another of the rooms is especially dedicated to Nathan Hale. A huge canopied-top bedstead occupies the most conspicuous position, and upon its coverings lay an antique sword, silent reminder of the young hero who once slept within its four walls. His portrait— the one which appears on the half-cent stamp —hangs at the head of the bed, and a photostat copy of his commission as captain in the patriot army (the original of which is in the war pension archives at Washington) hangs in a frame upon the wall near by. The hero's trunk, covered with the skins of animals which perhaps his own hands had shot or trapped, is at the foot of the bed. Colonial furniture, kitchen and dinner ware, books, pictures and documents, are in every room. The whole house is hallowed with recollections and relics of the Revolutionary period which must inspire the spirit of patriotism within the breast of every visitor. Plymouth, Boston, Philadelphia, and other places, may boast of their collections of similar historic relics, but these are usually owned by organizations—perhaps nowhere is there a better collection privately owned than that made by Mr. Seymour.

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Still River, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Please note change in above address of mail to the Forum, as above till further notice. There has been much stuff coming in the past month or so that duplicates itself in many ways. Examples being recent issues with "crazy" perforations at the corners of the sheets which became unintentionally wrinkled, forcing the line of perfs. out of their normal horizontal and vertical paths.

Many stamps have been sent in where a thread or a bit of cloth, or a minute (a very small piece of foreign substance), had fallen unseen onto the sheet to be printed over; and after the printing this foreign substance was lifted off, leaving a white silhouette of the form this flattened out matter assumed under the pressure of the printing.

Some items show heavy ink blobs in the same color as the stamp, or maybe finger marks in the margins and elsewhere. Then there is a constantly arriving lot of stamped envelopes with numerous eccentricities:—Albinos, albinos misplaced, stamp half way down the face of the envelope, stamp part white with the remainder in color, these in many forms, then some where the ink is smudged inside the envelope, caused, maybe, by lack of care and attention by the printer. Some come with two envelopes folded into one.

I find after a time a certain amount of monotony in chronicling these oddities, and wonder if you all enjoy these repetitions? My interest centers in issues prior to the Bank Note issues, yet I'll admit there is always a kick to a pretty cover all plastered over with stamps of the '70s, and many of the stamps of the '90s have very interesting cancellations.

Of our new 1½c stamps, I have seen all of the regular types (4) as issued, and it is already enough to suit me. Overheard a couple of enthusiasts talking about our flood of new stamps when they deluged us recently, the Concord-Lexingtons, the 4, 5 and 6c rotarys, and the ½ and 1½c output. One of the talkees, the carpenter, solemnly and unthinkingly asked the other if he already had an imperf. copy of the new "Inch and a Half" stamp! Right there the laugh came, and they are now called by that name locally.

I want to thank the kind readers who have sent me various "First Day" covers and all sorts of nice things in that line; but to be perfectly frank with you, I can't tell a rotary press stamp from a regular unless I have a millimeter scale and all accoutrements.

There is a column for the "Chronicle of New Issues and Varieties," so if you will please not send me any of these latest issues, it will help considerably here.

This study of United States stamps is quite extensive. I feel that it takes much time to try and keep up with stamps prior to 1870, and this being so, would prefer keeping to those issues, for with cancellations added to minor varieties, it is really all that I can attend to.

Next week we look forward to the visit of Mr. Willard O. Wylie, who gives our local stamp club a talk on "The Making of a Philatelic Newspaper." Am looking forward to this with more than ordinary interest, and hope that you readers may find that the Forum benefits by the helpful hints which may be gathered by the writer of this column.

From Mr. R. C. Collins comes a very fine lot of those celebrated Waterbury, Ct., cancellations on post cards, the black and the red Liberty heads. This lot includes many that are seldom seen. Shields, one with "HR" cut into cork, some pretty cut cork stars, cross roads, and leaves which include a nice three-leaf clover, and then the one used on Feb. 17, 1877, the stamp part being covered with black letters about 10mm tall, reading HAYES, this last is a beauty. Some of these will also be in the illustrations.

From Mr. W. F. Palmer comes a very clearly printed copy of that very unusual cancellation, "The Devil and the Pitchfork," used from West Meriden, Ct.

Mr. C. F. Blogg sends in an interesting lot of stampless covers in the '50s, when stamps should have been used. They are very interesting for their postmarks, which are all started in Liverpool, some in a vivid green. They bear the various numeral cancels, one being particularly pretty with its bright green "19 cents," while others are hit by the numeral "24," or the 24 is enclosed within the Philadelphia (receiving) postmark. These covers have in mss. the name of the ship which they were intended to be carried by as "per Asia," or "America," "Atlantic," "Niagara," "Arabia," and another is noted "Steamer 9th," being posted at Liverpool on the 9th of August. This is a very good start of a list of mail carrying boats in the '50s. It would be a welcome bit of history to add to this list, for you will find on your covers the name of the boat intended as the carrier usually. Some were steamers, while mail was of course handled by sailing vessels concurrently, to the ports of lesser magnitude, and these latter are of most interest in many ways, owing to their unusual rates, and postal markings.

The little postage stamp is about the only thing that keeps its promise to the letter.—Boston Herald.

abortive attempt to settle the island, was driven away by lack of water, it was not colonised until 1632, when e English from St. Kitts, under Edd, the son of Sir Thomas Warner, blished themselves there. French ps in 1666 took possession of the isl, but in the following year it was ed to England by the Treaty of Breda. out 1670 there were only 500 black ple in the island, but a hundred years r the population included 37,808 es, 1,230 free people of color, and 0 whites.

he island has many natural harbors, most notable being, St. John's at the thwest (at the head of which is the f town and capital, St. John's popuon about 9,000); the historic English rbor, where Nelson refitted his ships en pursuing Villemeuve in 1805; and mouth harbor.

he islands of Barbuda, 25 miles to north, and Redonda, 25 miles to the thwest, are dependencies of Antigua. Antigua is one of the Presidencies ming the Leeward Islands Federation, the seat of government is at St. n's, Antigua. Antigua has an Execui and Legislative Council, at which the vernor presides (Sir Eustace Fiennes, rt.—1924). When the Governor is ent from the island but in the Colony, Colonial Secretary assumes under a mant commission, the office of Adnistrator of Antigua; and when the vernor is absent from the Colony the lonial Secretary assumes the governnt of the whole Colony.

NOTES ON 19TH CENTURY GUATEMALA

By CHARLES S. LANGSTROTH.

Columbian Bank Note Company Issue of 1875.—The ¼, ½, 1 and 2 (in reales) of 1875 were issued in sheets of 100, 10x10, with sheet margin all around, so here again are no straight edges. The imprint of the Columbian Bank Note Company, Washington, D. C., in two lines, appears in Spanish in the top margin above the fifth and sixth stamps and in English in the bottom margin beneath the same corresponding two stamps.

I have seen the statement that lithographed counterfeits had been made of the first three values of this issue, but I have them of all four values. They are in sharp contrast to the fine engraving of the genuine, and are perforated a full 12½ instead of 12.

Issue of 1878.—The three lower values of the 1878 issue (with head of Indian girl) were printed in sheets of 100. The arrangement of these sheets was very unusual, not being in ten rows of ten, but in thirteen horizontal rows, the top row containing four blanks and four stamps, and the twelve other rows containing eight stamps each. The reason for this lay in the nature of the "real" currency, eight "reales" making one peso, and accordingly each horizontal row of eight stamps contained a total value amounting to an even multiple of a peso. Thus a row of eight ½r stamps came to a half peso, the eight 2r were worth two pesos and the 4r four pesos. The decimal system is not well adapted to a currency expressed in "reales." But for the 1 peso stamp there was no occasion for this arrangement, and this value was printed in sheets of 50, in five horizontal rows of ten.

All four values (and not simply the 1 peso as stated by Barnsdall and some other writers) were printed on paper which had first been lightly tinted on the surface in the same color as the stamp. This tinting was so applied as to leave in white letters on the margin of the sheets "Correos de Guatemala." As to the three lower values, I am able to state, from marginal strips and blocks in my collection, that this inscription did not appear on the top margin. Also that on the bottom margin this inscription was printed right side up and ran across the full width of the sheet, from which it follows that if a stamp of one of the three lower values still retains a bottom margin, it should show some of the letters of the inscription, and from these letters the stamp's exact position on the sheet can be determined. And on the margin at the left side of the sheet, this inscription reads upward, beginning on the margin of the tenth horizontal row and concluding on that of the fourth; accordingly none of the letters show on the left-side margin of either the bottom three or the top three rows. I have not succeeded in finding any stamps carrying the right-side margin so I cannot state how that margin was marked, but it was probably arranged in symmetry with the left-side margin, in which case the "Correos de Guatemala" would read downward, beginning on the margin of the fourth row and concluding on that of the tenth.

As to the marginal marking on the sheets of the 1 peso stamp, this differed from the sheets of the three lower values in at least one respect, the inscription on the bottom margin being inverted. I am unable to describe the inscription if any on the top or side margins of the 1p sheets.

This information as to arrangement of sheets, surface tinting, and marginal inscriptions, most of which has never before been published, may seem rather trival and of doubtful value, but it will be found to be of considerable importance in the study of this issue for counterfeits and alleged reprints. And this Indian girl set requires such a study more than any other of Guatemala. I have come to the conclusion that there are no reprints, but I have found three different types of counterfeits, two of them of all four values of the set, and the third of the 1 peso only.

The least dangerous of these types is the one I call the "short-feather" counterfeit, because that is its most easily described characteristic. In the girl's head-dress, on each side of the middle feather, which curls over toward the front, is to be seen a straight feather which in the genuine stamp not only pierces the inner line of the oval surrounding the girl's head, but actually reaches the outer line of the oval. But in the counterfeit, these two straight feathers are both too short, their tips just reaching the inner line of the oval and that line is not broken at either point of contact. There are many other differences in the design, which are quite obvious when actually compared with the genuine, but they are difficult to describe. Then too the shades are all a little off, although this is not of much assistance as the originals themselves varied some in this respect. All that I have seen of this type carried a cancellation closely, but not exactly resembling the genuine then in use, a single-lined circle containing "Guatemala" and the date in three lines showing day, month and year. But of course they might exist with another cancellation or unused. The perforation of all I have seen was exactly 12½, the genuine being 13½, and that is the easiest test to apply unless the questionable stamp is imperforate. But regardless of cancellation and perforation, the final certain test is the difference in design, of which the most easily remembered feature is the shortness of the two feathers.

The other type of counterfeit in which I have found all four values, is a much better imitation and correspondingly more dangerous, but fortunately the variation in perforation is even more marked, the gauge being only 12. The paper also shows more difference, being thicker and more nearly opaque than either the genuine or the first described type of counterfeit. The tinting on the surface of the paper is missing on both of these types of counterfeit, but it is surprising how little difference this seems to make in their general appearance as even on the genuine stamp this tinting was so lightly applied that its effect seems no more than the effect we often notice on recent United States stamps when the plate has not been carefully "wiped" by the printer. To appreciate the exact effect of this tinting on the general appearance of the stamp, it is necessary to see some of the genuine stamps with sheet margin or "blanks" still attached, where it shows very plainly, and you will be surprised to see how comparatively little it shows on the stamps themselves.

I think it is of this second type of counterfeits that the Gibbons catalogue is speaking when it says: "reprints are known of the ½r, 2r and 4r, perf. 12. The 1 peso probably also exists." But I feel justified in saying that the Indian girl set was never reprinted, and that these reproductions which differ so clearly from the originals are nothing but counterfeits. For one thing, none of the originals appeared in tete-beche pairs while I frequently run across such pairs of the 2r in this type of counterfeit.

In the third type of counterfeit, I have seen only the 1 peso and believe that the three other values of the set do not appear in this type. It is a fairly good imitation. The paper has the surface tinting, perhaps a trifle too strong, but that is difficult to detect on single stamps. The whole sheets do not show any of the marginal inscription that appeared on the genuine. The design is so well imitated that it is difficult to describe the differences, but they can be detected on careful comparison with the originals. Perhaps the most easily described feature is to be found in the lower corners, where the slanting (nearly upright) lines of shading immediately beneath the base of each numeral are much too coarse and thick and give a general appearance of being crowded. Then too the top of the pineapple in the right upper corner is not long enough, in fact is practically missing when compared with that on the genuine. The paper is too thin. The perforation is a trifle under 13, but often they are imperforate. Several European dealers have sent me whole sheets, both perforate and imperforate, describing them as "reprints" but there is no foundation for even that claim to legitimacy. It is remarkable how many of these are floating around. In the last couple of years there have been frequent advertisements offering Guatemala No. 14 at ridiculous discounts, such as 75 or 80 per cent. off, and I have answered most of them, invariably getting this counterfeit, so I feel justified in asserting that all of this stamp so offered are of the same breed. The fact is that Scott's price of 40 cents is not too high a listing for the genuine stamp.

In going over your stamps of the Indian girl issue, for possible counterfeits, you should not forget the two values of this set that were surcharged with new values in 1881. I have both the ½r green and the 2r red, surcharged respectively 5 centavos and 20 centavos, in which both the surcharge and the stamp are counterfeit, the stamps being the second type of counterfeit described by me above, perforated 12.

EDITORIAL.

Summer is here and so are stamps. The old antipathy between the two is dying away and so philately will be one of the best summer resorts.

There are not enough of the Norse stamps issued to make a good election bon-fire and they will grow beautifully less as time goes on. The authorities are making folks ask for the stamps if they want them and then usually they are not on hand.

Congratulations are extended to the Honorable W. Irving Glover upon his promotion to the office of second assistant postmaster general. Mr. Glover deserves well of philatelists as he has an understanding of philately and a friendly interest in collectors.

From Mr. Gustave de Lachasse, Avignon, France, we have received blocks of two new values of the stamps commemorating the Decorate Arts Exposition, Paris, a 15c and a new type of the 25c. These stamps make a brave showing and are highly decorative and are somewhat more artistic than the first ones, although as Mr. de Lachasse says, they are not representative of French decorative art at its best; and he thinks that they are eclipsed by the new U. S. stamps.

We find a cover bearing the ten cent brown, 1873, U. S., postmarked at the U. S. Postal Agency, Shanghai, with the receiving stamp at San Francisco: "San Francisco, Feb. 25, Steamship," in postmark form. If we are not mistaken, these old Shanghai covers bearing U. S. stamps usually were marked with the regulation San Francisco postmark.

In connection with Boys' Week in Chicago, an exhibition was held at the Municipal Pier in which entries were made of boys' handicraft and other evidences of their activities. In the second division, under "Collections," stamps had a prominent place and the displays of them were not without merit by any means; and the prize-winners have reason to feel proud of their success. The management of the exhibition enlisted the services of the Chicago Philatelic Society in judging the exhibits. Three prizes were given to junior entries and three to senior collections. Elsewhere is a list of the winning competitors, to whom we offer commendations and compliments.

"Why don't you give more philatelic reminiscences of the time when collecting was not on the grand scale that it is to-day? A complete history of the origin and rise of stamp collecting in the United States would be something worth reading," says Mr. Corwin L. Bates of Chicago. Recollections of the salad days of philately in America are of interest and a real history of the subject would be most welcome but it would be an undertaking that would challenge the most serious intentions. The fact is that those who are best equipped to do justice to the work are aware of its magnitude and they shrink from entering upon a task whose accomplishment would require many a month of painstaking application. We suppose that the idea broached by our correspondent is not a new one as it has been held by others and we have been told by a gentleman who has a remarkable library of early stamp literature of America that he has had a dream or two about a history. A complete library and observation of or participation in philately for forty years or so afford a basis from which to take a comprehensive view of the great work.
